Early during December, 1923, Mr. Fielding was confined to his home as the result of fatigue through discharging the double duties of finance minister and prime minister, while Premier King was absent in London and also through taking part in the Halifax by-elections and in the celebration there of his seventy-fifth birthday. On December 11 he was ordered by his physician to take a long rest and he was given leave of absence by the premier, who, at a banquet tendered to him at Ottawa, made a touching reference to Mr. Fielding's condition, and expressed his deep sense of gratitude for his colleague's loyalty and unselfish devotion to public service. Hon J. A. Robb, minister of immigration and colonization, assumed the duties of acting minister of finance.

Sketch of His Career

Hon. William Stevens Fielding, son of the late Charles and Sarah Fielding, was born at Halifax, N.S., November 24, 1848, and was educated there. Choosing journalism as a profession, he joined the Halifax Morning Chronicle in 1864, subsequently became its managing editor and retired from that position in 1884 to engage in the active duties of public life. Mr. Fielding represented Halifax in the Nova Scotia legislature from 1882 to 1896; he became a member of the provincial cabinet a few months after his election, and held the premiership of Nova Scotia from 1884 to 1896, when he resigned to become minister of finance in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's administration. He was elected to the House of Commons for Shelburne and Queen's in 1896, was re-elected in 1900, 1904 and 1908, defeated in 1911, and re-elected in 1917 and 1921. As minister of finance, he was particularly charged with the re-adjustment of the Canadian tariff. He introduced the British preferential tariff in the House of Commons, 1897, and later the measures imposing a surtax on the products of Germany in consequence of German action adverse to Canada, and later legislation dealing with the so-called "dumping" system.

Declined a Knighthood

In 1897, Mr. Fielding visited England to float a new Canadian loan, which was obtained on better terms than any ever before secured by Canada. He was a representative of Canada at the colonial conference, London, 1902, was present with his wife and daughter at the coronation of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, in Westminster Abbey, in 1902, and declined the honor of knighthood the same year. He established a penny bank system in Canada, 1903, was a member of the new tariff commission, 1905, and on the occasion of a visit to Rome and Italy was received in private audience by the pope.

As acting minister of railways in 1903 he conducted the negotiations resulting in the agreement to construct the National Transcontinental Railway, the contract between the government and the G. T. Pacific Railway being also signed by him. As minister of finance he introduced various amendments to the banking and insurance acts.

His Marriage

On September 7, 1876, he married Hester, daughter of the late Thomas A. Rankine, St. John, N. B., and of this union there were four daughters and one son. He was a governor of Dalhousie University and an ex-president of St. George's Society, Halifax. In religion Mr. Fielding was a Baptist. He received the honorary degree of D. C. L. from Acadia University in 1901 and the honorary degree of LL.D., from Queen's and McGill Universities in 1903 and 1906 respectively. With his wife and daughter he was presented to the late King Edward and Queen Alexandra at Buckingham Palace in 1909, and he was received in private audience by King Edward the same year.

In recognition of his eminent public services, Mr. Fielding was in April, 1910, presented with a gift of $120,000 by citizens of Canada of all shades of political opinion.

He was a member of Rideau and Country Clubs, Ottawa, and Halifax Club, Halifax.

Mr. Fielding was made a privy councillor in June, 1923. In company with Ernest Lapointe, minister of marine and fisheries, he represented the interests of the dominion in many spheres of activity at the League of Nations assembly.

MRS. FIELDING.

Wrote New Version of National Anthem

Mr. Fielding's poetic ability found expression in a beautiful new version of the National Anthem, written in 1914:

God save our gracious King,
Long live our noble King,
God save the King.
From Thee all blessings flow,
On him Thy grace bestow,
Guard him from every foe,
God save the King.

His world-wide power bless,
May he always possess
Wisdom as wide;
Judgment, with clear insight,
Vision to see the light,
Courage to do the right,
Whate'er betide.

Send to his council board
Statesmen in true accord,
Serene and strong;
Give them a high ideal,
Fill them with sacred zeal,
To serve the Empire's weal,
Keep them from wrong.

Grant us sweet peace, O Lord;
The ploughshare, not the sword,
We fain would wield:
If, through man's lust for power,
Dark war clouds o'er us lower,
Be with us in that hour,
A strength and shield.

Not Motherland alone,
Loyal to King and throne,
Thy blessing craves;
Vast lands beyond the seas
Repeat the earnest pleas,
Where proudly in the breeze
His banner waves.

Great hosts of faithful ones,
Fair daughters and true sons,
Join in our prayer.
From centre to earth's end,
At many shrines they bend,
In varied tongues commend
Him to Thy care.

In the broad world's affairs,
Through all the fleeting years,
Since early time,
Though 'gainst strong foes arrayed,
Our England, undismayed,
A gallant part has played
In every clime.

O, God! before Thee now
With humble faith we bow,
And grateful heart;
Grant that until the last,
As in its glorious past,
This British Empire vast
Play well its part.

Not with a selfish aim,
Not to desire acclaim,
Throughout the world;
But that its ensign bright
May ever, in Thy sight,
Speak freedom, truth and right,
Where'er unfurled.

WON SUPPORT AS LEADER BY CLEAN ADMINISTRATION

When he took over the leadership of the Nova Scotia house he had a very small majority. When he left there were scarcely ten in the opposition. He had given clean and efficient administration.

True of Mr. Fielding From Beginning That Office Always Sought the Man—An Incident of His Leadership in Nova Scotia

It was true of Mr. Fielding from the beginning that the office always sought the man. There have been few instances in Canadian political history where promotion came so soon. The new administration which he supported when he entered the Nova Scotia legislature in 1882 had been quite unprepared for its triumph at the polls, and W. T. Pipes, a young lawyer, of Amherst, was selected to lead the government apparently much against his own inclination. Mr. Fielding, although chiefly known as a powerful editorial writer, had impressed himself on the House. After two years as head of a government of which he and everyone else recognized that Mr. Fielding was the real leader, Mr. Pipes decided to resign. Returning from Government House, where he had left his resignation with the lieutenant-governor, Mr. Pipes called at the Chronicle office where Fielding happened to be busy with a bundle of proofs.

"Good morning, Mr. Premier," he said courteously. "Have you any news for us this morning?"

"Yes," replied Pipes, who told him he had called to inform him of his resignation.

"Ah," replied Fielding. "That is news indeed. Would it be indiscreet on my part to ask if you have recommended a successor?"

"I have," replied Pipes, who seemed to be enjoying the situation.

"Perhaps," said Fielding, "I might risk the further indiscretion of asking whom it is to be?"

As Pipes rose and took his departure, he said: "I believe if you look up the office bible and turn to 2 Samuels, chapter 12, you might get a clue to it."

Fielding turned up the passage and read: "And Nathan said to David, 'Thou art the man.'"

HE WAS NOT A DREAMER POWER HAD NO GLORIES

Power had no abstract glories for Mr. Fielding. He acknowledged it merely as work and responsibility. He was pure Saxon. He did not dream—he thought firmly and clearly.

WAS PRINTER'S 'DEVIL' AND ROSE TO BE OWNER

From Apprenticeship to Proprietorship, His One Ambition Was to Advance

A FORCEFUL WRITER

Mr. Fielding started in life as a printer's devil and was consistently successful ever since. He owned the paper, the Halifax Chronicle, that first gave him employment. He did not waste time with the other boys of Halifax. He was true to the business. From the time he entered the newspaper as an apprentice he was always endeavoring to advance. He had his eye from the start on the editorial chair.

From his apprenticeship he rose to the compositor's dignity. Presently he picked up a few items of news. He received assignments and left the type room. The then editor of the paper used to relate that one day he found on his desk a well-written article on some subject of current interest in Nova Scotia. The thoughts expressed and the short, terse sentences struck his fancy, and he made enquiries as to the writer. He found that the writer was the "boy," young Fielding, who had not then attained even to the dignity of a reporter. He got his first step then and became a regular contributor.

At the end of twenty years he was editor of the paper. A new Liberal government in Nova Scotia, which had been brought into power largely because of Fielding's virile editorials, invited him into the cabinet. No back bench novitiate marked Fielding's commencement. Premier Pipes was not a strong leader, and it was Fielding, with his hobby for getting the facts, all the facts, and nothing but the facts, who successfully defended the government from the sallies of the opposition.

That politics was merely his avocation and journalism, the choice of his youth, was still his profession was demonstrated when after his temporary retirement from public life by the will of the electors in 1911, he again settled down in the editorial chair at Montreal, first on the Herald and Telegraph and later on the Journal of Commerce. Mr. Fielding explained the severance of his connection with the Herald in a statement published in the Herald and Telegraph of January 30, 1914. In brief it was that when he discovered the Telegraph was to be amalgamated with the Herald, with Sir Hugh Graham in practical control, he felt he "could not have satisfactory connection with a journal controlled by him, not because of any personal difference between Sir Hugh and myself, but because our views of public affairs differed so widely." He then became connected with the Journal of Commerce and remained until he entered the King government in 1921.

KINDNESS OF HEART ATTRACTED ATTENTION

Those who have traveled much with him have a great deal to tell about his kindness of heart and his interest in people in the mass. Some years ago, when on government business in the west, the train to which his business car was attached was held up by a snowstorm. He had enquiries made in the colonist cars to be sure that none of the new settlers were suffering any discomfort, and he placed the larder of his car at the disposal of the children on board.

On another occasion, while hurrying along the station platform at Montreal, he noticed a poorly-dressed woman struggling with three children and a large traveling bag. The minister of finance seized the bag by the protruding end of a strap (the handle being missing) and lugged the bag along to the station.

Punctuality was always a cardinal principle with him. It is related that before leaving Halifax for Ottawa, on his appointment as finance minister, he asked his secretary what time the train was due to leave the following morning.

"About eight," said his secretary.

"At eight," corrected Mr. Fielding.

MR. FIELDING'S OTTAWA RESIDENCE

Loss of the Premiership A Tragedy of Last Years

Took Defeat Graciously, and Recognized That Leadership Would Have Imposed Heavy Burdens—Presentation of Testimonial in 1910 an Outstanding Event

There was a tragic element in the last stage of Mr. Fielding's career. He had continued to "run up" pretty steadily and it could reasonably have been expected that he would climb to the very top. It was due to no fault of head or heart that at the Liberal convention in 1919 he stumbled on the last step towards the premiership. It was one of the mischances of a political career to which many other men in larger fields have fallen victims. The delegation from Quebec, with the remembrance of imagined slights, was present at the convention with the object of "getting" Fielding and not so much to get a leader. Mr. Fielding realized the situation and in discussing it with a friend on the eve of the convention he told him of the particular incident which had made Quebec wrathful and said he was unaware of having done or said anything with the intention of giving offense to the people of that province, or from which offense should be taken. How bravely Mr. Fielding took his defeat when the convention decided against him on the third ballot is a memory that all generous minded persons who saw it will cherish when other incidents of that day are forgotten.

At the close of the day which had witnessed his failure to attain the goal of his long life, he was accosted by a newspaper man who expressed regret at the result of the ballot.

"Thank you for that," replied Mr. Fielding. "I do not know just how I feel about it myself. I should not be speaking frankly if I said that I was not disappointed at the result. No man can lose what is, after all, a very considerable honor, without some natural regrets; but, at the same time, I realize that it is probably the very best thing that could have happened so far as I am personally concerned. The burden of leading a party still fighting to achieve power, and the still greater burden of heading an administration has become a tremendous one. I question if the public understand just how heavy and trying it is. I am no longer a young man, and it would almost certainly shorten my life. So I can honestly say that I am not sure that I am not just as well pleased at the way things have turned out." With the addition of some kind words about the newly-elected leader this was his philosophic comment on the result.

One of the outstanding events of his long career was the presentation to Mr. Fielding at Ottawa on April 26, 1910, of a testimonial in recognition of his long and faithful service to the Canadian people and as a mark of appreciation of his sterling character. The testimonial took the form of a sum of money, amounting to nearly $120,000, subscribed by his personal and political friends. The response to the appeal of the committee of senators and members of the house was most hearty and was not limited by party affiliations. Many contributions were received without solicitation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was present at the presentation and expressed his delight with the honor paid his distinguished colleague.

Mr. Fielding had never cared for money and had always been a comparatively poor man. The thoughtful act of his friends placed him in the position where he would be free from financial worries, with the consciousness that the future of himself and family was provided for. In a sense the testimonial was only a partial payment of a just debt owing by the people of Canada. The names of the donors were kept secret.

Scored Big Scoop When a Reporter

Big Story Follows Chance Encounter With Wrecked Sailors

The story of how "Billy" Fielding pulled a big scoop when he was a reporter on the Halifax Chronicle 50 years ago will never be forgotten. On April 1, 1873, the steamer, "Atlantic" was wrecked near Halifax and 562 out of 952 on board were drowned.

That was in the days before the telephone and the telegraph. By a happy chance young Fielding ran into one of the ill-fated ship's survivors who had made shore in a miraculous fashion and had ridden on horseback into Halifax to report the wreck. The reporter led the shivering man through back streets into the "Chronicle" office, where he fed him while he gleaned the details. Then he held the shipwrecked passenger a prisoner in the office until the Chronicle was on the street with the whole story of the disaster.

WORSTED AN OPPONENT BY HAVING THE FACTS

USED TELEGRAPH

Throughout his career Fielding would never act unless he knew all that was to be known of a matter. He would not answer a charge without having the knowledge. Many of his victories over his critics were due to the fact that they made their criticism on half knowledge while he made his replies on full understanding.

In a campaign in Antigonish in 1891, a public meeting was arranged by the Liberals at which Fielding and Sir John Thompson were to speak. The local Conservatives had accepted the invitation on behalf of Sir John, but without consulting him. They did not think the little man Fielding could hold out against Sir John. But they were disappointed. The tale was often told how the Tories went to the meeting full of confidence, and how after the meeting they dispersed quietly or stood outside the hall in disheartened groups. They had seen Sir John worsted. This was the reason: Sir John was sensitive and Fielding was harsh in his retorts; Sir John had made a statement without having proper information on the subject. Fielding found the correct information and used it well. Sir John had been boasting that the Conservatives, and the Conservatives only, were the friends of reciprocity. Mr. Fielding had read the statement going down to Antigonish on the train, and he recalled having heard that Sir John Macdonald had expressed exactly the opposite. He did not remember the words, but when he alighted from the train he telegraphed to the editor of the Halifax Chronicle asking for the pertinent part of Sir John Macdonald's speech to be looked up and telegraphed to him at Antigonish. So he was prepared in case Sir John Thompson should use reciprocity as an argument. Sir John did. He enlarged upon it. He based half the weight of his argument upon the Conservative history in reciprocity, so that when Fielding took the floor and read from Sir John Macdonald's speech practically refuting everything Sir John Thompson had said, the ruin was enormous.

A STRONG SUPPORTER OF UNION GOVERNMENT

Saw No Reason Why Liberals Should Not Support War Measures

On October 23, 1917, Mr. Fielding issued a strong statement asking general support for the Union government and endorsing the action taken by Hon. A. K. Maclean in entering the government as the representative of Nova Scotia Liberalism. He did not in any way criticize Sir Wilfrid Laurier's attitude in regard to the conscription issue. The chief criticism he offered respecting the Union government was that it had come too late to effect the main purposes for which union had been regarded by many people as desirable.

The statement closed with the following passage: "The vigorous prosecution of Canada's part in the war is the avowed object for which the Union government has been formed. It is to be presumed that the government will not bring forward any measures beyond what are reasonably necessary for the prosecution of the war, or required by war conditions. To such measures all Liberals should be prepared to give a cordial support. If other measures are devised which are at variance with Liberal principles, I am satisfied that Mr. Maclean will not remain in the cabinet to support them. I see no reason why the Liberals of the maritime provinces should not be willing to support the new government in measures for the prosecution of the war, while reserving their freedom of action as respects the many questions on which Liberals and Conservatives have differed in the past, and will probably have to differ in the future."

FIRST OF THE CUBS TO ROAR DEFIANCE AT GERMAN POWER

An Historic Scene When Mr Fielding Reads First Preferential Budget

WAS REAL SURPRISE

On April 22, 1897, when Mr. Fielding in his first budget inaugurated the policy of granting a preferential tariff to Great Britain, every seat on the floor of the House of Commons was occupied, the galleries were filled by three o'clock, and the presence of eminent editors from all over the dominion caused the press gallery to be crowded to an uncomfortable degree. Strictly speaking, this was not Mr. Fielding's first appearance as finance minister of the Laurier administration, because in the second session of 1895 he had been compelled to ask for appropriations in order to carry on the public service which the Tupper government had not been able to obtain before the expiration of parliament. His request on that occasion, however, had been coupled with a brief detailed statement of the financial situation left by the Conservatives. But now, with the first regular session of the Laurier government, the time had arrived for Mr. Fielding to announce the tariff policy which he and his colleagues had embraced.

As he and Hon. William Paterson had traveled the country obtaining at first hand the views of the people regarding the tariff, the budget speech was anxiously awaited throughout Canada. While it was understood that tariff changes of a sweeping nature were in contemplation, only the cabinet ministers knew what was coming. Although to political students some form of tariff concession to the old land was inevitable, for the reason that a resolution favoring a British preference had been several times moved by Hon. Louis Davies and supported by the entire Liberal party in the House, yet Mr. Fielding's announcement of the preferential tariff was received with absolute surprise by the vast majority in the House.

A Memorable Occasion

It was a memorable occasion. Mr. Fielding spoke for two hours and a half in the afternoon and resumed after dinner.

Before reaching his main point he reviewed Canada's financial conditions as he found it when he became finance minister the year before, and vigorously condemned the National Policy as seen in the results of eighteen years.

When, during the course of his speech, Mr. Fielding first mentioned British preference, the volume of applause was not so great as might have been expected in view of its importance. This may perhaps be accounted for by the fact that its mention came as part of a resolution. Within a minute, however, its significance was grasped and the chamber quickly reverberated with Liberal cheers. With his usual sagacity, Sir Charles Tupper asked Mr. Fielding how he intended to get around the Belgian and German treaties under which Canada was then prohibited from discriminating in favor of Great Britain. In reply, Mr. Fielding expressed confidence that the terms of those treaties would not be allowed to interfere with Canadian liberty of action. Then Sir Charles declared that the proposal was delusive and could not be effective, but Mr. Fielding retorted with the prophecy, since fulfilled, that "The world moves, and the step we are taking to-day will have the effect of drawing her Majesty's government to those treaties," and of showing that Canada was not always to be bound by the dead-hand diplomacy of Downing street.

Mr. Fielding concluded a half-hour's peroration as follows: "We have fulfilled our Ottawa platform by planning a tariff which in its every line shows that the government have approached the subject with the utmost consideration, and with a desire to disturb in the least possible degree the various business interests of the dominion. We give the people a reduction of duty all along the line.

"I speak with pride in the name of the Liberal party, and the honorable gentlemen around me will share the pride when I say that to-morrow morning at every custom house in Canada from ocean to ocean the doors will open on terms of preferential trade with the Mother Country."

How true was Mr. Fielding's prophecy was seen in the total trade between Canada and Great Britain in the years that followed.

Exercised Caution

In presenting his first budget, Mr. Fielding exercised that caution which was ever one of his chief characteristics. The revenue had already shown an improvement during the fiscal year in which he assumed office, but he did not take it for granted that he would break even. He placed his probable deficit at $550,000. Opposition critics prophesied that it would exceed three million dollars. It was actually $519,000.

An interesting picture of his budget speech of 1903 is given by a political commentator of twenty years ago who described it as "the most impressive ever delivered in this country." In this year were announced retaliatory measures against Germany, who had for five years refused to make a new commercial treaty with Canada. "The double-headed eagle" was warned by "the little Canadian bantam" that until such time as the policy of fiscal schrecklichkeit was changed, one-third more duty would be charged on German goods than on goods from any other country.

"Even the cables were interested," said a contemporary writer, alluding to the scene in the press gallery, "for a Canadian minister of the crown was, for perhaps the first time, to breathe defiance against a European nation."

This was possibly the first time that Germany realized that a young and self-reliant people had arisen, a fact of which she was reminded long afterwards.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

SCHOOL PROBLEM DISCUSSED BY DUNSFORD RATEPAYERS

Would Carry On Fifth Class Work in Connection With Public School.

MORE ROOM NEEDED.

(Examiner Correspondence)

DUNSFORD, June 22.—A meeting of the ratepayers of Dunsford and the neighboring school sections was held in the United church hall on Wednesday evening for the purpose of discussing the advisability of making arrangements to carry on fifth class work in connection with the public school work being done here.

Mr. Downey, P. S. I., from Peterborough, addressed those present, setting forth the advantages of taking up first and second form work in public schools. He explained the equipment that would be required and spoke of the grants that would be given by the government as encouragement to any section wishing to carry on advanced work in the local community. The matter of a proper building drew forth considerable discussion. Some thought that the present school with a few minor alterations could be arranged to accommodate two teachers, while others seemed to favor the idea of converting the former Presbyterian church into a school for the higher grades. Some of those present expressed doubt about the supply of students from year to year. A motion was carried, requesting the trustees of Dunsford school to confer with the trustees of the surrounding sections and after having gathered fuller information another public meeting is to be called.

Factory Opens

The new cheese and butter factory erected here opened this week. The building which replaces an old one which had been in operation for 37 years presents a fine appearance and is a credit to the directors and shareholders and people of the community. It is 30 feet wide and 70 feet long, is built of cement blocks and has a self-supporting hip roof.

The whey vats are upstairs and there is a fine large refrigerator room. The milk is receved and the whey delivered at the rear of the building. Albert Thurston is the president, and Mrs. Newton Thurston is the secretary. Norman E. James has been the cheese and butter maker for the past eight years.

RECORD SHIPMENT FOR CATTLE DEALER

Cattle Shipped By T. J. Lang Receives Top Price on Toronto Market.

MILLBROOK, June 24 (Examiner Correspondence). — T. J. Lang, who for several years had weekly shipments of cattle and other farm stock on the Toronto market, repeated an enviable experience on Wednesday of this week when the car-load of twenty-five, pure-bred Durham cattle, which he purchased from John Earle and Son, of Ida, in Cavan township, was accounted the finest load offered on the city market that day, and carried off the top price when the list of sales was completed.

The cattle were eighteen months old, averaged 910 pounds in weight, and the price obtained was 12½c a pound; the number of cattle on the market Wednesday would probably be 2,500 to 3,000.

Last year Mr. Lang had a similar success with the Shorthorns bought from J. Earle and Son, this firm having made an outstanding success of the breeding and raising of these fine cattle on their farms in the north-eastern section of the township.

The Shorthorn is probably the most popular breed of beef cattle known, and it is certain stands first in favor throughout the province of Ontario, while it also is making decided headway in the Argentine, South Africa, the United States, and in the home of the breed, England and the Scottish border as well. It had its origin in the counties of Durham, Northumberland, York and Lincoln, in the northeast of England, and was probably the result of cattle brought in by the Romans, Normans and other invaders, being crossed with English stock. It is claimed that even as far back as the year 1600 cattle of the modern Shorthorn type were being bred by titled landowners in Northumberland and York.

Names in English farming history that will always be connected with the development of Durham cattle, making systematic improvement in the breed, are the Colling Brothers, between 1780 and 1800; Thomas Bates; the Booths of whom there were three brothers, and Amos and Anthony Cruickshanks, Aberdeen Scotchmen, who made careful selection from the English herds, and were the real founders of the modern type of Shorthorn cattle, originating the great Scotch strains, familiar to breeders to-day, though it was in 1889 that their herd was dispersed. Following the Cruickshanks, who had accomplished a truly wonderful task in establishing type, came William Duthie, who began his herd in 1856, and it is still spoken of as the greatest modern herd of Shorthorn cattle; he specialized in the production of sires, and Duthie-bred bulls today head most of the leading herds in the home of the breed.

Shorthorns, which are possibly the heaviest of beef cattle breeds, and may be red, white, or roan, or any combination of these colors, were first brought into Ontario over seventy-five years ago, though the earliest direct importation from the Old Land history, credits to George Miller, who came out in 1835, and brought a few head of Durhams with him. Growth extended, from this small beginning, and to-day beef raising is one of the foremost branches of our live stock industry, which has already passed the hundred-million dollar mark, with at least two-fifths of this value held in beef cattle.

Some success has been attained with dual-purpose Shorthorns but breeders are more anxious to retain the best possible beef type, since "Better beef cattle for better beef" is the slogan which the government is urging on those interested. A Shorthorn cow, of good type, will give enough milk to raise her calf in thrifty condition, and since Shorthorns have been admitted to the R.O.P. some very creditable records have been established.

Richard Matchett is another Cavan farmer who has gone in entirely for the raising of Durham cattle, and before he sold the farm homestead which had been in the family for over one hundred and twenty years, T. W. McCamus also specialized in the Shorthorn branch of the business of stock raising.

The car-load of Durhams which Mr. Lang had on the stock market at Toronto this week were shipped to H. P. Kennedy, and sold to the Swift Packing Company at the top price for the day, as previously mentioned.

W.C.T.U. MEETS.

MADOC, June 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—Madoc W.C.T.U. held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Blair, near Hazzards, on Wednesday afternoon. Several guests from Tweed, Hazzards, and Queensboro were present with the Madoc members to hear the most interesting and comprehensive report of the Dominion W.C.T.U. convention held in Oshawa last week.

This report was graphically given by Mrs. G. W. Rivers, who carried her hearers with her, and made those present feel that they had indeed been present in spirit and received much of the inspiration and encouragement, always to be gained from the enthusiasm of numbers gathered in the same cause.

Songs, prayers and comments by the President, Mrs. McCaffery and the members all helped to make up a splendid meeting, and the Tweed visitors voiced the gratitude of all in their hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Rivers for her excellent report.

HEADS RURAL CREDITS ASSOCIATION.

QUEBEC, Que., June ..—Following a meeting of the Provincial Cabinet yesterday, it was announced that an order-in-council had been signed appointing J. B. Laf-Reniere, Liberal member for Richelieu, in the Provincial Legislature, as President of the Rural Credits Association. In consequence of Mr. Lafrenier's appointment and acceptance of his new post, he must resign his seat in the House.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

FRAMES AS IMPORTANT AS THE LENS.

One of the little habits that many folks have, is to remove the glasses from the eyes from time to time.

Perhaps as they talk they will swing the glasses around in ther fingers, tap them on the desk, or other object, or actually keep squeezing one lens across the other.

Then when they want to use the glasses again, they slip them back on the bridge of the nose or adjust the frames behind the ears.

Now this may mean serious injury to the eyes, and a consequent loss in efficiency throughout the day.

Why?

Because when you get "fitted" for glasses either by the oculist or the optometrist, he not only tests your eyes for vision, but you will remember that he adjusts the frame work to your particular face.

Perhaps one of your eyes is a little lower than the other, the sides of the face and the cheek bone may be different, the one from the other.

One eye may be farther back in the face or skull than the other.

Perhaps you have a nose that is not even; from an injury, or because you were born that way.

Even the ears enter into the matter because one ear may be placed further back than the other and so the frames on each side would need to be different from one another.

The two eyes are often at different distances from the middle line of the nose.

This is most important because the lenses have to be accurately centred in relation to the pupil of each eye.

That is thought?

That these little habits of removing the glasses and swinging them about on the fingers, or squeezing the frame work inwards and outwards, leaving the glasses lying about where they get picked up or even thrown down by others, can so alter the shape of the frame work that serious damage can be done to that precious thing, your syesight.

And also it is a mistake to walk into a store and buy a pair of glasses, try their "magnifying" power, and put them on and wear them,because you can see to read with them. They may not suit your particular face. So if you wear glasses it would be a good habit to drop into your oculist, or optometrist, and have him see that the frames are adjusted to your face.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

LOST SPRING

(Contributed by "Red Wing")

Because you are not here the world seems old
And lonely-hearted, though the Spring time comes,
With dancing feet and wealth of crocus gold,
And winds that beat and throb like roll of drums.
The world is not the same since you are gone.

Because you are not here the days are long
Though Spring winds whisper through the tangled vines,
And songs of gladness echo from a throng
Of choristers perched high among the pines.
The flower beds are bright with tulip flame
But you are gone and Spring is not the same.

XMAS FORETHOUGHT

Now is an excellent time to pick up many desirable Christmas presents, inexpensively. Such things as dressing table accessories, fancy closet equipment, linens, decorative vases, lampshades, book-ends, small bits of furniture, simple lingerie, hosiery and so on can be had, often, for negligible prices. Now is the time, really, to start Santa Claus' hope chest!

SMARTER THAN EVER

A delightful new silhouette for the youthfully smart woman. It's new! It's versatile too, with sleek slender lines, with molded waistline and double flared skirt, which ripples at each movement. The snug hipyoke is crossed by a narrow belt, fastened with buckle. The Vionnet neckline has applied bands with matching shoulder bow as its sole trimming. Its lines are exclusive, found only in a Parisian frock. It's a marvelous opportunity to have a tiered frock in fashionable combination of plain and printed silk crepe in vivid red tones. It's a dress that one can wear so nicely for afternoon or street. It's outstandingly smart in Patou's slate blue silk crepe self-trimmed, with rhinestone buckle of belt as ornament. Chartreuse green georgette crepe is alluringly feminine. Black chiffon is stunning for the mature figure. Navy blue silk crepe will give real service for general all-around wear. For general utility wear, select sheer tweed, or silk crepe in tweed pattern. Almond green dull silk crepe, printed georgette crepe and black crepe Elizabeth are not to be overlooked in making a selection for Style No. 3231. It is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. If made of one material 4 yards of 40-inch material is sufficient for 36-inch bust. Simply a two-piece skirt, with circular tiers, each tier in two sections, to be attached to hipyoke, which is attached to two-piece bodice. Try it! It's so entirely simple. Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City, and are guaranteed to fit perfectly.

Send 15 cents to save $15.00. Our Spring Fashion Magazine will help you save at least $15.00 in preparing your Spring wardrobe. If you order a pattern at the same time the price of the book is only 10 cents. Order your copy to-day.

MARION'S MAIL

"Dear Marion:—

Enclosed you will find a letter for Dory would you kindly forward it to her for me? I am also enclosing coupon for helps and stamps, so you can forward one to Dory, having enough left for your use in forwarding my letter to her, and hers to me.

The page is still wonderful Marion, but I believe the neighbors are all terribly busy as I am. I never seemed so far behind before but surely we shall soon be out of the mire. It has been so backward, inside and out; but oh isn't it hot now? and we do need rain again don't we? and not long ago we were wishing it would stop raining and get warmer. How hard we are to please!

I have been going to write to "Lucinda" for ages, I will one of these times 'Lucinda'. I did not do my floor this spring, but am going to write and tell you more what it is like and get more of your good advice, between now and next spring. I am sorry I haven't time to write more but must hustle away now, I wish I had helps to send in, but can't think of any just now, will try by the next time I write.

I mustn't forget to thank you Marion for the favor I am asking you to do for me.

Love to all,
MARLEIGH."

I'm glad to be able to forward your letter, "Marleigh", and I hope you and "Lucinda" and "Dory" become real good friends.

We ARE hard to please, "Marleigh", but I am glad. As I've said before, it is dissatisfaction with things as they are that makes progress. We are dissatisfied with the cold so we develop furnaces and hot water heating systems and automatic oil heaters. We are not happy to swelter in summer, so we design electric fans and ice boxes and iceless refrigerators. We are not content to walk, so through the ages we have contrived ox-drawn carts, buggies and democrats; steam engines; electric cars and trains; automobiles and airplanes.

Thank heaven for discont with things as they are. To it you owe all the comfort you have compared with the life of the pioneer; your comfortable home; your entertainment—even your comfortable short skirt!

* * *

"Dear Marion:—

Many a time and oft, have I thought of writing you again, but here I am at last.

I enjoy the page very much but have missed a number of the neighbors lately. (Wonder if they miss me?)

I enclose a stamp for the helps marked and thank you in advance.

Old Home Week is so near and we all will be so busy with guests and trying to enjoy a bit of the fun too that I may not be able to write soon again. Then after that we are hoping to get some holidays at a beautiful lake we know. We are not often able to go and so it is to be a real treat.

My Mother used to sing the old song sent in by "Leatherhead" a few days ago and I never had printed words or music but from my memory I think there were two more verses, as follows:—

"Painted pleasure holds a flowing bowl
Mirth and music lure the careless soul,
But with us at home you'll find
Home joys that never leave a stain behind.

Firmly bound by silver chains of love
Here are fortastes of the Home above
Thou from whom all blessings come
Help us to thank Thee for a Christian home."

I love the song because of its beautiful thoughts and also because of its dear associations.

I liked especially the "Whatnot" on "putting yourself in the other person's place." I do try to do that myself but know I often fail even then to understand the other's viewpoint. Some one has said: "To understand all would be to forgive all," and I do think we misjudge many people because we don't take the trouble to try to understand them.

Well, this must be finished up and I must get busy at my housework.

SUSIE."

Thank you for your letter, "Susie" with its completion of "Leatherhead's song. Come again.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

CHILDREN'S FRIENDS.

Children's friends are a very important factor in the lives of the children. They mean quite as much to them as your friends to to do. Perhaps they mean more, because childhood is more unselfish and loyal than maturity.

The right kind of friends is more than important. It is crucial. The quality of a child is beyond his social standing, his potential wealth, his future promise. The old fashioned idea of personal worth is as true as ever it was. In these days of modern styles in manners and their reflected morals, the old style is most precious.

"Who was that boy you came home with, Martin?"

"Pete Jones?"

"Pete Jones. And who might Pete Jones be?"

There can be just enough poison in the tone that carries scorn and disapprobation to kill poor Pete Jones as a friend of that family forever. "Pete Jones. Where does he live? On the flats? Seems to me you might get somebody a bit better than Pete Jones of the flats as a companion."

Martin searches for words to explain that Pete is a fine fellow. He wants to say how square he is, what a good sport he is, how ready he is to help a fellow out of a tight place, how cheerful and unassuming. But how can a lad of ten say all that? The most he can manage is, "Aw, Pete's all right."

Better go slowly and discover whether or not Pete is all right. If he is, cultivate him. If he isn't, gradually draw away from him. But go cautiously and never without certain knowledge of what you are about. If you sneer at the children's friends they will hide them from you for a child loves deeply and protects his love. Keep him out in the open and let him learn that he can depend upon your wisdom and your fairness.

If home life is very tame, with no ups and downs of fun and talk and frolic and planning, the children are likely to select some striking personality to bring the charm and sparkle of variety into their days. It often happens that this scintilating person is not of the quality you would like to cultivate in the children's circle.

Don't make the mistake of sneering, of scorning, of being high hat about it. The child is comparing the liveliness and the activity of this delightful person with that of those at home. His choice indicates his need. Set about supplying the need tactfully and intelligently.

Attack the situation indirectly by bringing out a fresh interest that carries the child away from the previous association. Talk about other things, plan other ways, make new connections in interesting groups. School and camp and church and club are open to you for this purpose. Friends have grest influence, bring out latent tastes and tendencies, arouse enemies and set their stamp upon the character of the associates. Select them with care, when you can, and when can't deal very tacfuly with them.

GOOD PRESSING

Pressing is all-important in homesewing. When making a worsted garment, especially, the iron should be brought into play for every seam as it is sewn. For good pressing, place a dry cloth over the material and sprinkle lightly with water; do not dip it into water.

NEW APRONS

New aprons reflect Paris styles in their cuts. A green printed one has a semi-princess line, with godets of plain green let in below the hip. One pink apron has two little circular flounces of figured material and figured pocket and bindings. Every housewife should make herself a few.

MARKING SIZES

Since practically every household has large and small sized sheets, large and small towels, pillow slips and other pieces of linen, much time and trouble is saved if the linen is classified. Mark large sizes with a cross in blue, small in red, or any other way you wish. Place the marking at the outer edge so the linen can be sorted without opening it.

T HEY NEVER LEARN.

FASHION SERVICE

Seldom are volants used with more charm than in this Agnes frock, with its ruffled skirt, and with sleeves and bodice carrying out the same motif.

VOLANTS GIVE CHARACTER TO THIS FROCK.

By Mme. Havet of Agnes.

I have used a whole series of volants to give character to this frock. Four ruffles set on diagonally, make the skirt. The blouse is very graceful with its upward curving line. The same motif appears once more on the sleeves, the whole effect being very soft and feminine.

SOCIETY HEARS INSPIRING TALK

Mrs. G. A. McDonald of West Toronto Speaker at Meeting of W.M.S.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

At the June meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andred's Church, held in the church parlors, an inspiring and practical address was given by Mrs. G. A. McDonald, of West Toronto, who based her address on Pslam 37, verses 7 and 8, and emphasized the need for stronger faith, less worry and more altruism. Poems quoted by Mrs. McDonald were Whittier's "Bridge Builder," and "A Little Bit of Love."

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. A. Porteous, the president, and was presided over by Mrs. C. V. McLean. McLean.

Devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy and Miss M. Craw and the musical program included a finely-rendered duett by Mrs. H. F. Doig and Mrs. G. L. Liddle, entitled "Come Unto Me," with accompaniment played by Miss E. Webber. Later, a second duett was sung by the two ladies.

The mite boxes for the first six months of the year were brought in and Mrs. J. F. Allan, the financial secretary, reported the total as being very gratifying.

At the conclusion of the meeting appreciative votes of thanks were accorded the speaker and the musicians. These were moved by Mrs. J. John and seconded by Mrs. P. L. Allison.

A social half hour was then spent, when the service of dainty refreshments was in charge of Mrs. P. L. Allison, convenor for Mrs. C. V. McLean's group.

GETTING SKINNIER EVERY DAY

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick

Tens of thousands of thin, rundown men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets are putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks in all parts of the world every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, gained 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

PROTESTS MADE BY WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Local Members Request Greater Stringency Regarding Sale of Strychnine.

The final meeting of the Local Council of Women was held on Friday afternoon in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A.

The president, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, expressed her disappointment at the failure of the speaker of the day, Mrs. Madge McBetts of Ottawa, at being unable to appear.

In the absence of the secretary, the minutes of last meeting were read by Mrs. E. Wand, who also gave the treasurer's report, showing a substantial balance on hand. The sum of thirty-one dollars was voted to the foundation fund.

The thanks of the council were expressed to Mrs. Wand for her generous offer to put on an entertainment about the first week in November in aid of this fund. Announcement was made of the subscription of $50,000 to this fund by a Winnipeg resident.

A protest having been made about one of the acts on the Midway at the last Peterborough Exhibition, it was decided to ask the Exhibition Board and also the Chief of Police that greater care be exercised in eliminating acts bordering on the obscene.

Another protest was entered on the excessive use of strychnine which has caused the death of a number of pet dogs throughout the city. The council decided that an effort be made to see that the law regarding the use of this drug be more strictly enforced.

Mrs. Edwards gave a short but very comprehensive account of the meeting of the provincial council at Niagara Falls on June 12-13.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

MUSIC RECITAL.

Attractive Program Presented By Pupils of Miss Bessie Elcome, A.T.C.M.

A good-sized audience in the hall of the Conservatory of Music on Friday evening listened to a very attractive and interesting recital presented by the piano pupils of Miss Bessie Elcome, A.T.C.M., who were assisted in vocal numbers by Miss Isobel Weddell (winner of the silver medal in the contests last autumn) and Miss Daisy Adlam, both displaying promising voices of well-trained calibre, with a sweet, pure tone. They were assisted also by Miss Nellie Boorman, who demonstrated fine elocutionary ability in two well-received readings. All the pupils, from the tiniest junior to the senior members, gave evidence of excellent poise, interpretation and style in their numbers. The majority played from memory, and all received enthusiastic applause. At the conclusion of the recital, a beautiful bouquet of roses was presented to Miss Elcome by her pupils.

Springflowers, Low — Jack Ackerman and Barbara Ackerman.

(a) My Old Dog Jack, Gardner, (b) A Child's Good-night, (c) The Tin-Pan Guards' Parade, Spaulding—Loreen Wellwood.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE SIGH.

A sigh indicates some emotional disturbance. There is the sigh of grief, the sigh of pleasure, the sigh of relief, and the sigh for some unfulfilled wish or longing.

The sigh is usually unconscious, automatic. It is caused by an irregularity in the respiratory mechanism. We inhale suddenly, or exhale suddenly, or do both.

The peculiar breathing in a sigh, shows that the automatic system which controls breathing is not functioning properly. There is some interference. Any deep longing, an unfulfilled wish, a deep sorrow or a sudden release of pressure such as unexpected good news when you were looking for bad news results in the heaving of a deep sigh or a series of them.

We sigh because there is nothing else we can do. If we could do something we would act. Action is a great safety valve. It releases emotional energy that would otherwise well up and suffocate us. When we sigh we are caught in a situation that leaves us no outlet. We try to think our way out and fail. Immediately the sigh occurs to release the tension.

It would be interesting to catch a real sigh and examine its chemical contents to see if it is different from ordinary breath. On general principles one would expect to find more waste substances such as carbon dioxide and possibly other elements of waste and fatigue.

An unfulfilled wish sets up a strong state of uneasiness that shows a lack of endocrine balance. The result is a sigh. The same is true in sorrow and grief. We wish for the lost ones or the thing lost. Since it is an impossible wish it is an unfulfilled wish and hence the sigh, which is a mark of helplessness.

We sigh when we are at our wit's end and don't know what else to do. The sigh comes quite automatically as a release of pressure and of nervous tension and emotional disturbance. But always it is connected with some phase of wishing, usually the wish that is unsatisfied.

If you had everything you wanted you would never have occasion to heave a sigh.

We sigh only when we are emotionally trapped.

History of Peterborough

Chapter XI

A new Common School act, passed by the Reform Government of the day, came into force in 1844 and Elias Burnham, Esq., was appointed Superintendent of Schools for the Colborne District, in order effectually to carry out its provisions—an office which he accepted rather from a desire to further the important interests of education, than from any emoluments belonging to the office, the salary attached to which during the period he held it, was at first £25 and then £50 per year, including travelling expenses. Mr Burnham discharged the arduous and laborious duties of this office, from this time up till the year 1850, with commendable zeal and ability, in doing so, travelling on horseback from six to eight hundred miles annually. The followng official report, which he submitted to the Council at the close of the year 1844, will be found interesting as an illustration of the position of the District at that date, in an educational point of view.

To the Warden and Councillors of the Colborne District,

Gentlemen:

I beg to lay before you a report relating to the Common Schools of the Colborne District for the year 1844. I have visited all the schools during the past year, in operation at the time of my annual examination, except one in Verulam and Harvey, and one in Fenelon and Bexley. Circumstances have delayed my examination of these beyond the time prescribed. The character of the schools, generally, is satisfactory. It is to be regretted, however, that in many of the school districts, particularly those in the townships of Ops and North Monaghan, the school houses are so very bad, amounting in some instances to a state of actual discomfort and unhealthiness; but I have invariably urged upon the people the necessity of their improvement, and I have reason to believe that they fully agree with me therein, and that they will remedy the evil as soon as possible."

"The attendance of children is good, averaging to each school about twenty-five, but I am sorry to see this number confined solely, or nearly so, to children of small age. Taking one school with another, there is a fair proportion of children who read and write."

"In no instances in my recollection, with one or two exceptions, have I seen the English Grammar in use; very seldom geography, and no history, except occasionally in a reading book. The Bible I found in general use."

"There is a great deficiency of books in very many of the schools."

"This, I was told, originated in the carelessness or poverty of the parents. I have, however, invariably urged upon them the necessity of supplying their children with proper books. The teachers frequently complain of this deficiency, and of their consequent inability to classify their scholars; which is prejudicial to their advancement."

"I have reason to believe that the teachers rely more upon reason and common sense in their instructions, than upon the rod; and I have invariably urged upon them to do so. I have also had to suggest the benefit of allowing the children a short relaxation during school hours. I have also made it known that intermperance in any teacher will be regarded by me as a good cause for his immediate removal, and that cruelty towards scholars will be promptly put down."

"Upon the whole, I may say that, although there is much room for improvement in many of the schools, still there is no real cause for complaint, and I am satisfied that they will be improving."

• • •

"I may further state that I made an application some time ago to the Governor General for the free grant of a lot in the town of Peterborough, to Trustees, with the view of ultimately being able to build thereon a commodious schoolhouse, and establishing by private munificence a fund, the interest from which would be sufficient to supply free tuition to all who might choose to avail themselves of it, and to have a good library in connection therewith; and I have intended, if my exertions had been successful, to have devoted the entire of my salary, as Superintendent, for that purpose. But His Excellency did not condescend to notice my petition, and so the matter for the present has ended.

I have the honor to be, etc.,

E. BURNHAM

WHEN you are a stranger in a neighborhood and anxious to make friends around you you must set about the matter wholeheartedly and with a purpose.

Naturally friendliness attracts friendliness and people will soon recognize and appreciate a partiality for social interests.

• • •

The quickest way to form the nucleus of a circle of acquaintances is to discover a mutual friend who will help you by making preliminary introductions, or who will ask someone she knows in the district to call upon you and make herself known. Such a request establishes your bona fides and when your caller hears that you don't know anyone around you, she is sure to be ready to help in adjusting matters.

• • •

Then too, joining the local golf and tennis clubs is a good start towards getting to know the members. Dramatic and operatic clubs are also very social bodies, if you are so inclined. If you are a keen bridge player, and broadcast this fact in conversation, you will soon find your self included in the bridge set after the exchange of a few bridge parties.

• • •

The pleasant atmosphere of the little parties you give at your own home is sure to be discussed among your neighbors and former strangers will be glad to make your acquaintance.

• • •

When there are young people in the family, one's circle of friends widens rapidly. The children bring their little companions from school with them and visit at their houses and parents naturally become friendly over the matter.

• • •

The older boys and girls with the frank freemasonry of youth, have an aptitude of selecting and getting to know those of their own status and generation who interest them.

• • •

There are often too, in larger cities, a social group of women who make it their business to call on families who arrive in the city and have no friends.

• • •

The first impression always lasts, so when you attend your first tea or bridge party in a new neighborhood, don't forget to act and look your very prettiest.

• • •

You will always find people wherever you go who are desirious of making a great deal of fuss, as the saying is, over you but in the end they may not turn out to be your best friends after all. Your neighbors will only be to you what you are to them, if they find you wish to be friendly and make friends, they will be only too glad to become friends with you.

• • •

From 'the Faithful Friends' we have the quotation:

"No friend's a friend till he shall prove a friend."

• • •

Mrs. Ellis, in Pictures of Private Life, says: To act the part of a true friend, requires more conscientious feeling than to fill with credit and complacency any other station or capacity in social life."

• • •

With all the fresh vegetables in now there is no need of cooking the same kind more than once a week.

• • •

Often more is cooked than is used and it seems rather extravagant to throw it out. Most vegetables at least fresh ones, can be re-heated perfectly if carefully cooked in the first place. They may be partly cooked too, a few days before required and re-heated.

• • •

They are cooked the minimum length of time, to soften, then are drained and let stand to dry. To re-heat put a little water in a pan and when boiling, put vegetables in and let steam until heated through.

• • •

After these are properly seasoned one would think they were just newly cooked. Often you have tasted vegetables which has been cooked too long and in too much water. The very best part of the vegetables is lost if it is cooked too long.

• • •

I remember one woman particularly where I spent part of my vacation. She had read too, she said, but she had always believed that cabbage should be cooked about half an hour. In my estimation the cabbage was utterly dead, but they apparently thought it was fine. If they had only once tasted it properly cooked, I'm sure they would find quite a difference.

• • •

Asparagus, too, for instance should be cooked in very little water and only about ten or fifteen minutes, depending upon its freshness.

• • •

• • •

Cut in quarter inch cubes cooked spring beets, carrots and new potatoes. Cut cooked string beans lengthwise to give the effect of green straws. On the salad platter arrange the different vegetables in fan-shaped sections, the broad part coming at the bottom. Divide the sections with strips of pimentoes. Sprinkle this with French dressing and at serving time, put a border of thick mayonnaise around and on top of the whole.

SAND VASES

If you have a hard time arranging pansies, violets, garden primroses and other short-stemmed flowers, try filling a shallow bowl with sand, dampening it and sticking the flower stems into it. They will keep longer, if anything, than in water by itself. Add fresh water to sand daily.

70 Feels 20
"I Have Found a New Life"

What does age matter if you're feeling young? You'll never feel old till you feel ill. Take Kruschen and laugh at the calendar. Here is an example:

"I am 70 years of age, and for several years I suffered from lack of appetite, sickness day and night, faintness and giddiness. For about four weeks I have been taking your Kruschen Salts every morning. I feel now exactly as if I were 20 years of age, with a good appetite for every meal, joie de vivre, such energy as I have never had before in all my existence, physical agility. I could run against any person 20 years of age; in fact, it is exactly as if in one month I had found a new life."—Madam S. of D.

SERVICES AT CAMPBELLFORD

Rev. Dr. Oerrie Speaker At Anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

HISTORY OUTLINED.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 24 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was honored yesterday in having for its minister Rev. Dr. Perrie, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The occasion was the eighty-ninth anniversary of the coming of Presbyterianism to this locality. In spite of the hot weather, the church was crowded at both morning and evening services. For the occasion, there was a beautiful floral display in front of the choir loft.

Morning Service.

In the morning, Rev. Dr. Perrie selected as his text the words from the Acts of the Apostles, chapter 17, verse 16: "Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was stirred in him when he saw the city wholly given to idolatry." Dr. Perrie's sermon was highly interesting and wholly instructive, showing that Paul had come to Athens to Christianize not to civilize the people. This was the duty of the church of the present day. It must first Christianize.

In the morning the special music consisted of a contralto solo, an anthem by the choir, and a quartette from St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough.

Evening Service.

For his evening sermon, Dr. Perrie employed the 10th verse of the 6th chapter of Daniel: "Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed he went into his house; and his windows being open in his chambers toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime."

The music for the evening service consisted of a baritone solo by Harland Fudge of New York City and an anthem by the choir. Mr. Fudge sang "The Holy City," and the anthem was "Hark, Hark My Soul."

History of the Local Church.

At both services, J. A. Anderson, member of the Kirk Session, read a brief history of the church in Campbellford. From it, it was evident that Presbyterianism here had a very humble beginning. In 1840, the handful of settlers who believed in the Presbyterian faith met for services at the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Goven, Seymour West. This accommodation soon became inadequate, and the use of the village school house was secured Later the Town Hall was used as a meeting house. Several ministers conducted the services during a period of years during which time the congregation of Campbellford was affiliated with Warkworth on two different occasions. It was not till 1885 that Campbellford became an independent church and called a minister of its own. Although there were several ministers associated with the work and service of the church here during the early days, the late Rev. Dr. Neill is generally looked upon as the Father of Presbyterianism in Campbellford and district.

Rev. John Hay was the first minister called. He took charge of the church work in 1885. For four years he labored with the result that he is credited with having preached the sides out of the church. At any rate, the building as it then stood was not large enough to accommodate the congregations which came to hear him, and wings were built on the north and south sides, increasing the seating capacity almost one hundred per cent. Rev. Marcus Scott was the second minister, and his term of service continued till 1895, six years.

Rev. Robert Laird, D.D., now a high official of the United Church, succeeded Rev. Marcus Scott, and remained till 1899. He was followed by Rev. A. C. Reeves. In 1908 Mr. Reeves left Campbellford, and Rev. G. A. Brown, now minister in Kingston, occupied the pulpit till 1916. His successor was Rev. C. F. McIntosh, who remained till the time of church union in 1925, when Rev. James Grier, now ministering in Lindsay, accepted a call to Campbellford. Mr Grier left the local pulpit for his present church in June, 1928, and Rev. W. J. Mark, D.D., the present minister here, became the minister of the church in November.

In honor of the occasion of the anniversary here, the Presbyterian churches at Burnbrae and Warkworth cancelled their evening services in order that their members might attend service in Campbellford. At the morning service Rev. Dr. Perrie was assisted by Rev. Dr. Thomson of Hastings. In the evening Rev. D. A. MacKenzie of Burnbrae and Rev. Gordon Duncan of Warkworth assisted the minister.

THE PAIN OF RHEUMATISM!

REV. J. E. TODD BRINGS TO END CITY MINISTRY

FLOWER SUNDAY.

Perhaps never in the history of George Street United Church has any minister been as popular as the Rev. J. E. Todd, who last evening preached his farewell sermon to a very large crowd of members and adherents of the church as well as friends from other churches, particularly Trinity United Church, who had with withdrawn their evening service to worship at George Street and honor Mr. Todd.

Not only has Mr. Todd by his kindly sympathetic and understanding manner and his keen sense of humor endeared himself to George street people, but also to sister congregations and members of all classes and creeds throughout the city and surrounding country. His unselfish spirit, kind thoughfulness and desire to serve will leave a lasting impression on all he came in contact with. No more fitting tribute could be given him than the very large congregation that gathered both morning and evening in this torrid June weather.

Flower Sunday

Flower Sunday was observed at the morning service and the choir loft and pulpit platform was a bower of beauty. A tall central arch of flowers was erected just in front of the choir loft with a lower arch on either side. The columns of the large arch were crowned with pretty baskets of rose and white peonies.

The classes of the Sunday school met and marched up the aisle in double file, carrying their huge bouquets of flowers and leaving them at the altar to be later distributed to the sick and shut-ins, before taking their alloted places in the church aditorium. The Sunday school orchestra furnished the music for the service, playing "A Monastery Garden" very charmingly.

Mr. Todd, in his opening remarks, expressed his deep appreciation at being with the George Street people for their annual flower Sunday service, and he said the delightful setting and the beautiful arrangement of flowers would be one of his sweetest memories.

To the Children

Speaking to the children, in particular, Mr. Todd, took the word "Servant" from the verse, "If any man desires to be first he shall be last and the servant of all," as his text. A servant is the one thing we do not like to be, yet one of the things Jesus says we must be. "He that would be great among you, let him be the least and the servant of all."

The value of anything in life depends upon its capacity for service. All the great men of history who amounted to anything were the men who made contributions of service, or in other words, servants of the people. Jesus Christ was the greatest man who ever came into the world. He did not write a book or paint a picture. He hid neither silver nor gold, but he give His life—the greatest of all gifts. I wonder what you and I would do if we knew we had only a few hours to live. What did Jesus do? He served His disciples, washing their feet and advising them for their future work. Service rendered to the last. Boys and girls, what kind of a servant are you? Don't let us be silly about the word, for we are all servants in some form or other. Let us see how well we can serve others in the little things of life to bring happiness into others' lives, and by being kinder to your mothers and fathers. He concluded his sermon with a poem, "Others," the concluding lines of which were:

"Help me to live for others
That I may live like Thee."

The junior male quartette composed of Allan Stevens, Newton Hamilton, Ken Baker and Jack Cuff, sang most acceptably.

George Robertson, Sunday school superintendent, was on the platform and led in the responsive reading.

Evening Service

At the evening service Mr. Todd in his introductory remarks, spoke of the appreciation both George Street Church people and himself felt at Trinity Church withdrawing their service and coming to worship with them. Rev. David Wren of Trinity Church was on the platform and led in prayer.

Mr. Todd chose as his subject for his farewell sermon, "Our Unconscious Ministry," taking his text from The Act according to St. Paul, 16th chapter and 25th verse, saying:

"Paul and Silas were law-abiding citizens, preaching the word of God but they got in wrong because they interfered with the money-making projects of some men and they brought them to the market place before the rulers and they were accused of troubling the city. They were beaten and thrown into prison. At the midnight hour, despite their sufferings and discomfort, they prayed and sang praises unto God. Quite unconsciously they brought a benediction unto the souls of men in that great city. The prisoners and jailers were deeply touched, and told of having heard songs they had not heard since childhood days. In spite of their discomfort and surroundings they proved a benediction.

"As we go about our everyday tasks we are ministering unconsciously in some fashion or other. Young people and children think they are not ministering, but I tell you that you are by your life, doing so constantly. Children in school unconsciously minister to the teacher, as well as the teacher. Sick people by their patience and trust are unconsciously ministering to those about them. After all, it is the unconscious ministry that holds. A boys' memories of his mother are more of unconscious ministry than her precepts. No matter where he is he will think of mother as 'a good woman,' and this will influence him more than anything else.

A minister, more than anyone, has an idea that his conscious ministry should count for something, but I often think that I shall receive the greatest surprise of my life when I am called to come up yonder, for I will find my unconscious ministry in some fashion or other will count most of all.

It is the unconscious ministry of men in every walk of life that is leaving its impression on the community and if their hearts are right their unconscious ministry will be a blessing.

In conclusion, Mr. Todd said he wanted to thank the members and adherents of George Street United Church for their unconscious ministry to himself and his family. "Thank you for the atmosphere you have surrounded us with, an atmosphere of sympathy and understanding. Altogether, you are a great people to be the minister of, and Mrs. Todd and myself have often felt we have not deserved so much kindness.

"I have always been sincere in preaching the Word of God, according to my light and I have no apology to make in this respect, and in my last sermon as pastor I desire once again to call your attention to the 13th Chapter of I. Corinthians and ask you to often read it. If this old world of humanity is to be brought to God it will be through the power of love: 'If I speak with the tongue of men and of angels and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal.'

In our home life, in our school life, in our everyday life, let your life and my life demonstrate the power of love. Though I shall be many miles from the people of George Street, our friendship will continue, and I shall ever have a very warm place in my heart for you." In conclusion, he asked them to rally around the incoming minister and to build up the Kingdom for the Master.

G. F. Liddle sang a beautiful solo, and Douglas Carlisle sang "Crossing the Bar" so feelingly that there was hardly a dry eye in the church.

SENIORS AGAIN DROP DECISION TO SMELTERS

PETES TOSS AWAY DELORO GAME AFTER GETTING EARLY MARGIN; LOSS SENDS LOCALS TO CELLAR

Smelters Come From Behind To Beat Petes For Second Time This Season.

WOOD THE WINNER.

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes slipped into the cool depths of the Central Ontario League cellar Saturday afternoon at James Stevenson Park when, after having the game with Deloro in the well known bag, they fell down and went boom in the closing stages to allow Bill Regan's athletes to come from behind and win 7 to 5.

That was a blow that hurt.

In the first three frames the Petes stepped into the offerings of Ibey, the ex-Hastings twirler, with rare abandon, collecting eight hits and five runs off his delivery, and at the end of the third the home talent were in front 5 to 1.

Carl Woods led a rescue expedition to the mound in the fourth, but with the Petes' early lead it looked as if Mr. Wood was toiling in a lost cause. However he put the brakes on sharply and the homesters' run getting was through for the afternoon, Wood blanking them for the last six sessions.

Meanwhile his team mates kept pecking away at the offerings of Angie Macdonald, the Petes' southpaw, with varying success and carving the lead down slowly until the eighth when, with the Swanston crew still in front 5 to 4, disaster overtook the Petes.

It was the breaks of the game that destined Red Hollingsworth, the Petes' fine young shortstop to become the central figure in the mishap. The first two Deloro men up in that frame hit safely but the next pair expired harmlessly and it looked as if Macdonald was safely out of the hole when Buck shot a low liner directly at Hollingsworth. The youngster, whose brilliant fielding has featured the Petes' work all season, played the ball badly, let it hit in front of him and it went for a hit instead of an out, tieing the score. And right on top of this Hollingsworth fielded Elliott's sharply hit roller cleanly and then tossed over Harrison's head to allow Deloro's two-run margin to trot over the plate. The ball game soared away on that throw, a tough luck play by a boy who has been playing great ball.

Woods' fine work as a relief pitcher really saved the day for Deloro. Going in with his team apparently hopelessly behind the ex-Peterborough right hander only allowed three hits in the six innings he worked. Two clean smashes by Manager Swanston and a scratch by Beavis. Wood fielded his position smartly, starting two double plays that materially helped in blanking the Petes.

Ibey, who started the gunnery work for the visitors, had nothing. The Petes hit him hard and often and in addition to the five runs they chased home in the three innings Ibey worked they had eight men left on bases. Another hit at the right time in these frames would have meant a lead that even the homesters subsequent misplays couldn't have tossed away.

Macdonald went the route for the Petes and although he was touched for twelve hits, the southpaw kept them well distributed and would have added his second victory with more help from his team mates. Only three of the Deloro runs were earned.

Four double plays, three by Deloro, were fielding features. The outstanding bit of defensive work was contributed by Buck, the Deloro centre fielder, who with Beavis on third went back and gathered in Hollingsworth's fly and then doubled the runner from third at the plate with a perfect throw to Quinn.

Manager Swanston was the batting star of the day, helping himself to a double and three singles in five times, and getting two hits off each of the Deloro pitchers. Verne Beavis with a triple and a single was the only other homester to get more than one safe blow.

Here Is How It Was.

Deloro wasted a triple in the first. Ralph fanned. Buck hit to right for three bases, but was stranded when Elliott struck out and Quinn rolled to Rose.

The Petes got two runs. Hollingsworth was safe on Elliott's fumble and was sacrificed to second by Rose. Hall rolled to Regan but Swanston doubled to centre, scoring Hollingsworth. Harrison smacked a single over second to send Swanston in. Legon singled through short and Beavis was hit, but Regan took Holyman's pop with one hand

In the second Regan singled over second, but was forced by G. Scott. Scott went to second on a short passed ball and went on to third when Swanston threw wide. Brown rolled to Macdonald. With Hughes up Scott stole home. Hughes drew a pass but Ibey flied to Legon.

For the Petes Macdonald was thrown out by Regan. Hollingsworth beat out a roller down first base line, but was forced by Rose. Hughes to G. Scott. Hall was safe on G. Scott's fumble. Swanston singled to centre, filling the bases. Harrison rolled to Regan.

Legon, first up for the Petes, was safe on Regan's error, and stole second. Beavis tripled to right, scoring Legon. Holyman was safe on an error by Regan, Beavis holding third. Macdonald hit safely to third, filling the bases. Hollingsworth flied to Buck, who doubled Beavis at the plate as he tried to score after the catch. Rose singled to centre, scoring Holyman and Macdonald. Hall bounded to Ibey.

In the fourth Regan rolled to Rose. G. Scott singled past third. Brown got a lucky single when his roller hopped over Hollingsworth's head. Hughes' sacrifice fly to Hall scored G. Scott. Boudreau, batting for Ibey, rolled to Hollingsworth.

Wood took Ibey's place on the mound and Swanston greeted him with a single through short, only to be doubled on Harrison's rap to Wood. Legon walked and stole second. Beavis beat out a roller for a single, and stole second. Holyman tapped to Wood.

Deloro closed the gap in the fifth. W. Scott, batting for Ralph, was safe on Rose's error and Buck singled to centre. Elliott also hit safely over second, scoring W. Scott. Buck scored while Rose was tossing out Quinn. Regan popped to Rose and Hollingsworth tossed out G. Scott.

For the Petes Macdonald and Hollingsworth were thrown out by G. Scott. Rose walked, but died stealing.

The sixth was runless. Brown flied to Legon. Macdonald deflected Hughes' smash to Rose, who tossed out the runner. Wood singled past second but W. Scott rolled to Holyman.

In the Petes' half, Hall popped to G. Scott. Swanston smashed one back at Wood and was out and G. Scott threw out Harrison.

Buck, first up for Deloro in the seventh, was safe on Harrison's error, his first of the season. He was doubled up on a hit and run play when Elliott raised a high one to Harrison. Quinn drew a walk and Regan was hit, but G. Scott's roller to short hit Quinn to retire the side. The batter was out in any case as Hollingsworth made the play to first.

Legon walked in the Petes' half, but died stealing. Beavis drew a pass but was out when Holyman hit into a double play.

Deloro won the game in the eighth. Brown singled past Holyman and Hughes singled through short. Wood rolled to Harrison and W. Scott hoisted a high one to Rose. Buck's single to short, which Hollingsworth handled badly, scored Brown with the tieng run. Elliott rolled to Hollingsworth, who threw high to first and Hughes and Buck both scored on the error. Quinn fouled to Swanston.

The Petes did nothing. Macdonald flied to W. Scott. Hollingsworth rolled to Elliott and Rose lined to G. Scott.

DROWNED IN CISTERN.

TILBURY, Ont., June 22. — Marie Marchand, 15 months old, was drowned her to-day when she fell through the 15-inch circular opening of a cistern at the rear of her home. No one witnessed the fatality. The cover of the cistern, a heavy one to open, had been removed by some children playing in the yard. The child's mother found the body floating on the water, which was almost level with the ground.

Central Ontario League Chatter

By F. D. C.

As a result of Saturday's games Oshawa is once more out in front of the Central Ontario League schedule with Deloro and Belleville tied in second place and the Petes bringing up the rear. The race is so close that a couple of wins on the part of any one team will shake up the standing considerably. Here is the way they are just now:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Oshawa	5	3	.625
Belleville	3	3	.500
Deloro	4	4	.500
Peterborough	3	5	.375

Games Wednesday:
Peterborough at Deloro.
Oshawa at Belleville.
Game Saturday:
Oshawa at Peterborough.

Fred Ash was out of Saturday's game as the result of an injured knee. He was hurt at practise on Friday night and may be out for some time.

"Red" Hollingsworth got one hit Saturday, giving him the record of having hit safely at least once in all eight games played this season. Jimmy Hall failed to get a blow so that his string stopped at seven games.

Tommy Holyman got into the game for the first time this season Saturday, playing third base. He handled his only two fielding chances smartly.

Swanston's four hits in five trips to the plate put him close behind Ray Rose in the batting averages.

There was a parade of pitchers at Oshawa Saturday. Bennett, Alex Weir and Utronki all worked for Belleville, the loss going to Utronki who finished the game. Matthews started for Oshawa and gave way to Osborne, who gets credit for the win. The Motorists won 8 to 7, getting the winning run in the ninth.

TORONTO IN FIFTH PLACE

NEED VICTORY TO-DAY.

NEWARK, June 24.— (Canadian Press)—When two clubs both sporting a five-game winning streak, meet in a head-on collision, something is bound to happen. That was the situation here and the something that happened was two decisive victories for the Newark Bears over the Toronto Leafs by scores of 15 to 0 and 7 to 1. It was a bitter dose for the Leafs, as with the two setbacks they relinquished their fourth place position to the Bears, though the Grizzlies hold the position by the skin on their teeth, and a victory for the Leafs to-day will restore them to elite company.

Campbellford Club Winners In Tourney

CAMPBELLFORD, June 24 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Port Hope Tennis Club were the guests of the local club Saturday in a Central Ontario Association fixture. The honors remained with the home players by the wide margin of six points to five. J. R. Smith lost the second men's singles event by a score of 6-2, 1-6, 6-2. The other events were won by the Campbellford players. Clifford Weston won from H. Ryan, 6-3, 6-2; in the men's singles, F. Hamilton opposed Smith of Campbellford and won. In the ladies' singles, Eleanor Ferris won from Miss Grant of Port Hope, 6-4, 9-7. In the men's doubles, B. H. Beatty and Wilbert Kingston won from H. Winfield and E. Wynn, 6-3, 6-4. Dr. Johnston and R. C. Ramsden won from Dr. Diamond and E. Cohen, 6-3, 6-2. Mrs. D. W. Douglas and Miss Lillian Smith upheld the reputation of the local club in the ladies' doubles event by winning from Miss Bennett and Miss Hume, 6-3, 6-0. Miss Jessie Weston and Dr. H. B. Longmore won the mixed doubles from Miss Petry and Mr. Seton, 6-1, 6-0.

ATHLETICS OUTSLUG YANKS TO WIN 7-4

A's Beat New Yorkers At Own Game To Increase League Lead.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 24 (Canadian Press). — The smashing, driving Athletics of Philadelphia outslugged the Yankees, beat them at their own free-for-all style of crashing to the distant fence posts and carried off the odd game of the big summer series yesterday. The score was 7 to 4, and the A's got home with an eight and a half lead in the pennant race in place of the seven and one-half advantage they had when they came here last Friday. It was a great series.

LOCAL DRIVER MAINTAINS AVERAGE SPEED OF 50 MILES PER HOUR IN FREE-FOR-ALL

First Outboard Motor Speed Events Held At South Beach.

MAKE FAST TIME.

T. R. Ardiel and Don Wood Provide Feature Event in Class "B" Race.

Amid perfect surroundings and before hundreds of spectators, who thronged the high, shady bank, some of the fastest and most adept "sea flea" racing drivers in the province churned the placid waters of Clear Lake into foam in the first outboard motor speed events held at South Beach, Saturday afternoon.

"Wes" Kelly upheld the fame of local drivers by racing home far in advance of the field in the last and feature race, the free-for-all marathon. Kelly swirled his "Canada Flyer" six times around the three-mile course in 20 minutes, 32½ seconds, maintaining an average speed of over 50 miles an hour.

In the "C" class race Wild Bill Landrigan, of Toronto, driving C. L. Turnbull's "I'm Alone," was first in two of the three heats to win the trophy. Lou E. Marsh's Pick'n Shovel, driven by Tom McLure, was first in the second heat ,I'm Alone winning the first and third.

In this race the leaders were closely pursued by "Miss Cadillac," driven by Don Wood, of Peterborough. Wood came in second in the first heat and third in the other two. He was driving a "B" class boat against his faster rivals and only his heady driving kept him up with the leaders.

The feature of the "B" class races was the driving of T. R. Ardiel, "The Little Duke," fifteen year old son of Harris Ardiel of Windsor, who formerly sponsored the athletic endeavors of Lionel Connacher. Young "Tommie" Ardiel, who has only been driving "sea fleas" for a single week, won the first two heats of the "B" class. Don Wood ran him a close second in both heats and indeed this race supplied the closest driving of the entire day.

These two youths drove their boats at reckless speed around the buoys, being neck-and-neck practically all the way. Both displayed generalship on the turn and Ardiel was quick to adopt Wood's methods for his own use.

"Wes" Kelly led all the way in the marathon. "Pick'n Shovel" upset in maneuvering at the starting line and T. R. Ardiel's "Miss Windsor Motors" did not cross the line, getting held up on account of engine trouble. Don Woods engine developed engine trouble during the race but he plied along and came in second.

The results were:

"C" Class (First Heat)—I'm Alone, Bill Landrigan driver, C. L. Turnbull owner; Miss Cadillac, Don Wood driver, Johnson Motors owner; Miss Windsor, T. R. Ardiel driver, T. R. Ardiel owner; Pick'n Shovel, Tom McLure driver, Lou E. Marsh owner; Speed Boy, B. Carlyle driver, Williams Piano Company owner.

(Second Heat)—1 Pick'n Shovel, 2 I'm Alone, 3 Miss Cadillac, 4 Miss Windsor Motor, 5 Williams' Speed Boy.

(Third Heat)—1 I'm Alone, Pick'n Shovel, 3 Miss Cadillac, 4 Miss Windsor Motors, 5 Williams' Speed Boy.

"B" Class, First Heat — 1 Miss Windsor Motors, J. R. Ardiel driver, J. R. Ardiel owner; 2 Miss Cadillac, Don Wood driver, Johnson Motors owner; 3 Williams Speed Boy, Jimmy Rogers driver, Williams Piano Company owner; 4 Polywog, F. James driver, F. James owner.

(Second Heat) — Same order of finish.

Pirates Take Third Game From Cubs 8-7

CHICAGO, June 24. — (Canadian Press).—Pittsburgh made it three in a row over the Chicago Cubs here yesterday by winning a slugfest, 8 to 7.

Both Pat Malone and Meine, starting pitchers, were knocked out of the box. Bush and Nehf finished up for Chicago, and Nehf was charged with the defeat.

"Here, Jones! It's for you!"

JONES and Brown share the telephone on Smith's desk. Each call interrupts three men. Time is wasted in answering. Calls for Brown are lost because Smith is using the line.

This is bad business. No efficient office operates that way today. Competition is too keen to allow such handicaps.

Adequate telephone equipment may save you a thousand dollars in one minute. Let us study your needs and advise you about your service.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

TO MR. MUSSOLINI
(Who has taken up golf)

I know that before you were head of a State
You were plying a commonplace trade,
I know that you rose at a breath-taking rate
And miraculous progress you made.
No limit your progress has hampered as yet
And already you've gone very far
But don't make any rash and self confident bet
That you ever will paly around par.

You have pulled good old Italy out of a hole,
A fact which the world has confessed,
And being a somewhat self confident soul
No wonder you throw out your chest.
But wait till you cuff seven times at a pill
In a game you regard as a cinch
Putting in all your energy, vigor and skill
On an average drive of an inch!

I know you have set a whole nation to work
That the parts and the mills are athrob
That there isn't a porter, a lawyer or clerk
Who is hunting around for a job.
You well may believe you're the master of fate
And have still further glories to glean
On the tee and the fairway before it, but wait
Till you get a par three in seixteen.

It isn't a cinch to conduct the affairs
Of a nation just after a war.
And the lad who can do it may give himself airs
And toss off the ego galore,
You will still be a whale of a ruler in Rome
Where you number admirers aplenty
But you won't be so proud when some night you plod home
With a card of two hundred and twenty.

SOFTBALL.

C.G.E. and Western Clock will be the opposing teams in to-night's softball fixture at Central School grounds. The game is scheduled to commence at 6.30 and a tidy battle is assured the fans.

Tuesday night will see the K. of C. and Bridgenorth clash. The Bridgenorth team will be practically the same as when they met Harrisons last week. K. of C. have added a couple of new men, one being Bill Simmons, one of the best softball pitchers in the city. They have also added another pitcher and an infielder. This game will be played at Central School grounds and will get away at 6.30 o'clock.

"TRIAL OF MARY DUGAN" IS DRAMATIC SENSATION

New York Film Critics Unanimously Praise M-G-M Talkie

Duplicating in melodramatic guise the smashing success of the all-talking musical, "The Broadway Melody," M-G-M's new dialogue smash, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," now playing at the Capitol Theatre, reaped equally as enthusiastic reviews from the New York critics at its Broadway premiere.

Unanimity of opinion prevailed that "Mary Dugan" represents the outstanding all-talking film of its kind. "The most expert piece of work that has been delivered to the talking screen," commented the Morning Telegraph, and other papers expressed a similar opinion with equal force.

The new picture, which had been heralded as a triumphant achievement at a Hollywood preview some weeks earlier, was directed by Bayard Veiller, author of the stage play "The Trial of Mary Dugan." In structure and method of narration, the all-dialogue film adhered closely to the play, which ran for a full season on Broadway, and is now being played here and abroad by eighteen road companies.

Special praise was voiced by reviewers for Norma Shearer's splendid recording voice and for the sterling work of Lewis Stone, H. B. Warner and Raymond Hackett. The last named player appeared in New York in the original stage play.

C.G.E. BEATS BRINTONS 4-2

Winners Go Into Semi-final of Players Injured Cup.

SMART SOCCER.

After a hard cup tie battle, the Brinton soccer team were eliminated from the Injured Players' Cup on Saturday afternoon by the C.G.E. to the tune of four goals to two. McMaster brothers were the masters of the scoring list, while Hawthorne, of the Brinton team was the best player on the day's play.

The Canadian General captain won the toss and decided to kick with the sun at his team's back. Exchanges were even with James at outside right, causing some excitement around the C. G. E. goal, when Darling sent a perfect cross in front of the forwards who missed an open goal.

A Sure Goal

The play ran from end to end at a terrific pace until Burgess gained a productive centre that the Brinton custodian fisted out. He made a great attempt to clear but McMaster breasted the ball through. The Brinton's team appealed the decision on offside grounds, but the goal keeper made the play legal.

Smart Save and Good Shot

This set-back to the Brintons made them add more pressure against the C.G.E. defence but they were positive in any clearance. Although an individual effort by B. McMaster while on the run, left his foot like a rocket for below the bar; while the Brinton goal-keeper made a brilliant save by touching the ball over the bar. Both goals went under spasmodic raids with the C.G.E. forwards being more prominent around the goal, in fact, Curtis was the main factor in preventing the Electric boys from increasing the count.

Goals Came Fast

After many desperate attacks, the Canadian General forwards gained a smart goal from flag-kick when Burgess placed the ball at the foot of J. McMaster who beat Curtis all the way. From the centre kick, the Brinton forwards made tracks for the C.G.E. to gain a real a James' favorite that travelled along the ground to beat the custodian. Half-time—C.G.E. 2; Brinton 1.

B. McMaster Scored

On combination play by the C.G.E. right wing, the Electrics upset the loser's half-back line in an attack that left the centre forward unmarked who sent a rocket drive that went inside the upright. No sooner had this taken place, when a free kick against Figg gave the C.G.E. a goal.

Darling carried the sphere along the touch line to leave Jones to do the needful when he headed into a vacant goal. Encouraged by their success, the Brinton team forced the issue time and again, but over-anxiousness spoiled their attempts in front of goal. Another break away by J. McMaster terminated in a beautiful goal from the twenty yard range.

Perfect Forward Line

As time wore on, it was evident that the Carpet boys' line would crack because the winning team altered their tactics repeatedly so as to get inside the defence. Hawthorne was the best man of the field, in fact, it was only when he was up helping his forwards that the tallies were accounted in every break away. Near the finish, Curtis in the Brinton goal was the main obstacle to any further scorinng. Full time—Canadian General 4, Brinton A.A. 2.

Goal-scorers—J. McMaster (2) and B. McMaster (2) for C.G.E. Jones and James for Brinton.

Brinton A.A.—Curtis, goal; Lucas and Sharman full backs; Bayliss, Hawthorne and Creighton halves; Robertson, James, Jones Smith and Darling forwards.

Canadian General—Bolan, goal; Figg and Mitchell full backs; Robb, Mann and Blowers, halves; Burgess, J. McMaster, B. McMaster, Wilson and Rankin, forwards.

Referee—A. Aitkenhead.

Reds Even Series With The Cardinals

CINCINNATI, June 24 (Canadian Press).—The Reds evened a two-game series with St. Louis here yesterday, by taking a 4 to 2 victory over the Cardinals in a pitching duel between Lucas and Frankhouse. The feature of the contest was Ethan Allen's circuit drive over the left field wall in the seventh inning.

PASSES FIFTY MILE MARK

They say that figures don't lie, yet there must be something wrong with the computations when they work out that Wes. "King" Kelly was driving at a fifty mile an hour clip to win the open marathon for sea fleas at South Beach, Saturday afternoon. Still officials maintain that the course was three miles long, and Kelly swept around it six times for a total distance of eighteen miles in 20 minutes 32½ seconds. Figuring it out by these results the speed attained was something over fifty miles an hour. There must be a slip up somewhere.

TORONTO SPORTSMAN BUYS BOAT

The performance of Kelly's "Canada Flyer" caught the experienced eye of Lou Marsh and immediately he began bidding for her. The deal was closed before the start of the marathon race and Kelly was really driving for Lou in that race that copped the Kawartha Challenge trophy.

The performance of the boat is more amazing when it is considered that she upset in a previous race, had her motor reconditioned through the generosity of the Johnson Motor Company, and then leapt out and away from the field in the feature race of the day.

The boat was designed by Darcy Carter and built for Mr. Carter under agreement by the Peterborough Pattern Works. She was powered in the last speedy whirl by a Johnson "32" Seahorse and the motor sang and hummed all the way.

INTERESTING CHARACTER AMONG DRIVERS

"Wild Bill" Landrigan, who d rove I'm Alone in the sea flea races, was one of the most interesting characters among the group of dare-devil drivers He was an aviator during the war and won a reputation for daring and recklessness that gained him the name of "Wild Bill". Since the war Bill's excess vitality found an outlet driving a plane between Cuba and Florida. It is not necessary to say what he carried in his ship but he made frequent excursions. He returned to Toronto last summer and immediately took up the sea flea racing game.

In the first of Saturday's races he upset on one of the turns and was submerged head first down to his waist for several long seconds. He maintained his hold on the boat however, righted her and continued on his way, without ever stopping the motor.

The Mail and Empire says today in its sporting editorial: "Harry, Red Batstone will coach Queen's senior rugby team next fall and will be assisted by Chick Mundell, according to report from Queen's. The selection of the sorrel topped backfielder, for many years rated the leading field general of the Canadian gridiron, is happy on. He knows the fall pastime thoroughly and his brilliant career in the Tricolor livery has made him a hero on the Queen's campus."

Deberry's Single Hit Wins Tilt For Robins

BROOKLYN, N.Y., June 24 (Canadian Press).—Hand Deberry, veteran Brooklyn catcher, delivered his sixth single of the afternoon yesterday in the fourteenth inning and drove in the run that gave the Robins a 9 to 8 victory over the New York Giants.

BOWLING SEASON FORMALLY OPENED

Many Take Part in Social Affair Held On Campbellford Greens.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASED

CAMPBELLFORD, June 24 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—For some time the local bowlers have been enjoying the seasonable sport, but it was not till last Friday evening that the club house was formally opened. The event which marked this formality was a ladies' bridge, at which there were twelve tables of players. The prize for the highest score was won by Mrs. G. T. Dickson. While the ladies played bridge the men of the club bowled. Lunch was served by the ladies of the club.

This season there have been several changes made in the order of things at the club. Albert Mills has been appointed caretaker of the greens and club house, and his services are greatly appreciated by the club members. The club house has a new red roof, and the membership has increased by ten as compared to last year's figures.

The Campbellford Bowling Club enjoys an attractive situation which has been envied by many visiting bowlers. It is situated on a promontory between the canal proper and the river just above the dam. A wide stretch of smooth water forms a picturesque background. On the occasion of the opening this season, the setting was nothing short of romantic. With the weather depressingly hot for several days, the members sat in an open club house and enjoyed a friendly game of bridge, while the cool breeze from the wide river refreshed them after their day's activities. Outside the men members played their game under the electric light which hid the beauty of the bright moon, the crowning attraction of the entire setting.

More Than 100 Men and Women Offer Their Blood and Money

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 22 (C.P.)—More than one hundred men and women to-day had offered their blood and money to save the life of a 14-year-old boy dying of a strange disease.

Unless George Mosher has a transfusion every week at a cost of $50, which he cannot afford at a hospital run by charity, he will die, said physicians at Seaside Hospital on Staten Island. He is suffering from Kala-Azar, or balck fever, an East Indian disease rare in this country.

When George's plight became known through newspapers, the hospital was swamped with telephone and personal calls by persons who offered money to provide transfusions and others who offered their own blood.

How the boy contracted the disease is a mystery to doctors.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South failing to rebid Hearts despite his partner's assist North on the second round, shows his own suit Spades, and South supports the bid raising it to four. West's Diamond assist is more in the nature of a defensive than an offensive measure. The loss, if any, at four Diamonds, could well be a saving in case the opponents could go game in Spades.

Contract: South, bidding one Heart and West two Clubs, North bids three Spades, a forcing take-out demanding a further bid by South. This shuts out East's Diamond bid. South with four Spades, bids for game in that suit.

The Play

East leads the King of Diamonds and Declarer wins with Dummy's Ace. Entering his own hand with the Ace of Hearts, Declarer leads the 10 of Spades for a finesse. But West's King failing, Declarer plays Dummy's Ace and follows with the Queen of Spades, leaving the good Jack in East's hand. Declarer then leads Dummy's Queen of Hearts followed by a low Heart upon which East's Jack falls, Declarer winning with the Ace. Declarer leads the 9 of Hearts and discards Dummy's losing Diamond. East trumps. Whatever East may now lead, Declarer can take all but one of the remaining tricks, and thus makes five odd at Spades.

The above is a rough plan of the arrangements that have been made for those who are to be taken care of in Confederation Square for the unveiling of the memorial on Sunday next. After the next-of-kin, the ex-service men and families and the military units have been taken care of, there is a very great deal of room for the general public, and with the installation of the loud speakers, every one present on this occasion should hear the ceremony. The committee in charge of these arrangements, through Col. C. H. Ackerman, chairman, has submitted the following which will be carried out: Ex-service men will parade at 1.45 p.m. from Aylmer Street, between Charlotte and King Streets, to be inspected by Colonel the Rev. Canon Scott. Dress, mufti with medals. Headed by the band of the Toronto Scottish, the parade will proceed to Confederation Park and will occupy a section, specially reserved. The next-of-kin will occupy a reserved section immediately in front of the Memorial, and admission to this enclosure will be by ticket only, and it is requested that written or personal application for these cards be made to the Chamber of Commerce at once. See page 14 for definition of next-of-kin.

REGISTER Of Social and Business Meetings

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance, and reserve, evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

OSHAWA WILL BE HERE FOR OLD HOME WEEK

The Crowd From the Motor City Will Be Here Daily.

That Peterborough old boys and girls in Oshawa, and hundreds of Oshawa citizens will be here during Old Home Week, was assured the committee by telephone communication from Bob Begley. Letters from Hunter, and word from Joe Walsh and others.

Oshawa being a comparatively short short distance from Peterborough will send their crowds through every day, returning after the night program.

An effort will be made to arrange a daily bus service by one of the bus companies.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

DECORATIONS PROGRESSING

From to-day on there will be a great change in the appearance of Peterborough. Decorating for Old Home week started with a vengeance this morning, and workmen were noticed in many parts of the city. Out on Victoria Heights, facing the highway they were completing a welcome sign; several banks were being decorated; a flower garden was being made at the eastern approach of Hunter street bridge, and the arch of the Engineering Society, across George street, has been completed.

TRANSFERRING SEA-FLEAS.

Motorists on the highway were astonished at the spectacle of apparently tourists carrying life boats on trailers behind their cars. For some time they did not apprehend the logic of such a move, and wondered if, like Noah, they were preparing for a flood, but suddenly the fact dawned that these were sea fleas, out of their element, but a lot safer, which competed in the speedy races that were held at South Beach on Saturday, and were homeward bound.

WELCOME FOR CIRCUS FOLK

Apparently Sparks' circus employees believe that the people of Peterborough are big-hearted and "just love a circus, which comes but once a year." A big Ethiopian employee remarked to one of his companion workers as they were strolling up George street: "Gee, the people of this town sure treat us circus folks right; it must have cost a pile to put out all these flags to welcome us, and to erect that big bridge across the main drag that says 'Welcome.'"

RETURNS TO GLORY.

"There is a new engineer looking after the old fire department pumper that is hefting the west end pavers, and when he took over his task the engine was a sorry looking sight, but evidently he has a love for the "old hero," and has spent a number of hours hard labor on the far fighter, and now there is some signs of the past glory returning to the engine.

GRANDSTAND SEATS.

The curbs along the main street served as a resting place in the lack of anything better. Many children, while waiting for the parade used them for grandstand seats; even the older people finding the heat a little too much rested themselves in this manner

STEVE BRODIE PLUNGE

That Peterborough has its quota of Steve Brodies was evidenced by the feat of two youths the other night on the George street waterfront. At least the famous Steve's plunge from Brooklyn Bridge was duplicated as far as the height of the C.P.R. bridge would allow. In view of the crowd of watchers who nightly assemble to see the sea fleas work out on the lake, two youngsters mounted to the top of the bridge and thrilled the spectators by making the plunge. They seemed little the worse for their leaps.

CHIMNEY FIRE

One fire called the firemen into action over the week-end. At 7.06 p.m. last evening, a chimney fire at 203 Simcoe street gave them a run, but no damage was done.

The Chief, in conversation with The Examiner, expressed his gratitude to the Peterborough Floral Company, Jordan Brothers and Blade and Son for their kindness, in attending to the flower boxes at the Fire Hall this year, as they have in other years.

LIKES POLICE STATION.

A vagrant strayed into Police Court the other day and has since made himself at home. Not only this, but found a friend in the cellar of the building and brought him to stay for a while. This visitor was a small kitten, and his friend a black cat of about the same size and age. Police say that they have not adopted these mascots, but that they have come to stay. So good is the treatment and the food they get, that when they are neglected they allow no peace whatever.

"Tiddler," the original vagrant, confines himself not only to the police station but is equally at home in the court room, and has even strayed as far as the city treasurer's office in the building.

OBITUARY

MRS. BRIDGET O'BRIEN.

The death occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital, Sunday, June 23rd, of Mrs. Bridget O'Brien, wife of the late Wm. O'Brien.

There are left to mourn her loss, two daughters, Mrs. H. Donovan, of this city and Miss Ada of Toronto, also one son, Melville, at home.

The funeral will take place Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock from her late residence, 162 Aylmer street, to St. Peter's Cathedral and St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

REV. MOTHER CLOTILDE McGINNIS.

There passed away at Mount St. Joseph Convent early Sunday morning, Rev. Clotilde McGinnis, an old and respected resident of this community. The deceased was born in Londonderry, Ireland and lived there some time before coming to Canada. Twenty-eight years ago she came to Peterborough after living in Toronto and Port Arthur. She was 82 years of age, death coming after a long illness.

Rev. Mother Clotilde was Superior General of the community for more than 15 years and a Superior in many of the houses in Peterborough and Sault Ste. Marie dioceses.

The funeral mass will be held at the Chapel of Mount St. Joseph Convent Wednesday morning at 9.00. Interment in St. Peter's cemetery.

PETERBOROUGH CANOE COMPANY BUILDING OUTBOARD CRUISER WITH ALL MODERN EQUIPMENT

Six of These New Boats Will Be Completed Before July 1.

IDEAL FOR CRUISING.

With a Johnson Motor Propelling It Is a Real Made-in-Peterborough Job.

An outboard cruiser is the latest type of boat made by the Peterborough Canoe Company. Six of them will be completed before July 1st, and it is the expectation of the company that they will be turned out in quantities.

The outboard cruiser is a natural development of the detachable motor as applied to larger craft. This cruiser, named the Frontenac, is 22 feet long, with a 6-foot beam, depth at bow 4 feet 4 inches, and cabin headroom 4 feet 3 inches. The decked over cabin is 9 feet long, and is fitted with two comfortably cushioned berths, so arranged as to form a full-width bed. It offers ample room for three persons. The cabin is also equipped with a standard yacht toilet, folding table, food shelves and cooking utensil locker. Four hinged port lights provide abundant ventilation and light. The open cockpit is 8 feet in length, with seats and lockers on both sides. Other equipment includes brass hasp on cabin door, steering wheel with lines, pulleys and motor controls, platform in cabin for camp stove, dish racks, 10 gallon reserve fuel tanks piped to stern transom, chocks and cleats, running lights.

The keel stem, transom and frames are of finest white oak and rock elm; planking, decking and ceiling are of cedar with oak trim. The finish is yacht white with varnish trim, bottom green antifouling paint. The Frontenac is controlled by a convenient, easily handled steering wheel. Motor controls are attached to the wheel as in the larger and more expensive motor boats.

Ideal for Cruising.

With a Johnson motor propelling it this complete Made-in-Peterborough job will appeal to the imagination of the lovers of the outdoors for the summer delights it suggests. The speed will depend upon the size of the motor, but it should be easy to make twelve to fifteen miles an hour and even twenty is mentioned by the manufacturers. On day cruises as many as ten or twelve persons can be accommodated with safety and comfort. For long cruises it provides ample room for five. Its motor arrangement makes every inch of boat space count. Actually, this 22-foot boat gives as much usable room as a 28 or 30 foot cruiser with inboard installation.

As the motor is light and easily detachable, heavy motor timbers and piping are unnecessary, with the result that the total weight of the Frontenac is much less than that of other cruisers of similar capacity. This weight reduction makes possible better speeds than could be obtained with an inboard motor of the same power and fuel consumption.

Another feature is its shallow draft. With the motor operating in what amounts practically to a well at the stern, and the lighter total weight of the craft, it can cruise comfortably in waters where other boats of similar carrying capacity could not safely navigate.

SPEAKER RE-ELECTED.

Rt. Hon. Captain E. A. Fitzroy, who was to-day re-elected Speaker of the British House of Commons.

DOMINIONS ARE ASKED TO SIGN COURT CLAUSE

Questions of International Law Would Be Settled in The Hague.

OTTAWA CONSULTED.

Labor Government Is Proposing To Renew Diplomatic Relations With Russia.

LONDON, June 25. — (Canadian Press Cable)—Important negotiations affecting empire affairs are reported to have been initiated by the new Labor government of Great Britain. It was communicated with all the dominions in an effort to gain agreement on signing of the optional clause of the world court statutes, under which questions of international law would be submitted to the permanent court of International Justice at the Hague. The Laborite newspaper, The Daily Herald, to-day said also, that the Labor government has informed the dominion governments that is proposes to resume diplomatic relations with Russia.

Must Be Unanimous

The world court matter requires agreement of all the dominions and it is expected this can be secured without much trouble.

Australia hitherto was probably the only dominion reluctant to sign the optional clause, and it is understood this reluctance has now been removed to a great extent. In any event, Premier Ramsay MacDonald is hopeful of being able to show complete empire agreement on joining the world court when he visits the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva in September.

So far as Russia is concerned, the Labor government is already pledged to renewal of diplomatic negotiations, this being a necessary and important step towards the desired increase in British trade with the Soviet union.

Ottawa Consulted.

OTTAWA, June 25. (C.P.) — Intimations contained in despatches from London that the British government is negotiating with the Dominions in regard to signing the optional clause in the statute of the permanent court of International Justice, recalls the fact that Canada several months ago announced her desire to adhere to this clause. While the Department of External Affairs declines to make any statement respecting communications which are said to have been sent by the British government respecting the optional clause, it is understood that they have been received. If they have been received their substance is regarded as confidential by the department and is being withheld.

Attitude Definite.

Canada's attitude with respect to the optional clause has been very clearly and definitely stated, however. Speaking in the House of Commons during the past session, Premier Mackenzie King dealt with this matter. He drew attention to the fact that at the last Imperial Conference the governments assembled had felt that no one part of the empire should formally accept the optional clause without giving the other parts an opportunity to discuss the subject.

"We have advised the other parts of the Empire that in our opinion Canada should sign the optional clause," proceeded Mr. King, "and we are at present receiving communications from other parts of the empire in reference thereto. We are carrying out our undertaking at the conference now to sign formally until there has been an opportunity for discussion, but we have made known that it is our desire to sign the optional clause."

CONSERVATIVE LEADER CALLED AS WITNESS IN CIVIL ACTION IN COUNTY COURT IN COBOURG

Montreal Publisher Is Suing For $825 in County Court.

UNPAID SALARY.

Peter L. Brown, of Port Hope, Is One of the Principals in the Action.

COBOURG, Ont., June 25 (C.P.)—Hon. R. B. Bennett, Dominion Conservative leader, was expected here to-day to testify in a civil action involving a claim of $825 made by J. A. Aiken, a Montreal publicist, against the Amalgamated Publishers Limited, Canada News Publishers limited, and Peter L. Brown of Port Hope, Ontario. The case will be heard before Judge E. C. S. Huycke in County Court. Mr. Bennett was subpoenaed as a witness of the plaintiff.

Aiken, in his statement of claim, says Brown agreed to pay him $100 a week for editorials and special articles he wrote last year of "Canada News," a weekly publication at Port Hope, but received only $975.00 of the $1,800 he was entitled to.

Brown denies he made any agreement with Aiken last June, when Aiken proposed doing work for "Canada News" just prior to its incorporation as a "special publication for a special purpose." Brown was then editor of The Port Hope Times, published by Amalgamated Publishers, Limited. Brown says no agreement existed between Aikin and himself, and that Aiken agreed to write the articles without any fixed amount being agreed upon. Aiken received $1,425 for his work, Brown says, "in the nature of gratuities and not by reason of any contractual liability."

The defendant companies also deny any contract or agreement was made between them and Aiken.

Mr. Bennett testified he had recommended Aikin, whom he knew as a newspaperman in Western Canada, to Brown as a prospect for editorial assistance when establishment of "The Canada News" was being considered last year. This was his only connection with the matter. He testified that he knew nothing about the financial arrangements between Brown and Aikin until he asked the former when they met at Ottawa, how much he was paying Aikin. Brown replied that he had been paying Aikin $100 a week, and Mr. Bennett said he told

Schoolboy Killed In Bare Fist Fight

CHICAGO, Ill., June 25. — A 15-year old school boy was killed yesterday when he and another youth of the same age fought with fists to settle their grievances.

The victim, Harry Heavilin, was punched in the stomach by Roy Stokes, the police learned, shortly after the fight started.

Police and firemen worked for two hours to revive Heavilin, but he died without regaining consciousness.

The Stokes boy was held for the inquest to-day.

GERMAN CRUISER EMDEN VISITS NEW ZEALAND

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, June 25 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's). —The German cruiser Emden, namesake of the cruiser that roamed the East Indies in 1914 and destroyed 15 vessels, arrived here to-day flying the British and German flags. Salutes and courtesies were exchanged.

In the course of an interview the Emden's commander said: "We are helping to cement good feeling between your nation and my country. In the war we had to do our duty just as the British officers did. After the conflict, surely we can be friends as before." The German commander also expressed the hope that trade relations might be re-established.

The visit of the namesake of the famous German raider was particularly interesting to the Antipodes, for it was the Australian light cruiser Sydney that put an end to the destructive career of the former Emden in a hot engagement at Cocos Island, November 9, 1914, driving the Emden (Captain Von Muller) ashore in flames. The removal of the menace was one of the culminating events that swept the German raiders off the high seas in the early part of the war.

"ALL KIWANIS NIGHT" IS CELEBRATED IN LAKEFIELD

All Clubs in Canada and United States Meet Last Night.

ZERO HOUR MESSAGE.

Peterborough Kiwanis celebrated "All Kiwanis Night" last evening at the Lakefield Inn, where the members with their wives were banqueted in festive style by Mr. Lawless. While the number that was present did not reach the expected quota, it was a very enthusiastic and entertaining meeting.

The Kiwanians of Peterborough district carried out their program so it would be timed to the same items that were being given by Clubs all over Canada and the United States.

Kiwanian Harry Huffman occupied the chair for the evening and carried out the plans for the evening in his usual genial style.

At approximately eight o'clock the members and their wives sang "God Save The King" and then "America" in honor of International Night and Kiwanis International.

Vice-president Carl Brown then read the "Zero Hour" message which was sent to all the Kiwanis Clubs in the United States and Canada, by the International President O. Sam Cummings and read at the same moment throughout the North American continent and was heard at the same time by more than 100,000 Kiwanians.

"Zero Hour" Message

"With fourteen and a half years of outstanding achievement behind us, and innumerable years of opportunity before us, Kiwanis observes tonight "Zero Hour," whose golden minutes tick in unison with the heart beats of 102,500 of the representative business and professional men of Canada and the United States, as they join with us in RENFREW, Ont., June 25.—Wibert Paul, 20, Huntley township, was drowned yesterday in the Bonnechere river while bathing. A man who was bathing nearby failed to notice his plight.

TO WIDEN HIGHWAY.

TORONTO, Ont., June 25.— When Etobicoke council let the first contract yesterday the widening was begun of the narrow strip on the Toronto-Hamilton highway at Long Branch where three lives were lost this spring in traffic accidents.

VETERAN PILOT KILLED

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 25.—Eddie Middagh, veteran pilot, was killed and seven persons injured early last night when a northwest airways tri-motored Ford plane from Chicago crashed near Indian Mounds park here after taking off from the St. Paul airport for Minneapolis.

St. John's Ambulance Corps Will Be On Duty

Arrangements have been made that St. John's Ambulance Corps will be on duty during Old Home Week. It has been decided that from twelve to twenty-four men will be on duty and located at the busiest points in the city and will be in readiness to serve the populace in all cases of need.

DOZENS OF FORMER OLD BOYS AND GIRLS

Are Already in the City, Some From Points Far Away.

Although the registration booth at headquarters, Duffus Motor Sales Building, at the extreme eastern end of Charlotte, will not be officially opened until Saturday morning, at 8 o'clock, dozens of former Peterborough boys and girls are in the city and dropping in here and there and meeting old friends. Those who are in the city are requested to call at headquarters on Saturday morning, as early after 8 o'clock as possible, register, and received their badges.

HUNTER ELIMINATED.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 25.—Francis T. Hunter, ranked No. 2 in the United States, to-day was eliminated from the British singles championship at Wimbledon by Bunny Austin, youthful English star. Austin won 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

SPEAKER IS RE-ELECTED

Rt. Hon. Captain E. A. Fitzroy Is Unanimous Choice of the House of Commons.

APPOINTMENTS MADE.

LONDON, June 25.—(C.P.)— The new British Parliament held its first session to-day under the Labor Government and re-elected Captain E. A. Fitzroy, Conservative, as Speaker.

Not a vote was cast against the popular presiding officer who was lauded in the nominating speeches for his impartiality.

A round of cheers greeted the result of the vote to which the Speaker responded by thanking the House for conferring upon him "the greatest honor it is able to confer upon one of its members."

The House adjourned shortly afterwards and will get down to work next week with the reading of the Speech from the Throne.

Appointments Made.

The three remaining political appointments in the Labor administration were completed to-day with the appointment of Ben Smith, member for Bermondsey and Rotherhithe, London, as treasurer of the Royal household, John Hayes, member for Liverpool, Edgehill, as vice-chairman of the Royal household, and Tom Henderson, member for Glasgow Tradeston, as comptroller of the Royal household.

The only appointments outstanding are those of Lord Chamberlain, Lord Stewart and the Master of the King's Horse, and since 1924 these have assumed a non-political character.

The holders of the appointments announced to-day have necessarily been approved by His Majesty. Smith, incoming treasurer of the household, has been closely associated with the Transport Workers' Union and was formerly a taxicab driver. The new Vice-Chamberlain Mr. Hayes, was formerly a sergeant in the Metropolitan Police. One of his new duties will be to act as bearer of messages from the King to the House of Commons. Tom Henderson, formerly a ship's carpenter on the Clyde, has for some time been on the management of the Glasgow Co-operative Society, and for four years has been one of the Labor party whips.

COMMITTEES WELL UP WITH THEIR WORK

Everything in Connection With Old Home Week in Fine Shape.

The many committees operating on the plans for Old Home Week all report that everything is in fine shape. Hundreds of men and women are all busy with some particular job, and it is being well done. The last full committee meeting will be held on Thursday and a large turnout is requested so that each chairman can report for his particular committee.

There has been more work put into Old Home Week than for any particular event in the city's history.

Six thousand locations in the Atlantic, Pacific, and Indian oceans have been measured and found to be more than 6,000 feet deep.

Next Of Kin Are Asked To Send in Their Names

The next-of-kin to those who sacrificed their lives in the World War are most urgently requested to send their names to the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce in order that they secure admittance to the enclosure reserved for them at the unveiling of the war memorial in Confederation Park on Sunday.

The relations should do this at once as no person without a pass will be admitted to this special section.

A very large crowd is expected and those next-of-kin whose privilege it is to be closest to the ceremony that will be carried out for their dear ones who laid down their lives in glory should act at once to make sure of their place in the reserved section. Get in touch with the Chamber of Commerce and receive the pass if you are a next-of-kin.

POLICE ORDERS FOR BIG WEEK

No Parking Will Be Allowed Near Confederation Square On Sunday.

TRAFFIC WILL BE HEAVY.

Police officials are requesting the co-operation of motorists during Old Home Week to prevent accidents and facilitate the big traffic problem. It is fully expected that the motor traffic will be doubled at least during the days of the big celebration, and the police have drawn up regulations to cope with these unprecedented conditions, but the compliance of the city's motoring public will be necessary to make them worth while.

The following rules for parking have been drawn up and will be rigidly enforced. On Sunday the unveiling of the War Memorial with an impressive ceremony will take place in Confederation Square at 2.30 p.m. and no parking will be allowed on Murray Street, between Aylmer and George; on George Street, between Brock and McDonnel or on McDonnel between George and Aylmer. These streets will be closed to motor traffic after 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Sunday night a big band concert will be held in Victoria Park, and all the streets surrounding this park will be closed to traffic after 7.30 in the evening.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock the giant feature parade will leave the Exhibition Grounds, and proceed north on George to McDonnel, west on McDonnel to Park, south on Park to Charlotte, east on Charlotte to the C.N.R. freight sheds, where it will disband.

The whole course of the parade will be closed to all traffic during the whole morning, and no cars will be allowed parked on any of these thoroughfares traversed by the parade. Lansdowne, Prince and Princess Streets will also be closed to motor traffic, commencing early Monday morning so that the parade may take its position and form up on these streets.

The police suggest splendid parking places at King Edward School Grounds King Edward Park, at the end of Charlotte Street, near the C.P.R. freight sheds, and on any of the side streets.

Regulations for other days will be drawn up later.

BATTERY IS OFF TO PETAWAWA

EIGHT DAYS IN CAMP.

At 12.30 last night, thirty-eight khaki-clad members of the 4th Battery Field Artillery boarded a special car at the C.P.R. Station, and started for the annual military camp at Petawawa, Ontario, where they will remain for eight days. The Battery is in command of Major J. W. Stevenson. The Brigade is commanded by Colonel D. J. Lawrie.

The Peterborough representation except for one squad of signallers, is composed of four gun crews. The men have been training since Easter, and are well prepared for the camp as was shown in their inspection last Friday. Several recruits were among those who entrained for the camp last night.

They were scheduled to arrive in Ottawa early this morning, and continued to Petawawa at noon, about 8 miles from Pembroke. C.F.A. Batteries from the Maritimes and Ontario are annually represented there, and they receive instruction and practice in their work. It is maintained by the Canadian permanent force in order to advance the work of the various batteries of the division.

At five o'clock in the morning the campers will be roused by the bugle. From then until four o'clock in the afternoon work is carried on. It consists of gun work, manoeuvres, signalling, and riding. After four days of preliminary instruction, actual gunfire will be carried out.

A diversity of entertainment is provided for the man when work is through for the day. Football and other sports are arranged, and also such diversions as motion pictures and band concerts are provided.

CANADA FEELING OUT HER POSITION IN ENGLAND

Daily Express Talks To Hon. J. A. Robb Over Long Distance Telephone.

LONDON, June 25. — (Canadian Press Cable.) — The Daily Express, controlled by William Aitken, son of Lord Beaverbrook, and a strongly Imperialistic newspaper, talked with Hon. J. A. Robb, Canadian Minister of Finance, over the transAtlantic telephone last night regarding the reported proposal of a new Empire trade agreement emanating from Canada, published in London newspapers without official confirmation.

"We have asked our agents to feel out the position, that's all," Mr. Robb is quoted as saying.

The Express man quoted a newspaper clipping on the subject. "It's no use your reading stuff that gets in the morning papers in this hot weather," the Canadian Minister replied, according to the story published in the Express to-day. "It would be better if your newspapers did not say much about it."

If there not a definite movement in Canada for development of greater trade within the Empire?" the London reported pressed. "Decidedly," answered Mr. Robb. "But the report you have read to me has exaggerated the position.

"You can export us some cooler weather if you like,'" Mr. Robb concluded.

GREAT DAILY IN LONDON PAYS TRIBUTE TO FIELDING

Stresses Thrift, Efficiency and Integrity of Canada's' Former Finance Minister.

FAVORED MOTHER COUNTRY.

Always Commanded Confidence of Business Interest of Country, The Times Says.

LONDON, June 25. — (Canadian Press Cable)—A two-column obituary of Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding, Canadian statesman who died late on Sunday, is published by the Times to-day, in which the thrift, efficiency, integrity and administrative abilities of the man who was Canada's Minister of Finance for 15 years are stressed.

The fiscal policy agreed upon at the National Liberal Convention at Ottawa in 1893 was largely the result of Hon. Mr. Fielding's conciliatory temper and deft diplomacy, The Times says. "Mr. Fielding impressed himself on the convention more than any other man except Sir Wilfred Laurier himself, and that without effort or parade" says The Times.

Referring to the election of Mr. Fielding in 1917 as a Unionist member for Shelburne and Queens, N.S., and his subsequent change to the Liberal opposition, The Times expresses the opinion that it is a tribute to Mr. Fielding's character that he never was charged with any breach of faith or violation of the condition under which he was then elected.

Not An Avowed Prohibitionist

"In financial as in tariff legislation, although not an avowed protectionist, Mr. Fielding was singularly cautious and moderate, and always commanded the confidence of the business interest of the country," The Times continues. "He was equally averse to the rash constitutional changes and saw no necessity for any revision of the constitutional relations between Canada and the mother country. He

SPRAYING NORTHERN FOREST

TORONTO, Ont., June 25.—The Ontario Government began its annual skirmish with the hemlock looper, northern tree killing pest, last week, when a government pilot sprayed an 80-acre Muskoka island with a solution of calcium arsenic. He reported that the loopers were numerous in the area he passed over but the result of the spraying will not be known for three days.

APPOINTED MINE INSPECTOR

TORONTO, Ont., June 25—D. G. Sinclair, Provincial Government Mines inspector for the Sudbury district will take up his duties as Inspector of Mines, to which he has been promoted, in Toronto, July 1. He succeeds Thomas F. Sutherland, who has been promoted to the post of Acting Deputy Minister of Mines and will be replaced at Sudbury by George S. Jarrett, who has been with the Hollinger mines for five year.

GIVEN FIVE YEARS

ST. THOMAS, Ont., June 15.—Thomas Curry, an Indian on the Muncey Reserve, was sentenced to five years in Portsmouth Penitentiary yesterday for breaking into a house in Southwold township. He has already served two turns in the penitentiary and one in the reformatory.

Young Life Guard Saves 5 From Drowning

TORONTO, Ont., June 25 (C.P.).—Jack Reed, young lifeguard at a local bathing beach, rescued five boys from drowning yesterday when their boat capsized half a mile out in the lake. One of the boys sustained a broken arm in struggling to keep afloat.

TWO OF FUGITIVES ARE RETURNED TO PERTH JAIL

TRAIN CREW SEES PRISONERS AND PHONE COUNTY POLICE TWO REMAIN AT LARGE

Lone Constable Effects Capture of Two Fugitives.

COMPLETELY TIRED OUT.

House is Broken Into and Food Stolen, Governor States.

PERTH, June 25 (Canadian Press). — James Smith and Fred Mitchell, two of the prisoners who escaped from the county jail here early on Saturday night after attacking and trussing up Turnkey James Palmer, were captured about 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon while walking the railway tracks about a mile east of Maberley. The capture was made by County Constable E. Tomlinson, who with Constable Daniel Lee and Thomas Palmer had been out scouring the countryside for the wanted men ever since their escape.

Constable Tomlinson, who had separated from his companions, and was some distance ahead of them, saw the men emerge from the bush and start to walk along the tracks.

He caught up to them, and pulling his revolver, kept them covered until the arrival of the other two officers, after which the men were taken to the police automobile which had been left some distance in the rear.

Informed By Trainmen.

The men when caught were headed in the direction of Windsor and their arrest was made possible through the crew of a freight train which had passed them in the morning. When their train reached Sharbot Lake they telephoned the authorities at Perth that they believed the men they had seen were two of the escaped prisoners.

No trace has yet been found of Frank O'Donnell and John Kennedy, the other two prisoners who escaped, and who are believed to be heading in the direction of Montreal.

Smith and Mitchell, who looked to be completely tired out, made no show of resistance when accosted by Constable Tomlinson, and they were taken back to the county jail, where extra precautions will be taken to see that they do not get out again.

Food Stolen At Almonte.

Governor Oates said last night that no definite trace of the two men still at large had been found. However, he said, that during the day there had been a report from Almonte that during the night two men had broken into a house there and stolen some food. The Governor said he had immediately communicated with police all along the line asking them to put out bills and keep a close watch particularly along the railway lines.

MASONS ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE

Worshipful Master J. R. Hull Has Charge of Service in St. Aiden's Church.

AT YOUNG'S POINT.

YOUNG'S POINT, June 25.—On Sunday evening an interesting service was held at St. Aiden's (Anglican) Church, Young's Point, when Worshipful Master J. R. Hull, Past Masters, officers, and members of Clementi Lodge, Lakefield A.F. and A.M. 313 G.R.C. attented divine service. There was a large congregation present to join in worship with the visiting Masons who numbered about fifty.

The service was conducted by Rev. Walter J. Creighton, M.A of Lakefield. During the service two solos, My Task" and "Open the Gates of the Temple" were sung by Dr. J. C. Smith. Miss Daisy Wilson acted as organist in a very capable manner. Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly, B. A. preached the sermon, using as his text Isaiah 33:6—"Knowledge shall be the stability of thy times."

This, of all ages, is one in which knowledge is demanded. It forms the back ground of life, and as the years roll on it will be all the more required by the rising generation. With regard to the knowledge there are three thoughts suggested as follows:—We must have perspective in all things. The man who runs to extremes soon becomes of little value. Each individual life is different. Men are called to various stations in life. Our knowledge should be such that we know our own duty and occupation thoroughly. We must beware of a narrow knowledge, one out of perspective. Our knowledge must not be entirely confined to our own interests. We should be able to appreciate and we should know other things beyond those personal and narrow limits.

Knowledge must be applied with labor and skill. A dormant knowledge is dead. We must be practical. The practical knowledge leads us to perfection, grounded on experience. Life and the business of life only becomes successful when after using labour and skill we have applied our knowledge thoroughly. We must persevere in knowledge. An old proverb says that we are never too old to learn. We should not forget that. So many of us get discouraged early in the battle. When things go wrong and we do not see the silver lining to the clouds of life, those are our weakest moments. Besides perseverance in the accumulation of that knowledge, we must persevere in the application of that knowledge and that steady perseverance will tend to remove all obstacles.

As Christians we should therefore seize all opportunities to learn about God. The knowledge of Him is the greatest thing in the world. That knowledge must not be narrow or out of perspective and we must learn to show all by the witness of our individual lives that we apply that knowledge with labour and skill and with a steady perseverance."

INCREASE GUARD AT U.S. BORDER

200 More Men and Ten New Boats Added to Coast Guard Fleet.

OPEN NEW DRIVE.

DETROIT, Mich., June 25 (Canadian Press). — Federal plans to extend out into Lake Erie the line of blockade set up in the Detroit River against rum smugglers, were seen last night in the announcement that 200 more men and 10 new boats will be added to the United States marine forces in this district before July 1.

The increase, it was said, means that more than 500 coastguardsmen will be actively on duty to prevent rum smuggling. While no definite figures can be obtained, it is estimated the total number of men under the direction of E. R. Norwood, commander-in-chief of the Federal dry forces stations at Detroit, will be between 70 0and 800, including the customs border patrol, the coastguard and the prohibition agents.

Announcement of the addition to the forces came from Lieut. Martin Rasmussen, district commander, stationed at Buffalo. A new dry drive is to be opened along the Niagara front, it was said, that will engage the attention of 50 men, and the rest are to be added to the squadron working in the lower Detroit River and along Lake Erie. The 10 new boats, if all are sent here, will give the forces here a total of 17 rum-chasing craft.

One Inquiry Heard For Water Meet

CAMPBELLFORD, June 25 (Examiner Staff Correspondence) —At least one person in Toronto has become interested in the marathon swim, to be held here during Old Home Week. The date set is Friday, August 2. Yesterday a letter came addressed to the Campbellford post office. The postmaster opened it and after reading the forwarding instructions added as a postscript, handed the letter to the swim committee. The letter was dated June 23rd, and was from Colin R. Knox, 574 Balliol street, Toronto.

The Letter

Dear Sirs: I would like to enter your three mile marathon swim, which I understand is to be on August 2, 1929. I would also like to know a little more about it. So would you be good enough to let me hear from you.

Yours truly,

(Signed) Colin Knox

Toronto Girl Earning $27 Per Week Is Offered $500 a Week On Vaudeville Stage

NEW YORK, June 25. — (C.P.) — Two offers to go on the vaudeville stage, one for $500 a week, and the other at $400, were made yesterday to a Toronto girl earning $27 a week in a bank. She turned both down.

The girl, who had the strength of mind to continue working in an office when she had the chance to leave all that behind, is Gloria Palmer, a sixteen year old violinist, who already has received favorable mention in music columns when she appeared in recitals.

Not that the propositions didn't tempt her. It meant relief from routine and more time to devote to music, which she loves. It meant no more riding in crowded street cars, and a chance for a bit more relaxation. But Gloria hasn't devoted all her life to music, shunning all the interests which usually enthrall young girls, to become a vaudeville star.

A passionate admirer of Kreisler and Heifetz, she prefers to hold her job at the Canadian Bank of Commerce, take her music lessons on Saturday, practice at night, study languages during her luncheon hour, with the hope that one day she may go on a concert tour.

DEFECTIVE SHAFT IS BLAMED FOR FERRIS WHEEL ACCIDENT

INQUEST ADJOURNED

TORONTO, Ont., June 25.—(Canadian Press).—A defective shaft caused the accident on a local ferris wheel Friday night when John Kempthorne, Paris, was killed and three others injured. After inspecting the wheel the coroner's jury heard evidence to this effect and adjourned until July 4 when the injured persons may be available as witnesses.

Expert evidence given to the jury was to the effect that the accident did not result from the breaking of a cotter pin as officially stated at the time of the mishap but from the breaking of a solid steel shaft due to a flaw that may have existed from the time the machine was manufactured.

"Not one person in a million could have detected that there was anything wrong with the section of the shaft concealed in the sproket wheel" declared Harry Clark, provincial inspector whose evidence was corroborated by J. P. Ferguson, provincial engineer. The machine was taken apart and the flaw revealed to the jurymen.

"A wide open investigation" into the death of John Kempthorne was promised to-day by Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General. "We shall go into every detail of the occurrence and if there is any responsibility we shall place it" he said. He also stated that he would endeavor to have regulations drawn up to prevent a recurrence of the fatality.

BRITAIN WOULD WELCOME NEW EMPIRE TRADE TREATY

NOT CONFIRMED.

Hon. J. A. Robb Refuses To Make Any Comments On Suggestion.

LONDON, June 25. — Reports that the Canadian government was contemplating a new Empire trade agreement as a step toward the desired goal of increased intra-Imperial trade were published in the London newspapers yesterday without official confirmation. Commenting on the reports the Evening Standard said such a proposal is welcomed by commercial men in London, especially those with Canadian interests.

A conference between Great Britain and the Dominions on the matter has been discussed for some time, the Standard pointed out, and views had been exchanged between London and Ottawa.

During his recent visit to Britain, Hon. Frank Carrel, Quebec City newspaper publisher, and member of the Quebec Legislative Council, interviewed most of the leaders in British finance and commerce on the idea, and met with encouragement, receiving promises of full support.

One who worked with Mr. Carrel on the matter said to-day: "The scheme as it applies to Britain is that a committee representing manufacturers, merchants and bankers, would first meet to decide the general outline of proposals from this side. Similar committees would be working in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and every Dominion or colony which received the Ottawa invitation.

"From the committees' suggestions details for the final agenda would be drawn. The view in Britain is that discussion should be held in London about the time of the next imperial conference, although opinions differ as to whether it should be before or after. It is stressed that the conference should be purely industrial and in no sense commercial. "If politicians get to arguing about trifles nothing will be done."

ROBB REFUSES COMMENT.

OTTAWA, June 24. — Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, declined to make any statement last night on the report from London that the Canadian government was contemplating a new Empire trade agreement as a step toward the goal of increased intra-Imperial trade. "I have no comment to make," Mr. Robb declared when questioned on the subject of the despatch.

DAY OF THANKSGIVING

TORONTO, Ont., June 25.—Rev. David Perrie, D.D., Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, issued a request to-day to the ministers of his church to arrange for a thanksgiving service for the recovery of His Majesty the King, on the morning of Sunday, July 7. This is in consonance with the request of the Governor General.

SPEED FOR FUNERALS IS SET AT 30 MILES

Hamilton Magistrate Makes Important Ruling in Police Court Case.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 25—(Canadian Press).—Magistrate Vancer ruled yesterday in court here that unless special permits were first secured, funeral corteges should procede along highways outside city limits at 30 miles an hour. He made the ruling when imposing a fine of $10 on C. S. Sims, Toronto, charged with 'cutting in" on a funeral procession. The magistrate said that while there was no reason for motorists "cutting in" a speed of 22 miles an hour for funerals on the highway was unreasonable.

FIELDING WILL REST IN OTTAWA

Statesman's Funeral Will Be Held Wednesday Afternoon.

FLOOD OF CONDOLENCE.

OTTAWA, June 25.—Right Hon. William Stevens Fielding, former Minister of Finance, and one of Canada's foremost statesmen, will be laid to rest in Beechwood Cemetery, Ottawa, beside his deceased wife, on Wednesday afternoon. Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, came in from his summer residence at Kingsmere yesterday morning and immediately motored to the residence of his old colleague, offering his condolences to the family, and all the honors of a State funeral to the veteran statesman who passed away on Sunday night. Mr. Fielding, however, was a man of simple tastes, with little liking for ceremony or ostentation, and thus the decision of the family not to accept a State funeral was in keeping with what doubtless would have been the wish of the departed statesman.

The funeral service at the First Baptist Church, Ottawa, will commence at 3 p.m. and will be conducted by Rev. A. Robert George, pastor of the church of which Mr. Fielding was a member, assisted by Rev. Dr. W. T. Herridge, former minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Condolence Pours In

Messages of condolence from all parts of Canada and from many places outside are pouring in upon the family, accompanied by public tributes to the worth of the former Minister, and to his conspicuous part in the government of Canada and in the promotion of the cause of Imperial unity.

From His Excellency the Governor-General, now in Quebec City; Canada's High Commissioner in London, Hon. P. C. Larkin; former President W. H. Taft of the United States, now summering at Murray Bay, Que.; the Lieutenant-Governor and Premier of Nova Scotia; President A. E. Phipps of the Canadian Bankers' Association, and old acquaintances, business and personal, in various parts of the world, expressions of regret at the passing of Mr. Fielding reached his home on Charlotte street.

Ministers Present

In the room where the remains lay, surrounded by banks of flowers, the high and low came to gaze on the features of one who had played such a prominent part in the moulding of the Dominion. Members of the Cabinet, representatives of the rank and file in Liberalism and members of the Conservative party called to pay their respects.

FIRE DESTROYS FARMER'S BARN

Blaze Spreads Rapidly Into Four Farm Buildings of Conrad Plumpton.

STARTS AT MID-DAY.

NORHAM, June 26 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—To-day a charred milk house, with its capstain mounted above the dry well, stand sentry over the smouldering ruins of four farm buildings, the property of Conrad Plumpton, a farmer residing about two miles south-west of this village. The first which destroyed the buildings apparently started shortly after one o'clock yesterday mid-day, and in a remarkably short time, the blaze had devoured everything within its reach. The origin of the conflagration is still a mystery, although several theories have been advanced.

The fire, it appears, started in the north end of the east building which was used for a drive-house and horse stable. With amazing rapidity, it spread to the other buildings, a cow barn, grain barn and pig pen. At the time the fire occurred, Plumpton himself was in the cellar sorting potatoes. The hired man was feeding the pigs. Avery McNutt, a neighbor residing perhaps three hundred yards east, noticed the blaze and sent in a general alarm by means of the party line telephone. In a few minutes, neighbors and friends from the whole district were on the scene. The Warkworth fire brigade and apparatus also put in an appearance as soon as possible and did good work. The only source of water supply was one well, and although hundreds of gallons were pumped from it and passed along the bucket lines, it did not go dry.

The Loss.

At the present time the loss has not been estimated, but it is believed that it will amount to several thousands of dollars. The buildings were of pine lumber on stone foundations, with concrete floors and, with one exception, metal roofed. There was about twenty tons of hay in the cow barn loft and five hundred bushels of grain in the grain barn. Of the stock, the heaviest loss is a pure-bred registered Holstein bull rising two years old. Six pigs and two calves also met their deaths in the fire. There was a large number of hens burned as well. Some of the latter managed to make their escape through the windows. Much of the farm machinery was lost. A ton truck was burned almost beyond recognition even though an attempt had been made to get it out. Buggies and other horse drawn vehicles all fell prey to the flames.

Probable Cause.

Several possibilities as to how the fire started were mentioned by those who were there. Some of them seemed possible. One was that a spark from the house chimney landed on the part of the roof covered with wooden shingles and in the heat of the sun, the blaze was not long in starting. The wind was from almost directly south, from the house to the barns. Mr. and Mrs. Plumpton had been to see a doctor in Campbellford and returned shortly before noon. Mrs. Plumpton was hurrying to get the noon meal ready for the men. It was stated that she used shingles to hurry her fire, and the theory was advanced that a spark from the hot fire blew down to the barn roof. Although Plumpton himself and also his hired man, Edward Finch, are both smokers, they have always observed the rigid rule, no smoking in or about the buildings. They are both pipe smokers, although Finch does smoke occasional cigarettes. They do their smoking in the fields, they say.

WORK STOPPED ON NEW HOME

MAY BUILD IN KENT.

WINDSOR, June 25 (Canadian Press). — Although ground has been broken in South Windsor for the Roman Catholic Diocese's Villa Maria, a million-dollar home for aged and orphans of Kent and Essex Counties, work on the structure has been stopped pending a settlement of a dispute between Bishop M. F. Fallon of London and the Township of Sandwich West. The Bishop yesterday declared from his office in London that he might not build the structure in Essex County at all, but shift it to Kent County.

The dispute revolves about a zoning by-law adopted by the Township of Sandwich West, forbidding cemeteries in a location secured by the Bishop for a new Roman Catholic cemetery. This by-law was passed by the township, it is alleged by the Bishop, because of pique on the part of a realty company. The question has been submitted to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, and no work will be done on the project until a decision is forthcoming.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Moloney and family, of Peterborough, visited Mr. and Mrs. R. Hickson on Wednesday evening.

Mr. William Duffus, of Peterborough, made a business trip here on Friday.

Messrs. William and Thomas Cavanagh, of Peterborough, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Cavanagh on Friday evening.

Rain is much needed for the crops here at the present time. Some fields of barley are about headed out and are only about six inches high. The gardens are also suffering a great deal.

Stepfathers not Wanted

THAT noisy, careless, lovable lad of yours needs quite a bit of patient guidance, doesn't he? You give it to him because he is your boy. That sunny little lass wants many things from her daddy—and you give them to her because you love her.

No, stepfathers are not wanted! Yet of all the wives who become widows, 35% are left in absolute want, 47% are obliged to work and only 18% are left provided for.

It is no wonder many widows have to marry for a home. Would yours?

You can show your affection for your wife and children in the most practical form—you can save them from possible humiliation or want—by providing an Imperial Monthly Income Policy. If you live, it will provide you with that Income you must have to keep you when you are old.

ASSESSMENT PROBLEM WORRYING REEVES OF THE UNITED COUNTIES

IRREGULARITIES CLAIMED.

Three Reeves Demand Revaluation of Property in Two Counties.

The problem of equalizing the assessments of the minor municipalities of the counties of Northumberland and Durham, for which a special meeting of the Counties Council has been called for July 4, is indicated in the following summary of the local and equalized assessments.

Local rates, that is the township, village, or town tax rates, are levied on the local assessment; and the county rates for roads, school grants administration of justice, House of Refuge, and other expenditures are applied on the equalized assessments.

	Local	Equalized	Per Acre Equalized
Alnwick	$ 429,950	$ 398,420	$21.85

THIS YEAR'S COUNTY TAXES.

As reported last week the Northumberland and Durham total tax rate is 11¾ mills, made up as follows: 8½ for the general rate, 2¾ mills for county roads and ½ a mill for paying two debentures, and a small school rate of 0008 mills. The actual rate is 11.7508 mills. The details of this year's levy, excluding the small school tax, follow:—

The objection of some, if not all, of the rural municipalities is based on what thy declare to be inequalities of the equalized assessments as between the rural and urban municipalities. The equalized assessments of some of the townships, in proportion to their local assessments, are much higher than the corresponding ratio of the urban assessments.

Demand Revaluation.

Reeve George Hooton of Cavan, Reeve J. S. Perrin of South Monaghan, and Reeve F. Hyland of Cartwright have demanded a revaluation of the counties properties by a county judge, but the Council decided to meet in special session and in a spirit of conference to attempt a settlement, that is to satisfy the demands of the farm representatives, without the expensive recourse to judicial arbitration.

A Vickers' seaplane, striking a power line on the St. Lawrence river, between Point St. Charles and Nun's Island, in the St. Lawrence river, on June 21, carried with it to death three passengers, including Hon. J. C. Jervis, elder son of Lord Vincent. The photographs here show: (1) Hon. J. C. Jervis, 32; (2) Pilot Colin S. Caldwell, Canadian Vickers; (3) Dr. W. D. 6,000 KIWANIANS ATTEND CONVENTION

Every Club in United States and Canada Meets To-night.

103,000 MEMBERS.

MILWAUKEE, June 25.—Six thousand Kiwanians are here for the 13th annual convention of their organization being held this week. General business sessions began yesterday.

A message to the entire membership in the U. S. and Canada was sent out yesterday by O. S. Cummings, of Dallas, president, who is presiding at all sessions. The message which was read by all clubs joining in the "All Kiwanis Night" international and simultaneous meeting last night, is as follows:

"We live in an age of restlessness, of appraisal, of revaluation, an age of vigorous search for the truth in the field of the spiritual as well as material.

"Kiwanis is a modern experiment in the field of the human and spiritual, using as its laboratories North American communities and as the subjects of its experiments the representative business and professional men of those communities. Kiwanis is in turn the object of rigid scrutiny, by its own members and the world at large.

"Members of Kiwanis are picked men. They are recognized leaders in their respective vocations in all communities. They are respected citizens interested in making city or town, state or province and the nation a more desirable place to live. They are interested in their fellow men, especially the unfortunate and under-privileged.

"Since these are days of hostility to superfluous organization, which only those institutions of proven value to society will survive, what justification is there for the existence of Kiwanis?

"Only so long as Kiwanis builds in the field of the human and spiritual, only so long as the product of our building is better men, better business, better communities and a better society, will Kiwanis justify its existence," he stated.

Membership Increases.

"There are 1,825 Kiwanis clubs in the principal cities of the United States and Canada with 103,000 members," announced Fred C. W. Parker, of Chicago, executive secretary, who gave his annual report yesterday.

"Kiwanis is an active organization, and a Kiwanian's place is at his weekly club meeting," said Mr. Parker. "Membership in Kiwanis is made up of not more than 2 men engaged in the same kind of business or profession. So any member that absents himself from his club is depriving it of his specific vocational interest."

A report by the international treasurer, Raymond M. Crossman, of Omaha, was heard yesterday. A study of our financial position has been made and placed in operation for the years 1929, 1930 and 1931, his report stated. "The real purpose of this study is to determine whether the problem of financing conventions, from which we suffer annual losses, necessitates some immediate amendment to our constitution," Mr. Crossman remarked. "The cost of the present convention will be in excess of $66,000.00. Convention expenditures are now paid with the registration fees received from all persons attending the annual meetings. These fees, however, do not cover disbursements.

"More than one third of the entire annual income received from dues paid by clubs is directly returned to them in specific forms of service or assistance," the treasurer explained.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, June 25.—(C.P.)—Opening two cents higher and retaining its gains until the close, the local wheat market experienced its strongest bull pressure for some time. Wheat sold up as high during the morning as 3 3-8c. over Saturday's close. The close was decidedly strong, wheat closing 2 7-8c. to 2 3-8c. higher for the day.

Lack of rain in the Canadian west, as well as American wheat states and reports of frost at several points all assisted in the price upswing.

In a quiet cash wheat market, spreads on various grades were generally unchanged to a shade easier. Prices in the coarse grains market were also marked up slightly during the morning.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 25 (C.P.).—After a new upward jump of 3c a bushel yesterday, wheat values met with extremely heavy profit-taking sales, and fell back about 2c. Yesterday's advance, coming on the heels of a series of other sharp gains and carrying the market up to around 21½c higher than at the beginning of June, was accompanied by such an array of widespread ill-starred crop conditions as seldom before has been heard of.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ⅞c to 1¼c above Saturday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 1c down and oats ⅛ to ¼c off to ½c higher.

Cloudbursts over miles upon miles of the winter wheat harvest region of the southwest were reported yesterday to be intensifying the evil effect of previous excessive moisture at critical times. From this cause and other reasons, the area of winter crop deterioration was pictured as extending in a broad belt from Texas northward across Oklahoma and Kansas into Nebraska, covering about a third respectively of the two midmost states, and with unfavorable reports also being received from adjoining commonwealths west and east. On the other hand, the spring wheat belt, both north and south of the Canadian line, was spending increasing complaints of urgent need of moisture.

Corn and oats were swayed chiefly by the action of wheat.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, June 26.—Demand for butter continues in excess of offerings on the local market, despite disinclination to store against fall requirements. Prices were firm to half a cent per pound higher than at the close of last week with brokers generally quoting No. 1 creamery solids in a jobbing way at 38 to 38½ cents per pound and the odd sale at as high as 38¾ cents claimed. At current prices, butter is selling a cent to a cent and a half per pound higher than a year ago and with production at the peak and June, famous for butter quality, near over, very little storing is reported, due to the fact that New Zealand finest is offered for fall delivery at even with the current cost of the domestic make. Very little western butter is offering locally, despite reported increase of 44 per cent. in production in Saskatchewan in the past year and of 84 per cent. in the past six months.

Locally, the cheese market is dull, with prices unchanged from last week on a basis of 19½ cents per pound for No. 1 large colored, which price is 2 cents per pound lower than that of cheese a year ago. The English cheese market is reported quiet and Canadian cheese meeting strong competition from the New Zealand output at the moment.

Yesterday brought no change in wholesale egg dealers' quotations to shippers of ungraded lots. Arrivals were more than sufficient for the moment, due to lighter demand resulting from continued hot weather. In a jobbing way, however, there was an indication of failing demand for firsts in a reduction of a cent per dozen on that grade sold cases free to 27 cents. Extras were firm at 30½ cents and seconds, cases free were unchanged.

Broilers are the outstanding feature of poultry demand under existing weather conditions and dealers yesterday found a ready outlet for arrivals at prices to retailers unchanged from last week. Quotations to shippers were as issued last midweek. Ducklings are moving fairly readily, but fat hens are slow and too plentiful despite reduction in the price to shippers introduced last week.

Acidity and Rheumatism

Team mates travelling together—uric acid and rheumatism. Where there is rheumatism, there is likely uric acid biting the kidneys; uric acid inflaming the nerves; uric acid swelling hands and feet.

Where there is this excess of uric acid in the system, there is a very immediate need of ABBEY'S to neutralize this poison—and give relief.

For many years the use of salines such as ABBEY'S has been an important part of the treatment for rheumatism.

Because of its uniform quality, the care in its preparation and the intrinsic value of its formula, ABBEY'S is regularly prescribed in those cases where pain or sickness is due to an excess of uric acid in the system. 441

ROTARY'S NEW PRESIDENT.

Service clubs perform so much work that is of a community nature and that contributes so greatly to the community advantage that the election of a new president of these organizations is an event of public interest.

The selection by the directors of Rotary of Ross L. Dobbin as president of the Peterborough Rotary Club for the next twelve months is an event upon which both the new president and the Rotary Club are to be congratulated.

Mr. Dobbin, vice-president last year, and incidentally the first bachelor president of the Rotary Club, occupies many executive positions in local and national organizations, and can be counted upon to give the Rotary movement in Peterborough active and capable leadership that will be reflected by good work in the public interest.

Rotary's local activities, in addition to the splendid boys' camp, which opens for the season on July 8th, are to include an expanded campaign on behalf of crippled children, a feature of community service that the club has sponsored for some years.

THE DOG POISONER AGAIN.

At the recent Human Society convention in Toronto Dr. Johnston, president of the Peterborough branch of the organization, contributed a useful service by calling attention to the epidemic of dog-poisoning, and especially to the ease with which the poisoners were able to get the material with which to do their deadly work.

Unfortunately, the poisoning of dogs is still going on.

Last week a valuable dog, never allowed out of his own yard, was poisoned by strychnine, evidently tossed over the fence to him.

The incident has been duplicated many times here—and it has been found almost impossible to convict the guilty parties, owing to the fact that there is no difficulty in securing strychnine and other poisons.

It is the opinion of Humane Society officials and other citizens that the regulations in regard to the sale of these poisons should be tightened up so that it would not be such an easy matter for animal-poisoners to obtain the necessary supply.

The tragedy of it is that the poison strewn around for dogs or cats might find its way into the hands of children and result in the loss of human life.

THE HOTEL QUESTION.

In support of the movement to restore to Ontario hotelkeepers the power to sell intoxicating beverages, it is claimed that guests can bring liquors to their rooms "in defiance of all control by the hotelkeepers themselves."

The answer to that complaint is that any hotel proprietor in Ontario who does not want his guests to bring liquor into their rooms has only to apply to the Liquor Control Board, according to the Premier's promise, and his hotel will be declared a "dry" area under the Act.

That offer was voiced some months ago, and the first application from a hotelkeeper to have liquor kept out of his rooms has yet to be made.

As a matter of fact, the evils complained of would not be cured by the remedy proposed by those who want the hotels to sell liquor—rather it would merely open the door to a return to conditions from which Ontario is now happily free, the bar-room, the treating system and all the other troubles of bygone days.

There are thousands of electors who favor the present method of handling the liquor question who would stoutly oppose any attempt to widen the sale.

A GREAT CANADIAN.

The passing of Right Honorable William Stevens Fielding has removed another of the few remaining links that connect the Canada of to-day with the past.

Forty years of public service as Premier of Nova Scotia and Finance Minister of the Dominion was the contribution of Mr. Fielding to the development of this country—service distinguished by sound judgment, rare acumen and unquestioned patriotism.

A member of that famous galaxy of talent called to the service of Canada by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1896, the former Minister of Finance was soon outstanding even in that gallant array by the greatness of his ability and the soundness of his judgment.

His budget in 1897 will always be remembered as one of the greatest efforts ever made by a Finance Minister in this country, and its effectiveness was but typical of the whole career of this most distinguished Canadian, whose services to the people of the Dominion should be gratefully recalled.

LLOYD GEORGE AND CHURCHILL.

With Mr. Ramsay MacDonald firmly installed at 10 Downing Street and spending his week-ends at Chequers, British newspapers are wondering what will become of Winston Churchill and Lloyd George. Orphaned of office, these two most picturesque of Britain's politicians will never, it is said, spend their time twiddling their fingers in Parliament. Mr. Baldwin may go back to his pigs and his pipes, as befits a lover of solitude, but what of Winston and "L.G.," to whom the clash of swords and the shouts of the multitude are as music to the ear?

If we were those British editors we wouldn't greatly worry. Because whether in office or out of it both Churchill and Lloyd George have shown an extraordinary aptitude for looking after themselves. When Churchill was beaten in 1922—and by a Prohibitionist in wet Dundee, at that—they said that he was dead. The political adventurer, they said, was finished; the "unsinkable politician" sunk. But he wasn't, or anything like it. Instead of fading from the scene, he simply got a typewriter, and, within a year, turned out the "World Crisis," which became the classic story of the war. Then, having completed that little job which would have been a life's work for most of us, he rode back into Parliament to become Chancellor of the Exchequer.

So it will be again. Churchill is one of those restless, vital, innovating personalities whose functioning is as inevitable as some natural force. The world may not hear much of him for some time. But he will probably make a trip around the globe, emerge with another book (he is said to be already working on a life of his great ancestor, Marlborough) and then, when the time comes, march back into Parliament with drums beating and flags flying. It is the Churchill touch.

And so with Lloyd George. He is said to be an old man. Yet he is almost 20 years younger than Gladstone was when he brought in his second Home Rule bill; and the last election didn't reveal any weakening in his physical and intellectual power. So, he like Churchill, will be heard from again. When he was hurled from the battlements in 1922 he didn't perish from starvation. Instead he went into Fleet Street, and in that historic lane, where many a brilliant character has gone hungry, he made $500,000 with his pen—plus his name. So Lloyd George won't go famished, or penniless; and is hardly an object of pity.—Ottawa Journal.

INSULTING AND RIDICULOUS.

Florida, Oklahoma and Texas Legislatures are evidently feeling the effects of the hot weather or something. At any rate, they have all passed resolutions condemning the gracious wife of the President of the United States because she recently entertained the wife of Congressman De Priest, Negro Republican from Illinois, at the White House. It is the custom, of course, for the President's wife to entertain the wives of various congressmen from time to time.

Senator Blease, fiery Democrat from South Carolina, introduced a similar resolution in the upper house at Washington, but he was not permitted to get away with his insult, various members taking such a determined stand that Blease eventually withdrew the motion.

If man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn, so also, do the antics of a certain type of American politician makes countless thousands laugh. It is perfectly amazing, from the Canadian point of view, that the Legislatures of three great States should take notice of such an incident as the White House tea at which Mrs. De Priest was entertained. It is no less amazing that public men should pass, let alone conceive and discuss resolutions reprimanding the wife of the chief executive of the nation—a lady, we have no doubt, who possesses more good sense in her little finger than could be found in the combined heads of all the offending legislators.

There was no reason under heaven why Mrs. Hoover should have snubbed Mrs. De Priest, and we fancy that the President's wife would not hesitate to say so in the event of any boorish congressman or legislator having the further effrontery to mention the matter to her.—Border Cities Star.

NO FUEL PROBLEM.

In a paper read to delegates to the Canadian Retail Coal Association's convention at Toronto, Mr. R. W. Clark, vice-president of an anthracite coal company, of Scranton, Pa., made a plea that Canadian dealers refrain from discriminating against American anthracite because it is produced outside the Empire. "Let us not allow an imaginary boundary line," said he, "to assume the formidability of a commercial barrier," adding that the troubles of the anthracite industry are definitely of the past. We do not know if they are of the past in Mr. Clark's company, but we have reason for believing that they are in this part of Canada, and the remarkable advances made in the coking of bituminous coal are responsible for the welcome relief. Less than ten years ago, the advent of winter brought fuel worries that are unheard of to-day. We all remember those winters when dealers put placards in their windows, notifying the public they had no fuel for sale, and when long queues formed outside the city clerk's door to participate in the municipal coal distribution scheme. The situation was aggravated by the inadequacy of gas facilities, Hamilton, by the terms of its contract with the local company, being dependent on natural gas. Hectic days those were, in truth. To-day, there is no city in Canada in a more enviable position, as regards fuel, than is Hamilton. There is an abundance of artificial gas and the process through which bituminous coal passes to yield that necessary product provides us with coke, a fuel that, in the opinion of many householders, is superior to anthracite coal for domestic heating purposes. Hamilton thus is in a position to notify Mr. Clark that its anthracite troubles are definitely of the past. He will agree, we think, that it is entirely reasonable of Canadians to buy within their Empire, all other considerations being equal, but it has been another kind of preference that has brought about the decline in the volume of anthracite imported by Canada from his country—the preference of the people for coke. Col. K. R. Marshall, the president of a Toronto coal company, expressed the opinion at the convention of dealers that it would not be long before coke would supersede all other household fuels. The reason for this, he said, was that American anthracite imports had been reduced, owing to the diminishing supply. The Toronto dealer, we think, had his causes and effects mixed. The more logical explanation is that it is the increasing popularity of coke that has caused the decline in anthracite imports.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Circus day just served as a sort of warm-up for the Old Home Week celebration.

All roads lead to Peterborough these days as the license numbers on the automobiles indicate.

The dactylomusicograph may be a big help to composers, but it offers very little assistance to compositors.

Old Home Week is not the only week in which the old town can have a hot time, evidently.

England is enjoying the finest summer weather in years, but too late, alas, for Mr. Baldwin to grab any of the credit.—Border Cities Star.

"Where do all the burst tires go in the end?" asks a magazine article. We aren't sure, but if they go where most people consign them, there must be a terrible smell of burning rubber somewhere or other.

Dynamiters bombed a weekly newspaper office in Indiana last week, but the editor, asleep in the office, was uninjured. Still it may have awakened him, as many editors' nerves grow jumpy as press day approaches.

A Thought

SUCCESSFUL MEN

Things you never read about successful men: "When, as a young man he came home fatigued from the day's grind, he never could bring himself to sacrifice an evening to study. 'Me for a movie!' he was wont to say."

"Dutiful son though he was, our hero never lost sight of the fact that his parents were away behind the times."

"Saving was not for him. He blew in his money as fast as he earned it, often going neck-deep into debt to maintain his reputation as a classy dresser and a good fellow."

"It did not take him long to realize that his most direct route to success lay through the stock market. His mind was always on his hobby of speculating."

"Whatever may have been his faults, nobody could ever accuse him of being a fresh-air crank. His favorite implements of exercise were a knife and fork."

What To-day Means To You.

JUNE 25TH
"Cancer".

If June 25th is your birthday the successful hours for you on this date are from 6 a.m. to 7 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 3 p.m. to 4.30 p.m.

Planetary aspects on this day indicate many changes and a great deal of activity. There will be an opportunity to launch new enterprises as well as a development of those interests which engage your attention at the present time.

Children born June 25the will be light-hearted, happy-go-lucky, and when they get into trouble their friends will always help them out. They will be rather impulsive, but always tolerant and charitable.

Leadership is your forte, as you were born with great determination and strength of character. You also possess a charm all your own, as well as a striking personality. Underneath all this delightful exterior, there is an inflexible purposefulness, and this succeeds in achieving the results you desire. You never resort to bullying measures. You are a living example of the advantage of a make-up which can best be characterized as "suaviter en modo, fortiter en re."

Your disposition is, unfortunately, rather a selfish one, and "Number One" actuates you in all you do. You have yet to learn the perfect happiness that is to be found in self-sacrifice, and doing for others what you would that they would do for you.

Gratitude is also missing from your composition and you accept favors and service from others as though it were a right, and not a privilege. In this respect, you have also yet to learn that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." Your emotions are powerful, but not enduring. You are more likely to become the victim of an infatuation, rather than a "great lover." Your fancies soon die—burned out by the intensity of their own fires. You are erratic, and, so far as affection is concerned, unreliable.

WILL CELEBRATE IN PORT HOPE

Lindsay Lodges To Take Part in Orange Celebration in Lakeshore Town.

MATTERS DISCUSSED.

LINDSAY, June 25.—(Special to The Examiner).—At a session of the Victoria County Orange Lodge held Saturday invitations were received from Port Hope, Cannington and Fenelon Falls to celebrate the 12th of July in these centres. The matter was left entirely with the primory lodges. Lindsay lodges will celebrate in Port Hope.

Letters of condolence were sent to the families of the late Hon. Dr. Edwards and and Hon. W. D. McPherson.

A committee was appointed to make arrangements for a monster celebration of the Twelfth in Lindsay in 1930. This will be the anniversary of the organization of the first Orange Lodge in Canada (Brockville No. 1).

The Grand Lodge of Ontario East is placing a memorial in Lindsay to the memory of the late General Sir Sam Hughes. A number of the Grand Lodge officers will be present.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR: Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous acress Sheila O'Shay ,disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It has been burned by a fire in the marsh until it is entirely unrecognizable except for the fact that it is a woman. Dr. Cavanaugh is called in to help with the identification.

He has only a small piece of scalp from the body to work on. Don Ellsworth refuses to give him a hair of Sheila O'Shays, but he secures one unknown and after examination tells Peter Piper that the body found in the marsh is that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara, in whom Piper has become interested, faints when she hears this. Peter who is already half in love with her, is torn between his feeling and his suspicion that she knows something about the murder. Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested in the case and Peter is sent to interview her. He learns that Sheila O'Shay forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit, Peter makes a social call on Barbara Cavanaugh. He is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her. Peter, watching the Ellsworth house sees Dr. Cavanaugh go in. He climbs up on the porch to see what is going on and finds Dr. Cavanaugh in Sheila O'Shay's boudoir. Dr. Cavanaugh discovers him and invites him in. They find that the breach of promise papers with which Sheila O'Shay forced Ellsworth to marry her, have been taken from the safe. But they find something else. It is a threatening letter signed by the name "David Orme."

CHAPTER 28.

"Well, look what the cat brought in!" Jimmy, who prided himself on being the first of the Herald editorial staff to arrive in the morning, had signaled the freight elevator as usual in the gray light of a 6 o'clock dawn, swung around the jutting corner of the photographers' dark room—and was brought up short in his headlong progress across the local room by the sight of Peter, hunched over his typewriter, the light from a battered greenshaded desk lamp outlining a harsh circle about his slouching shoulders.

At the moment, Peter's fingers were poised silently over the typewriter keys, but simultaneously with Jimmy's greeting they resumed action in a clattering burst of sound.

The fanfare of the typewriter keys continued in irregular, rapid-fire staccato, then ceased with a rattling cadenza as the last sheet of copy paper was ripped from the carriage.

Peter strolled with elaborate nonchalance between the empty desks, numbering the pages as he went, and thrust them with a flourish under Jimmy's nose.

"Read 'em and weep," he said.

Jimmy clawed the sheets of copy paper toward him, pushing his eye shade at a rakish angle above his left ear. Peter leaned across the desk in a pose of extreme casualness, listening to the faint slip-slip as each page was read. At last Jimmy looked up.

"It's a pretty good yarn," he said solemnly; and that, Peter knew was the supreme accolade bestowed but rarely by the city editor on work well done. Jimmy marked the first of the sheets, "first run, hed to kum," and yelled for a copy boy. Then, for the first time, he looked closely at peter.

"Hell's bells!" he exclaimed. "Where have you been all night, anyhow?"

"Well, you look as if you'd been around and over and through," Jimmy remarked caustically. "Say, there's no funny business about this, is there? It'll check, all right?"

"Cavanaugh's behind it," Peter assured him. "He gave me the letter to copy."

"And just where did you dog fight come in?"

Peter was indeed a disreputable object. His face and the backs of his hands were scored by long red lines, along with the blood that had congealed. His coat was ripped under the arm, and several jagged three-cornered tears decorated each trouser leg.

His chin showed the need of a morning shave, a black smudge across his forehead gave him a most sinister, piratical expression, and his eyes were bloodshot from lack of sleep. Nevertheless, he faced the city editor with an incorrigible grin.

"Oh, there wasn't any trouble—no trouble at all. These are honorable wounds, received in the line of duty—before I got around to the doctor. I giuess it's about time I got around to a cup of coffee, though. And if you don't mind, I'd like to buzz home long enough to get into a suit that hangs together a little better than this one."

"Go home and go to bed," he growled. "I guess we can live without you for the rest of the day. If anything breaks, I can let you know."

"I say, Jimmy," he pleaded, "I'd rather follow this up. I've got a hunch about the man who wrote that letter. D'you suppose there'd be any chance of giving me a few days, just to root around on my own? It may not come to anything, of course."

"When you're as old as I am," Jimmy said in his gruffest tones. "You'll have enough sense to take a day off when it's handed you on a silver platter. But there's no fool like a young fool. Go wherever you durn please."

"You can turn in an expense account for that suit; but I warn you, if you go getting another one slashed up as if you'd been the center of a stiletto contest, it's your own lookout. And, if you hang around here another minute trying to look bored, you're going to burst."

It was a very different Peter who parked Bossy on a side street two hours later and made his way along the drive marked "Tradesmen's entrance," to the back door of the Ellsworth house. He had donned a sweater in place of a coat, and buttoned its high collar close around his chin.

A wide visored cap was pulled far down over his eyebrows casting his face into deep shadow. He had even discarded his cigarette in favor of a short curced pipe.

The picture thus presented before his mirror had delighted him hugely.

"If it ain't the spittin' image of Sherlock Holmes on a rampage!" he addressed his reflection enthusiastically. "It shouts 'disguise' to the very housetops. And of course the object of a disguise is to look as much like a disguise as possible. If not, why go to all the trouble?" Regretfully he abandoned the package of cigarettes on the dresser. "Ethel's favorite sleuths always smoke pipes—I know they do. And Ethel, my dear, you're going to have the biggest thrill of your young life. It's too bad I can't make it really good—wait till evening and then throw pebbles at your window. But I don't know which window, and I couldn't hit it anyhow. Besides, I can't wait. You'll just have to be satisfied with things 'as is.'"

As a finishing touch, he pinned his police "Press" badge under the rolled bottom of his sweater, and then devoted half an hour to the composition of a note which, after several scribbled drafts, he finally copied in laborious hand-printed capitals.

"Urgent and secret," it began. "If you would be of service to the cause of clearing the innocent and bringing the guilty to justice, come at once to the shrubbery at the second bend of the driveway to the left, and tell no one. I am the private assistant of C., whom you left in a certain room overlooking the back garden, between ten and eleven o'clock last night. P. P., Investigator."

"Won't she just love it, though?" he gloated. "And the funny part is that reduced to plain English, it's true enough."

Having delivered his message to an astonished cook at the kitchen door, Peter retraced his steps along the driveway as far as the second bend, and half concealed himself in the thick shrubbery.

"If anybody with any sense comes along, I'm sunk," he murmured. "I'd send myself to the psychopathic ward for investigation, on sight."

The only footsteps, however, were light ones, tip-toeing along the gravel from the direction of the house. Peter waited until they were almost opposite, and then stepped forward from his place of concealment.

"Sh!" he hissed loudly and unnecessarily to the palpitating Ethel, who was far too impressed to open her mouth. "Come behind these bushes, where no one can see us. I have something of the utmost important to communicate."

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY THE PASSION PLAY IS FAMOUS.

In the extreme south of Germany, juxt across the border line from Austria, is a picturesque little town called Oberammergau. It is located at the bottom of a cup-like hollow among the hills. The houses are quaint and small. The streets are crooked, narrow and short. The outstanding piece of architecture is the great wooden theatre, a hangar on an extra large garage.

Oberammergau and this wooden building are world famous, for it is here that the Passion Play has been held every ten years for some three centuries.

The play itself is an all-day performance, depicting the last week of the life of Jesus, and is remarkably well done, especially when you consider that all the characters in the play are residents of this little mite of a town. These players are a remarkable lot of people. They take this thing very seriously and most religiously. Those who are to play the part of the Christ and the other bearded and long-haired men of the cast let their hair and beards grow for many months. With all their fame and opportunity to cash in on their reputation they have managed to keep away from commercialism. And they do not permit themselves to be exploited by others.

Every one of the several thousand people who go there to see the play on one of the two days each week that it is given during the summer months of each tenth year is a guest of the village and comes as a pilgrim. There is an atmosphere of peaceful, happy contentment that is like a tonic to one accustomed to the hustle and bustle of a money-mad world.

The charm of the town and the people consists in their modesty and simplicity. You are impressed by the sincerity of their manner of living and their joyously naive outlook upon life.

The passion play is a great community enterprise. It serves to give them a sense of unity and solidarity that you rarely find except where people are drawn together by a common project. Practically every citizen of the town, man, woman and child, has a part in the play. There is a mob scene that must tax the population of the whole village.

The world goes to Oberammergau not merely to see a historic Passion Play. It goes to see a type of life that is well worth seeing. The quiet rustic charm of the village and the simple honest faith of the people are worth going many miles to see. The play is well done and intrinsically worth while, but its power and reputation rest on the tradition of the town and the people.

At Evening

How calm the sea. The silver, shimmered path
Of moonlight dances lightly to that line
Where once the night's horizon tossed in wrath.
The horror of the wind's shrill, anguished whine
Has gone. A lullaby as soft as sleep
Is singing through the tree-tops on the land.
The peace of old has settled on the deep
And evening's solitude upon the strand.

Oh, gently, mighty waters, kiss the shore,
Fair bride, eternal wedded to the wave.
Treat kindly those forever beating o'er
Your untracked ways; oh smile on them and save
That gallant ship for whom I stand and watch,

NICKEL LEADS CURB TRADING

AJAX OIL ADVANCES.

TORONTO, Ont., June 25 (C.P.). Led by International Nickel which firmed one point, stocks on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day made a fine recovery at noon after showing marked early weakness. Nickel with trading in approximately 4,500 shares, recovered from a low of 50⅜ to 51½; this in face of the high call money rate prevailing on the New York market.

Ajax Oil was the leader in point of volume as more than 20,000 shares of this stock changed hands. It opened weak at 186, but a flood of buying orders boosted the price to a high of 208. At the close it was 13 higher at 205, in sympathy with Ajax other oil stocks held firm; some advancing slightly.

Western Canada Flour recorded the largest gain with a jump of 4 to 38 on a small turnover. Canadian Bakeries was active and 3 better at 37. Standard Steel climbed one to 73. Cockshutt Plow held firm at 37½.

Brazilian Traction moved against the general trend by selling off ½ to 56½. Walkers was active and steady at 18¾.

Royal Bank slumped 5 to 340, while Commerce fell back two to 280.

GENERAL LIST SHOWS ADVANCE

New High Records Established Despite Stringency in Call Money.

RATE MAY ADVANCE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 25.—(A.P.)—Stock prices showed a decided inclination to advance to-day despite the stringency in call money. Early losses of 1 to nearly 5 points were largely wiped out by early afternoon and a long list of issues sold 1 to 11 points higher. New high records were established by at least a score of individual stocks including American Can, General Electric, Allied Chemical, North American, Atchison and Pennsylvania.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent. and there was a further calling of loans, which threatened to send the rate to 12 within the next day or two. The time money market was dull, with no change in rates. Despite recent unofficial intimations that there had been no change in federal reserve credit policy, Wall street believes that relaxation is inevitable before the crop harvesting season is in full swing.

PERKS MOVING TO TRENTON

Local Man Has Been Appointed Municipal Engineer For Lakeshore Town.

MUCH EXPERIENCE.

A local man of great practical experience in engineering, W. George Perks, 577 Gilmour Street, was recently appointed municipal engineer for the town of Trenton, Ontario. Mr. Perks will have full charge of all the municipally owned works of that flourishing lakeshore town.

Although not a graduate of any engineering school, Mr. Perks has gained wide knowledge through long experience on municipal, construction, and railway engineering jobs. He was employed on the Trent Canal during its construction and this spring was working for the C.N.R. at Flin-Flon, putting in the new line into that rich mineral country.

During the war he served with the Canadian Engineers in France for three years. He was in many thick engagements, and was mentioned in despatches.

Grain Values Drop After Strong Opening

CHICAGO, Ills., June 25. (C.P.) — Grain values underwent a lively setback to-day after a show of firmness at the start. Better weather in the harvest region southwest and some rain in Canada led to heavy profit taking sales in wheat, and there was much selling of corn owing to warmth and sunshine. Opening unchanged to 3-4c higher wheat quickly underwent a material drop. Corn started 1-8 off to 1-4 up, and then sagged. Oats followed corn. Provisions were easy.

AMBASSADOR TO VATICAN

VATICAN CITY, June 25.—Pope Pius to-day received in formal audience the first ambassador from a king of United Italy ever to be duly accredited to the Holy See.

The Ambassador was Count Devecchi Di Val Cismon, one of the Quadrumvirate in the Fascist march to Rome in 1922. His reception was made possible by the Lateran treaties of February 11, which established the Vatican state as a recognized entity within the territory governed by the Quirinal.

Transit Company Will Have Sight-Seeing Bus Here

Peterborough's bus service during Old Home Week and during the summer will be augmented by a thirty-passenger sight-seeing bus that will be sent to this city by the Border Transit Company, Limited. L. Mitchell, manager of the Peterborough Bus lines, has kindly placed this vehicle at the disposal of the Old Home Week Committee to use at their discretion. After Old Home Week this bus will remain in Peterborough during the summer and will be for chartered parties or to augment the service when necessity demands.

ISSUES SOAR ON STANDARD

NEWBEC ADVANCES.

TORONNTO, Ont., June 25 (Canadian Press.—Supporters of a bullish market had a distinct advantage over those desiring a lower trend on the market of the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Ajax assumed the leadership in point of volume as more than 180,000 shares were dealt in. It opened weak but soon started upward and at one time sold at 208. The noon quotation of 205 indicated a gain of 16 points. Newbec was quickly caught in the upward swing and at noon was selling 6½ higher at 51.

International Nickel registered the widest price movement on the list by jumping 90 points to 51.65. Noranda showed a gain of 25 at 56.25. Hudson Bay up 15 at 17.40, Sherritt-Gordon 10 at 7.40, Sudbury Basin 10 at 8.20 and Teck-Hughes up 5 at 8.40 were other favorites to move forward.

Yesterday, 24th June, six people reached the city, the home town of the one nearest to Peterborough being Edmonton. Others were from farther West. All met on the steamer coming down the Great Lakes, and had a real chummy time, rejoicing that all were headed for the same old home town.

BIG DEMAND EXPECTED FOR SLEEPING QUARTERS

Letters are pouring in from folks who tell us they are coming home for the celebration. A Montreal lady in writing adds: "We appreciate all the information you have sent to us regarding the celebration, also what you have arranged with the railways as to reduction of the fares. It shows what Peterborough, my native place, thinks of its scattered sons and daughters."

The Toronto group are sending in advice post cards to advise as to the accommodation (housing) that will be needed. Seven of these cards state that each party will number five, making thirty-five persons altogether. Considering that the Old Home Week office sent out nearly nine thousand invitations, to single individuals and heads of families, it looks as if the Old Home City will be flooded. Better get the camp cots and garages and available lawns ready.

GEORGES COURTELINE IS DEAD

PARIS, June 25.—Georges Courteline, one of the most noted humorists in France, died to-day on his 72nd birthday.

The noted author underwent the amputation of a leg four years ago to halt the spread of an infection and his other leg was amputated only last week.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 25. —Friends and companions of long standing, Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil man, and Henry Mason Day of New York, vice-president of the Sinclair Exploration Company, shared imprisonment to-day in the Washington asylum and jail.

Both were serving sentences for contempt of court, because of the shadowing of jurors during the Sinclair-Fall conspiracy trial, while Sinclair was at the same time rounding out the latter half of his 90-day sentence for contempt of the Senate for refusal to answer questions during its investigation of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease.

Old Home Week News.

It is understood that the Holy Name Society, instead of erecting an arch, will make ample preparation with conveniences for a comfortable rest room for visitors, at St Alphonsus Lyceum, Simcoe street, and place the capacious ground floor at the service of all who care to make use of it, in the manner indicated. This is an extremely useful and helpful work and will be much appreciated.

AMERADA CORPORATION

The Amerada Corporation is a holding company. Its subsidiaries are engaged primarily in the production of crude oil in the mid-continent field and in Venezuela and in the manufacture of gasoline from casing head gas. The company also has large holdings in the Louisiana Land and Exploration Company which owns lands on which the presence of salt, sulphur, and oil are indicated. The Texas Corporation has undertaken to develop this property on a royalty basis.

The company owns approximately 335,000 acres of lease holds in Venezuela. Exclusive of the Venezuela holdings the company has eight casing head gasoline plants with a daily capacity of 55,000 gallons; storage tanks and reservoirs with a capacity of 1,850,000 barrels; 600 oil wells, and 20 gas wells with 35 additional being drilled and leaseholds and miscellaneous equipment. The leaseholds in the United States total about $1,252,127 acres and the company has something over 1,000,000 barrels of oil in storage.

Earnings of the company in 1928 were below those of 1927. The last year's net was $2,214,109. This compared with $3,706,715. the previous year. Net however, was sufficient to cover dividend payments.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of 922,075 shares of no par value. This does not include 3,622 shares held by trustees for purchase by employees. Dividends are being paid at the rate of 50 cents a quarter, and have been maintained at that rate since July 30, 1926.

As of January 1, 1929, total current assets were $6,270,243. Current liabilities amounted to $1,288,611 and net working capital was $5,041,632. Book value applicable to the capital stock amounted to $23.17 a share.

CAUSE OF CRASH DETERMINED.

LONDON, June 25.—The Air Ministry's inquiry into the crash of the Imperial Airway's liner, City of Ottawa, June 17, bringing death to seven, was opened to-day with an address by Sir William A. Jowitt, Attorney-General.

Sir William said the cause of the accident was engine failure, brought about by the fracture of bolts holding the number four connecting rod bearing together.

Crocker Eliminated In Wimbledon Play

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 25.—(C.P.)—Williard F. Crocker, of Montreal, Canada's second ranking tennis player, was eliminated from further play in the Wimbledon championships to-day, when he was defeated by J. S. Olliff, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

Wilmer Allison continued the pace set by his fellow countrymen by eliminating H. B. N. Cooper of Great Britain. Allison dropped the second set 3-6 but won the others 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

Three City Streets Made Through Highways

All the through streets that were recommended by Chief of Police Samuel Newhall in the spring were adopted recently. These included the entire lengths of Rubidge, Reid and Park streets, while all others entering or crossing these roads are stop streets, and signs have been erected to this effect.

never became convinced it was desirable to appoint a Canadian Ambassador to Washington and again he warned the extreme automonists they were moving towards separation.

"He believed foreign policy was best controlled by the imperial government. Favorable as he was to all wise measures of co-operation between the Dominions and the United Kingom, he saw no danger of centralization in London and was content with existing relations as they had developed through the years.

"He was not an imperialist as the term is often understood, but among the public men of Canada there was no more unswerving advocate of the link between the Dominion and the mother country.

Speeches Were Logical

"Fielding was no orator. In his speeches there was no passion or imagination, but he was logical, persuasive and convincing. His budget speeches were often overladen with detail and were models of frankness and clearness. He had a remarkable facility in retort and often deliberately invited interruption both in parliament and on the platform, but he never lost the goodwill and respect of his opponents. In the constituencies no other man could so effectively defend the government.

"His strength was in his rectitude, his superiority to the venialities of politics and in a certain blunt candor which would admit mistakes and confess misgivings."

TORY LEADER GIVES EVIDENCE

Brown he thought that was too much. Brown subsequently told Mr. Bennett Aikins salary had been reduced to $60.

During cross-examination by A. T. Bowlby, K.C., of Toronto, Mr. Bennett said Aikin had suggested that as a matter of "Good faith," and because he had suggested Aikin get in touch with Brown concerning employment, Mr. Bennett should pay Aikin the outstanding debt owed by defendants, but he had refused.

16 DARKIES SENT HOME

Tired of Circus Ways, Negroes Are Deported To United States.

SPECIAL BUS CHARTERED.

Sixteen darkies with Sparks' Circus, homesick, tired of wielding the mallet, stretching canvass, and pulling ropes, declared a peaceful strike last night at the circus grounds. The negroes refused to work, but did not give the management any trouble.

The result is that to-day they are being deported by a special bus chartered from the Peterborough Bus Lines to the United States by the way of Cobourg to Rochester.

The facts of the case are: about nine o'clock last night these sixteen men influenced by some agitators among them stopped work, and it seems intended to look to the city for aid. The trouble reached the ears of Thomas R. Poplin, the special detective with the show, who investigated the matter and the management of the circus reported it to police headquarters.

A special bus was immediately chartered and sent down after the striking negroes who had in the meantime wandered uptown and were noticed by P. C. Stevenson, the youngest constable on the force, who brought them to the police station as vagrants, where they spent the night in jail.

Departed Without a Hitch

The circus loaded up and pulled out of the city about one o'clock this morning and there was not a hitch in the departure. The number of men affected by this peaceful protest against work and homesickness by darkies who had been in Canada only for a week and three days did not delay any of the routine, and the percentage of the whole numbers of employees is so small that the circus authorities claim that it will not affect the show in any manner.

About ten-thirty to-day, the police station took on a "Jim Crow" appearance as the negroes congregated to depart for Cobourg and Rochester. The circus paid them their salaries, returned their personal belongings and everything that the negroes owned was checked to date to make sure that they had all that was theirs.

Paying Transportation

The Sparks' circus management is also paying their transportation and expenses to the United States border. Most of the men seem to be Southern cotton pickers, coming from Tenessee, Georgian, the Carolinas, while some are from New York, Pennsylvania and one fellow said that he was from Toronto.

As the bus pulled away from the police station for Cobourg, the darkies seemed to be happy, saying good-bye and waving a farewell to their hosts, who kept them so securely for the night.

The police state that there was no trouble reported to them from the circus, and that this little affair was not in the nature of friction, but that the men surrendered themselves with no opposition.

re-dedication to those ideals which inspire Kiwanians in their program of service to humanity. Our pride in the accomplishments of the past is but an inspiration to more fully apply the objects of Kiwanis in the future. Let us at this solemn hour renew our devotion to those principles and purposes, which form the imperishable foundation upon which the superstructure of our service program has been builded.

"We live in an age of restlessness, of appraisal, of re-valuation, an age of vigorous search for the truth in the field of the spiritual as well as material.

"Kiwanis is a modern experiment in the field of the human and spiritual, using as its laboratories North American communities and as the subjects of its experiments, the representative business and professional men of those communities. Kiwanis is in turn the object of rigid scrutiny, by its own members and the world at large.

"Our motto affirms that "We Build" and our objects point our emphasis to the intangibles of personality and spirit. As modern research is constantly revealing new facts, which aid the builder of the material things of life, so may the search for spiritual facts in the lives of Kiwanians and in the work of Kiwanis reveal the object of our building. Who are these builders and what does Kiwanis build? Since these are days of hospitality to superfluous organization which only those institutions, of proven value to society will survive, what justification is there, for the existence of Kiwanis?"

Are Picked Men

"You members of Kiwanis are picked men. You are recognized leaders in your respective vocations in your communities. You are respected citizens interested in making your city or town, your State or Province and your nation a more desirable place in which to live. Yet are willing to give a part of your time and of your substance to those worthy causes in which Kiwanis is interested in your community. In your religion you are more tolerant than bigoted. In your politics you are more patriotic than partisan. In your personal lives you maintain a standard which proves an example to those whom you serve. You practice the ideals which you profess.

"What does Kiwanis build in the field of the human and spiritual? What would it profit Kiwanis to have an ambitious program of building if we did not first build the builder? What man is there in Kiwanis for whom the fellowship of their brothers has not opened up new vistas of life? What Kiwanian is there whose life has not been enriched and made more abundant by Kiwanis friendships? Fellowship and friendship polished personality. Teh co-operative achievements of life are the accomplishments of friends. Our capacity for friendship and our opportunity to make friends help determine our success in every walk of life. Service in a worthy cause furnishes training for leadership. God-given talents are revealed and improved in the service of Kiwanis—talents which become an asset in business and social as well as civic life. Kiwanis first builds the builder. We build better men.

"A most potent factor in the revolutionary changes which have taken place in business and professional life in the last decade and a half, has been the influence of Kiwanis in raising new and higher business and professional standards. The ideals of Kiwanis have leavened the lump of vocational life and enlightened men see in every worthy vocation a means of serving society, and recognize business leadership as a public trust. Under the inspiration of service ideals business is rapidly becoming professionalized. Financial success is no longer applauded unless it has been attained through integrity and fair dealing. Kiwanians are helping establish standards of quality in product and service in their respective crafts. To wear the emplem of Kiwanis is a badge of business and professional honor. We build better business."

Welded Into Great Army

"The most obvious results of the building of Kiwanis is in the field of civic service. Kiwanis crystalizes community consciousness. Kiwanis harnesses the man power of the city in the solution of its problems. Kiwanis co-ordinates the civic endeavors of its members and furnishes an organized manner in which representative business and professional men may intelligently and effectively express their interest in their community and their fellowmen. Through the five objectives of Kiwanis International the scattered membership of our organization is welded into one great army, whose militant spirit of humanitarian service has challenged the loyalty of our own members and the admiration of the citizens of the two great English-speaking nations in which our clubs are established. As we continue our work in citizenship, our aid to underprivileged children, our efforts to increase the understanding between the farmer and the city man, our promotion of the acceptance of our Kiwanis statement of business standards and our service of vocational guidance and placement for young men and women, we shall continue to build the ideals of Kiwanis into the warp and woof of life. We build better communities.

"Kiwanis ideals are as applicable to nations as to men. Mutual service and common interest are binding together the Canadian and American citizens, who are Kiwanians in bonds of friendship and understanding. As the friendship of the two nations in which Kiwanis exists serves as the most conspicuous example of harmony and co-operation and international good will which the world possesses, so may Kiwanis, which is helping further cement these amicable relations, exert a world influence in the field of international harmony and world peace. We build a better society.

"Only so long as Kiwanis builds in the field of the human and spiritual, only so long as the product of our building is better men, better business, better communities and a better society, will Kiwanis justify its existence.

"Let us dedicate ourselves anew, at this 'zero hour' to the ideal of universal brotherhood in the followship to humanity."

The next international item was the reading of "We Build" by the members of the club, led by Kiwanian John Allen. Kiwanian Harry Huffman then spoke of one of the members that the club was about to lose: "The Kiwanis Club has had its ups and downs," he said, "its fortunes and misfortunes, and a misfortune is to occur very shortly, we are going to lose a very good member in John R. Heron; all Peterborough Kiwanis know what he has done for this club. Some of us know better than others. When I was chairman of public affairs committee two years ago Jack Heron was our real advisor."

As Kiwanian Heron rose to reply, the whole club sang, "He's a Daisy, See Him Smiling."

"During the past four years," Kiwanian Heron said, "I have had a wonderful time with the Kiwanis Club and the Kiwanian officers, Jack Craig, Isaac McNabb and I have been inseparable for those years. In the president's message that was read a few minutes ago I think that the outstanding point of it is: 'What would it profit Kiwanis to build if we did not build the builder.' That is the crux of the message.

"Two or three years ago the Kiwanians donned overalls and went to work; it was good for them mentally, if not so good physically for some. Friends were certainly made on those adventures.

Should Benefit Personally

"If we are not going to benefit personally in the Kiwanis program, it has failed. There is a message that I would like to leave this club: It is necessary to have an ideal, to dig in and build yourself, that is the basis of all Kiwanis growth. I would suggest if Peterborough Kiwanis is to keep ahead of the parade, to keep this principle in mind, if the movement is to progress, it will do so only as each individual feels the urge.

"For three years I have been engaged as secretary of the Kiwanis Club, and I have met a number of good fellows but no bad ones. If there was another war I would like to return to my old position, and if I was to return to Peterborough Kiwanis the same applies.

"Now as I give up my position I want to tell you I will miss the Peterborough Kiwanis Club more than anything else."

The program which followed was most highly appreciated by the Kiwanians and Kiwaniqueens. Roy Rome rendered three violin solos, "Pasquita," a seranade by Kreisler, "The Rosary" and "Mighty Lak a Rose," by Niven. Mrs. G. F. Liddle was heard in two beautiful solos, "Indian Dawn," with violin obbligato by Roy Rome, and "He Met Her on the Stairs," Levey.

Miss Bertha Hill was called upon to sing, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," in which the club sang the chorus and Kiwanians Huffman and Turner gave a tableau to illustrate the song. Then the Orphan Trio—H. Huffman, J. Turner, and J. McKone—rendered the selection in the way that it should be sung, according to their interpretation of the melody.

Kiwanian John Turner, president, extended the vote of thanks from the club to the real artists of the evening and also spoke of the amount of sickness among members of the club and wished them a speedy recovery; also he spoke with regret of Kiwanian Heron's departure, and wished him every success. Kiwanian John Allen then extended the best wishes of the members of the organization to Mr. Heron.

Eric Roberts kindly issued an invitation to the members of the club to come over to Melody Inn, to dance and play cards. A reserved section was held for the club, and many went over and enjoyed the music; some danced while others played cards.

Was Tortured With Eczema For Years

Mrs. George Shambler, 119 Creighton St., Halifax, N.S., writes:—"After being tortured with eczema, for years, and trying everything possible from doctors and drug stores, a friend recommended me to take

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

I sent my husband to get me a bottle, and after I had taken it I noticed the cooling of my blood, so he advised me to continue, and after taking several bottles I can truly say it is a wonderful medicine."

CUTICURA HEALS ECZEMA ON FACE

Of a Wet Nature. Scaled Over and Red, Itched Terribly.

"The eczema started with a small spot on the side of my face and kept getting larger and larger. It was of a wet nature but later scaled over and was very red. By times it itched terribly. The trouble lasted two months.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Stanley Dorey, North West, Nova Scotia.

Keep your skin clear by using Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for daily toilet purposes. Touch pimples and itching, if any, with Cuticura Ointment, bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address Canadian Depot: J. T. Wilt Company Limited, Montreal. Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

APSLEY.

William McColl had the misfortune to fall while fixing the dam at the mill pond and fracture his wrist. Dr. Shepherd set the injured limb and Mr. McColl is feeling almost as fit as ever.

Fishing Is Good.

Salmon fishing in Loon Lake is first class, according to reports, several fine ones being caught last week. It is a question whether the salmon fishing is permissible before July 1st and an authoritative ruling on this point would be welcome to many who are depriving themselves of the sport for fear of infringing the law.

In Great Need of Rain.

With no rain since June 14, and only one-tenth of an inch since the sixth of the month, the situation is getting serious. There will be no hay crop, the farmers claim, and even if rain comes soon, it will be too late to revive the dried and browned clover and grass. Tuesday was the hottest day so far, the official reading being 92½ in the shade. Thursday it was 91.

Many Improvements.

Several improvements are going on in the village. George Stephens has put in two new gas pumps with a new verndah on the north side of his store. MARMORA, June 22. — Their faces the picture of health and aglow with the enthusiasm of their cause, Crusaders of the Church Army, six in number, under temporary leadership of Captain Richards, arrived in the village early on Thursday, and pitched their tents on the Masonic Hall grounds.

The previous day they had given their witness at Bonarlaw, and a two days' stay at Marmora is to be succeeded by a two day's stay at Madoc.

At 7.30 p.m. on Thursday an open air service was held at the street corner near J. Dale's residence. Addresses were given by Captain Richards and Cadets Wall and Ayland. A procession then wended its way to St. Paul's church, where in conjunction with the Rector, Captain Richards conducted a most inspiring service. Cadet Wheeler, the youngest of the Crusaders, spoke briefly yet earnestly on the text: "This day is salvation come into thine house." A very eloquent address was later given by Captain Richards on the words "Lord teach us to pray." The speaker drew attention to the shallowness of present day religion and the need of man's communion with God to understand life as God intended it to be."

On Friday a children's service was held at St. Paul's at 4.30 p.m. In the open air service at night, followed by service at St. Paul's, the hours of Thursday were followed.

The Crusaders have thus far travelled about 290 miles, of which 235 have been walked by them, and their trek cart towed. The trek cart has been motor drawn for about 55 miles, a part of this distance being covered by the Crusaders additionally on foot.

The six Crusaders are Captain Richards and Cadets F. W. Baker, R. G. Bewley, A. A. Ayland, R. Wheeler, and C. H. Wall. Captain Morley, who is officially in charge of the crusade, is away temporarily in Toronto.

MADOC.

WARSAW, June 22—(Examiner Correspondence)—The Bethel annual tea-meeting was satisfactory in every way. Supper was served in the sheds, which were prettily decorated with evergreens, flowers, crepe paper and bunting and despite the intense heat, the dining-room was relatively cool and free from mosquitoes.

The play "Home Acres" put on by Cavan young people, was splendid. The heat inside was almost intolerable, but the members of the caste were pleased at the order in such a full house in the heat.

The receipts amounted to Two Hundred and Ten Dollars including supper tables and the booth.

A social was held on Wednesday evening to dispose of the unused cooking. A ball game followed.

FENELLA.

Mr. Frank George is home from Toronto General Hospital, convalescing from his recent serious operation.

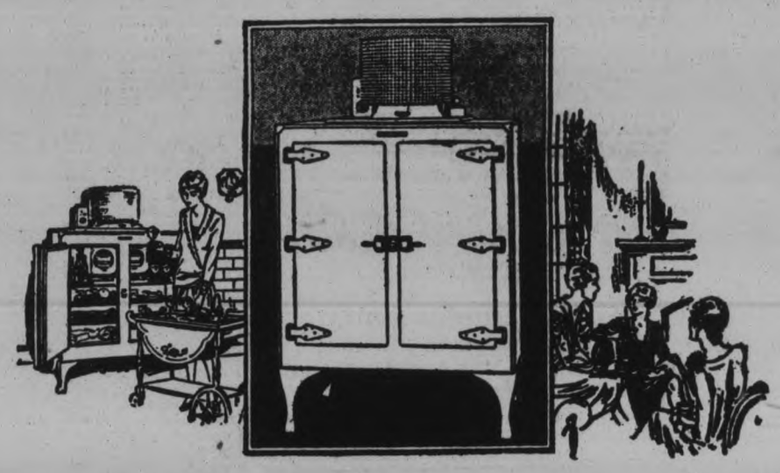
Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Make it safe to be hungry!



GENERAL ELECTRIC

Refrigerator

When you buy an electric refrigerator the first essential, of course, is to get a refrigerator that will automatically keep your food constantly at a temperature below 50 degrees. Food is safe to eat only when so kept—and General Electric Refrigerators are guaranteed to provide this perfect safeguard against bacteria.

But cleanliness, too, is vitally important. And here again the General Electric Refrigerator is "years ahead" in design. Its mechanism never even needs oiling. It is all sealed, air-tight, in a steel casing and placed up on top, forever out of the way of dirt and difficulties. Radiation from the coils creates a constant upward current of air that prevents dust from settling. Its all-steel cabinet is warp proof.

In operation it is extremely quiet, highly economical. Not one of the 250,000 owners of General Electric Refrigerators has ever had to spend a dollar for service or repairs.

Come in and let us tell you how the easily accessible temperature control governs the speed of freezing ice cubes or frozen desserts.

Choose the model you prefer—you may buy on deferred payments if you wish. ER-1629E

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, June 25. — The third annual field day in aid of the Red Cross Outpost Hospital, was held on the fair grounds on Wednesday, June 19, and attracted quite a number of visitors from outside points, Haultain, Lakefield, Warsaw and Peterborough, indeed it seemed as though the visitors outnumbered the local patrons. Dinner and supper were served in the main building which was not large enough to accommodate the crowd, and many sought meals elsewhere, rather than wait for the second and third contingent.

In spite of the intense heat, 89 degrees, and the lack of shade, the whole of the afternoon was taken up with sports, baseball, horseshoe pitching, barrel tilting and races, and after supper another softball game was played between Apsley and a team from Peterborough, who defeated the Apsley players 15 to 5.

In the evening All Saints, Peterborough, Dramatic Club, played "The Old Oaken Bucket," before a densely packed audience in the parish hall, and scored a great dramatic triumph with their excellent acting, the company receiving a tremendous and well-merited ovation at the fall of the curtain. Between the third and fourth acts, the Rev. C. A. G. Spence, President of the local Red Cross Society, gave a brief address outlining the work that had been accomplished at the Hospital since its establishment two and a half years ago, and expressed on behalf of the society and the community very deep gratitude and appreciation to All Saints' Dramatic Club for providing the entertainment, and to the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough for so kindly providing transportation for the cast, and to all who helped to make the day the success it was. J. J. Turner replied for the Kiwanis, declaring that it was a pleasure to help in a movement that meant so much for the community. He hoped that every one in the district would continue to support the hospital to the utmost of their power.

The proceeds from the play alone amounted to the handsome sum of $63, the total sum secured during the day reaching approximately $175. A couple of hours dancing concluded a very successful Red Cross field day, the committee being very well satisfied with the result.

The result of the sports was as follaws:

Barrel tilting contest: First C. S. Windsor; second, Arthur Earnshaw; horseshoe pitching contest: final winners, Mr. Duffus Peterborough, and George Kilborn; 100 yards dash, C. Windsor, Herb Lean; High Jump, Herb Lean, Arthur Earnshaw; married women's race: Mrs. T. Lean, Mrs. R. Tucker; young ladies' race, Gladys Tanner, Josey Tanner; girls' race, Vivian Whitmore; boys, Denton Parks; b ian Whitmore; boys, Denton Parks; big boys' race, John McFadden; little girls' race, Margaret Tucker; little boys' race, Freddy Tanner.

The committee desires to thank the Woolworth Store, Peterborough, for a gift of prizes for the sports.

OBITUARY

JAMES POWERS

KING'S WHARF, June 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late James Powers was held from the residence of his son, William, on Monday morning at 9 o'clock to St. Luke's church, Downeyville, where requiem mass was said by Rev. Father Galvin, thence to St. Luke's cemetery. The pallbearers were: Thomas Flynn, William Fitzpatrick, John Winn, P. A. Devine, Patrick Duffy and Francis Scully.

REV. W. G. LANSBURY

MARMORA, June 25 (Examiner Correspondence). — In the peaceful churchyard adjoining Christ Church, Hillier, one of the churches of his former parish, Wellington, the Rev. W. G. Lansbury, rector of Madoc for the past two years, was laid to rest on Saturday afternoon.

The sunshine of the afternoon seemed emblematically to remind the large congregation present of the continual sunshine which shone in the smile of that faithful servant of God who had been called home. Bishop Seager, who was prevented from attending by a pressing appointment in the eastern section of the diocese, was represented by the Ven. Archdeacon Coleman, M.A., of Kingston.

The robed clergy were Archdeacon Coleman; Very Rev. W. W. Craig, D.D., Dean of Ontario; Canon A. L. McTear, of Wellington; Rev. A. E. Smart, of Portsmouth; Rev. P. Heywood, of Trenton; Rev. F. O. Ware, of Milford; Rev. A. Strother, of Adolphustown; Rev. J. Brownlie, of Lansdowne; Rural Dean N. R. Scott, of Bancroft; Rev. J. Lyons, St. Thomas, Belleville; Rev. B. F. Byers, of Stirling; Rev. C. Winter, of Picton; Rev. M. J. C. Levason, of Rawdon, and the Rev. Grant Sparling of Bannockburn, the last six acting as honorary pallbearers.

Canon Creegan, Gananoque; Rural Dean Clarke, Christ Church, Belleville, and Rev. J. E. Gibson, of the Church of the Ascension, Toronto.

The bearers were L. Leavens, A. Panting and E. Terry representing Christ Church, Hillier, and R. Belshaw, F. Thompson and G. Love representing the parish of Madoc. Following the reciting of the sentences, Rev. B. F. Byers led in the reciting of Psalm 90, and Archdeacon Coleman gave an address. He expressed the regrets of the Bishop at his inability to be present.

Speaking of Wallace George Lansbury, who had been ordained in the diocese in June 1914; he at first referred to the fact that he had ministered at Augusta, Parham, Wellington and Madoc in that order. He remarked that the departed brother had won the respect and affection of the clergy and that furthermore in the parishes in which he had ministered, many were that day sympathizing with those bereaved. Not only in his own church but in others, by reason of his gentleness of manner, kindness of heart and godliness of soul, it had been regarded by others as a privilege to come into contact with him. The archdeacon next emphasized the diversity of gifts. "Each of us," he said, "is called upon to dedicate our peculiar gifts to the work God has called us to do and prepared us for. There are wide differences in Christian experiences. There are turning points in the lives of some which they can point back to. To others, the Christian life is a thing of gradual growth — growth which is imperceptible at any given moment. In the Church of God there is room for these differences. So with the Christian ministry. We may be as Paul or as Apollos, but God blesses the work and gives the increase.

"There is room for the aggressive as St. Paul or the gentle-like St. John. There is room for the impetuous Peter and the retiring Nathaniel in whom Christ said there was no guilt. There is room for those with a dominating, not a domineering, personality. But the need to-day, perhaps was greater for that type which examplifies the beauty of character which comes through responding to the Holy Spirit. Thank God, our brother was able under God's grace, to bear witness unto the truth of the graces which we call the Beatitudes. The church selected these Beatitudes as the Gospel for All Saints' Day. There is a deep significance in that fact. When we think of the saints departed, the truth stands foremost in our mind of those qualities upon which our Lord pronounced His benediction, and which He holds out to those who would follow in His steps as worthiest of emulation.

"We are taught that we brought nothing into this world and we can carry nothing out, but that refers to material things. We can carry into the next life our good characteristics.

"One of the great comforting features in this—that though we have impereftcions and limitations we can realize that God who began a good work in us, will perform it to the end. To-day, while we mourn the loss of one whom we love, and while the church may deplore the loss of one of its valued servants, thank God for the sure and certain hope of eternal life, the life in which the soul shall be itself with its own individuality yet reflecting the Lord in His glory and the King in His perfect beauty."

The concluding hymn was "Peace, Perfect Peace." Many beautiful floral emblems were laid upon the grave which is according to the deceased clergyman's expressed wish, close to the north-eastern wall of the chancel of this beautiful eighty-year old edifice.

PILE SUFFERERS

You can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Nothing but an internal remedy can do this—that's why cutting and salves fail. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere sell it with this guarantee.

ARMY CRUSADERS CONDUCT SERVICES

MARMORA, June 25.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Crusaders of the Church Army spent a busy day on Friday. House visitations took up a considerable portion of their time. At three o'clock a visit was paid to the Public school where Captain Richards addressed the scholars. At 4.30 a children's service was held at St. Paul's, Captain Richards again addressing the young who were gathered here.

At a short open air service held at 7.30 the Captain and Cadet Wall were the speakers. Another inspiring service was held at St. Paul's at 8. Cadet Wheeler read the lesson this being followed by the chorus, "Turn Your Eyes Upon Jesus." Cadet Baker gave a short message on "Prayer."

Following the singing of "Tell Me the Old, Old Story", Capt. Richards delivered a very impressive address on the words found in the Book of Hosea, "Break up your fallow ground." His words gave hope to even the fruitless life and were followed with rapt attention by the congregation. The Crusaders attended an early celebration of Holy Communion at St. Paul's on Saturday and then departed for Madoc, where they will be rejoined by Captain Morley.

DISCUSS HOLDING CHURCH PARADES

Hastings Ministerial Association Would Have Lodges Atten Service in Afternoon.

PETHERICKS CORNERS, June 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—While discussing the proceedings of the recent Ministerial Association meeting in Hastings, Rev. F. G. MacTavish, pastor of Seymour charge, states that the subject of Sunday church parades of lodges and other organizations came up for discussion. The general feeling of the ministers present seemed to be opposed to the somewhat common practice of holding these special services at the regular church hours. While the reverend gentlemen were all agreed to the worth of the causes represented by these organizations and believed that they should have regular periods for celebrating at divine service, yet they deplored the interruption of the regular worship service and felt that in the towns at least, church parades should take place during the afternoon or after the regular service in the evening.

ITALY OPENS "5 AND 10."

ROME, June 25.—Italy has Americanized to the extent of installing a set of "Five and Ten" stores patterned after the fashion of the famous marts in the United States. A syndicate is operating one of these in Rome and another in Milan. They have the conventional red front and sell the usual small articles, working on the idea of small profit and quick turnover.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS ADDRESS

Reverend Tanton, of Cobourg, Speaker at Regularly Weekly Luncheon.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 25 (Examiner Correspondence). — In spite of the hot noon hour, there was a good attendance at the Rotary luncheon yesterday. Three members were absent, but the list of guests more than offset this condition. The speaker for the day was Rev. "Billie" Tanton of Cobourg. Cecil Stephens was also present and expressed his appreciation for the good fellowship which the local club had shown him during his recent illness. The other guests were Chief Grassick, L. B. Davidson, Albert Davidson, and the Rev. MacTavish. The meeting yesterday will be the last till July 8 owing to the fact that next Monday is a Dominion holiday.

In addressing the club, Rev. Tanton said that he had been in and out of Rotary twice during his travels from one church to another. He was pleased to address the Campbellford club, because he had heard a great deal about it and the splendid entertainment which was afforded visiting Rotarians. While minister in North Battleford, Sask., he had been a charter member of the club formed there. He was a delegate from there to Rotary International in Edinburgh. While there he had had the pleasure of addressing several clubs in Scotland, England, and one in Paris. At that time the Paris club was only six months old, and he was the first Canadian to address the members there. While in Napanee, Ont., he had been instrumental in forming a Rotary Club there, but when he arrived in Cobourg, he found his classification was already filled. His remark that his classification was generally termed "Dry goods" brought much laughter from the club.

"There were several things about Rotary which he greatly admired," he said. "The Rotary spirit promoted good fellowship between man and man, town and town, country and country, and nation and nation. In Edinburgh at the convention, one whole day had been given to this discussion. In his district in Saskatchewan, there had been a case where six boys were up in Court and were liable to be sentenced. The Rotary Club asked to be allowed to be big brothers to the boys, and were given permission. Six members were appointed and the result was that the boys were not in trouble again as long as he was able to learn.

Rotary also stressed community service. There was an experiment tried by a Rotary Club in a United States city. The idea was to make the city the best corporation on the continent for boys and girls to live in. All the other organizations were asked to co-operate and a challenge was broadcast. Judges were appointed, and after a period of time had elapsed, the decision was given in favor of the city of Shawnee.

After hearing the address by Rev. Tanton, President Longmore expressed the appreciation of the club and a vote of thanks was presented.

MUSIC RECITAL.

Entertaining Program Given By Pupils of Miss Hilda Arthurs.

ROSENEATH, June 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—An unusually interesting entertainment was given in the Orange Hall on Friday evening when Miss Hilda Arthurs and her pupils presented their first piano recital.

There was scarcely an empty seat in the large auditorium of the hall where proud parents, brothers and sisters and friends gathered together to hear these young artists play. That it was an overwhelming success was amply attested by the rapt attention throughout the entire program and the enthusiastic and persistent applause which followed each number of the program.

Among the features which were noticeable about Miss Arthur's pupils was their delicacy and beauty of touch.

Duets Find Favor

The four duets on the program also found favor with the large audience. The first "Minuet Don Juan," by Miss Arthurs and Mary Mouncey; the second number "Sleighride," by Miss Arthurs and Edward Turner; the third, "Humoresque," by Thelma Thompson and Miss Arthurs, and the fourth, "Flower Song," by Irene Brown and Miss Arthurs.

A trio, "Souvenir Valse," was most pleasingly played by Marie Mouncey, Lois Talling and Miss Arthurs.

At intervals Mrs. (Rev.) M. R. Brown pleased the audience in singing, "Sailing," "An Old Fashioned Home in An Old Fashioned Town," and "In the Garden of Tomorrow," accompanied by Bessie Turner on the piano. These selections were greatly appreciated and received much applause, which attested the favor with which her numbers were received.

Luella Timlin also gave a vocal solo entitled "On the Bough of a Tree," and recited a poem on "Music" before playing her number on the program.

Seizing a brief moment before the audience could rise to sing the National Anthem, little Shirley Brisbin made a pretty picture when she presented Miss Arthurs with a basket of beautiful cut flowers on behalf of the class.

Several pupils will go to Peterborough to try their music examinations.

SEVEREL BURNED.

LINDSAY, June 25.—(Special to The Examiner).—Howard Ascot who lives near the village of Fenelon Falls, is in the Ross Hospital Lindsay, suffering from serious injuries as the result of an explosion. He was engaged in removing stumps from a field with dynamite and as the usual time had elapsed without results, he walked towards the stump. As he stooped forward the dynamite exploded in his face, which was badly burned. His chest and body was also seriously burned, and fears are entertained for his eyesight.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

WHAT ACIDOSIS MEANS.

You are hearing or reading about acidosis these days, and perhaps you have the idea that acidosis means an acid condition of the blood.

As a matter of fact, the blood is always alkaline in health, and alkaline in sickness also, unless the patient is practially at the joint of death.

What is really meant by acidosis is that the alkaline "reserve" in the blood has been lowered, and the blood therefore more neatly approaches being acid.

The blood is alkaline due to ordinary baking soda in the fluid portion and the salts of sodium and potassium in the red cells.

Now when you exercise, or when the various cells of the body do their work, acids are formed, and it is these alkalis, mentioned above, that prevent these acids from injuring the tissues.

It has been found that fat foods do not burn as readily as to carbohydrates, and if they are not completely consumed then waste acids are formed which are poisonous to the system.

When folks get a bit run down, or are recovering from an illness, it is considered good treatment to give them considerable quantities of cod liver oil, butter, cream, and other foods rich in fats.

However, as it has been found that these fats often do not get used completely, or are incompletely burned in the system, vegetables and sugar are given at the same time, for these supply a good fire in which the fats can be completely burned.

Acidosis means that, as mentioned above, foods are not being used up, leaving too much work for the alkaline salts in the blood to do.

The idea then when acidosis presents itself is to cut down on fatty foods, and take baking soda or other alkalies.

When these alkaline salts get greatly reduced in amount, then you have that "sicky" feeling nausea, vomiting, and headaches are often present and no desire for food. Doing without food for a short time is good treatment.

Buyers and Sellers

THE HIGH COST OF BARGAINING

My husband and I once stood at the entrance to a fonduk or trading establishment of an English cotton merchant in Tangiers. An Arab was trying to buy fifty pieces of goods at a certain price and the Englishman had explained that this would mean the loss of so many pence per yard. "I am sorry," he said, "we cannot trade, but your business, my friend, would cost me too great a loss." "Well, sell me only twenty pieces," said the Arab, "you will not lose so much and we shall still be friends."

I often think of this explode as I try to fit a dozen things of importance into as many minutes in order to keep up with the demands of modern social and friendly and family and church life, without neglecting any of the genuine obligations that the home imposes upon the woman of to-day.

What life would be if we had to bargain for minutes and quarter hours for everything we buy. Thank your daily newspaper, my dear sisters, for removing the cause of bargaining from our modern system of trading. The woman who really studies the advertising in her daily newspaper is purchasing on a business basis. We do not realize how important advertising is to us until we learn to read it wisely.

CREAM AND BLACK

Cream and black taffeta combine in a lovely evening gown for a young woman. The bodice is cream, with little revers at the deep V neck of black. The full, circular skirt is of black with its scalloped, dipping hemline lined cream. Black and cream flowers adorn the shoulder.

This dinner gown, from the Nicole Groult collection, is in navy blue and red georgette, and is accompanied by a simple jacket in navy blue.

By Nicole Groult.

I have used red georgette for this frock, giving it character through the use of a series of nervures in diagonal lines, which meet at the front in a line of tiny red buttons. A lace collar and jabot is a pleasing note on this dress, which is very youthful in line, preserving as it does the silhouette of the normal figure.

"DRIED-UP OLD AGE" VERY WET SAYS SCIENCE

Seventy-five Per Cent. of Body Made Up of Water Which Increases With Years

"Water constitutes about one-third of the body weight," writes Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk in his famous book, "Health Building and Life Extension". "A great deal of the water that surrounds us and is part of us is under the guise of solids," he says. "Seventy-five to eighty per cent. of the body is made up of water—brain not excepted. That brains are mostly water we can readily believe when we consider other people; but not so readily as applied to ourselves. It is a curious fact that old people are wetter than young people . . . the water content of the body is 81.2 to 84.3 per cent. in old age as compared with 75 to 80 per cent. in earlier life. So among other traditions for the discard, we must include that of the dried-up old man!"

Despite the fact that such a great proportion of the body is composed of water, physicians advise drinking plenty of water—six glasses a day being considered the correct amount for the average individual. Good health depends also, of course, upon plenty of outdoor exercise and the right food. Every day the body should receive certain food elements which supply its various needs. One of the most valuable foods in this respect is Grape-Nuts. It supplies, in supremely delicious and easily-digested form, five of the vital elements of nutrition. These are: dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates, for energy; iron, for the blood; phosphorus, for teeth and bone; protein for muscle and body building; and the important vitamin-B.

THE tempting, nut-like flavour of Grape-Nuts has won popularity with millions. But in addition to its wonderful taste is a wealth of health benefits. Five vital elements of nutrition. Delightful crispness that makes you want to chew and thus gives valuable exercise to teeth and gums. Specially baked for easy digestion.

Put Grape-Nuts on this week's grocery list. And save money. For less than one cent's worth—four teaspoonfuls—is a helping. Ready to serve from the wax-wrapped package. Just add milk or cream.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

A LITTLE BARE.

Either houses are getting smaller and smaller or we are putting more and more into them. Things are so crowded.

A little girl was having temper tantrums and her mother was at her wits end to know what to do with her or for her.

"She throws herself down wherever she happens to be and screams until she is blue in the face. Somebody crosses her, expresses a difference of opinion, refuses to give up something, or does nothing at all to her—and away she goes. What is the matter with her is more than I can say."

The child had perfect health as far as one could discover. But temper tantrums have a cause so we searched for this one. We found that the child owned seventeen dolls, countless picture books, blocks unnumbered, three doll carriages, a zoo-ful of toy animals, a scooter, a wagon, an automobile; things and things and things. Her room was a clutter of things. The house was filled to the doors with things.

"Strip her room almost bare. Leave only the necessary furniture and about three toys. Let life be a little bare for a time and the child will find rest." Very soon the temper tantrums vanished.

A little child is very easily confused. Looking at too many things, handling too many things, hearing too much talk, seeing too many people, brings on a nervous irritability that results in temper tantrums and other expressions of over wrought nerves. For children, space is necessary. Space in the physical world first, then space in the mental world follows. Space, open always, elbow room—this is essential to health of body and mind.

Too much of anything is bad for children. Conscientious teachers often err that way. The child learns a lesson quickly and easily. "Ah, "says the teacher, "give him some more," and more and more and more is added until there is none of the blessed space where the spirit may find refuge and the child is overwrought and unnerved.

Let life be a little bare here and there. Provide for space. Give the child a chance to use his imagination in peopling places, in filling spaces for himself. Let him invent a toy, make up a story, dispose of his own spare time, once in a while. It is neither right nor wise to take up all the space there is in a child's life, physically or mentally.

It does a child no harm to work easily within his powers with an occasional burst of speed to keep him from stagnating. It lets him gather power, store up energy for that occasional burst of speed. If you fill his space too full you speed him all the way and there can be no occasional bursts of speed, no glory of high power for him. A temper tantrum or Saint Vitus Dance is the only refuge left the too crowded child. Be wise and leave his life a little bare here and there.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HOLDS PICNIC

VARIED PROGRAM.

On Saturday afternoon the members and friends of Murray street Sunday School journeyed via steamer Stoney Lake to Wallace's Point.

The weather was ideal and the Otonabee river never looked prettier, Wallace's Point was reached about three-thirty and the sports committee immediately got busy. The scholars showed their appreciation by lining up sometimes as many as fifteen and sixteen in a race. These had to be run off in heats with a final race to decide the winners.

The winners were:

Girls, six and under—Sylvia Borland.

Boys 6 and under—Chalmers Gillespie, Mitchell Herron.

Boys 7 and 8—Nelson Foster, Kenneth Gillespie.

Girls 9 and 10—Alma Milburn, Elva Barringer.

Girls 11 and 12—Marion Harvey, Ruth Ellis.

Boys 13 and 14—Billie Ellis, Norman Wilson.

Young ladies—Ethel Smedmor, Margaret McLellan.

Young men—Harry Westbrook, John Ward.

Ladies' potato race—Viola Harvey, Kathleen Foster.

Men's potato race—H. H. Graham.

Ladies' nail driving contest—Marion Wray.

Men's nail driving contest—G. W. Fitzgerald.

In the soft ball tournament the Baracas won from the Hustlers and H. H. Graham's team beat Mr. Smith's team. In the finals the Baracas defeated Mr. Graham's team. The girls' team gave the Hustlers a good game but were finally defeated. W. T. Wilson and L. H. Ingram acted as umpires for the men's softball games and D. V. Canning for the girl's game.

The officials for the sports were:

Announcer—G. W. Fitzgerald.

Starter—John Ward.

Judges (races)—L. H. Ingram and D. V. Canning.

Judges (novelty races)—A. J. Madill, B. W. Harvey.

Softball games—H. H. Graham and W. H. Kidd.

After supper a sail down the river and then back to George Street wharf and another picnic was over. The picnic this year was a great success in every way. This was in a great measure due to the fact that the newly re-organized Men's Association of the church got behind it and boosted it by their attendance and by their participation in the sports.

Roseneath

Messrs. Cecil and Percy McMillan were recent visitors with their father, Mr. John McMillan, who is still confined to his bed, suffering the shock of a stroke which occurred two weeks ago. His condition is slightly improved.

THE MINISTER'S BRIDE.

DUNSFORD, June 25.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The play entitled, "The Minister's Bride", by Clara Bothwell Anderson, was given in the Parish Hall of St. John's Anglican church, on Friday evening by the West Ops Dramatic Club under the auspices of the Dunsford Women's Institute of which Mrs. George Mitchell is president. The actors took their parts well and from beginning to end the performance was much appreciated by the large audience present.

The play is composed of four acts. The first scene is of a group of parish women at the minister's home preparing the parlor for his home coming after the honeymoon. The second of the minister and his bride in the home receiving friends; the third shows the interior home life of a minister and his wife, while the fourth was illustrative of a party of people being entertained at the minister's home. The time between acts was taken by two comedians, William and Leslie Graham and by Misses Myrtle Graham, Ida Taylor, Olive Graham and Master Jack Graham at the piano in solos and duets.

During the evening Rev. J. P. Everson, on behalf of Mr. Devell, of Lindsay, presented Miss Marion Skitch, of Thurstonia Park with a gold medal which was awarded to the pupil receiving the highest standing at the entrance examinations in the County of Victoria in the year 1928. Miss Skitch had two brothers, Bruce and Harold, who were also successful in passing the entrance examinations to high school at the same time.

J. J. Robertson acted as chairman, who introduced the actors and spoke a few words commending the work of the Women's Institute.

STRIPES MOVE

WEDDING BELLS

ALLEN—THOMAS.

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 25 (Special to The Examiner). — The marriage of Miss Audrey Marie Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Temple Thomas, to Robert L. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen, of Peterborough, Ont., was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock here in the Asbury-Delaware Methodist Episcopal Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr Bruce S. Wright.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. C. Dyson Thomas, wore a gown of turquoise blue French voile, made with a tight bodice with cape effect, pointed in the back and a full skirt with uneven hemline, reaching to the ground in the back. Her slippers were blue with flesh stockings, and she wore a hat of French blue horsehair. The bridal bouquet was of pink roses and baby-breath.

Miss Elsie V. Curley was the maid of honor and she wore a gown of beige georgette with tight bodice fashioned with a lace yoke and full skirt with uneven hemline. Her hat was a beige horsehair and slippers and stockings of beige, and she carried Talisman roses. Miss Esther L. Everett played the wedding march.

Charles H. Allen, brother of the bridegroom, of Peterborough, Ont., acted as best man, and the ushers were Jean Downing and Thomas Bride.

The church decorations were white peonies and ferns, with the aisles marked with bunches of peonies tied with white tulle. A reception dinner was given at the home of the bride's mother here following the ceremony. Covers were laid at the bride's table for 12 guests, and the decorations were the bride's cake and the flowers were pink roses.

The out-of-town guests present at the ceremony included Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen, parents of the bridegroom, Charles Allen, Miss V. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, all of Peterborough, Ont.

A large crowd attended the opening dance of Jean Fogarty and his orchestra at Chemong Pavilion last night and were highly pleased with the music provided, and the orchestra more than justified the advance advertising given them. The men are all finished artists in the musical line, each man doubling on more than one instrument and capable of playing solo parts. The orchestra is engaged for this week only.

LANARK SUPPORTS PETERBORO' PETITION

Supports Protest Against Damage to Roads in Spring by Heavy Truck Traffic.

PERTH, June 25. — In the report of the Roads and Bridges Committee of the Lanark County Council presented and adopted at final session held in Perth on Saturday morning appeared the following clause:

"Relative to the communication from the Clerk of Peterborough County requesting action by this County concerning damages to roads by motor vehicles during certain seasons, we recommend that this Council approve of the action taken by Peterborough County Council, and, in the event of a deputation waiting on the Minister of Highways, that this Council be represented in the same, a delegation to be selected by the Roads and Bridges Committee, and that the Clerk notify the Clerk of Peterborough County of this action."

I WONDER HOW MANY of the neighbors have ever used crepe paper for decorations in the home? Many, no doubt, have and know how pretty and inexpensive they are.

* * * * * * *

A few days ago when visiting the summer cottage of a Peterborough resident, I was attracted by the very pretty crepe paper curtains which she had on her windows.

* * * * * * *

They were very, very pretty and hung very nicely. In fact, had my attention not been drawn to the fact, I don't think I would have known the difference.

* * * * * * *

Of course there are some windows where it would be impossible to hang paper curtains and there are some where such material would be ideal.

* * * * * * *

You know some people do not curtain the windows of their summer homes and they look rather bare. Paper curtains would be cool and would add to the attractiveness of the room.

* * * * * * *

One advantage in using paper would be the doing away with the laundering which would otherwise have to be done at frequent intervals throughout the summer.

* * * * * * *

Crepe paper is not expensive and when the curtains become soiled, you can replace them at very little cost, thus saving labor with little expense.

* * * * * * *

I belive you can purchase this paper in such a way as to be able to make coverings for the table. There are pretty borders on them which add to the appearance

* * * * * * *

If you are thinking of trying the scheme of making paper curtains, there are two ways in which you may hang them. They may be tacked up or a hem made and a pole or rod run through it.

* * * * * * *

The latter way, of course, is the better because when you desire to replace the curtains, all you have to do is to take out the pole, whereas in the other way, you would have to take out all the tacks each time.

* * * * * * *

And in just the same way as you would choose any other curtains, choose the colors which will best suit the other furnishings and the wall paper. There are many colors to choose from.

* * * * * * *

Should you desire to make a t rimming only for your curtains of the paper, you may do this to exc ellent advantage. I don't believe I have ever seen this done, but nevertheless it has been done.

I suppose you could make the curtains of any thin material such as voile or cheesecloth and then make little cutouts from the paper and sew them on. I think this would make very pretty little curtains.

* * * * * * *

Such curtains would make excellent ones for the summer home and would keep clean for a long time. I suppose the one disadvantage in these would be the laundering of them, but if they were put on windows where they would not be easily soiled, you need not hesitate about using them.

* * * * * * *

Such places as community halls and Women's Institute rooms would be attractive with paper curtains and other decorations of the same material would be pretty.

* * * * * * *

Then I have seen the pretty lampshades made of crepe paper. They are pleated in some way and the paper pasted on and then shellaced.

* * * * * * *

One can purchase paper for these in many pretty designs, both of flowers and birds, and when made up, look very, very pretty, indeed.

* * * * * * *

Some of the smartest of the new summer frocks are trimmed with simple sort of fancy work stit ching, which gives the dressmaker touch that is so desirable at this season.

* * * * * * *

This week's help gives instructions for making these stitches and suggesting ways to use them. Please fill in the coupon and enclose with it a two cent stamp.

* * * * * * *

Fresh peas should be put in to cold water for about fifteen minutes before cooking. Put a tiny bit of soda into the water you cover the pan with, and cover them with either their own leaves and stalks or leaves of lettuce.

* * * * * * *

As you will note, very little water is needed for this method of cooking and the peas are really delicious and very green when cooked.

* * * * * * *

During a rather lengthy conve rsation with a certain Peterborough lady sometime ago, I came to find out something which made this woman very unhappy. And I do not believe it is limited to just one person in Peterborough, either.

* * * * * * *

This woman had lost confiden ce in everyone with whom she had any dealings and it all happened in a rather peculiar way.

* * * * * * *

Two women who had been the best of friends and who also resided next door to each other, were exchanging ideas and odd bits of gossip when one of them told something she had been specially asked not to.

* * * * * * *

As soon as she realized her mistake, which was too late, she became alarmed, but took her listener into her confidence and told the few remaining facts. She implored her neighbor not to tell anyone because it might lead to serious trouble.

* * * * * * *

The woman promised and the woman who let the cat out of the bag as it were, tried to let the matter drop. It constantly worried her, but her neighbor having promised, she tried to forget it.

* * * * * * *

For a time, all went well when suddenly the blow fell. The woman who had been taken into confidence, had told openly all she knew, after having promised not to.

* * * * * * *

I do not like the kind of "friend" who, after being taken into one's confidence, thinks lightly of the matter and to finally disregard it absolutely.

* * * * * * *

It often becomes embarrasing for more than one person and sometimes much trouble is caused through one person not being able to keep a secret to himself.

* * * * * * *

Someone, I do not know who he was, said, "He who does not respect confidence will never find happiness in his path. The belief of virtue vanishes from his heart, the source of nobler actions becomes extinct in him."

* * * * * * *

Often, in just such a way as I have been telling about, people lose confidence in one another, finally never take anyone in their confidence again.

* * * * * * *

And oftentimes something happens when you would give anything you possessed, to take someone into your confidence; to pour out to them some personal matter, if only there were someone you could trust.

* * * * * * *

But after having been disappointed once, you believe somehow, that all people are alike and so you must keep everything to yourself.

* * * * * * *

If you are in such a position, try once more. I am sure you will find many friends in Peterborough who will respect your confidence and whom you may depend upon to trust.

* * * * * * *

Confidence is conqueror of men; victorious both over them and in them;
The iron will of one stout heart shall make a thousand quail;
A feeble dwarf, dauntlessly resolved, will turn the tide of battle,
And rally to a nobler strife the giants that had fled.
—Tupper.

CORAL ENSEMBLE

For wear with sunburned shades and sunburned flesh, corals are tremendously popular. A smart coral ensemble consists of neckline, wide bracelet and belt buckle of deep oxblood shade.

TUNIC STYLE

A crepe Elizabeth frock in aquamarine blue has a long tunic, ending in a pleated ruffle. The tunic is tucked vertically at the waistline to give it a somewhat form-fitting effect.

THEATRICAL STAGE EMPLOYEES CONVENTION BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Reports Show That Local Units Are in Fairly Prosperous Condition.

IMMIGRATION QUESTION.

Stage employees who have languished during lean years when the legitimate drama saw its place usurped by the deaf and dumb pictures now have a chance to get into the game again, since the talkies have made their appearance. The advent of the gabby shows will prove a boon to them and their comrades.

Such was one of the conclusions arrived at in the deliberations at the concluding session on Saturday afternoon, of the annual meeting of the members of the Eleventh District of the International Alliance of the Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada, holding their convention in Peterborough for the first time, on Friday and Saturday of last week.

Discussions of much interest to the members of the Alliance took place during the Saturday sessions while the reports of the various delegates showed that the local units are in a fairly prosperous condition. There is a slight increase in membership and demand for competent help in the conduct of the new "Talkies" is such that members of another branch of the Alliance, the back-stage employees, are to be educated in the operation and maintenance of the various types of equipment required for the new innovation in the movies. Their present knowledge of electricity will assist in this movement, which is still in its infancy but gives great promise of impetus to the theatrical employment situation as it develops further.

Border Immigration.

In 1923, through the Hon. James H. Davis, secretary of the Department of Labour at Washington, D.C., legislation was enacted whereby theatrical stage employees accompanying theatrical productions crossing into the United States were allowed in providing that the labor clause in the contract was the only bar to their admittance.

A lack of observance of this regulation on the part of United States officals at the Canadian border has caused a great deal of inconvenience and bother to some of the Theatrical Alliance members crossing into the United States.

A protest with regard to the matter was sent to the annual meeting here by the Windsor Trades and Labour Council, and, after discussion, the matter was left in the hands of the secretary, P. J. Ryan of Montreal, with instructions to take the question up with the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which is the representative body of labour in the Dominion and also to ask the International president of the Alliance William F. Canavan of New York City, to confer with Secretary Davis and request that definite instructions be issued to the border officials in accord with his previous ruling.

Group Insurance.

The matter of group insurance was considered and it was urged upon all members of the local units to take out group insurance with the Union Life Insurance Company of Washington, D.C., which company has the endorsation of the American Federation of Labour.

A suggestion made by the Government recently to withdraw all licensed picture machine operators with a view to re-examination of them with regard to their knowledge of the new equipment rendered necessary by the introduction of talking pictures, was brought up for consideration by the Toronto Union, and met with the unanimous disapproval of the meeting. It was decided that re-examination was not necessary, in view of the fact that experienced operators would have a great deal of knowledge from their years of actual work in the industry, such experience fitting them for operation of the new equipment in a much higher degree than that shared by new operators who might have a book knowledge, without any actual experience, of the subject.

The protest was endorsed by the convention and instructions given to take such action as might be necessary to dissuade the Government from interfering with licensed operators in this way.

An application was made to amend the Cinematograph Act, with regard to penalties imposed upon managers of theatres and their employees, for infraction of rules. It was decided that such penalties impose disabilities upon the employees which are not shared in like regard by the managers, as, in the case of a violation of the laws of the Act, a manager has the right to a trial in the ordinary way, before a magistrate, and the employee, on the other hand, may be arbitrarily suspended by the inspector for a period of two, three or more weeks that may work hardship with himself and his family. With a view to remedying what they regard as an injustice in such contrary treatment, the meeting is asking for equal punishment for employer and employee alike.

Considerable routine business was transacted and votes of thanks were passed with much enthusiasm by the meeting, to the officials of the Local Union of Peterborough, to the representative of local labor, H. Gainey, who brought greetings to the meeting, to Mayor Denne, to the Empress Hotel management, to all who had assisted in any way in making the visit of the members pleasant and profitable, to the Examiner for publicity given, to President Covert of Toronto and vice president Dempsey of Boston. The members regretted that they were unable to remain for the celebrations of Old Home Week, and recorded their stay in the city as having been enjoyable from beginning to end.

The Alliance elects only official, the secretary-treasurer, and the popular and capable holder of the office, P. J. Ryan of Montreal, was re-elected for his tenth consecutive term, showing the respect held for Mr. Ryan, who, according to several of his contemporaries at the convention, is one of the "shining lights" of the Alliance.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting two or three days prior to the annual convention of the parent organization, in the same city, which will not be decided upon until the annual meeting of the executive, to be held in New York City next January.

PROTECTION OF FRUIT REQUIRED

Hon. R. B. Bennett Will Close To-day His Western Ontario Tour.

TO VISIT COBOURG.

DUNNVILE, Ont., June 25 (By Frank Flaherty, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — Last night Hon. R. B. Bennett found plenty of local material to work on in connection with his tariff policy. He was in the centre of a rich fruit-farming country and was speaking in a town which boasts a large wool manufacturing industry. The Conservative leader claimed both these industries were suffering heavily because of low tariffs.

The crowd which turned out to hear him was one of the largest and by far the most enthusiastic he has yet met on his tour of Western Ontario. To-night he concludes his tour of this part of the province with a meeting at Stratford. To-morrow he turns eastward and has four meetings in the eastern part of the province at Belleville, Campbellford, Alexandria and Cornwall. In the meantime he is making an enforced visit to Cobourg to-day to appear as a witness in a civil action in the County Court.

The Government by reducing the duty on woollen yarns, Mr Bennett contended, had placed the Canadian manufacturer in an unfair competitive position. He had to maintain a standard of wages twice as high as his competitor in Great Britain, and without protection it was impossible or him to do so.

In connection with fruit growing the Conservative leader criticized the government for not enforcing the anti-dumping act. Fruits grown in the United States came on the market earlier than these in Canada and were most plentiful just as the Canadian season was opening. As a result they were dumped into Canada and forced down the price Canadian producers could obtain to an unprofitably low level.

The Conservative chieftain pleaded for a well-balanced tariff policy which would ensure a square deal to agriculture, industry and labor. Furniture manufacturers now enjoyed a 30 per cent. duty he said, while the Canadian farmer was given only a two per cent. duty on his butter. This was not fair to the farmer as he was entitled to protection just as much as the manufacturer.

Campbellford

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davidson, Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Davidson, Maontick, Ont., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Davidson, Mill street.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Gill of Charlestown, West Virginia, are visiting relatives and friends in town.

One of the attractions during Old Home Week will be the bazaar held in Davidson's arena under the auspices of St. Mary's parish. There will be all the usual bazaar attactions and as many novelties as can be aranged. Meals will be served during the day. The bazaar is scheduled to open on the first wonday afternoon of the Old Home Week.

Live life to the full

THIS is the most amazing century in the history of the world. Within the brief span of twenty-five years man has learned to fly, to talk across space, to see through living bodies. No one knows what miracles the next quarter of a century will produce.

But it is not in these more spectacular inventions alone that human progress has leaped ahead.

Since the dawn of civilization women have aged faster than men. The deadly monotonous routine and drudgery of housekeeping has borne them down.

But modern science has taken away the chief causes of drudgery. Through advertising, women by the millions have found a way to have water, light, heat, cold . . . at the touch of a finger. No women of even the most modest means need be a drudge to-day if she reads advertising.

It is advertising that has stimulated an overwhelming demand for these newer, better things of life. And this demand has made possible tremendous new industries furnishing well-paid work for millions of men. An endless circle that has made the average American family to-day the healthiest, happiest and most prosperous in all the world.

Read advertising. Don't miss the new things—live life to the full

LEAFS LOSE AGAIN; DROP TO SIXTH PLACE

NEWARK BEARS WAX MERRY AT EXPENSE OF TORONTO

Tumble To Sixth Place in the Standings By Reason of 6-1 Defeat.

THIRD STRAIGT DEFEAT.

NEWARK, June 25. (C.P.)—When the going is rough one needs a special kind of shock absorber to stand the bumps.

Manager Steve O'Neill is looking for something to soothe his nerves after seeing his Maple Leafs drop their third consecutive game to those fast-stepping Bears.

Yesterday the Leafs battled every second of the way, only to come out on the short end of a 6-1 contest.

It was a bitter pill, for they tumbled to sixth place.

CHICAGO WINS FINAL TUSSLE

Homers By Cuyler, Wilson and Hornsby Feature Chicago's 4-3 Victory.

ROBINS TROUNCE GIANTS.

CHICAGO, June 25. (C.P.) — The Cubs finally won a game from the Pirates, taking the final of the series yesterday by a 4 to 3 count.

Home runs by Cuyler, Wilson and Hornsby provided all of Chicago's runs, while Ervin Brame, the Pirate pitcher, accounted for two runs, and gave Pittsburg a temporary lead with his drive over the fence in right centre in the fifth inning.

TROUNCE NEW YORKERS.

NEW YORK, June 25. (C.P.) — Brooklyn won its second game from the Giants in two days and its fourth in successive meetings yesterday by trouncing New York, 5 to 2, at the Polo grounds.

The Giants played a slipshod game while William Watson Clark held them to four hits in the first seven innings.

MENIE LEADING SOFTBALL GROUP

Leadership At Stake in Bethel-Menie Clash On Wednesday Night.

RACE NARROWING.

BURNBRAE, June 25 (Examiner Correspondence). — As a result of Springbrook's 7 to 2 victory over the Bethel nine on Friday evening, Menie stands for a time at the top of the league. The Springbrook win was not unexpected, as the village team is playing great ball and many predict that they will win the silverware yet. One game of the first half is yet to play, the Bethel at Hoard's tie game re-play, which will likely be at Hoard's lawn social on July 9.

The standing to date is:

	Won.	Lost.
Menie	3	1
Bethel	2	1
Springbrook	2	2
Petherick's	1	3

The league leadership is at stake when Bethel clashes with Menie on the latter's diamond Wednesday evening. Hoard's visit Springbrook on Friday and the northerners are almost certain to win at home.

The league race is growing most exciting with each game, as every team has a chance and the supposedly weaker teams are making the big fellows stretch to win.

A'S INCREASE LEAGUE LEAD

BENGALS BEAT SOX.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (C.P.). —The Athletics increased their lead over the Yankees to nine games yesterday by winning a close decision from the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 4, while the New Yorkers were idle.

Eddie Rommel won his own game in the eighth inning when he broke a 4 to 4 tie with a long double that scored Joe Boley from the first base

SWAMP URBAN FABER

DETROIT, June 25 (C.P.).—Urban Faber, the red-thatched veteran spitballer, who in his last start against the Tigers held them to one hit, yesterday was the victim of a ferocious battering as the Bengals defeated the White Sox, 13 to 4. Five Chicago errors contributed heavily to the Tiger score.

IN SECOND PLACE

ST. LOUIS, June 25 (C.P.).—The Yankees went into the undisputed American league runner-up position yesterday when Cleveland defeated the Browns, 10 to 4, on the New York open date.

Crowder and Ogden were ineffective, allowing 12 hits, two of them home runs by Averill and two circuit wallops by J. Sewell and Falk, whose drive in the first brought in two other Indians.

SOFTBALL.

To-night at Central School grounds Bridgenorth and K. of C. will hook up in a softball fixture. This game should provide some interesting ball. Simmons will likely do the twirling for K. of C. with Forsythe on the rubber for Bridgenorth. The game is called for 6.30 o'clock.

On Thursday night Harrisons and Teco will be the opposing nine and a great game can be looked for that night.

CLOCK MAKERS SECOND PLACE

Defeat C.G.E. By 10-8 Score in Closely-fought Battle.

WIN IN EIGHTH.

In winning by a score of 10-8 from the C.G.E. last night the Western Clock took their second straight game and also pulled up in second place in the league standing.

Curry was the pitching selection of the Clockmakers, and he twirled great ball till the ninth inning, when, after a run had been scored and two men were on base, he was relieved by Delahaye, who allowed only one run. Curry had six strike-outs to his credit and only walked one.

Robinson started for the C.G.E. and was relieved in the sixth after the Clockmakers had touched him for seven runs. Powell then took up the burden and breezed along till the eighth before being scored upon, the Western Clock getting three runs in that session.

Hedger, in right field for the Electrics, was by far the fielding star handling seven chances without a slip. His shoestring catch of Delahaye's hard drive was a gem. Batten, at short for the Big Bens, turned in a nice card.

C.G.E. scored two runs in the first frame on singles by Craighead and Calladine and a double by Playford. They scored four more in the sixth on two hits, and two errors. With the bases filled Maniece misjudged Calladine's fly and it went for a homer. They scored two more in the ninth on a walk, two hits and an error.

The Western Clock scored two in the first, two in the second, one in the third, two in the fourth, and three in the eighth.

The teams:

Western Clock—Batten, ss; Goodson, cf; Clysdale, lf; Kitchen, 1b; Delahaye, 3b; Foley, c; Barry, 2b; Baptie, lf; Beckerman, rf; Hayden, rf; Maniece, lf; Curry, p.

Score by innings:

C.G.E.	200004002—8
Western Clock	02212003—10

Umpires—Board and Vinette.

CHOCOLATE KAYOES JOHNSTON IN FIRST

Cuban Sensation Adds Another To His Unbroken List of Victories.

TORONTO, Ont., June 25 (Canadian Press). — Jackie Johnston's fondest hopes of scaling the pugilistic ladder to the featherweight heights to-day lay crumpled under one amazing right hand blow. Just two minutes and forty-seven seconds of the first round had clicked off in the much heralded battle at the Maple Leaf Stadium last night when Kid Chocolate, Cuban sensation, drove one powerful, straight right hand punch to the jaw, and Johnston was out.

To Johnston it meant the sudden shattering of his dreams. To the Battling Bon-Bon it was just another fight.

One year ago last night Kid Chocolate landed in New York, unheralded and unsung. Last night's victory was the twenty-ninth in the year and 150th in his career. One hundred and twenty-seven opponents have been dropped for the count by the Cuban negro. Not one has scored a victory over the lithe, muscular black boy.

Despite all the glowing optimism of his supporters, Johnston's task was almost a hopeless one. True, hard weeks of training at Midland had been spent by the Toronto boy Careful preparations had been made for his "big chance," but in Kid Chocolate, Johnston was called upon to face one of the most dangerous fighters that has appeared on the pugilistic horizon.

SOCCER GAME ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Woollen Team Withdraws From League—New Schedule Drawn.

To-morrow evening, the Canadian Packing meets the Quakers in the semi-final of the Injured Players Cup on King Edward Park. Kick-off is scheduled for six-thirty sharp. Referee Jack Clark.

The winners of this round will meet the Canadian General in the semi-final of the cup and the Deloro team in the final.

Canadian Packing team will be as follows: Griffin, goal. Westwood and Downer, full-backs. Carmichael, Buchan and Bromley, halves; Downer, Beggs, Preston, Craig and Wilson, forwards. Reserves, Laidler. All players report at the pavilion no later than six o'clock.

New Schedule Drawn.

Saturday, June 29— Semi-final of the Injured Players Cup. C.P.C. vs. Quakers. Refree, J. C. Russell. Linesmen, T. Stewart and J. Hodson.

Wednesday evening, July 3—Final of Spalding Cup. C.P.C. vs. Canadian General. Referee, A. Aitkenhead.

Saturday, July 6—Final of the Injured Players Club. Winners of the three previous named teams vs. Deloro.

Thursday evening, July 11—Deloro vs. Canadian General in a league game.

Canadian Woollens Withdraw.

An official communication was received by the executive intimating that the Dominion Woollens soccer team would not participate any longer in the soccer league.

The letter was received with regret because the Woollens had a good record in the league standing. The Executive accepted the situation as presented to them and gave decision according to the rule. (In the event of any club withdrawing from the league, the complete record of that club shall be struck from the league tables.) All representatives agreeing.

Players Signed and Transferred.

Alf Wilson was given his transfer to the Canadian Packing from the Canadian General, but he cannot play in the Injured Players Cup for the last named team. W. McCracken signed for the Quaker Oats.

OLD BOYS IN BRANTFORD PLANNING TO RETURN

BRANTFORD, June 25. — Alex. Lockington was named convener of the Peterborough Old Boys' Re-union Committee at an enthusiastic meeting of former residents of Peterborough, held in the Y.M.C.A., presided over by Mr. Lockington.

This celebration will take place in Peterborough during the closing days of June and the first week in July. Ways and means were discussed for boosting Brantford (as the Telephone City(by those men from Brantford who will attend the re-union.

The following men were appointed to constitute an advertising committee: H. L. Conway, Gordon Hughes, G. E. Bruce. George H. Williamson was assigned the position of secretary, and he will compile a list of former Peterborough residents now living in Brantford, in order to acquaint them with the particulars of the gathering.

All the men present were appointed to act on the committee for the securing of these names, and it is fully expected that Brantford will be represented in a due place of prominence at this re-union, which, in addition to being a re-union of old boys, is the centennial celebration of the founding of Peterborough.

TORCHY PEDEN, PROFESSIONAL

The flaming thatch of Torchy Peden flashed into prominence recently in the professional world of pedal-pushers. This Vancouver star who, after riding off with everything in the amateur ranks, took a trip across the water to the Olympics and after completing a series of exhibition races at The Hague, Warsaw, London, Glasgow and Paris, established a Scottish record at Glasgow.

A short while ago at Montreal he won all four Canadian indoor championships. At the Cycledrome races at Toronto he decided to turn pro. and paired up with Bobby Walthour to win the 25-mile feature event.

Torchy Peden, Vancouver, and Bobby Walthour, Atlanta, Ga.; eight-sprints and 77 points; 2, Marcel Blondet, France, and Frank Bartell, U.S.A., four sprints and 41 points; 3, Gus Merkle, Germany, and Sammy Gastman, New York, one sprint and 24 points; 4, Jack Costello, Ireland, and Luigi Benazzatto, Italy, no sprints 21 points; 5, Muritz Declerck, Belgium, and Julius Matton, Germany, 14 points. Time, 45.51 3-5.

PHILADELPHIA SPORTSMAN PRESENTS TWO TROPHIES FOR CANADIAN SCULLERS

One Cup Is For Senior Eights ——— Race At Dominion Day Regatta

Also One For 150 Pounds Eights at the Canadian Henley Regatta.

By W. A. HEWITT.
(Special to The Examiner. Copyright.)

TORONTO, June 25.—When George C. Mulloy, founder of the Penn A. C. and the Undine Rowing Clubs of Philadelphia, was here to attend the combined conference of officials of the N.A.A.O. and the C.A.A.O. last February he promised James J. Dolan of the Argonaut Club, president of the Dominion Day Regatta Association, that he would do either one of two things—or possibly both of them—get married and present the D.D.R.A. with a trophy. Whether or not he tied a knot with his tongue that he cannot untie with his teeth is still shrouded with mystery as far as Mr. Dolan is concerned, but today a magnificent trophy for the senior eights race at the Dominion Day regatta has just arrived. And right along with it came one for the 150-pound eights at the Canadian Henley. The illustration accompanying shows the senior eights trophy for the Dominion Day regatta. It is easily the best individual trophy for rowing in Canada. It stands four feet high. The base is ebony surrounded with miniature sweep oars in solid silver. Above this is a piece of green veined marble and the surmounting figure is in solid bronze.

SPEED FOREIGN MAIL.

BUENOS AYRES, June 25. — Air mail has speeded up mail delivery so that it has more than cut in half the former time of the trip from here to Croydon, England. The fastest mail steamers make the trip in 18 days. It takes the airplane, seaplane, steamer and train system only eight and one-half days.

OVERGROWN RADISHES.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, June 25.—The most unusual forest in the world is found near the west coast of Africa. It is on a tableland about six miles in width. The trees thereon have a diameter of about four feet, yet they grow to a height of only one foot. Each tree bears two leaves which attain a length of six feet and breadth of two feet.

CRESCENT CLUB BEATS COGS TO GAIN LOOP LEAD

Score Two Runs in the Fifth Innings To Win 2-0 Battle.

HURLERS' DUEL.

Swanger Plays Good Game For Winners While Crary Stars For Cogs.

Crescents ball club administered a surprising 2 to 0 defeat to the Cognawagas in an E.P.L. game played at Exhibition Park last evening and thereby attained the leadership of the League. It was a well-played, tense game, the few boots that were made not figuring in the result.

Packing three of their six hits into the fifth inning, scored Crescents two runs, and won them the battle. A triple by Fred Jones with none down in the sixth made it appear as though Crescents would get another, and they would have because Lou Lebarr came through with a single, but Jones was caught off third with a snappy peg by Bob Ross. It was the longest hit of the evenoing and it was wasted.

"Bun" Frost twirled smartly for the winners, and the best the Cogs could do was three hits, one very scratchy, from his offerings. He kept the safety blows well scattered: one in each of the first three innings, and after that turned them back hitless. Frost came through in his usual supreme manner in the pinches, and twice the Cogs had a runner on third with one out, only to have Frost prove too big a stumbling block.

Breaks In Fifth.

"Casey" Masterson, on the rubber for the Cogs, kept Crescents safely tied up until the fifth. Until that inning they only obtained one safety, but in the fifth they got three safeties, two solid singles and a double. They also hit him in the sixth.

It was a great pitching duel, with both twirlers working the batters for weaknesses. Neither was trying for strike-outs, but kept the ball placed where if it were hit it was only a pop to the infield.

Swanger, Crescents' right fielder, figured importantly toward the closing part of the game, when Cogs were clouting long drives in his field. He made a great one hand stab of Masterson's hit that was sizzling over his head, and generally handled himself like a big leaguer.

Crary, at second for Cogs, was covering lots of ground, and snicked several hit balls that looked to be docketed for singles. His error was a freak, the ball taking a hop just as he was prepared to nab it, and the mishap did not result in anything. In fact, with the exception of this slip, the Cogs played errorless ball.

In the Cogs' first half of the opening frame, Hillier hit through short, after Corbett had flied out. Stan. Jones hit to third, and Williams fumbled, Hillier going to third. Rooke rolled to Frost and was tossed out and Frost retired Baker on strikes.

Crescents also had an opportunity in the first, Joe Jones getting a hit after Jack Lebarr had flied out to Crary. Heard was out on a fly to Rooke but Jones went to second when Masterson made a bad peg to first to catch him off the bag. Kennaley was safe when Crary fumbled his drive, but the side was retired when Frost struck out.

In the third Cogs had a golden chance. Corbett, first up, was safe on Joe Jones' error. Hillier and Stan. Jones flied out. Rooke hit and Corbett pulled up at third. Baker struck out.

In the same inning, Jack Lebarr, first up for Crescents, drew a walk and stole second. Joe Jones was tossed out at first and Heard fanned. Kennaley flied out to Crary.

In the fifth Crescents got their two runs. Jack Lebarr singled and Joe Jones doubled in centre field. S. Heard's single through short scored both runners. Masterson retired the other batters on strikes.

Fred Jones, first up for Crescents in the sixth, slammed out a clean triple to right. Williams flied out to Masterson. Jones, taking too long a lead off the base, was caught by a smart throw from Ross. Lou Lebarr singled and Swanger flied out to Cripps.

The Cogs drove out long flies in the final, but they were all safely handled by Crescents fielders, and the game was over.

SIGN OF INSANITY?

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 25.—Because a fellow wants a wife is no sign of insanity, but if he just can't live without one then it's time to have him examined. Karl Kreider, who had been advertising extensively in the newspapers for a wife, was recently given a sanity hearing in court.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

From The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

AMANULLAH QUITS.

Though an Asian King, as a general rule,
Is commonly mean as a Mullah,
I was strong for King of the modernistic school
Like our little young friend Amanullah.
He tried to cast off all the old fashioned ways
Of the crafty and rude oriental,
And also his people to glory to raise
By being both kindly and gentle.

He brought to them airplanes and radio sets
He brought to them new Paris novels
He urged them to bathe, and to pay up their debts
And clean up their tumble down hovels.
He pointed his finger to hustling Japan
And said with a touch of bravado
"Why do not you dumbebils make Afghanistan
Like the land of that bright young Mikado."

And what did they do to this hustling young King
Whose notions were modern and snappy
And wanted his people to get in the swing
And be prosperous, busy and happy?
Their statesmen came out with loud howls of dismay
And promptly and boldly disowned him
And kept up the racket till one gloomy day
The army moved in and dethroned him.

And so he went over the border to wait
Still hoping his mossbacked, old nation
Would come to its senses and open the gate
And restore him to power and station.
But now, being listless and beaten and blue
While the people he toiled for defame him,
At last he admits with a sigh that he's through
And I really don't very much blame him.

THEATRES

"THE TRIAL OF MARY DUGAN."

Regardless of contrary opinions as to the merits of the talkies, there can be little doubt of their fascination. A picture like this feature, dramatizing for its watchers the story of a murder trail, would be interesting enough at any time, as a silent movie, but add the human voice that brings such a distinctively human touch to its unfolding, and the result is absorbing. From the first moment to the last, the action is swift, vivid and intense.

Of course the story is sordid and in its essence, strikingly and outstandingly bad. And parents who allow their children to attend a production like "The Trial of Mary Dugan" can rest at ease in the consciousness that they are learning something every minute, if they keep their ears open. What they don't know, the talkies will tell 'em. In the case of Mary Dugan, the screen tells them immoral matters, quite frankly and openly. But while the woman reveals the secrets of a life of immorality, she also suffers and she is on trial for her life. The little bit of action at the beginning that brings in another woman to hear the sentence of execution for a crime similar to Mary's, is a strong bit of realism.

The voices in this picture seem to be much better than what we have had heretofore in the talkie line. The contrasts afforded in the presentation of the differing types is well carried out in their tones also. There is the bored, singsong tone of the court crier; there is the doll-like conversation of the "Follies" doll who acts as a witness; there is the accented speech of the French maid, enlisting the aid of her hands in emphasis of her dialected sentences; there is the stinging, whip-lashing thunder of the prosecuting Attorney, using words as a flail to beat down the woman in the dock, and there is the broken voice of Mary Dugan herself, fighting for her wretched life.

The character types are immense. Norma Shearer is the frail beauty of the "Follies" who enchains the fancy of the millionaire, Edgar Rice, and who, as Mona Tree, is on trial for his murder; Lewis Stone is Edward West, the lawyer for the defence who finds himself involved later in the murder; Raymond Hackett is Jimmy Dugan, a brother of Mary and profiter from her unfortunate life. But the outstanding actor is District Attorney Galwey, a vital, fateful figure in the trial, played by H. B. Warner. Then there is the pompous judge, the witnesses who range from the pursy, conceited Police Inspector to the black elevator boy with his soft, smooth language, and the bevy of women who come to the witness stand in the course of the trial.

It is an absorbing story, with two bad women as its prime characters. But the effect of their wickedness is lost in the interest of the story that unfolds itself for the audience and the amount of punishment that the criminal is called upon to bear. To tell the story would spoil its effect for those who will throng to see and hear it.

The comedy, entitled "The Instalment Collector" is another of those eye-openers of the talkies where the words make the fun, rather than the action.

KEEN GAMES PREDICTED FOR E.P.L.

Crescents climbed out in front of the East Peterborough League last night by winning over Cognawagas in a close, keen game. It wasn't a surprise; surprises have stopped in this league. Cogs at the beginning of the season with a lineup of stars of unquestioned merit, looked to have the thing cinched in no uncertain manner; but it hasn't turned out that way. Fans are promised some great games before the championship of this league is settled some months hence.

There are three teams in the battling now, and on their late performances all have an equal chance. Bethany after dropping their first two games, have come along fast, taking three in a row, and one of them was from the Cogs on their own ball park.

The standings are:

	Won	Lost
Crescents	4	1
Cognawagas	3	2
Bethany	3	2
Hastings	0	5

Bethany can tie things up proper by defeating Crescents on Friday night in Bethany. Doc. Hamilton's boys are quite capable of doing it, too, if they play as they did against Cogs here.

RAYS NEED VICTORY HERE TO-MORROW NIGHT.

To take the league-leading Port Hope nine into camp is the job that the Rays have on their hands here to-morrow night. The Port Hope team of High School boys seasoned by Boyd and "Shinny" Moise, two veterans truly, have been hitting along winning ball games, until they now stand at the pinnacle of the Lakeshore League. It's a case of necessity with Manager Primeau to beat this crew, if they have any desire to stay in the running.

"Sailor" Maudsley is being depended upon to do the trick, and he is in great form. The rest of the crew have been practising steadily.

The game is scheduled for Exhibition Park at 5.45 p.m., and the hat collection will be the order of the day.

SAIL BOAT RACE ON SATURDAY.

Those in charge of the water sports program for this summer at South Beach, should be commended for their ambitious plans, and the success of their first efforts. A collection of the fastest outboard motor hydroplanes in Ontario speeded in the races there last Saturday, and the number of sailing boats and competition should increase during the summer.

This Saturday at 2.30 an open sailing event for the South Beach trophy will be held. It is anticipated that sailing boats domiciled in the Kawartha Lakes as well as Toronto, will be present.

MARSH PRAISES CARTER.

Lou Marsh is more than pleased wth his purchase of D'Arcy Carter's own-designed Canada Flyer. In eulogizing on the boat, Lou in his column, "With Pick and Shovel" writes:" "But the rise of these water whippet drivers has been no more sensational than the rise of young D'Arcy Carter of Peterborough in the small boat designing game. This twenty-year-old lad—he looks more like a lad who would be flirting with a violin than a youngster who designs racing boats—has more class to him than he is given credit for possessing,even in his home town.

"He has turned out, in the Canada Flyer, the boat which won at Frenchman's Bay and Clear Lake, a scow-designed racing craft, which looks suspiciously like the best boat to carry these big Johnson quad sea horses, and the larger types of racing motors that has yet shown in Canada. Up-to-date boats designed by Carter, have won every free-for-all race in Ontario, and the boats are not only delivering the goods in rough water, but also in smooth, and they have been racing against the best products of the best American and Canadian designers in the game."

THE FORWARD PASS.

There appears to be an idea in some quarters that the Western Canada football teams are going to have an advantage over the eastern squads in the Dominion title games, owing to the fact that the forward pass will be used throughout the season by the westerners, while in the east, it will be used in the final game only.

Charlie Grafton, writing in the London Advertiser, is one of the men who fears that the pass is going to revolutionize the game, but Charles should remember that past games between the east and the west show that the boys from the praires need a mighty big handicap of some kind in order to make the final each year at all interesting. Here is how Mike Rodden, the Tiger coach, views the matter in his column in the Toronto Globe:

"Announcement that the onside pass will be given a trial by the Canadian Football Union, has been greeted with applause in Western Canada, a section of the country which always did favor innovations taken from United States football. In commenting on the partial adopton of the play, the Regina Leader says that 'Canadian football will no longer have to rely on two bucks and a kick.' Will they ever learn? It is most unfair to make such a grossly exaggerated statement. It is true there have been teams in Canada who relied mainly on two bucks and a kick, but they were few and far between. Under the rules that governed football last fall it was possible to open up the play. Surely western critics discovered this to their sorrow, in the Dominion final at Hamilton. The Tigers repeatedly rounded the ends, and in scoring four touchdown got three of them via the extension route, in which Leadley, Small, Walker, Broadway and Simpson threw the ball around with reckless abandon. The Montreal Winged Wheelers depended mostly on the ability of their speedy backfielders to complete end runs. Queens seniors have favored this sytsem since 1922. The great Argonaut machine of 1921 made the western challengers look ridiculous in the national final, Conacher and Batstone having a field day in advancing the ball by the wide-passing route. The majority of eastern football tutors have tried to open up the play. They did not always succeed, mainly because field generals were overcareful. In the last twenty years the only eastern teams that relied almost solely on plunging and kicking were those that wore the tricolor of Queen's in 1911, 1912, 1913, 1914, and 1919 and 1920. They won two games. The west, sold to United States plunging tactics, has failed to make a good showing in national final tests. Eastern Canadian tactics were ignored until recently. Perhaps the onside pass is essential if the sport is to thrive in the west. It may be that its adoption will make the play more open in the east, but the age-worn and inaccurate story that the east depended almost solely on two bucks and a kick must not go unchallenged."

FORMER SPORTS PROMOTER FOUND DEAD BY ROADSIDE

NIGHT CLUB OWNER.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 25 (Canadian Press).—The mysterious killing of Frank Marlow, boxing manager and former night club owner, was believed by the police to-day to be due to a "beer war."

He was found by two motorists last night among a clump of bushes near the Flushing Long Island Cemetery, and died a few minutes later.

Police were inclined to think that he had been "taken for a ride" by gangsters. They found he had dined alone last night in a West 52nd Street restaurant, and his later movements were a mystery.

Marlow, whose correct name was Frank Curto, was 38 years old, and had only returned to this city on Friday from Boston, where he had spent several months in promoting boxing matches.

"Condemned To Plow," Veteran Race Horse Stages Comeback To Win $10,000 Prize Derby

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 25 (Canadian Press). — Condemned and sold a few months ago by his former owner for $70 because he considered him "fit only for the plow," a three-year-old horse named Rabalo to-day walked off with the Hungarian National Derby and a $10,000 prize aaginst a field of 21 of the country's thoroughbreds.

When Rabalo's old master consigned him to the farm he was bought by a local tavern keeper, who found him too short to hitch to a cart. He turned him over to a friend who after a few months' training prepared him to race again, the action culminating today when he assumed the proudest place in the Hungarian turf.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South's hand is of a distinct suit type, with which a No Trump bid is unthinkable unless partner has bid Clubs. It is also of the introductory type of four-card suit hands, as distinguished from the informative type. This distinction it is important to note, as it frequently affects the choice of the suit bid initially, for example:

Informative Type (One Spade)	Introductory Type (One Diamond)
♠ A Q 10 9	♠ A Q 10 9
♥ Q 8	♥ Q 8 4 2
♦ A Q 10 2	♦ A Q 10 2
♣ 10 4 2	♣ 10

North, though well able to assist Diamonds, has required minimum values for an improving take-out. East, while holding five of West's suit, is otherwise too weak to accord a first round assist. South, content with North's Heart bid, passes, as does West whose values are insufficient to warrant an unassisted rebid.

Contract: The Contract bidding is the same as in Auction, except that South, following North's two Heart bid, increasing the contract to four Hearts, concluding the bidding.

The Play

East leads the fourth best of partner's suit, the 4 of Clubs. West wins with the Ace and, having no better lead, returns his original fourth best Club the 7. North (Declarer) wins with the King of Clubs and before discarding from Dummy, stops to consider how best to play the hand. He has already lost one Club trick and must lose at least one Heart trick. Therefore, in order to go game he can afford to lose but one more trick. Should he lose the Spade finesse, then he must win both Diamond finesses, a possibility too remote to play for unless nothing better offers. Should the Spade finesse win, then he can afford to lose one of the Diamond finesses, but not both. So summed up, North proceeds to play the hand with this end in view.

He discards the 9 of Spades in Dummy on his King of Clubs; leads the 3 of Spades and finesses the Queen of Spades; leads the Ace of Spades and follows with the 10, trumping with the 3 of Hearts. So played, his hand and the Dummy hand are stripped of both Clubs and Spades. Declarer next leads the Ace of Hearts and follows with the 7 of Hearts, West winning the second lead with the King of Hearts. Whatever lead East makes from this point on he can make but one of his two Diamond tricks. North making four odd on the hand.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South has a sound Spade bid but no sound re-bid. West has a close decision between a defensive Club bid and a negative double. He prefers the Club overcall for several reasons, chief of which is the suit distribution held. Should he double and partner respond with two Hearts, he would hardly feel justified, with but three Hearts, in assisting what may be a weak four card Heart suit; nor would he feel justified in assisting a forced Diamond response with but two cards of the suit. Another weakness of the hand is the holding of three small Spades, presumably immediate losers. Consequently, West proposes to show his supporting strength for a possible "free" take-out by a direct overcall. Thus, while West would not feel justified in assisting a forced bid by East, he would feel justified in assisting, if necessary, a free bid. East has no occasion in this situation to take out by a bid of more than two Diamonds. Whatever may be the subsequent bidding, East can bid more Diamonds if expedient.

Contract: The bidding by South and West at Contract is the same as at Auction, but East has occasion here to jump his take-out to at least four Diamonds. A take-out of but two Diamonds might die. A take-out of three Diamonds (one trick more than necessary) would be a "forcing" take-out and would give a wrong picture of the hand. Thus, East must jump either to four or to five Diamonds, the former the safer and more logical bid. West cannot possibly read East's four Diamond bid as anything more than an invitation for West to go to five, if able. Consequently a six Diamond bid by West would be ridiculous.

The Play

On South's opening lead of the King of Spades, North plays the Jack. South leads a low Spade, North winning with the Ace and returning the 2. East (Declarer) trumps with the 2 of Diamonds and plans the play of the hand.

He can count but ten tricks in the combined hands, seven Diamonds, two Hearts, and one Club. While it is remotely possible that the Queen of Hearts could be dropped on two leads of that suit, thereby establishing the Jack for the eleventh trick needed, East has another string to his bow in first attempting the establishment of a Club trick, upon which to discard the losing Heart. As this attempt does not sacrifice the possibility of a third Heart trick, nothing can be lost by the attempt. Since the establishment of a Club trick requires the use of every entry in Dummy that it possesses. East must start the Clubs at once instead of leading trumps. Accordingly, he leads the 10, winning with Dummy's Ace and returning a small Club which he ruffs.

Declarer then secures two more leads of Clubs by entering Dummy twice, first with the King of Diamonds, then with the King of Hearts. The fourth Club lead establishes the thirteenth Club in West's hand. Declarer then exhausts trumps, enters Dummy with the Ace of Hearts and discards his losing Heart on the good Club, thus making five-odd at Diamonds.

SPARK'S CIRCUS ENTERTAINERS MAKE BIG HIT WITH CITIZENS

In Atmosphere of Cleanliness It Proved Big Attraction Yesterday.

ANIMALS WELL TRAINED.

Two Fine Demonstrations of Real Entertainment Were Given.

"When I go to the circus
My heart is full of woe
For thinking of the people
Who used to watch the show
And now are down below."

Well, the circus has come and gone. The pink lemonade is slaking the thirst of other children, as this appears in print, the clowns are making wise cracks for other men and women who sit on hard boards to watch the performing lions and tigers and horses, and the "barkers" are telling the world in other places.

Just like the Arab, who "silently folds his tent" and departs, so the circus steals away in the night. Only the folding process of the tent is done more publicly, because a fascinating part of the action of any circus is in watching the swiftness and skill of those quiet black men in dingy coats who come and go like shadows while the main actors are performing the while the band blares away on its overhead platform. All is set in readiness under the big top as the crowd files in. The show goes on, and "presto, chango," the ropes are down, the nets are folded up, the big iron cage that holds the man-eaters of the jungle has disappeared in a twinkling, and all that remains for the workmen, as the crowd makes its way to the exits, two hours later, is the folding of the big white top itself. It is just one of the striking pieces of the program of legerdemain of the big show.

Sparks' Circus proved itself to be a popular attraction here yesterday. It has an atmosphere of cleanliness that makes it very likeable. The costumes and trappings are new and bright, the show is clean throughout, the animals appear to be cared for in the best possible way and to be in the pink of condition, and the employees, from the ticket sellers to the ushers, are polite, attentive and courteous. As a circus, it makes an excellent impression on its patrons.

Sparks' Circus offers a demonstration of a compact type of entertainment that aims for quality rather than quantity. Instead of keeping four rings running full blast and at top speed, in a fashion that allows only one-third of the patrons to see possibly one-third of the show, it gives a slower performance in three rings that makes for a more satisfactory entertainment. And in between, there are the clowns, those indispensable adjuncts to any circus. Paul Wenzel is the captain of this bunch of gloom-dispellers and his friendly quips and wise cracks kept the crowd in good humor, while the antics of his merry men gave a capering atmosphere to the entire performance. There were tall and short clowns, fat and thin clowns, clowns with ghostly attire and clowns in tramp suits, clowns with waddling, frightened ducks toting them along, and clowns masquerading as turtles and skeleton clowns. They were a giddy bunch.

Animal Acts

The favorite items on a bill of fare for a circus are always the wild animal acts, and Sparks' Circus excels in this respect. Franz Woska drills two groups of the big jungle cats in a manner that sends delightful anticipatory thrills up and down the spines of the watchers, expecting momentarily to see the intrepid trainer torn to pieces. However, the show progresses without any such untoward accident, even if the fans do lose an added thrill by the omission.

The huge black-maned African lions were a snappy bunch of beasts who regarded their trainer with constant suspicion and went through their paces with reluctant slowness. But the royal Bengal tigers were, on the surface, at least, more docile, several of the great beasts springing into action before the trainer gave the word. Mr. Woska even went so far as to caress one of the tawny, striped felines, a privilege the audience enjoyed from the safe security of seats barred from the endearments of the big beasts. The tigers were a well-trained group and appeared to be absolutely in hand. They went through various manoeuvres in snappy style and seemed to be glad to get the thing over with. One of them nursed a sore paw, just like a big cat.

The third wild animal act was the puma training of a group of these treacherous looking cats, by Miss Harriet Gilfoyle, who went so far as to let one of them pounce down upon her back from an overhead stand.

The elephants provided their usual docile exhibition of fine training, in their carrying out, in groups of three, on three rings, of various funny stunts that included dancing to the tune of "East Side, West Side," and a little shimmying as a concluding caper. The three small pachyderms who occupied the central stage were funny baby actors in the big family group.

Another outstanding exhibition of animal training was that of two groups of beautiful horses. In one ring were the chestnuts and white, feather plumes of yellow, white and green on their aristocratic, shining heads, while the farther ring held the sorrels and blacks, with red, white and blue plumes. To watch these intelligent creatures go through their military movements is to see the noblest animal of all at its best, and the crowd thoroughly enjoyed the demonstration of skill and intellect, on the part of trainers and trained alike.

A decidedly pleasing opening was the musical fantasy of far-off Egypt, in "Lily of the Nile," an extravaganza gowned in the costumes of the Orient, with silk-clad dancing girls and black Nubian slaves. On an elephant's howdah rode the Princess Cleo (Miss Alice Sohn) who, with her companion, Prince Luxor (George Sohn), both possessed of splendid voices, sang finely over the loud music of the band.

Later, came the attractions of the triple rings; in acts by white collies, Shetland ponies and highly trained seals. The swinging Fireflies in mid-air sang as they performed graceful movements on the flying swings; the Five Flying Walters did some breath-taking stunts on the trapeze; the Wright Duo had a novelty equilibristic act on a ladder that was acclaimed by the crowd as a marvellous demonstration of skill and ease and the Nelson Family, with mother and daughter in charge of five sons and daughters, did some extraordinarily clever stunts in tumbling and acrobatic work, in a risley act par excellence. One of the girls had a "walk-over" stunt on the circus track that took the breath of the crowd.

Rosina, the slack-wire performer, in her glittering costume, gave a splendid exhibition of agility on the mid-air wire, dancing on the slender thread and concluding by jumping bodily over a tiny table and regaining her balance on the opposite wire.

A bareback performance on stout white horses was another clever act that earned the rousing applause of the crowd.

In conclusion, there was the usual exhibition of skilful riding by a group of men and women, mounted on splendidly groomed horses. They gave exhibitions of a horse's impression of night-club dancing" and of an old-time silver clog. Miss L. Hauser did a "full-bodied layback" with her horse rearing in mid-air, wearing the only side-saddle outfit in the group, conspicuous for its grace and flowing lines. Then there was a demonstration of high and broad jumping by the skilful riders, and the circus ended for another season with the usual program of Wild West Show and boxing match.

The Quick, Sure Way to End

ECZEMA

Eczema not only repulses with its encrusted, cracked skin, often oozing with matter—driving people away for fear of catching it—but the itching and soreness are enough to make one crazy.

What wouldn't you give to be absolutely free from Eczema this time next week? You can but you must use Peterson's Ointment.

Peterson's is so powerfully healing and soothing that the first application takes out the soreness and stops itching. After a few days' treatment your skin starts to clear—that ugly crust leaves and this time next week your clear-petal-smooth skin will be a source of rapturous delight to you.

FORMER RESIDENT EAGER TO RETURN

Son Makes Several Corrections To Recently Published Sketch of Father.

J. A. McNeil, managing editor of The Montreal Gazette, writing to R. M. Glover about Peterborough's Old Home Week, makes several corrections to a recently published sketch of his father, Alex. McNeil.

Part of his letter is as follows: "My sister in Barrie has forwarded to me a clipping which I presume is from a recent issue of The Examiner, sent to my father by his sister, Mrs. William Hudson, who lives in Peterborough. It is headed "Banquet Planned for Old School Boys." The Alex McNeil therein referred to is obviously my father, as he is the sole surviving son of Alex McNeil, auctioneer and merchant in Peterborough for many years; Mrs. Hudson being the sole surviving daughter. There are two errors, however, in the description of my father, as he is not a barrister, but was in mercantile work all his active life; while he is not 94 years old, but only 87, having been born on February 17, 1842.

"When I last saw my father in April he had been ill for several weeks, but my sister tells me he is up again, and very anxious to go to Peterborough for Old Home Week.

My grandfather was one of Peterborough's business pioneers. Born in northern Ireland in 1805, he must have come to Peterborough shortly after 1830, as all his eight children except his eldest daughter were born there. He died in 1889. As a boy I spent a summer and fall with him, about 1882 or 1883, in a house on Water street, just across from the Court House, and about two blocks from where the post office then stood. Hon. Mr. Stratton told me that he remembered my grandfather well, as he used to get his sale bills printed at The Examiner."

The above is a rough plan of the arrangements that have been made for those who are to be taken care of in Confederation Square for the unveiling of the memorial on Sunday next. After the next-of-kin, the ex-service men and families and the military units have been taken care of, there is a very great deal of room for the general public, and with the installation of the loud speakers, every one present on this occasion should hear the ceremony. The committee in charge of these arrangements, through Col. C. H. Ackerman, chairman, has submitted the following which will be carried out: Ex-service men will parade at 1.45 p.m. from Aylmer Street, between Charlotte and King Streets, to be inspected by Colonel the Rev. Canon Scott. Dress, mufti with medals. Headed by the band of the Toronto Scottish, the parade will proceed to Confederation Park and will occupy a section, specially reserved. The next-of-kin will occupy a reserved section immediately in front of the Memorial, and admission to this enclosure will be by ticket only, and it is requested that written or personal application for these cards be made to the Chamber of Commerce at once. See page 14 for definition of next-of-kin.

REGISTER

Of Social and Business Meetings

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance, and reserve, evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

NO FIRE CALLS.

No fire calls were received by the fire department yesterday.

The men are finishing the newly laid hardwood floor and are busily engaged in scraping and sandpapering.

SAILING UP ROADWAY.

It is rare that boats sail up Charlotte Street, but such was the case yesterday. A long white launch moved slowly up the street, Port Hope-bound—on a truck.

The launch is owned by T. R. Fauld, a motor dealer in London, Ontario. He intends to use it on the artificial lake that is being constructed in that vicinity by blocking up the Thames River. This lake is to be about six miles in length by two in width.

The boat was one of the regular "Autocraft" type which are designed and built by the Peterborough Canoe Company. The craft had all the comforts and conveniences of an automobile. It will be launched at Port Hope and will run across Lake Ontario, through the Welland Canal and up Lake Erie to a point near the Thames River. From there it will be taken to its destination by truck.

BUSH FIRE ON ROAD.

A bush fire on the Lakefield Road about three miles from the village gave some of the distant residents a thrill thinking that some poor individual was suffering a loss from fire. The reflection of the blaze lit up the skies so it could be seen miles away.

MINOR CAR ACCIDENT.

An accident that resulted in minor damages to bumpers and fenders occurred last night on South George Street, J. Collins, of R. R. 1, Hastings, was making a "U" turn when a car driven by A. Reynolds, Gilmour Street, collided with the first car. The owners agreed to pay their own damages.

IMPROVING ROADBED.

A layer of calcium chloride, to help keep down the dust, is being laid on the road from Peterborough to Nassau, while the Lakefield Road has been freshly gravelled in many spots.

The oiling on the Port Hope-Peterborough Highway is still being done, but the oil on the road from Bailleboro to Bewdley has dried in so as not to inconveniene the motorist.

WORKING OVERTIME.

Workmen have been busy for the last few days digging up Walton Street preparatory to laying a new sewer. These men work until nine o'clock each night with the hope that the task will be complete before Old Home Week.

"CANADA FLYER" ON DISPLAY.

The window of the north Tec® store offers considerable attraction to the aquatic-minded element of the city's population. The sea-flea outfit, "Canada Fyer," that won the open outboard motor boat race at Clear Lake last Saturday is on display with two Johnston Sea Horse motors and the Ardiel Trophy that was won in the race.

The boat is of the sea-sled design with the scoop bottom and step, presenting almost a square appearance. It was designed by Carter Brothers of Peterborough, and is now owned by Lou Marsh, of Toronto, who bought it at the race on Saturday. Its Johnston 32 horse-power motor is clamped in position for action in the window display.

LONDON, June 25.—Captain, Rt. Hon. E. A. Fitzroy, speaker of the old House, will be re-elected Speaker of the new House when it opens today. Standing at the bar of the House of Lords he will, in the old time phrase, "submit himself with all humility to His Majesty's gracious approbation."

On behalf of the commoners he will make a formal claim to "all the ancient rights and undoubted privileges" for which the British Parliament fought so many bitter fights in the past.

"Repairing" to the Chamber whence they came, the members of the House of Commons will begin the long process of either taking the oath or making affirmation, and they will clear the way for the real business in the week following. On July 2, the formal opening takes place, with the Lord Chancellor, Lord Sankey, reading the Kings Speech from the throne.

From the government caucus yesterday came two announcements. One was semi-official, to the effect that the government is consulting the Dominions on the signing of the optional clause, providing for compulsory arbitration by the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague of all disputed questions of International law.

OLD BOY HEADS BIG U. S. FIRM

Mr. Armstrong first went to Montreal, and from there to Cincinnati, where he entered the business of Mabley-Carew, of which he is now president and managing director since the death of Mr. Carew, who was also an old Peterborough boy.

The business of which Mr. Armstrong is the head, is one of the largest in Cincinnati, employing 600 to 1,000 hands, as the season of the year warrants it, and enjoys the confidence of the purchasing public in that city to a large degree.

Mr. Armstrong states that shortly the concern will be a co-operative one, and will be owned by the employees, a policy he advocated a few years ago. He credits a great deal of the fine success and continued progress of the company to newspaper advertising. The company spends exclusively in newspaper advertising over $200,000 a year. This decision was arrived at after experimenting with different other forms of advertising media.

Mr. Armstrong is a great booster for Cincinnati, which he says is 80 per cent. American-born, and while the population is between five and six hundred thousand, there is an additional two hundred thousand within ten to twelve miles of the city, but they work and spend their money in Cincinnati. He is glad to get back to Peterborough for a few days to see relatives and former friends, but is getting so enthusiastic over Old Home Week that he will likely forget business for a longer period than intended, and will remain to meet many old friends now on their way home for the celebration next week.

HEAVY FIRING IS REPORTED BORDER RUM RUNNERS ESSAY DASH THROUGH U. S. BLOCKADE

Residents Are Aroused By the Roar of Guns Near Belle Isle.

NO CASUALTIES REPORTED.

$32,000 Worth of Liquor Is Seized By Border Patrols.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press).—Guns flamed again early to-day along the upper reaches of the Detroit River as the rum smugglers essayed another dash through the United States blockade.

Heavy firing was reported off the foot of Caron Avenue, in Windsor, and about five o'clock this morning there was a general movement of speed craft in the East Windsor sector, followed by the intermittent roar of guns.

The activity off the East Windsor waterfront, near Belle Isle, was of such intensity as to arouse residents of Riverside Drive from their beds. Speed boats churned and roared in the channel denoting to the casual observer, concentrated dash across the river at a vulnerable point. The firing followed.

Patrols Did Firing.

The rum runners, as near as can be learned to-day, did not engage in battle. The firing evidently was done by American prohibition enforcement officers chasing the suspected craft back into Canadian waters. There were no known casualties.

Liquor valued in Canada at $20,000 and in Detroit at $32,000 was seized early to-day by the American Customs patrol who intercepted a speed boat attempting to land near the mouth of the Clinton River, in the Mount Clemens area, it was reported.

ANNUAL SICKNESS COSTS CANADA $311 MILLIONS

Yearly Loss in Future Earnings Is Intimated at Billion Dollars

TORONTO, Ont., June 25—(Canadian Press).—Writing in the current issue of the Canada Lancet and Practitioner, Dr. J. W. S. McCullough of the Provincial Health department states that the total loss cost of sickness in Canada annually exceeds $311,000,000 and the consequent yearly loss of future earnings reaches a total of $1,000,000,000.

Old Age Pensions and Mothers' Allowances do not constitute a large proportion of the expense, says Dr. Mc Cullough and the greatest losses are through individual sickness, over 83 per cent. of which is borne by the individual. "Two percent. of the population is sick all the time and unable to work, which entails a loss of 21,800,000 days' work and an equivalent loss of productivity" says the article.

Famous Irish Castle Is Destroyed By Fire

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, June 26 (Canadian Press).—Glenarm Castle, the County Antrim, home of the Macdonnell family, which has been associated with North-Eastern Ulster for many centuries, was destroyed by fire during the night.

All that remained to-day of the historic pile, erected in 1636, were blackened walls and servants' quarters. Valuable furniture and pictures were consumed. The Earl and Countess of Antrim, whose seat is at Glenarm, were not at home, being away on a London visit.

COUPLE RETURN FROM MANITOBA

Took Eight Days to Motor From Prairie Farm.

ENJOYED TRIP

Talk about spontaneous combustion. It's getting into Old Home Week. A couple living on lands of Manitoba, got the literature of Old Home Week, and wished they could come. The longing of the wife exceeded that of the husband, who had imported his wife from Peterborough. A strapping fine fellow.

Up to nine days ago the coming along was something that they handled with hesitation and uncertainty. But the yeast was working. Night of the 19th inst. the couple retired to a night's sleep. At three o'clock in the dim light of a Western morning the husband was wakened by the wife. Asked, "What is it, what's wrong?" "Nothing, William, only we'll go." Nuff said. A rural man was engaged over the rural phone line to look after the farm, and the car was made spic and span, some provisions packed in, with a tent, the children sandpapered and varnished, and they started on the long track through Minnesota, down to Chicago, reached Detroit, wheeled into Peterborough yesterday morning, eight days on the road. Said he had the time of his and her life, for it was their wedding trip, even if delayed for fourteen years.

The party was registered, and outfitted with badges and are calling on friends of the imported wife and being well welcomed. This showed the real Old Home Week spirit.

The written history of China goes back 4000 years, or nearly twice as lang as that of Europe.

WHERE WORLD HISTORY WAS MADE

Former Officer of Royal Canadian Dragoons Will Not Return Home.

MARRIED IN MEXICO.

At Present Is Without Money and Is Looking For a Job.

MEXICO CITY, June 26.—(By Fred Griffin, Special to The Examiner).—Major William Rupert Kingsford of Toronto was the most astonished man in the world when I walked up to him this afternoon in the lobby of the Hotel Cosmos, where he is staying with his wife, and told him that I was from a Canadian newspaper.

So astonished was he that he floored me in turn with a long stroke of Spanish. Then he saw my blank look.

"I am sorry, I forgot you did not know Spanish," he said "and I find it hard to speak English. I have spoken Spanish so much."

Left Seven Years Ago

Later he referred to himself as a Rip Van Winkle. This former officer of the Royal Canadian Dragoons has been out of touch for seven years with the English speaking world which he used to know. He is to be pitied for he is a man not sure of himself, without funds, without friends, except such backing as British officials have given him. He is a man looking for a job, looking for a future in Mexico, since he means to stay in Mexico, though he must not go back to the State of Jalisco for the present. That was the state where he found his wife.

I told Major Kingsford that his family had expressed the wish that he would return to Canada with his wife.

"I shall not do that," he said emphatically," I should like to take a trip some time, but three months in Canada would kill her. She has always lived in the open air, so have I for the laist seven years."

Mrs. Kingsford was with her husband when he returned to the hotel from lunch, she went directly upstairs. She proved petite, with raven black hair, which hung tied by a dark ribbon in long tresses down her back.

Never Worn a Hat

"My wife has never worn a hat in her life" remarked Major Kingsford later. "She does not know English."

All his talking in Jalisco was done in Spanish, for he was alone among Mexicans.

It was Mrs. Kingsford who drove

Sir William Mulock Present.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — The carillon from the Peace Tower this afternoon pealed forth the solemn notes of funeral hymns as the great procession of men prominent in Caanda's national affairs moved slowly up Metcalfe Street and along Wellington, following the remains of the Dominion's distinguished statesman, Right Hon. W. S. Fielding to its last resting-place in Beechwood Cemetery. There was a private service at the Fielding residence on Sandy Hill at two o'clock, after which the cortege proceeded to the First Baptist Church on Elgin Street. Leaving the church the procession followed Laurier Avenue to Metcalfe

Many Hearts Are Sad.

Many parts of Canada were represented among the hundreds who, sad of heart and with many a reminiscent thought of bygone days, attended the funeral. The people of Ottawa who had loved and honored Mr. Fielding as a fellow-citizen and as a great Canadian joined in throngs.

Perhaps the most significant moments of the solemn march were when the cortege moved along Wellington Street skirting Parliament Hill. Many of those who now paid their deep respects had listened to all or nearly all of the seventeen budget speeches which Mr. Fielding had delivered during the many years that he was a dominant force in the Parliament of this country.

Sir William Mulock Present.

One figure among the honorary pall-bearers was particularly marked. It was that of Sir William Mulock. Of the "Cabinet of the Talents" which Sir Wilfrid Laurier formed after the Liberals swept the country in 1896, Sir William and Sir Charles Fitzpatrick now alone remain. Sir Charles was unable to attend today's services, but Sir William was Militia Units From City and District Will Be Present at Impressive Ceremony.

The unveiling of Peterborough's War Memorial on Sunday will be a spectacle that has been unsurpassed in this city. Men of fame and prominence will assist at the ceremony.

Sir Arthur Currie, Commander of Canadian Forces during the War, will unveil the monument, and Archdeacon F. G. Scott, of Quebec, the beloved padre of the Canadian soldiers in France, and the greatest Canadian poet since the recent death of Bliss Carman, will dedicate the magnificent memorial.

Colonel Henry C. Osborne, of Ottawa, the director of Canadian War Graves Committee, and a member of the Imperial War Graves Committee, will also be present at the ceremony, as well as Bishop Sweeney, of Toronto.

The Band of the Toronto Scottish Regiment, as well as the Peterborough bands, will be present, and the musical program will be the most dramatic ever presented in the city. The singing will be led by the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, under Martin Chenhall, A.R.C.O., and the musical finis will be most spectacular.

Militia units from the city and district and all returned men's organizations will also be present.

CAPTAIN OF BRITIH STEAMER DENIES SEEING DERELICT PLANE

Apprentices Reported Hearing Engine of Airplane Friday.

90 MILES FROM AZORES.

Machine Had No Lights and the Weather Was Showery.

GIBRALTAR, June 26.—(Canadian Press).—Captain Pirie of the British steamer Greldon, interviewed here to-day, said that reports he had sighted a derelict airplane 120 miles from the Azores, were untrue.

The captain said two apprentices had reported to him that the engines of an airplane were heard working normally at 2:00 a.m. ship time, or 3:37 a.m. Greenwich Meridian Time Saturday morning (10:37 Eastern Standard Time, Friday night). The point was about 90 miles from the Azores in latitude 36.32 north and longitude 23.03 west.

The machine had no lights and the weather at that time was showery and very dark.

(The position given by the captain would place the plane southwest of the Azores, whereas most of the searching thus far carried out for the missing Spanish flyers has been northeast of the Azores. The airmen left Cartagena at 3.50 p.m. Greenwich time which would mean that the airplane motors reported were heard almost twelve hours later. They had expected to reach the Azores in about sixteen hours. If it was the Spanish plane that the apprentices heard, it would indicate they were making excellent time).

Royal Automobile Breaks Down On London Street And Queen Is Given Lift Home By Passing Motorist

LONDON, England, June 26. (C.P.) — Queen Mary had the unusual experience of being given a lift home by a passing motorist when the Royal automobile broke down this afternoon in the shopping district near Oxford street.

Her Majesty was on the way to Buckingham Palace from an early afternoon's shopping when it was found that the starter of her car was jammed and could not readily be fixed.

C. A. Harrison, a civilian, noticed the Queen's plight, and immediately offered her the use of his car.

"My car was very dusty and I apologized for that, but the Queen said it was all right, and stepped into the car with her lady-in-waiting.

"We had no chauffeur in livery, but the Queen made light of that, too, and I took the wheel myself, and drove Her Majesty back to the Palace."

JOHN R. HERON IS BID ADIEU

PRESENTATION MADE.

John R. Heron, who for the past six years has been a member of The Examiner editorial staff, recently as managing editor, left this morning for Toronto to commence his new duties as assistant city editor of The Toronto Daily Star.

This important position on a metropolitan daily is a tribute alike to Mr. Heron's own ability and to the services he has rendered in various capacities as a member of The Examiner family, and he carries with him the best wishes of his former associates here.

In taking farewell of him last evening members of the editorial, business office and mechanical staffs of The Examiner presented Mr. Heron with an address read by Miss Cathleen McCarthy and a club bag presented by Fred Allen as a token of the regard in which he is held by the employees of The Examiner office.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Heron's first connection with The Examiner began when he was overseas as a signaller with the Canadian Field Artillery. A number of letters written by him was published in The Examiner at that time and his communications were among the most interesting to reach this office from the war zone.

Six years ago Mr. Heron joined the staff of The Examiner as a reporter, and since then his climb upward has been rapid. For some years he was city editor of the paper and later became managing editor. His career on The Star will be watched with great interest by his local friends, but by none more closely than by his former associates at The Examiner office.

MAGISTRATE IS ASKED TO QUIT

Hamilton Council Provides Life Pension For Veteran Officer.

GET $3,400 PER YEAR.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 26. — (Canadian Press).—Resignation of George C. Jelfs, for 36 years Police Magistrate of Hamilton, will follow the unexpected action of City Council last night in providing a life pension of $2,400 a year for the veteran official. To this the Ontario government will add $1,000 a year, it is learned. According to reliable information received here Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, will announce the appointment of H. A. Burbidge, Hamilton lawyer as magistrate, before leaving for England on July 2.

No explanation of the action was given and council passed the item without discussion. Magistrate Jelfs submitted a letter making it clear that he would not retire voluntarily and after he heard of the council's action he expressed his disappointment that council had refused his request for a hearing before they retired him. He stated that the action of the council was neither fair nor courteous.

The presence of Col. Price in the city yesterday was thought to be in connection with pension arrangements. Magistrate Jelfs is 76 years of age and came to Canada from England 55 years ago. He was asked to resign office in December, 1924, by Hon. W. H. Nickle, then Attorney-General, but the matter was settled amicably and the matter dropped. This dispute was thought to have arisen from his administration of cases under the Ontario Temperance Act.

HON. R. B. BENNETT CLOSES TOUR IN WESTERN PART OF PROVINCE

To-day He Speaks in Belleville in Afternoon and Campbellford To-night.

ADDRESSED 15 MEETINGS.

Export of Raw Material Draining Canada's Natural Wealth, He Claims.

STRATFORD, June 26 (By Frank Flaherty, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative party today turned from Western Ontario to the Eastern part of the province. The Conservative leader's tour of Western Ontario was an extensive one although he is to address only four meetings in the East.

Last night he spoke in Stratford and the night before in Dunnville, while last week he addressed some thirteen meetings, ranging from Windsor to Port Credit and Port Stanley to Owen Sound.

This afternoon he speaks at Belleville and this evening at Campbellford.

The large exports of Canada's raw materials was not only draining Canada of its natural wealth, Mr. Bennett said last night; it was also draining the country of its people. Canadian copper, timber, pulp, asbestos and grain should be manufactured here and exported in the finished, not in the raw, state.

Manufactured copper made from the product of our mines, Mr. Bennett, said, was sold to Canadian consumers at even higher prices than those charged United States purchasers. This was because the United States Export Association ruled domestic users of copper should always pay less than foreign users.

The only way to ensure and meet the problem, he argued, was to raise a tariff and make use of drawbacks and bounties to ensure that the requirements of the Canadian market should be supplied by Canadian producers and all those things which might be produced here should not be imported from foreign countries.

YOUNG STOWAWAY REFUSES TO TALK OF FLIGHT EXPERIENCES

MET BY FATHER.

Little Attention Is Paid To Youth As Passengers Hurry Off Boat.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 26.—(A.P.)— The stowaway of the Yellow Bird, Arthur Schreieber, of Portland, Me., returned to the United States aboard the Leviathan to-day—first-class—attired in extreme cut French clothes but with little to say about himself or his uninvited trip.

He was met at Quarantine by his father, Morris Schreieber ,a Portland fur worker with whom he exchanged affectionate greetings and then he posed, with his father and by himself, for several photographs.

The youth had nothing to say about his future plans. All he wished now, he said, was to get back home to Portland and see his mother.

He became angry when questioned regarding reports that he had compared himself to Lindbergh and his landing in France.

"There is no precedent for what I did," he said, "and there is no way to tell now what I shall do with my experience."

Aside from his father and the photographers and reporters there was no one to meet the stowaway. The bustle of last minute packing to leave the ship his entourage of newspapermen attracted little attention from the passengers.

The elder Schreiber said he and his son would leave for Portland during the OXFORD, Eng., June 26. (C.P.) — Ambassador Charles G. Dawes to-day received the honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Law from Oxford University in the famous Sheldonian Theatre.

Spanish Ambassador Merry Del Val also received an honorary doctorate of civil law. A large and distinguished audience crowded the Sheldonian theatre to see the degrees conferred.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS TO SLAY FRENCH CONSUL

Demands Passage From Berlin To Her Home in Lithuania.

BERLIN, June 26. —(C.P.)— M. Binet, French consul here, had a narrow escape from death to-day when an excited Lithuanian woman fired at him several times in the French Consulate.

A porter caught the woman's arm and the shots went wild, lodging in the ceiling of the room.

The woman, who arrived at the Consulate with her husband and child, asked M. Binet for money to travel to Lithuania, saying that she had lost her leg in Paris after a bungled operation in a State hospital. She therefore claimed compensation from the French government.

Consul Binet pointed out to her that he was not the proper person to receive such an application. The woman immediately burst into wild threats, drew a revolver and fired at him several times. The man and the woman were both arrested.

JUDGMENT IS REVERSED IN WINDSOR LIQUOR CASE

County Judge Gives Ruling in Favor of Appeal of Attorney-General Price.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 26. (C.P.) — Ruling that the selling of tickets for a party given by Windsor Post Number 4, American Legion, in the Prince Edward Hotel, took the suite out of the class of a private room, County Judge J. J. Coughlin to-day handed down a judgment reversing the decision of Police Magistrate, D. M. Brodie of Windsor, which freed Harry J. Bohme, East Windsor, from a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

The judgment was given on the appeal of Attorney-General W. H. Price, which was argued before Judge Coughlin about two weeks ago. Bohme is assessed the minimum fine of $100, the judge declaring that the offense was committed through a misunderstanding of the meaning of the act.

KARLSRUHE, Germany, June 26 —The Minister of Education and Public Worship has issued a decree to the directors of high schools and other educational institution warning the educational staffs and officials not to participate in any of the demonstrations against Germany's war guilt planned for Friday, "tending to complicate the coming negotiations for readjustment of the reparations question."

POSTAL EMPLOYEE KILLED

CHATHAM, Ont., June 26.—Leo Capeling, 31, local post office employee, was killed early to-day when the automobile in which he was riding with two other men, struck a horse on the Harwich-Raleigh town line near Charing Cross, and swerved into the ditch, snapping off a telegraph pole guy wire. Capeling was hurled from the car, and died a few minutes later. Roy Roe received cuts about the head, while Gordon Piggott, driver of the car, escaped with a severe shaking up. Coroner McRitchie opened an inquest this morning.

Premier Ferguson Addresses Grenville-Dundas Conservative Executive.

ANSWERS SINCLAIR.

SPENCERVILLE, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — The $300,000,000 program of expenditure planned by the Ontario Government is the wonder and admiration of American and European visitors, declared Hon. G Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario in his address to the annual meeting of Grenville-Dundas Conservative executives here yesterday.

Increases throughout the province will be made this summer in the Hydro-Electric system, said the Premier, when about 1,500 miles of new line will be built. Main arteries are near completion, he said, and the Department of Highways is starting on a full program of county and township roads. He promised a further reduction in the cost of motor vehicle licenses.

Mr. Ferguson claimed that the province was under an added burden as the stopping of $2,000,000 in Dominion subsidies required the raising of that amount here. Education, agriculture, and health, three important branches of Government, were not producers, but spenders.

Referring to the statement on Government Contral made by W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, Mr. Ferguson said that, given time, Mr. Sinclair would endorse all the policies of the Government.

TORONTO, Ont., June 26.—Magistrates should be allowed to order youths convicted of crimes to be strapped, said J. A. McGibbon, Crown Attorney for Ontario County and for the City of Oshawa, in an address here yesterday. The criminal code should be amended, he said, to permit this way of dealing with the offenders from 16 to 20 who constituted the majority of the cases with which he had to deal.

INVESTIGATES DELIVERY.

TORONTO, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — James Lawrence, Inspector of Jails for the Ontario Government, was sent to Perth, Ont., yesterday to investigate the recent jail delivery there when four prisoners escaped, two of whom are still at large. Action to be taken by the Government will be based on his report.

ACTION DEFERRED.

BROCKVVILE, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — Action on the erquest of the Board of Education for the issuance of debentures to the amount of $315,000 to construct a new Collegiate replacing the structure destroyed by fire last March was deferred by the Town Council last night until next Tuesday. It was explained that this amount was necessary since the figures compiled by a Toronto architect are $15,000 higher than originally contemplated. A local architect has issued a statement that a suitable building could be constructed for $200,000.

TO MEET INDUSTRIAL DEMANDS NEW UNITED STATES TARIFF BILL IS EXTENDED BEYOND BOUNDS

Act in Present Form Is Unpopular, Particularly in Mid-West.

COALITION EXPECTED.

President Hoover Had Intended To Bring Relief To Farmers of Country.

(By J. F. B. Livesay, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

WASHINGTON, June 26. — The closer one gets to it the more remote appears final action by Congress, sealed by President Hoover, on that tariff revision, wherein the Canadian people have so direct an interest. The simple idea of revision for relief of the American farmer, to which the President is pledged is befogged by the demand of the Eastern industrial and manufacturing interests for general tariff revision, which would build still higher all along the line the formidable barrier set up some years ago by the Fordney tariff. Originating in the House of Representatives the Hawley Tariff Bill, designed primarily to meet the case of the farmer, was extended laterally as well as vertically before it reached the Senate, until it has grown almost beyond recognition of its original sponsors.

Bill Is Unpopular

The bill in its present form is unpopular, particularly in the Middle West Agricultural States, where there is a pretty general rumble of protest against loading down what was intended as a measure of farm relief with a general tariff revision bound, it is claimed, to leave the farmer worse off than at present by greatly increasing his cost of living and his cost of production, such as farm implements and lumber.

The same opinion finds expression in two such important newspapers as The New York Times and The New York World, both historically free trade.

The administration, no doubt, is taking cognizance of all this, nor is its ear shut to the not inarticulate protests of foreign countries whose exports to the common creditor nations are bound to be affected if the general tariff revision becomes a law. The Washington Star, supposed to reflect the views of the administration, said quite significantly yesterday:

"A coalition between Republicans and Democrats in the Senate, during the consideration of the Tariff Bill, may result in bringing about a more moderate revision of the tariff than is contained in the House bill. Such a revision would accord more nearly with the recommendations of President Hoover, who urged upon Congress a 'limited revision' of the tariff only."

Telephone From Plane In U. S. To Europe

HADLEY FIELD, N.J., June 26 (Canadian Press). — Telephone conversaitons from an airplane over the United States to an office in Europe showed yesterday the boundaries of science are ever widening, but that human nature remains just about the same.

Three reporters in a plane above New Jersey talked with three reporters on the ground in London, the first public tests of such communication. And what did the participants in this great experiment discuss with each other? They talked largely about the weather.

HEARING OPENS IN TWELLS CASE

English Commission Starts Hearing Evidence in Shopshire.

PLEADS INSANITY

WELLINGTON, Shropshire, Eng., June 26.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The commission appointed to take evidence of Shropshire doctors regarding the condition of Dr. Charles H. Twells, awaiting trial at Picton, Ont., on a charge of murder, held its first session yesterday.

Dr. Twells is held on a double charge of murder following the shooting of his two sons, Kenneth and Colin, aged nine and eleven, respectively, on January 2, at Consecon, Prince Edward County, Ontario. The children were killed at Twells' farm following a dispute over financial matters between their father and his brother-in-law, Arthur Corfield, who was also wounded but recovered.

The defence is pleading insanity and the evidence of the English doctors will be used at the trial. Dr. Twells practiced in the County of Shropshire for some years before coming to Canada in 1927.

DUMMER ACTION IS DISMISSED

Shooting Case Is Heard In Norwood Before Judge O"Connor.

DOG WAS SHOT.

Yesterday at Norwood, before His Honor Judge O'Connor of Cobourg, there was tried the case of Warden Brown against Harry Williamson, a neighbor, whom he sued for shooting his dog, which was said to be a very well trained collie.

The case lasted all the afternoon before the Judge, and a number of witnesses were called. Considerable interest in the neighbors in Dummer was shown, and they were present in large numbers to watch the proceedings.

The final outcome was, that Judge O'Connor said he was considerably perplexed by the disputed evidence that was given, and that under the circumstances, as the burden of proof was upon the plaintiff, Warden Brown, he would not make a finding against the defendant, Harry Williamson—so, consequently, he dismissed the action, with the suggestion that the two parties, being neighbors, should be friends, and forget their differences.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for Harry Williamson, and F. D. Kerr, K.C., appeared for Warden Brown.

COUNCIL GRANTS CAMPBELLFORD $7500 FOR OLD HOME WEEK

Court of Revision Is Set For Monday, July 8.

DEPUTATION PRESENT.

Sewer and Water Main On Inkerman Street Is Discussed.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 26 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — All members of the Municipal Council were present at the special meeting held in the Council Chamber Monday evening but R. H. Cole. The meeting was called for the purpose of arranging for a court of revision, meet a deputation from the Old Home Week Executive and to discuss a sewer and water main for Inkerman Street. The matter of the sewer was laid over. The Old Home Week Executive was granted financial assistance and the Court of Revision was set for 7.30, July 8th, in the Council Chamber.

The first item to be discussed was the sewer and water main for Inkerman Street. J. C. Birmingham presented a profile drawing and cost estimate for same. He pointed out that there were two methods of construction. The first was to follow the creek bed for a short distance than trench the bank. The second was to trench the entire distance along a travelled road. He favored the latter procedure. If the sewer and water main were only to serve the houses owned by A. H. McKeel, the sewer could be shortened by some sixty-five feet and the cost cut from $1200 to $1000. The sewer was to be a six-inch pipe and the water main four-inch pipe. A. H. McKeel, who brought in the request at a former meeting of the Council, was not present Monday night and the request was laid over till a future meeting.

J. D. Cumming, tax collector, was present, and recommended certain abatements which were accepted by the Council.

G. A. Kingston, N. A. MacColl, S. H. Neale, P. C. Denyes and J. R. Smith were present representing the Old Home Week Executive. Kingston was the first speaker. He asked that the Council grant financial assistance to the celebration. This procedure was necessary in order that the heads of the various committees would not have to become personally responsible for the finances of their activities. S. H. Neale claimed that the Council had promoted the scheme and that it should, therefore, be fin-

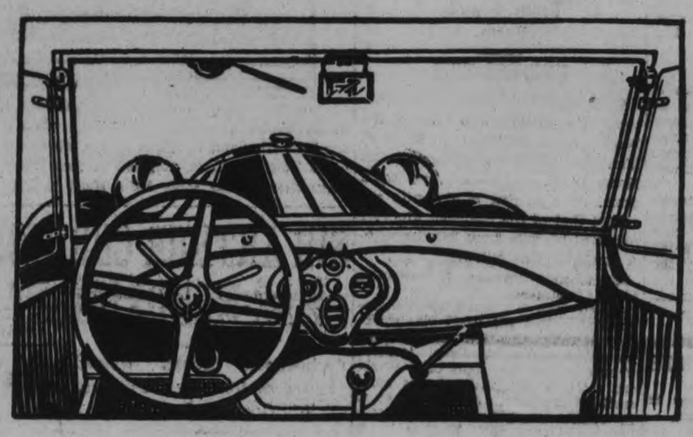
THE FORD CAR SHATTERPROOF GLASS WINDSHIELD



Protection with Clear Vision

THE shatterproof glass windshield on all Ford cars is one of many important safety features that contribute to the pleasure and comfort of all Ford Model "A" owners. The peace of mind and feeling of security made possible by this factor of safety is further enhanced by the clear vision roof pillars, six-brake system, ¾ irreversible steering, one piece gas tank and all-steel body.

The Ford car shatterproof glass windshield does not splinter under the impetus of a direct blow. In case of a collision there is no flying glass to endanger driver or passengers.

The vision is clear and unobstructed with the Ford shatterproof glass windshield. At the same time the driver realizes that this windshield is a protection and a factor in creating driving confidence and owner enthusiasm.

GOOD PROGRAM PROVIDED AT ANNUAL PICNIC

HELD AT MILLBROOK.

Track and Field Events, Softball and Lacrosse Games Made Up Sports Bill.

MILLBROOK, June 26.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Fine weather, and a full program of sports, were features that added greatly to the success of the annual district picnic, under I.O.O.F. auspices held at the Agricultural Park, Millbrook, on Saturday, June 22, the picnicers beginning to gather about 2 p.m.

Included in the Peterborough district are the Oddfellows' Lodges at Peterborough, Norwood, Lakefield, Havelock, Pontypool, and Millbrook, but not all were represented at the outing on Saturday, the gathering-place being apparently not central enough for the territory covered, though when the district committee met the general desire was that the local park be used for the event.

Included in the sports' program were a softball tournament, in which it had been hoped seven teams would be competing, and for the winners of which a handsome silver cup was offered for the first time in district I.O.O.F. history; a lacrosse match; races of various descriptions, taking in practically all ages; and a tug-of-war, though this latter item had to be abandoned because of lack of time, business men having to return to their stores as Saturday is an open night, and usually a very busy one owing to the week-end trade.

Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, and Millbrook Lodge No. 308, lined up teams for the opening game in the softball tournament, the local men winning by a score of 10-3. The players were:

Peterborough		Millbrook
P. McFadden	p.	H. Ball
H. Cross	c.	V. R. Hunter
J. Price	1b.	W. W. Jones
B. McLean	2b.	Wilbert Thorne
F. Merritt	3b.	H. A. Fallis
N. King	r.f.	C. C. Garside
R. Martin	l.f.	G. Armstrong
W. H. Merritt	c.f.	N. Belch
Alex. Butcher	s.s.	M. Williamson

Umpires—J. A. Vance, plate; Bartlett, bases.

Lacrosse has been taken up locally for the first time in several years this season, and the boys had their initial game with an outside team on Saturday, Port Hope making up the other side in the competition. The teams were:

Port Hope		Millbrook
Isaacs	goal	B. Freelove
Broadbent	point	K. Donnelly
Harvey	cover point	G. Gray
McMahon	centre	E. Nattress
Smith	first-defence	L. Nattress
Simmons	2nd defence	B. Raper
Ferguson	3rd defence	G. Henry
Pillsworth	outside home	D. Henry
Phillips	inside home	G. Raper

The score was 4-3, favor of Millbrook. The referee was W. Rankin, of Port Hope.

Pontypool and Lakefield furnished the competition in the second game of the softball series, the latter winning by 1 run, the score being 4-3. The line-up was:

Pontypool		Lakefield
Graham	p.	Maddel
Shaw	c.	Payne
Dawson	1b.	Winget
Thorne	2b.	Abrahams
Payne	3b.	J. Charleton
Malley	s.s	L. Charleton
B. Gray	r.f.	C. Winget
Brown	l.f.	C. Payne
P. Bingham	c.f	McCraken

Umpires—J. A. Vance, and H. J. Jordan.

In the play-off between the winners, Lakefield and Millbrook, the former won and had the honor of taking home the cup, which is to be held for one year, and come up for annual competition.

The races were under the supervision of H. A. Fallis, D.D.G.M., and J. Lancashire, Peterborough, and included some that were rather novel in character, the prize winners being:

Tiny tots—M. Raper, D. Moore, M. Handley

Girls, 6 and under—M. Handley M. Raper, S. Butcher.

Boys, 6 and under—J. Moore, T. Dutch.

Boys, 10 and under—R. Edmunds, L. Hawken, L. Ball.

Girls' potato race— Marguerite Hawken, Amy Bull.

Boys' boot race—Walter Smith, Peter Terbenche.

Girls' candle race—L. Bull, M. Vance.

Pipe and needle race—Mr. and Mrs. A. Moore, B. Cain and J. Payne.

District committee men's race — J. Lanchashire, Peterborough.

Married men's race—J. Armstrong, H. Frost.

Ladies' nail driving contest— Mrs. Cain, Mrs. E. Armstrong.

The booth on the grounds was in charge of V. C. Lambert and certainly no complaint because of lack of customers could be forthcoming, since the counters were continually besieged, soft drinks and ice-cream cones being apparently most in demand.

The generally understood plan to have tables set in the large building where everyone would be served at the tea hour ,was for some reason given up, to the inconvenience of a number who had arranged for this method of service. In its stead small parties gathered here and there over the grounds, and enjoyed the contents of their baskets together.

anced by the Council. J. R. Smith endorsed the words of the previous speakers. After some discussion a motion was passed permitting an expenditure of $7500 by the Council. The motion was made by Councillor O'Sullivan and seconded by Reeve Bygott, that the Municipal Council of the town of Campbellford guarantee the expenses of Old Home Week celebration to be held in Campbellford from July 29th to August 3rd, to the amount of $7500, and no more. That is to say, the Council limits the amount to the sum stated herein.

It was also suggested that the Council have an extra member on the executive, and Councillor Wiggins was named by the Mayor.

Court of Revision.

The Court of Revision will meet in the Council Chamber on Monday evening, July 8th, at 7.30 o'clock. This was the motion of Reeve Bygott and Councillor MacDonald. The court will consist of Mayor Davidson, Reeve Bygott, Councillors MacDonald, O'Sullivan and Abernethy.

OBITUARY

MRS. W. J. McILMOYLE

The death occurred at two o'clock this morning at Hall's Bridge, of Mrs. Betty Northey McIlmoyle, widow of the late W. J. McIlmoyle, in her eightieth year.

The deceased, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Richard Fawcett, is survived by three children: Harry, Mrs. Margaret Fulton and Mrs. Richard Fawcett, all of Hall's Bridge. Her husband died three years ago.

The funeral will take place at one o'clock on Thursday afternoon, with interment in Lakehurst Cemetery. The Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly will officiate.

CATHERINE CAMPBELL

CAMPBELLFORD, June 26 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Catherine Campbell was held from the residenec of her brother, Peter Campbell, Lot 10, Con. 10, Seymour West, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. The services at the house and at the grave were conducted by the Rev. W. J. Mark, D.D., minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford. The pall bearers were Robert Waddell, Andrew Govan, Fred Rutherford, Archie McCulloch, Harold Shaw and John Hooper. There were many friends of the deceased present to pay their last respects. Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

The late Catherine Campbell was in her seventy-third year. She was born in Glasgow, Scotland, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs Dugald Campbell. For the past two and one-half years she had resided in Canada, making her home with her brother, Peter Campbell, Seymour West, where her death occurred following an illness of several weeks. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church. She is survived by one brother, Peter, and one sister, Mrs. Isabella Duchemin of Toronto.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, June 27.—In addition to the fresh receipts there were 1,400 stale cattle from Monday in the offering at the Union Stock Yards yesterday morning. Bids at the opening were 75 cents to a dollar lower for the week. Nothing went to the scales up to eleven o'clock.

Good butcher steers were bid 11 to 11 1-2 cents with fair kind down to 9 1-2 cents.

Good to choice cows were worth 8 to 8 3-4 cents a pound and best bulls 8 1-4 to 8 3-4.

There was some movement of milkers and springers at steady prices. Good fresh cows sold around $100 and best springers up to $125 each.

There is not expected to be anything like a clean-up of the butcher cattle offering.

Calves were a heavy offering for the second day in succession and prices were 50 cents a hundredweight lower than last week's close. Good to choice veal sold from 13 to 14 cents a pound. Medium quality from 10 to 12½ cents, and grassers from 7½ to 8½ cents.

The lamb supply was fairly heavy, and prices were steady at the 50 cents a hundredweight decline from Monday. Good ewes and wether lamb sold at 16 cents a pound. Plain to medium sold from 14½ to 15½ cents, and some culls as low as 12 cents a pound. Sheep prices were steady with good light ewes at 6 to 7 cents a pound, and medium to heavy sheep from 5 to 5¾ cents, and culls from 2½ to 3½ cents.

The hog market was unsettled, with packers bidding another quarter lower, or twelve cents a pound, for select f.o.b. and 13¼ cents off cars.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 26.— Prospective speedy ending of the Canadian drouth and of domestic harvest difficulties southwest had much to do with bringing about downturns of wheat values yesterday. Chances that receipts of new domestic wheat will be largely increased within the next few days acted as an evident weight on the market.

Wheat closed nervous, 1 1-8c to 1 3-8c. a bushel lower than Monday's finish. Corn closed at 1-8c. decline to 1-2c. advance, with oats 1-8c. to 1-4c. to 3-8c. off, and provisions varying from 7c. decline to a rise of 32c.

Setbacks in wheat prices yesterday were in the face of tentative estimates from the United States Department of Agriculture that the 1929 Canadian crop will total only 360,000,000 bushels to 400,000,000 bushels, against 534,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Lowest prices of the day here came after these figures were out, far greater notice being taken of reports of scattered rains in Canada and of a forecast of additional moisture at hand. Meanwhile favorable weather conditions for maturing and harvesting domestic wheat in the southwest were reported prevalent, together with indications that arrivals at terminal markets may be decidedly augmented before the end of the week.

Emphasizing the outlook for rains in Canada was relative weakness yesterday of the Winnipeg wheat market, especially during the late transactions. There was also considerable selling of wheat were against simultaneous buying of corn, apparently to close out previous so-called spread trades in which wheat had been bought and corn of equal amount had been sold. Throughout most of the day, too, heavy selling of wheat was in progress to realize profits for recent speculative buyers, chiefly east and southwest.

A feature yesterday which many traders apparently overlooked was a report of permanent damage to wheat in parts of South Dakota. Many fields in the James valley were described as a total loss on account of drouth.

Corn prices were irregular, with deferred deliveries showing strength. Commission houses were active buyers of December corn, against bales of wheat. Favorable crop reports eased the oats market.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, June 26. — Conditions on the local wholesale produce market yesterday were practically unchanged from the day previous, and there were no price changes recorded in any of the products. The production of butter, although not as large as at this time last year, continued to be satisfactory, and at the season's peak, while demand was sufficiently large to enable all supplies to reach the market to be moved without difficulty, despite the continued lack of demand for butter for storage purposes. The quality of the creamery arrivals are reported to be highly satisfactory, and prices were steady, with the No. 1 creamery at from 38c to 38½c per lb., and the No. 2 grade 1c lower at from 37c to 37½c per lb.

The local wholesale egg market was quiet again yesterday, with buyers showing very little active interest in heavy purchases. Although reports of a falling off in production continue to be received from country points, local dealers state that very little, if any, change has been noticed in the size of receipts on the local market as yet, and some small amount of difficulty is being encountered in moving supplied as freely as is desired. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, and cases returned, were unchanged from Monday, and as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c to 26c per dozen; fresh seconds, 22c to 23c per dozen.

The local wholesale cheese market reflects Monday's quietness, and prices and trading were unchanged yesterday. Dealers were quoting No. 1, large, colored, paraffined and Government graded cheese at 19½c per lb.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG June 26.—Erratic price changes featured yesterday's wheat market. At the opening values dropped below Monday's closing level only to rebound until they were ⅜ cent above the previous close. At the close the market showed a drop of 2 cents to 2⅜ cents for the day. Heavy buying of the July future occurred in the first hour of trading.

The weakness here was attributed to the early decline at Chicago and the lack of export interest in our gain.

Weather throughout the Canadian West continues unsatisfactory for wheat growing. Very little rain was reported over-night and the Canadian Pacific Railway reported frosts in Northern Alberta districts.

Cash wheat was neglected yesterday although No. 5 wheat was in fair demand at prices ¼c above Monday's close. Spreads on the other grades were generally unchanged.

Demand for grades Nos. 2 and 3 C.W. oats featured the coarse grain market. Prices, however, declined about one cent. Barley was extremely dull and about 1¼c lower. Rye futures dropped 1¼c in sympathy with wheat. Flax was fractionally lower.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, June 26. — With the exception of a 10c advance per bag in rolled oats, grain prices were unchanged here yesterday. Wholesale butter prices were ¼c per pound higher, sales of Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized being made at 37¼c to 37½c. An improvement in inquiry, with receipts none too plentiful, caused the firmer feeling. Prices to the retail trade were unchanged. Receipts were 121 boxes.

The cheese market was quiet. In a wholesale way No. 1 white and colored Western sold from 19¼c to 19½c per pound, while No. 1 white and colored Eastern was quoted at 18½c to 18¾c per pound. Receipts were 9,246 boxes.

Egg prices were unchanged, with receipts at 3,015 cases.

Potatoes began arriving in increasing quantities, with No. 1 quality firm at $5.50 and No. 2 and culls cheaper at $3.75 and $3.00 per barrel of 165 pounds, respectively. Old potatoes were steady, with New Brunswick Green Mountains selling at 45c per 90 pounds in bulk.

There was a good demand for live poultry at steady prices, heavy fowl bringing 25c to 28c per pound, light fowl 22c to 25c per pound, light broilers 28c to 30c per pound, and better-grade broilers 34c to 36c per pound.

WEDDING BELLS

McFARLAND—MENZIES.

The following extract from the Montreal Daily Star of recent date, is of local interest as the bride, Miss Rheta Menzies, is a niece of Mr. W. G. Menzies of The Examiner staff:

"The marriage took place yesterday afternoon at half-past four o'clock, in Stanley Presbyterian Church, of Rheta Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Menzies, of Notre Dame de Grace, to Mr. Harold Harvey McFarland, so nof the late Christie McFarland, son of the late Christie McFarremont, the Rev. W. D. Reid performing the ceremony. The decorations of the church consisted of spring flowers, ferns and palms.

"The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of egg shell crepe, the bodice fashioned on simple lines with long sleeves finished in points over the hands, and the skirt extending in longer lines at the back. The tulle veil forming a train, was held in place by a cap of silk lace and caught at either side with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. The Misses Gladys and Dorothy Menzies, sisters of the bride, who attended her as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in French frocks of Flam ant taffeta, wearing mohair hats and slippers to match, and carrying pink roses and mauve sweet peas.

"Mr. Christie McFarland acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr.A.D. Cuthbert, Mr. J. S. McFarland, brother of the bridegroom, Mr. F. D. Lamont and Mr. James Gordon Menzies of Pittsburgh, Pa., brother of the bride. Mrs. James Menzies, mother of the bride, was gowned in a French frock of green crepe georgette, with beige hat and shoes and carried a bouquet of sunburst roses. Mrs. McFarland, mother of the bridegroom, wore an imported gown of grey with touches of mauve, and hat to match, carrying a bouquet of mauve sweet peas. The wedding music was rendered by Mr. Binnie, and during the signing of the register, Miss Frances Deeprose, of Ottawa, sang, 'I Did Not Know.'

"Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, 198 Hingston avenue, where the decorations were composed of spring flowers, ferns and palms. Later Mr. McFarland and his bride left for Quebec, whence they sail by the Empress of Scotland for an extended tour of the British Isles and the Continent, the bride travelling in a green and white ensemble, with hat and shoes to match.

"On their return they will reside on Cote St. Antoine Road.

"The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Sadler, of Ormstown, Quebec; Miss Frances Deeprose of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hicks of Cobourg, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. L. LeClair and Miss Mary Menzies, of Peterboough, and Mr. and Mrs. James G. Menzies and Miss Beverley Menzies of Pittsburgh, Pa."

Since the advent of printing, more than 17,000,000 books have been printed.

Millbrook

MILLBROOK, June 26.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Picnic parties, whether representative of large organizations or in the nature of family groups, will find the tea room opened this week at the Cardwell property, Wallace's Point, on the Otonabee river, a distinct advantage, and will doubtless give it a ready patronage.

Miss Viola Cardwell, whose many friends will be delighted to find so improved in health, has charge of the recent improvement, the extension to the booth and the plan of adding tea room facilities being made entirely on her own initiative. A convenient kitchenette, with plenty of well-supplied shelving, a refrigerator, electric fan for the days when the temperature goes soaring, stove, and serving table, adjoins the section where a wide counter, displaying the menu cards, and delicious looking samples of the home cooking with which Miss Cardwell is prepared to satisfy her customers, may be used for a stand-up lunch is so desired. As an alternative, trays on which the orders are placed, may be carried to the tables under the wide-spreading trees, or any other place in the grounds which fancy

Bailieboro

BAILIEBORO, June 26—(Examiner Correspondence). — The loyal Orange Lodge of Bailieboro and vicinity, attended divine worship at Bailieboro United Church on Sunday. There was a large congregation, the centre of the church being mostly filled by members of the Lodge.

Rev. Mr. Swayne delivered an eloquent and inspiring address. Special music was supplied by the choir.

Arouses Interest.

Considerable interest was aroused in the village on Sunday morning, when the moth plane, owned and piloted by Miller Bros., converted a field owned by Ira Dawson, into a flying field.

The plane was kept busy all morning taking up passengers who desired to get the "thrill' 'of flying, and to see their village from a high viewpoint.

Slight engine trouble hindered the plane from going up in the afternoon.

dictates, and the meal enjoyed with opportunity for ease and social converse.

Passing motorists, and parties who frequently drive to this delightful spot on the Otonabee, will welcome the tea room facilities now available. the complaint, often heard in past seasons that no meals, or light lunches, were obtainable at Cardwell's, being thus pleasantly obliterated.

The hot water, or boiler of tea, supplied to picnic parties will now be secured at the tea room instead of at the house as formerly.

TAKING 'HUSKY' IS GIVING ME LOTS OF ENERGY

"It Makes a Fellow Feel Like Doing a Real Day's Work," Says Mr. Gasteen.

HENRY NOEL GASTEEN

"Husky has helped me like nothing else ever did; it makes a fellow feel like getting out and doing a real day's work,'" said Henry Noel Gasteen, of 248 Brooklyn St., Winnipeg, Man., as he told how a few bottles of this medicine have benefitted him.

"I had gotten to the point where I didn't have any energy for my work as my food was disagreeing. I was nervous and didn't sleep much at night," he said. "I suffered severe pains in my stomach and I often lay awake until an early morning hour. My nerves were all to pieces and I was tired out.

"I heard so much talk about Husky I began using it. It has made me feel so much better and I now sleep so good all night without ever waking. I digest my food without any trouble and get up in the morning with plenty of energy and ready to go to work. And my work doesn't leave me tired out at night like it used to."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon your food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a few days. Husky can always be obtained at Bond's Drug Store and at other good drug stores everywhere.

ELECTED TO PEERAGE.

LONDON, June 26.— Sidney Webb, celebrated British economist and Secretary for the Dominions in the new Labor Government, is no longer plain Sidney Webb of the familiar legend, printed on the backs of so many books, "By Beatrice and Sidney Webb."

The Official Gazette announced yesterday that King George had conferred the dignity of a peerage on the veteran Labor theorist. He will assume the title of Baron Passfield of Passfield Corner. Passfield Corner is his country residence near Southampton.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 26, 1929

SHOULD APPLY AT ONCE.

Next-of-kin of Peterborough's war dead who wish to occupy a place in the area reserved for them in connection with the unveiling of the war memorial on Sunday are asked to apply at once to the Chamber of Commerce for the necessary tickets.

Admission to this section of Confederation Square will be by ticket only, and it will facilitate the work of distributing these tickets if relatives of the soldiers who did not return lose no time in making their applications.

It is hoped to have as many of the next-of-kin as possible in attendance at the impressive ceremony, and disappointment can be avoided and confusion eliminated if the applications are not left until the last minute.

The Examiner calls the attention of all the relatives, who should be honored guests on this occasion, to the matter in the hope that it will be possible to distribute the tickets promptly and that there will be no omissions or mistakes when Sunday's ceremony takes place.

POLICE CHANGES.

The changes announced by which Provincial Police are to take over the duties of high county constables in fifteen Ontario counties should result in greater efficiency and a larger measure of police protection in the sections affected.

Centralization of control in the matter of police work would seem to be desirable, for hitherto there has been a looseness of supervision and direction that makes efficiency a difficult matter.

The Examiner would like to see that centralization continued by placing provincial traffic officers under the control of the Attorney-General, instead of as at present under the direction of the Minister of Highways.

These officials should be provincial policemen, members of the Ontario force, and under the same control as other Ontario Provincial Police.

Their usefulness would be increased by such a change, and the two branches of police work would be more easily and more effectively co-ordinated.

THE ANNUAL DOZEN.

The Ontario Safety League has issued its annual list of twelve suggestions to swimmers, bathers and canoeists.

There is nothing new in this warning, but it covers the situation so well that The Examiner regards its republication as justified.

1. Learn the prone pressure method of resucitation.
2. Bathe in protected areas only.
3. If you have heart trouble do not go in swimming.
4. Wait two hours after eating before going into the water.
5. When diving make sure the water is deep enough to ensure safety.
6. Do not bathe or swim alone. It is safer to have companions with you in case of an accident.
7. Unless you can swim, unless you can keep a cool head—stay out of a canoe.
8. After starting, do not change seats and do not stand up, in either canoe or rowboat.
9. If you have a passenger who wants to "rock the boat," put him ashore.
10. You take a "fool's chance" if you ride the waves of a steamboat. The chance-taker is the accident-maker.
11. If upset, lay your hands on the canoe or paddle; either will keep you afloat until help arrives.
12. Do not attempt to use a canoe or rowboat in rough water.

CLOTHING FOR POLICEMEN.

With the suggestion made by the Globe and other Ontario newspapers that police officers should be allowed to wear lighter clothing during the hot weather, there will be general agreement.

The present system requiring policemen to wear heavy blue serge uniforms during the summer months is nonsensical, in view of the frequent hot spells that have to be endured.

There is no reason why they should not be provided with lighter clothing for use at this time of the year, for neither their appearance nor their authority would be endangered by the substitution of suitable garb for the heavy uniforms now worn, which must be miniature Turkish baths when the thermometer hovers round the 90 mark.

Great coats, for instance, may only be worn when authority is given, and similarly may only be discarded on order, so that an unexpected cold spell leaves the policeman to shiver in inadequate attire or a sudden rise in temperature finds him nearly cooked because of too much clothing.

The rules should be made more elastic so that sudden weather changes may not cause inconvenience and distress.

FALSE FIRE ALARM FOOLS.

For the life of us we are at a loss to understand what sort of mental kink it is that induces people to turn in false alarms of fire as was done three separate times within an hour in this city in the early hours of Wednesday morning. Not only is the action reprehensible, but it is annoying and dangerous as well—annoying, because it has a disturbing effect on residents of those streets through which the fire apparatus must go, while, as well, it gives the firemen unnecessary work; and dangerous, for the simple reason that when the department is out on these fairy chases a real fire might break out and the delay in reaching it might be exceedingly costly. It should be remembered, too, that when a fire call is sent in no time is lost in responding to it, and the apparatus is driven at a pretty high speed so that here again there is a danger that some pedestrian or motorist might come to some mishap in the necessary hurry.

It is only to be hoped that the offenders in this case may be brought to justice and be made to suffer the penalties of the law which they rightly deserve.

We noticed last week that in the United States an invention is being tried out which takes the photograph of the person who sends a fire alarm in. It is to be supposed that it would be rather costly to use this in Kingston, but it might be possible to try two or three and move them round. But they should not be necessary in a city the size of Kingston. Its citizens should help the police in seeing that such outrages should not take place. Some one must know who the guilty parties were in the present case, and they should be found.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

AT THE COURT OF ST. JAMES.

The circumstances attending the arrival and initial activities in Britain of General Charles G. Dawes, the new American Ambassador, have stirred public interest to a point which suggests the making of history. What under ordinary conditions would have been the occasion of a cordial reception, of an exchange of official courtesies and of a natural curiosity inspired by the personality and record of the chosen representative of the United States has, by a dramatic turn of events, been transformed into a diplomatic mission of great moment.

The Ambassador's conversations with Premier Ramsay MacDonald, the talk of a conference at Washington between President Hoover and the Prime Ministers of Britain and Canada and the tone of public speeches and press comment upon what may happen in the near future have all contributed to the popular belief, expressed in one of London's leading newspapers, that "a great new era in the history of the English-speaking nations of the world" is about to dawn.

To Britain, Ambassador Dawes has carried a message the purpose of which, it is said, is "to dispel misunderstanding, to end the long era of diplomatic blundering and rivalry in armaments, and to inaugurate a period of good will which will make the English-speaking races the greatest agency for peace that the world has ever known." How much of this is merely a new play upon the old "hands across the sea" sentiment subsequent developments will show. For one thing, it pre-supposes a situation affecting Anglo-American relations which Canadians have found no grounds for taking seriously. But, at all events, it expresses an emotion that has added eclat to the American Ambassador's reception, and lent emphasis to the importance of a post behind which lies a wealth of history and tradition.

Whether or not Ambassador Dawes, with the support of President Hoover and the co-operation of Premier MacDonald, succeeds in inaugurating "a great new era in the history of the English-speaking nations of the world," there is no reason to doubt that he will prove a worthy successor to the many distinguished men who, since the latter part of the eighteenth century, have represented the United States at what is officially known as the Court of St. James. At that centre of diplomacy, the American mind in contact with the British spirit, has in spite of alien antecedents and national prejudices, worked uniformly for the preservation of peace and the promotion of friendship between the two countries.

There have been occasions, of course, when the ambassadors of the United States to England found themselves in anything but a comfortable position. John Adams, the first of the line, left a record of his impressions of English courtesy which shows how difficult it was for one of his sensitive temperament to feel at home in an environment he could not quite understand. His grandson, Charles Francis Adams, would have loved England more if she had favored the Confederate cause less during the Civil War. Thomas F. Bayard could not have been at ease in London while the Venezuela trouble lasted, and one has only to read the letters of Walter H. Page to realize how unhappy he was in the early stages of the Great War over the neutrality of his country.

But as a recent historian has pointed out, a striking characteristic of most of the diplomats who have represented the United States in Britain has been their ready and apparently natural responsiveness to the appeal of the English spirit and the spell of English tradition. It has been said of them that "always in crucial moments they have thought, felt and acted toward current phenomena precisely as Englishmen of their temperament, education and station would have done and not at all as aliens would do." The statement may be exaggerated, yet it undoubtedly expresses an attitude on the part of Uncle Sam's representatives at the Court of St. James which, more than diplomatic skill, has helped to promote friendly intercourse between the two nations and been an aid to the solution of numerous delicate and trouble-some problems.

The fact that so many American Ambassadors to Britain have been men of letters may have contributed to the feeling of kinship exhibited in their relations with the English people. In a land so rich in literature and literary associations, writers of the type of Bancroft, Motley, Lowell and Page could hardly fail to feel genuinely at home, however strange they may have felt at times in situations that called for the exercise of an art different from their own. Lacking the qualities of some of his predecessors, Ambassador Dawes has others which should enable him to worthily maintain the admirable tradition associated with the Court of St. James. —Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make it a sane as well as a joyous celebration. Safety first principles should govern Old Home Week.

Old Home visitors will fail to find many well-known ancient landmarks, but the city hall will still be recognizable.

Belleville had Hon. R. B. Bennett and a ball game as attractions yesterday. The Opposition leader didn't make the mistake of trying to umpire the game, it is scarcely necessary to explain.

Premier Ferguson is to act as Attorney-General for the next three months. The head of Ontario's Government never has to worry about how to kill time.

This sensible commentary comes from the Border City Star: As we go to press word comes that Mr. Bill Williams of Texas is still pushing a peanut up Pike's Peak with his nose. Puzzle: Find the nut.

A Thought

REST

The desire of rest planted in the heart is no sensual, no unworthy one; but a longing for renovation, and for escape from a state where every phase is mere preparation for another equally transitory, to one in which permanence becomes possible through perfection. Hence the great call of Christ to men—that call on which St. Augustine fixed as the essential expression of Christian hope—is accompanied by the promise of rest; and the death bequest of Christ to men is peace.—Ruskin.

LIQUOR IN HOTELS.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir:

A movement recently begun in Peterborough and now widespread throughout the province seeks to put liquors which at present guests can bring to their rooms in defiance of all control by the hotelkeepers themselves shall be put under the control of the latter without which no decent hotelkeeper can keep decent hotel. Your editorial denouncing this movement, I submit is itself open to serious objection.

DANGEROUS CROSSINGS

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—Permit me to use your "Voice of the People" column to draw attention to what I think is a very grave mistake on the part of our traffic authorities. A few days ago "Stop" signs were placed on McDonnel street at Reid street and at Park street designed to stop traffic east and west bound at these two streets. But it so happens that north and south bound traffic on each of these streets has to cross very dangerous level railroad crossings and while the railroad crossing at Reid street has a wig-wag signal and bell, yet it is admittedly one of the worst crossings in the city, while the crossing at Park street is far from being a safe crossing, especially to north bound traffic.

The present situation permits of south bound traffic to come sailing down a hill across a street that carries a very heavy amount of traffic and on to two very dangerous railroad crossings.

Aside from that is the fact that all day long east and west traffic which is about twenty to one of north and south bound traffic (except perhaps for an hour or so in the evening) is held at Reid and Park streets.

I would like to urge that the aldermen give this situation the once over and I think they will all agree that the proper place for the "Stop" signs is at the north and south sides of McDonnel street and the railroad track.

Of course the argument may be put up that Reid street to Charlotte street is a continuation of provincial highway from Lindsay, but only a few weeks ago the aldermen amended the traffic act, so that tourists would visit one block of our downtown stores; yet the present situation has an incentive for tourists to go straight down Reid or Park street to the Port Hope highway and not come downtown at all.

Of course, the first thing we all should think of is public safety, but safety was not given much consideration at these crossings.

Yours truly,

"Safety First."

HOMING

East or West—"Home" is best,
Each hearth some wonderer's goal,
And, as the bird at evening seeks her nest,
So, "homeward," flies the soul.

Each unto each; hearts, hands and homes reach out
Their loved ones to re-call,
And I, who may not come to meet them there,
Sends home my heart, instead,
God bless you, All!

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper, a reporter on the Herald, tries to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It has been burned by a fire in the marsh until it is entirely unrecognizable except for the fact that it is a woman. Dr. Cavanaugh is called in to help with the identification.

He has only a small piece of scalp from the body to work on. Don Ellsworth refuses to give him a hair of Sheila O'Shay's, but he secures one unknown and after examination, tells Peter Piper that the body found in the marsh is that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara, in whom Piper has become interested, faints when she hears this. Peter who is already half in love with her, is torn between his feeling and his suspicion that she knows something wabout the murder. Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested in the case and Peter is sent to interview her. He learns that Sheila O'Shay forced Don Ellsworth to marry her threatening a breach of promise suit. Peter makes a social call on Barbara Cavanaugh. He is convinced that she knows some thing about the murder and his instinct is to protect her. Peter, watching the Ellsworth house sees Dr. Cavanaugh go in. He climbs up the porch to see what is going on and finds Dr. Cavanaugh in Sheila O'Shay's boudoir. Dr. Cavanaugh discovers him and invites him in. They find that the breach of promise papers with which Sheila O'Shay forced Ellsworth to marry her, have been taken from the safe. But they find something else. It is a threatening letter signed by the name "David Orme." Peter decides to do some sleuthing on his own account and visits the Ellsworth home.

"I'd have known you for a detective anywhere!"

Ethel stood in the doorway of the vine-covered summer house at the garden end of the pergola, to which she had conducted Peter and surveyed him with respectful ardor.

Peter cast a disapproving eye at the rose tendrils thrusting their way here and there through the lattice of the walls; he had an idea that he would never cease to regard roses as the most vicious and hostile of floral specimens.

"That, of course, is because you know about detectives," he said, "Come in and sit down, where we won't be seen."

Ethel perched herself on the extreme edge of one of the small iron chairs which, with a little green-painted teatable, furnished the interior.

"Oh, there's nobody now who uses this place," she assured him. "I've always adored detective stories, but I never thought in the world—that I'd ever have a chance to be part of a real one, not even after Mrs. Ellsworth disappeared. It didn't seem a bit like a story somehow. Everything went on just about as usual. I know Dr. Cavanaugh's awfully grand, but he doesn't act one bit like a real sleuth, does he?"

"He conceals his talents," Peter said solemnly.

"Do you work with the police?" Ethel's hands were clasped tightly in her lap and her face was a round beaming moon of excitement.

"I'm 'with' but not 'of' them."

With an air of great caution Peter flashed the shield of his police press badge momentarily into view. "I'm a sort of special deputy private investigator," he said with dignity. "I picked you out to help me because your reading has given you a certain familiarity with detective methods. But first I must ask you to swear absolute secrecy."

"What do you want me to swear on?" Ethel gasped.

"What have you got?" Peter inquired practically. The "swearing" was an inspiration of the moment and he had quite forgotten that, to be properly ceremonious, it must be done "on" something.

"I don't know as I've rightly got anything on me——"

"Never mind. This will do." Peter unpinned the police badge from his sweater and held it, his thumb, concealing the embossed word, "Press," in the palm of his hand. "This is a symbol of the majesty of the law," he announced sonoriously. "Now then—the truth the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help you God!" He rattled off the formula as he had heard the bailiff deliver it a hundred times in court.

"I do," Ethel responded fervently.

"Well then, let's get down to cases. Did a man, probably a fairly young man and not very well dressed, ever come around to see Mrs. Ellsworth?"

"No, sir; not that I remember."

Peter's face fell. Was it going to be no good, after all?

"Not a small dark man, who insisted on seeing Mrs. Ellsworth personally?"

Ethel sat a moment in silent concentration.

"Never mind that. It was just a guess, to get you to thinking."

"But he didn't get to see Mrs. Ellsworth—"

"That's all right too. Tell me everything you can remember about it. Take your time."

"I'd forgotten all about him. I thought he was just trying to sell something. Those canvassers will move heaven and earth to see the lady of the house. But come to think, he didn't have a bag or anything like that with him."

"How long ago was this?"

"It was—let me think—I remember I hated to stop to answer the door because it was the middle of the afternoon and I was trying to slip some time in to sew the flower on my dress for a dance I was going to with my sweetie. And the dance was on the sixteenth. Because my boy friend gets paid twice a month and he said he'd have plenty of money to show me a real swell time—"

"The sixteenth. That was just two days before Mrs. Ellsworth disappeared."

"Why so it was! I never thought of it from that moment to this."

"All right. Now think hard, and tell me exactly what happened. You're doing fine."

"Well, this man was at the door and asked for Mrs. Ellsworth, and I said 'What name, please?' and he said, 'You may take her this,' and handed me an envelope. I didn't think much about it, because they have all sorts of advertising dodges these days—sometimes it's charity, or magazine subscriptions or buying tickets to draw an automobile or things like that. But I took it up to her and she read it and threw it down on the desk without saying a word. Then she picked it up again and handed it to Mrs. Kane and said, 'I'll be damned if I do'—excuse the language."

Mrs. Ellsworth's language isn't your fault. Go right ahead."

"So then I thought it was tickets or something she was turning down. She told me to tell him there was no answer and for him not to call again. But I wasn't more than half way down the stairs when Mrs. Kane came down after me and said she'd attend to it herself. Gracious, how it all comes back, now that I think of it.

"Yes," Peter prodded. "And then?"

"Let me see, I didn't want Mrs. Kane to see me going right back to my room, because I never did like that woman, and it would be just like her to tell me I wasn't minding my duties. So I stood back in the hall waiting for her to get through at the door and go gack upstairs. I couldn't hear what they said."

"Not a thing?" Peter's voice was a groan of disappointment.

"Well, now, let me think. He had on kind of a dark suit, blue it was, and it was all wrinkled and pretty dusty. Dust shows up a lot on blue, you know. I noticed the dust because he said, 'I'm staying at the auto camp grounds for the present, and I'm not going away till I see her.' And 'I thought he must be traveling about the country, but he'd better brush up a little, even if he was camping out, if he expected to sell anything."

"You heard him say that?" Peter leaped to his feet so suddenly that Ethel shrank back startled.

"Oh, sir, I—"

"Now don't get scared. You're doing splendidly. I couldn't do better myself. What sort of looking man was he?"

"He was just an ordinary kind of man. Not very big—not as tall as Mrs. Kane. He was kind of thin-looking, as if he'd been sick or something.

Peter thought this over, chewing the stem of his pipe and longing with all his soul for one of his familiar cigarettes. So far he had got exactly nowhere.

He knew that David Orme had called at the Ellsworth house—which he had known already—with the additional information that he had stopped at the automobile camp grounds. But David Orme, so far as the description went, might be any one of thousands. Peter might pass him a dozen times, meet him face to face on the streets, without a chance of recognizing him.

"That's all there was to it." Ethel said with finality. "He went away then."

"And he never came back?"

"Not that I know of—not when I was on duty. I never saw him but the once—Why, yes I did, too, the very night after the dance! It went clean out of my head, because that was the night my boy friend and I we fixed it up to get married." A very pretty rose-colored flush swept across Ethel's round face; her eyes suffused and tender, stared into romantic distances.

"That's very nice," Peter said kindly. "I congratulate the young man."

"Oh, it's me that's to be congratulated," Ethel said earnestly. "He's the grandest fellow. He—"

"I'm sure he is." Peter reached forward and gave her hand a friendly pat. "Some day I want to hear all about him, but we'll have to put that off a bit. So you saw Orme—this auto camp person—that night? Are you absolutely sure it was he?"

"Oh, yes. I'm quite positive. You see my friend Dan, his name is, but I call him Danny; it's sort of a pet name. He's awfully cute. He said he was going to call me 'Gas' because my name's Ethel—Ethel gas you know. But he doesn't, really; he just says things like that to be funny. He said—"

"I'm sure he's witty as Oscar Wilde," Peter interrupted. "But you saw—"

"Yes," Peter agreed hastily. "And you saw this man——"

"Oh yes. Danny came around for me to the back entrance, in his Ford. When we turned out of the driveway—it's a sharp curve you know—this same man was standing close under a tree at the corner of the lawn. The headlights were on him only a minute, but I know it was him, because his hand was resting against a tree trunk, and the last two fingers were off at the first knuckle, just the way they were when he had his hand up against the jamb of the door the day he asked for Mrs. Ellsworth."

"Suffering cats!" breathed Peter. And again: "Suffering cats! Why in the name of all that's holy didn't you give me that description before?"

"It never entered my head. You see, Danny and I——"

Peter bounded across the intervening space, seized Ethel by the shoulders, and planted a resounding kiss on her astonished cheeck.

"You and Danny are going to have the finest wedding present the little old pay envelope can afford!" he shouted, "keep it under your hat, Ethel darling. And watch young Peter do some grand and lofty sleuthing!"

"Well, if that ain't the limit!" she exclaimed to the empty air. "Detectives sure are funny."

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

"It told that darn porter to wake me five minutes before we reached Galesbury!"

Thoughts of an Inconspicuous Man

When I was a lad I used to say
That I'd be a famous man some day;
That people would point at men and shout
With joy whenever I ventured out;
That every time I moved abroad
I'd be beseiged by an anxious horde
Of men and women, who blocked the street
To do their leveliest best to meet
Me, whose indisputable place
Was well in the van of the human race;
And when I was dead, or even before,
You'd know what I did, and said, and wore,
By simply taking a casual look
In any biographical book.
But—! How easily Fate can shame us;
I did grow up—but I didn't grow famous.
You never will see my name appear
In the memoirs that come out each year.
Margot Asquith and Repington
Will never notice my father's son,
And Lady Susan Townley will
Regard me, if ever, as nearly nil;
And Strachey, the great Victorian,
Won't write me up, and the Gentleman
With a Duster will disregard me, too;
He never at me can utter 'Boo!"
Yet since I've read what those birdies say
About Big Folk who have come their way,
I do not worry and do not fret,
That headlines and I have never met,
I am just as happy as I can be,
No big biographer ever knew me!

What To-day Means To You.

JUNE 26th

"Cancer"

If June 25th is your birthday, the successful hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 6 p.m. to 7.15 p.m., and from 11 p.m. to 12 midnight. The danger periods are from 5 a.m. to 6 a.m., and from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The achievements of this day will not be spectacular in character, but they will be far reaching in their effect. Mighty deeds are not necessarily big deeds. Famished emotions, and hungry hearts will be fed, through channels of love and friendship.

The child born on this day will have a brilliant mind, and will love to read. It will always choose older associates and will seek the silent companship of books. Its sense of humor will be well developed.

You have a great deal more ability than you will ever use, or for which you will be given credit. You lack both energy and the desire to push your talents to the limit. You applaud the successes of others—which you yourself might have easily achieved—without envy,and, alas— without any desire to emulate them. Your life will be a happy one, but lacking in those thrills that achievement gives because, although having the capacity to accomplish much, you are satisfied with so little. You cannot do anything in a hurry, and you never do anything poorly—neatness and exactness are imprinted upon all your work.

It is hard for you to make up your mind to get at things, and you love to potter at your work, but there can be no criticism about the finished product. Never hurried, never worried, you fortunately escape from the many discomforts due to nervous strains—you are even-tempered and cheerful. Your smile is the ace in your pack of life.

You are earnest and sincere; loyal and constant; a great asset in time of sorrow; a stimulator in time of stress. Your thoughts are kind ones, and you are friendly with everyone. An inborn shrewdness, however, prevents you being "taken in." Your habits are frugal without being miserly.

Successful People Born on June 26th.

BEDTIME STRIP — By Arthur Chaponille and Edward McCandlish

Toronto Visit To Make Big Stir In Old Home Town

MORE THAN TWO THOUSAND FORMER PETERBOROUGHITES EXPECT TO ENJOY EVENTS

Motorcade Will Leave Queen City at 8 o'Clock, July 2.

T.T.C. BAND ALONG

"Toronto Day" in connection with the Peterborough Centennial and Old Home Week will be held on Tuesday, July 2nd. It will be one of the most outstanding and representative in the period of festivities, from June 29th to July 7th. There are over two thousand former residents of Peterborough now living in the Queen City of Canada; some left the old town years ago and others are but comparatively recent arrivals. In the realm of reminiscence, whether the time be long or short, there is always a yearning and longing for the days of childhood, school and home. That the appeal is intense and persistant is evidenced by the fact that no song will every vibrate, now and in the years to come, with such tenderness, pathos and affection as "Home Sweet Home", the immortal lyric of John Howard Payne.

Peterborough will be home for scores of sons and daughters on "Toronto Day", Tuesday, July 2nd and many visitors are making preparations to stay several days.

There will be a procession of several hundred cars—a motorcade — leaving Toronto at 8:00 a. m., from the corner of Fleet Street and Spadina Avenue and arriving shortly after 11:00. Citizens will know when the Lift Lock City is reached for there will be music and noise and signs galore. The cars will bear signs, all setting forth that the Toronto contingent is on its way. The procession will be headed by the T. T. C. Band. At noon in Confederation Square the war memorial will be decorated by a wreath amid a solemn and impressive ceremony, after which there will be a special luncheon tendered to the officials and committees of Peterborough in the Collegiate Institute gymnasium. The afternoon and evening attractions, which are many, are set forth in the programme published elsewhere in this issue.

No feature has been overlooked in connection with the preparations. A general committee has had several sessions and elaborate plans have been made for the success and enjoyment of "Toronto Day."

Frank P. O'Connor, the genial and enterprising head of the Laura Secord Candy Shops, is the energetic chairman of the General Committee and the enterprising general secretary is Wm. J. O'Brien, of the legal staff of the Chartered Trust and Executor Co.; Charles E. Sisson, of the Canadian General Electric Co., is the industrious treasurer.

The Chairmen of the different committees are: Entertainment, Wilfred Stratton; Transportation, W. S. Campbell; Publicity and Propaganda, G. B. Van Blaricom; Contact Officer, A. E. Dawson.

Associated with the convenor, Mr. Stratton, on the Entertainment Committee are: Meredith and Douglas Huycke, while convenor Campbell has as his assistants on the Transportation Committee, J. R. Eastwood, C. E. Sisson and Gordon Lee. The members of the Publicity and Propaganda Committee are composed principally of former Peterborough newspaper men, Mel Hutchinson, Percy Crane, Bert Huston, O. B. Shortly, R. F. Choate, E. S. Clarry, J. L. Milligan and G. B. Van Blaricom.

Concerning a function such as Old Home Week, one could present a vast array of facts and other details but on the present occasion these are to be forgotten and all thought of business eliminated. In their place there must prevail hospitality, sentiment, reminiscence and friendship. These qualities are to have full play on "Toronto Day." There will be numerous attractions in store for all former residents attending Peterborough Old Home Week and more particularly on "Toronto Day," July 2nd. Visitors will see the old school, the old church, old neighbors, the old playground, the old swimming hole and the athletic field, not overlooking the corner grocery and the near-by bakery and meat shop. They will also greet hosts of friends who have remained in Peterborough and contributed to the welfare and prosperity of the city.

All this brings up another phase of the situation in that many former Peterboroughonians, living in Toronto, have not been there for years. Toronto is rapidly becoming a widely congested centre, with its population of three-quarters of a million souls, its sweep of ten miles' frontage along the strand of Lake Ontario and Toronto Bay and its depth of five miles from the water-edge to the northerly boundary line.

Former residents will meet in Peterborough scores of friends now residing in the Queen City, of whose presence and residence they knew not. Thus hand will clasp hand and cheery words and bright smiles will be exchanged.

The atmosphere will be surcharged with a kindly spirit and once again home and happiness will bring to mind youthful thoughts and tender memories. Old Home Weeks have been observed by many towns and cities in Ontario and in other parts of Canada but in no way will a demonstration or reunion be more successful and splendidly carried out than in Peterborough. Many Peterborough Old Boys and Girls in Toronto are not aware of the great changes which have taken place in the old town and the elaborate preparations that have been made to contribute to their recreation and pleasure. It is a sane prediction, in connection with the various feature days of Peterborough Old Home Week, that none will surpass in attendance, interest, variety and delight, Toronto Day, Tuesday July 2nd, which will be the fourth day of the celebration.

To dilate further upon the attractions of "Toronto Day" is unnecessary. It is safe to say, however, judging by the enthusiasm, co-operation and heartiness with which "Toronto Day" has been greeted by former residents, now living in the Queen City that the attendance will touch a highwater mark and, during the whole celebration, no single day will be more important, outstanding, successful, or memorable than Tuesday July 2nd.

All former residents of Peterborough, now in Toronto, will receive a copy of this edition of the Peterborough Examiner, setting forth the details of "Toronto Day" activities. Everyone is invited to join in the festivities and make the influx from the Queen City one that will not soon be forgotten.

One cannot do better in closing this brief reference than to reproduce a paragraph from "Historic Peterborough" by F. H. Dobbin. Here it is: "Every Peterborough Old Boy and Girl is returning to spend a delightful holiday or it will be his or her own fault".

Facilities will be provided to make "Toronto Day" in the city happy and successful; ample parking space, conveniently located and guarded will be provided for all joining the motor parade leaving Toronto at 8 a. m.

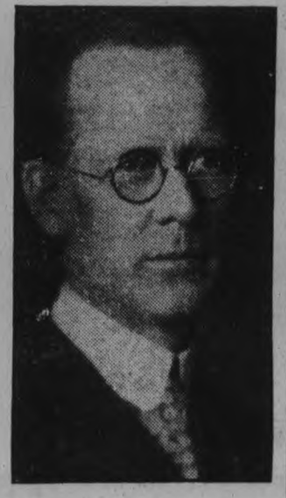
Peterborough is doing its best and the Toronto Old Boys Association and its various committees are carrying out their part. It is up to former Peterboroughonians in Toronto to join enthusiastically and whole-heartedly in making "Toronto Day", Tuesday July 2nd the red-letter one of Peterborough Centennial and Old Home Week. Come one; come all.

The Toronto Concert Band, which will accompany the Peterborough Old Boys of the Queen City in their motorcade to Peterborough on Toronto Day, July 2nd, is one of the most talented and widely known musical organizations in Canada, the director being Capt. R. B. Hayward, R.M.S.M.

There are fifteen former soloists of the famous Huntsville Band, which was recognized all over the continent as one of the foremost aggregations of its kind, who are members of the Toronto Concert Band. The latter will spend two days in Peterborough, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 2nd and 3rd, and will give two concerts each day, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, presenting a program of popular and classic airs, which are published in another column.

It is likely, as a result of the Toronto Association of Peterborough Old Boys which has been formed for Old Home Week, that a permanent organization will be the outcome in the Queen City, composed of former residents of Peterborough city and county. It is proposed after Old Home Week celebration in Peterborough to elect permanent officers and to hold a big annual picnic in Toronto. This suggestion has been received with a great deal of enthusiasm and spontaneous co-operation.

FRANK P. O'CONNOR,
chairman of the Toronto Committee arranging Toronto Day at Peterborough re-union.



W. J. O'BRIEN,
secretary of the General Committee and chairman of the Music Committee.

Chairman

AS CHAIRMAN of the General Committee of the Peterborough Old Boys' Association in Toronto, which honor I deeply appreciate, it is a great pleasure, indeed, to extend in the "Toronto Edition" of the Peterborough Examiner, to all the old boys and old girls, now residing in the Queen City, a cordial invitation to visit once more the "old folk at home." Every effort has been put forth to make "Toronto Day", July 2, 1929, a delightful affair and the only thing that can prevent a happy outcome, will be lack of enthusiasm, appreciation or attendance on the part of former Peterboroughnians. The General Committee conveys to all, who receive this copy of the "Examiner", a personal welcome to Peterborough, not only for Toronto Day but to remain as long as they desire.

May I express the hope that you come prepared to enjoy the interesting and delightful occasion to the fullest extent.

On behalf of the General Committee, which has labored faithfully and cheerfully for the success and enjoyment of Toronto Day, I ask you, one and all, to join us in the great social event which will be observed in the "old home town" on Tuesday, July 2nd.

Many of you, who have not been in Peterborough for years, will observe great improvements in the city, materially and otherwise. Your old friends and neighbors will be there to greet you, with the latch string outside and a smile of welcome as warm as the rays of old Sol on a midsummer morn.

Let us all join whole heartedly in making Toronto Day the biggest and best of all during Peterborough Old Home Week.

FRANK P. O'CONNOR,
Chairman of General Committee.

JOHN BUTCHER WELCOMED BY QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY FIREWORKS

Wondered What All the Fuss Was About, But Felt Gratified.

TELLS OF TRIP ACROSS.

Party Thought It Had Reached Ocean When Storm Lashed Lake Ontario.

Peterborough was celebrating the Queen's birthday when John Butcher arrived here from England in 1864, and although he was only fourteen he was old enough to wonder why the militia was firing a "feu de joie" on the market square and the volunteer firemen were bravely pumping a mere trickle of water into the air reassuring an admiring group of citizens.

The memory of it came back to him one afternoon a few weeks ago in his Engleburn garden as clearly as if it were only yesterday; and that 24th of May was actually 65 years ago. Mr. Butcher has been known to the people of Peterborough as the sexton of St. John's church for 39 years and as chimes ringer for the last seven years.

Three Newcomers Welcomed

"I wondered what all the celebration was about because we had nothing like that in the Old Country on May 24th." Mr. Butcher said, "but of course it was very pleasant and had something of the semblance of a reception for the three of us, George Wheeler who was fifteen years old, and Amelia Scott, twenty, my brother Edwin's fiancee and one of the loveliest girls that ever left England, if I do say it.

We had just come in from Port Hope by the Grand Trunk Railway. We landed there, three rather anxious young people; but, perhaps I should tell about our journey. My home was in Crockerton, Wiltshire, and the neighboring village was where Harry Long, the confectioner, lived. My father was Joseph Butcher. He was born in Bath.

"Don't Pass Port Hope"

Our litte party of three left England on May 10th, destined for Peterborough, and I still hear the repeated warning, 'don't go past Port Hope, especially the caution they gave us at Quebec, where we landed on Sunday night. Next morning at 10 o'clock we were in Montreal. As we approached Lake Ontario a great storm was driving big waves on the shore and we said to one another, as children would, "Why, we are back at the ocean."

At length we heard Port Hope called out and of course we recognized that name. The harbor was full of sailing vessels, fifty or sixty of them, schooners that carried lumber to the United States and brought back coal from Oswego. I remember saying, 'Whether it is the ocean or not this is Port Hope, and we get off here."

Meet Facetious Cabman

A cabman asked us where we were going and we told him Peterborough.

"Oh, the backwoods," he laughed, and I said "I suppose it is."

"Well you can't go to-night," he told us; 'you'll have to stay here until morning."

We asked him to direct us to a decent hotel, which must also be cheap because our funds were scanty, and he took the three of us to the hotel. I think the Queen's, which J. J. Turner, Sr., afterwards kept. When we enquired of our cabman what time we should be at the station in the morning, he said "Somewhere around ten o'clock. That train is not very particular when it leaves."

True enough, the train pulled out at 10:15 o'clock with a coach and ten flat cars for lumber. After numerous stops we reached Peterborough at 12:30 p. m. on May 24th. Millbrook was the only intermediate station. We stayed quite a long time there.

Chance Meeting With Friend

At the Peterborough station we were wondering what to do and if any friends would meet us, when along came a woman and greeted us with "Are you from Crockerton". We said we were, and she said. "We were expecting you some time, but I was down to meet a friend. I saw your names on your boxes back there."

She was the wife of David Wheeler who was the uncle of our George. Her husband was working in George Mitchell's saloon where Bond's drug store is now. Mrs. Wheeler led us to a carriage and said, "Jump in and I'll take you home". And so we saw the red coats on the market square and the firemen with their handpump engine throwing a weak stream over the old market building on Water street. The ground floor of the market building was all butcher's stalls and upstairs was for the sale of butter and eggs, and it was also the town's theatre.

Amelia Is Married

That first night in Peterborough we stayed at David Wheeler's, the first house below Peter Hamilton's yard on the west side of George street. My brother Edwin was working for and living with Mark Curtis, about where Curtis' brickyard is now, and when he heard that Amelia and I were here he dropped work and hurried into town. Edwin and Amelia were married at St. John's on October 27. They lived at Beaverton for many years and then moved to Sunderland. Both died within the last four years.

John Goes Farming

I had really come out to work for my brother, Charles, who had rented a farm on the 7th line of Smith. I remained with him eight years. In that last year my father and mother and sister came out from Engand."

The house in which Mr. Butcher lives was built by Rev. Mark Burnham for his trusted servant or employee Absalom Ingram. The Burnham residence is now the home of Judge Huycke. As a young man, John Butcher worked for a time in Peck's brewery near the old Ashburnham wharf and as he went daily along Burnham street, he used to see Margaret Ingram in her father's garden, and—well, they have been married these many years.

His Musical Interests

John Butcher has been interested in music all his life. His father was choir master as Crockerton, and from him the boy learned his first music. Before leaving England he had played in a silk factory fife and drum band, graduated to the piccolo after coming to Peterborough and was soloist in the 57th Regimental Band in its days of excellence. Mr. Butcher played other instruments including the violin.

Gravel Pit on George St.

"On the east side of George street north of Hunter there was Ormond and Walsh's drug store on the corner and Tom Menzies store where Harry Meredith is now. Then there was a big open space up to the hotel at the Brock street corner. They dug a big gravel pit in that vacant property and this obviated the digging of cellars for the stores that were afterwards built.

McKellar's hardware store occupied the present site of the Bank of Toronto. There were steps leading down into the store, and they kept gunpowder in that premises. When the store caught fire, no one would go near it because of the danger of the gunpowder blowing up. The explosion broke windows all around that neighborhood. So, the first powder magazine was built on the shore of the lake back of the McDonald Lumber company's office. When that locality was built up, people objected to the proximity of the menace and the magazine was moved down the river."

Mr. Butcher celebrated his 80th birthday on May 15 and on May 24 he had been 65 years in Peterborough.

Wm. G. Ferguson

William G. Ferguson was born in Scotland and came to Peterborough in 1866. He entered the general store of Nicholls and Hall which was then the leading mercantile business in the town. When the partnership was dissolved, Mr. Ferguson and Peter Connal bought the groceries and provisions department, and together carried on this business for many years. Later Mr. Ferguson became a member of the Kingan Hardware Company, from which he withdrew to assist in the enterprise of the Otonabee Electric Power and Light Company. They owned the power house and Plant at No. 5 dam and also the distribution system in town. Mr. Ferguson's public service was chiefly his sixteen years' membership on the Board of Education, from 1890 until 1906. He was an ardent curler. Mr. Ferguson died on Feb. 29th, 1928.

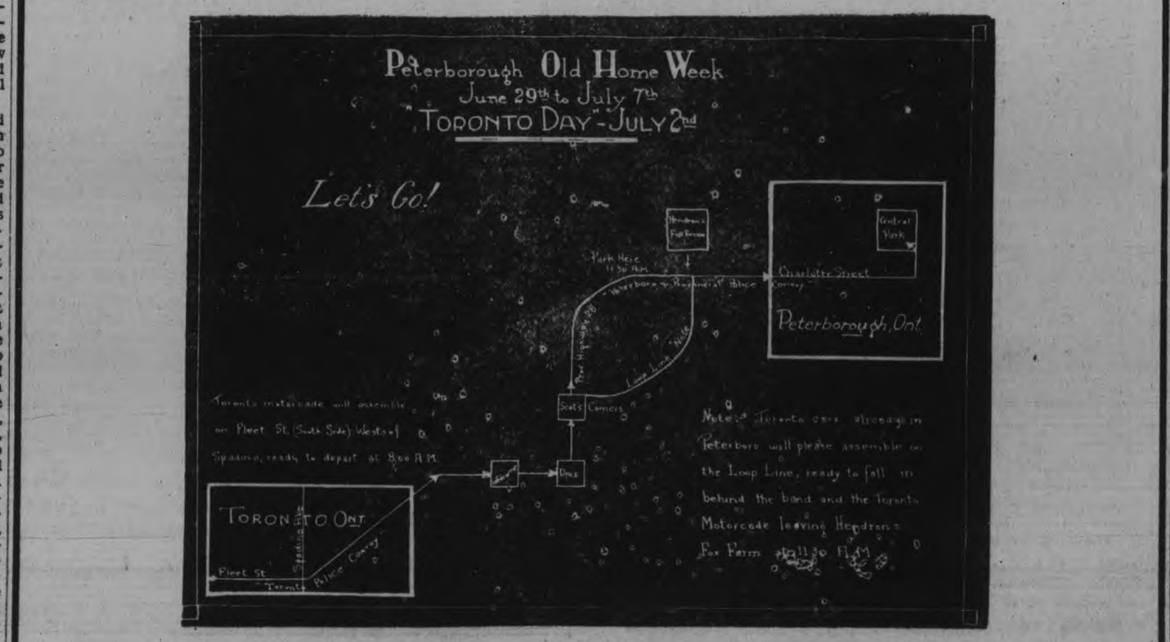
David George Hatton

David George Hatton, former police magistrate, was born in Port Hope in 1830, a son of John Hatton, and died in Peterborough in 1882. He married in 1855 a daughter of James Walford of Wenden, Somerset, Eng., and their eldest son is the present Crown Attorney for Peterborough county, George W. Hatton.

The elder Hatton came to Peterborough as a boy of 13, and entered the drygoods store of Wm. Cluxton, where he worked two years as a clerk; then returned to Port Hope, but again came back to Peterborough where he set up n the drygoods business for himself, being then 21 years old. That is, in 1852 he began business as a member of the firm of Hatton and Coleman at George and Murray streets. Later, he carried on alone until 1857 when the building with its stock was destroyed by fire.

After that reverse in business Mr. Hatton began the study of law with C. A. Weller, who was later appointed Crown Attorney and then elevated to the bench as the Judge of Peterborough County. Eventually, Mr. Hatton was admitted to the Bar and was subsequently appointed Police Magistrate in Peterborough, occupying this office for twelve years.

Mr. Hatton was connected with the town council for many years, and was perhaps the chief promoter of the Water Works Company. He was a prominent Mason and also County Master of the Orange Order.



DAVIE HARTLEY MADE HISTORY IN NOTED HEEL AND TOE WALK OSHAWA-TORONTO-PETERBORO

W. W. STRATTON,
chairman of the Entertainment Committee which has arranged a splendid program for Toronto Day.

George Stevens, Picker of Fast 'Uns, Was Moving Spirit in Achievement.

PUT TOWN ON MAP

Billie Bowman, Showman Extraordinary, Was Impromptu Chairman at Celebration.

(By Ernest Simpson Clarry, a former city editor of The Examiner, at present, Alberta Trade Commissioner, at Toronto.)

When Davie Hartley made his celebrated heel-and-toe walk from Oshawa to Toronto and then back to Peterborough, he added one more rung in the ladder of achievement to the credit of Peterborough athletes. Once more had Peterborough been put back on the map.

There are many residents of Peterborough and former residents as well, who cannot off-hand recall the exact year in which this glorious event took place. They know, however, that it was a milestone, as it were, in the history of the city, just as the American Civil War has been looked upon as a pivotal point from which many, Southerners' especially, fix the time of happening of minor events in their own family affairs or the political affairs of their country. Likewise, many minor or major events which happened within the years preceding, or the years succeeding the heel-and-toe walk of Davie Hartley, are placed as to their exact time of occurrence by their relation to the year of Davie Hartley's magnificent performance.

If the virtues of some prominent citizen of Peterborough who years ago passed away are being discussed, and the time of his passing is in dispute the approximate date thereof can be always established as being the year of, or so many years before, or so many years after the heel-and-toe walk of Davie Hartley from Toronto to Peterborough. If it is the matter of discussing the year in which a championship was brought home to Peterborough by a hockey team, a rugby team or a baseball team, it is sufficient to recall that the event occurred in the year of, or so many years before, or so many years after, the heel and toe walk of Davie Hartley from Toronto to Peterborough. In fact it is alleged that some former Peterborough citizens, now busy executives who have little time for retaining in their heads, dates, other than those strictly pertaining to business affairs, and who cannot recall the year in whch they were married, can at least figure out the approximate date by determining the number of years before, or the number of years subsequent to, the heel-and-toe walk of Davie Hartley from Toronto to Peterborough.

The keeper of the City's archives, Frank Dobbin, will tell you, that this great event in the history of the City took place, in the month of October, 1907. Davie Hartley at that time had passed the 54th milestone of his earthly existence.

George Stevens Finds Davie Hartley

The events leading up to the affair, impressed so vividly upon the minds of the sporting fraternity of the Peterborough dstrict, were thrillingly interesting. A combination of circumstances culminated in Davie Hartley's magnificent achievement. For instance had there been no Jimmie Reynolds of Port Hope it is doubtful if Davie Hartley would have brought such glory to Peterborough. Had there been no George Stevens, Davie's performance on the country highways of Ontario might never have occurred, and its story would not have, as it fortunately now does, constitute one of the brightest pages in the athletic history of the city.

Jimmie Reynolds a Port Hope barber had been winning a certain amount of publicity down along the lake front by reason of his heel-and-toe walking performances on the township gravel roads. Each performance was eclipsing the previous one, enthusiasm was gaining momentum and the grand climax was reached in what, at the time, was considered a record walk, from Port Hope, a sleepy old hamlet, which had more people living in it fifty years previously, than it had at that time, having its name and its fame, splashed clear across the front pages of the Toronto dailies, while Peterborough with its famous canoes, its lift locks, its Quaker Oats and its

Mayor McBride

HIS WORSHIP Mayor Denne, Peterborough, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

It gives me much pleasure on this the occasion of your Old Home Week, and on this day, which I understand, is known as "Toronto Day", to extend greetings to you and to the citizens of the City of Peterborough.

I rejoice in the cordial relations which exist between the people of Toronto and those of your city. That relationship has been fostered and strengthened by the interchange of business, by social and fraternal intercourse, and in many other ways. But perhaps the most binding tie is that of the home. Many of your people have left their old homes and have come to Toronto, establishing new homes in our midst. Strong links of friendship have thus been formed, creating a chain of interest which remains unbroken throughout the years.

I regret that it has not been possible for me to accept the very kind invitation extended to me by the Peterborough Old Boys' Association of Toronto to take part in today's festivities. I am sorry I cannot be with you and hope your week's celebration will be an unqualified success.

To the people of Peterborough, one and all I extend heartiest good wishes for their continued and increasing prosperity.

Yours sincerely,

SAMUEL McBRIDE,
Mayor.

JULY SECOND WILL BE A REAL BIG DAY!

BERT HUSTON TELLS ON 'VAN' WHO LIFTED FOOTBALL STORY FROM HIS POCKET ON STREET

Doctrine of Honor Among Newspapermen Received Sad Blow That Day.

SCOOP DE LUXE

Stabbing Affray on Doorstep of Review First Reported by The Examiner.

By Bert. T. Huston

Whenever two or three Peterborough old boys get together in Toronto memories of the times spent in boyhood or business life in and around the old town are recalled and recounted and often, no doubt, greatly elaborated upon. It seems self evident that the conversation should concentrate on the incidents that happened when, as barefoot boys, we roamed around the farm or, as grown ups, in the roll of "cub" reporter or something else on the Examiner or the Review, we mingled with the social, police court, political, sporting, aldermanic and literary lights of the city. So now, when called upon to tell the "folks at home" why we are anxious to get back to help celebrate the Peterborough Centennial and to once again visit the scenes of our earlier and perhaps less strenuous days, it is only natural that these memories should re-occur. Anyway that is how the writer feels about it and it is my intention in this article to recall a few of the outstanding incidents — outstanding at least to me — that occurred during the few years spent at the reporter's desk.

B. T. HUSTON
Editor

I was born in Otonabee, attended public school there, went to the Peterborough Collegiate and the Model School at Norwood; taught school at Warsaw and Young's Point as well as in Otonabee, and clerked in a store at McCracken's Landing; so my County geographical education was fair, regardless of how little was known about the outside world; anyway to me, in those days Peterborough County was pretty much the universe and horse and buggy the mode of seeing it. Even today there is no place on earth to beat it. Residence in so many sections is a good thing for anyone engaged in newspaper work because it widens his circle of friends resulting in the many more news-supply avenues.

When I joined the Examiner staff, early in 1906, our beloved late friend F. R. Yokome was editor and M. J. "Hutch" Hutchinson at the city editor's desk. "Dick" Choate had just left for the Montreal Herald after a brief but distinguished career on the Examiner. My duty was to follow him and it was no easy task. My first assignment was to write a story on the shooting of a silver grey fox by some Apsley nimrod. The pelt was on exhibition in one of the stores and, simple though the task would now appear, I recall it took me nearly all forenoon to set it down in what looked to me like composition form. At that as I recall it, "Hutch" practically rewrote the story in approved newspaper parlance. Anyway there were a few words of mine left when the paper came off that day and I was fairly proud of my efforts.

Referring again to the city editor of the Examiner in those days, it was always a wonder the way he remembered the telephone numbers of everybody in town, especially those of the ladies. But he showed no partiality, and the 'phone numbers of ministers' residences came to him just as readily as those of the hotels, police station, the city hall, hockey arena and undertakers. As a memory test it was marvellous to me.

Love's Labor Lost

For many years (even after I left Peterborough in 1908) I revelled in the thought that there were no thieves among newspaper men. But my faith in that belief has been shaken, and here is how it happened. While on the Examiner I used to play a little football as a member of the famous "Quaker" team (Jack Sullivan, Percy Fitzgerald, Ben Simpson, et al). After attending a game one Saturday afternoon, I wrote the story of it for Monday's Examiner. Walking up George street that morning, serene in the knowledge that in my pocket was sufficient manuscript to keep Walter Peters' Linotype running for a few minutes at least, at the corner of George and Hunter streets, G. B. VanBlaricom, editor of the Review, loomed up largely with an armful of mail from the post office. In his vest pocket he had a long pair of scissors and although I didn't see any paste pot, it seemed to me evident where he had secured his next week's supply of editorials. After a few moment's conversation we went our respective ways; but on reaching the Examiner the discovery was made to my chagrin, that the report of the game which was to occupy a column or more, was missing. When I left Otonabee about daylight that morning, it was in the outside pocket of my coat and I was sure it was in the same place when I reached the corner of George and Hunter. After discovering my loss however, it occurred to me that "Van's" magnetic personality might have drawn it out. However there was nothing to do but to write a new report from memory. There was a short lunch hour for me that day. Ten years later "Van" confessed.

HOME.

There's a corner of earth that is dearer and fairer
To every leal heart than all others beside,—
Where the lilies are whiter, the roses are rarer,
And life, love and lasting enjoyments abide;
On the hill, it may be, in the vale or the wildwood,—
We tell of its beauty wherever we roam:
'Tis the "Island of Rest" by the dream-shores of childhood,
Which now and forever we cherish as "Home."

Launching of the "Bessie Butler"

About twenty-two years ago the "Bessie Butler" was launched over on the canal. The duty of seeing that the chistening was properly recorded for all time to come was assigned to the writer. The elite of the city was there. The actual breaking of the bottle on the end of the long ribbon was, as I recollect, in the hands of Miss McClelland, daughter of the then Superintendent of the Trent Canal. But as fate would have it, the bottle proved to be so stout (or maybe it was supported by something strong within) that it would not break. It required one, two, three, energetic raps against the hull before the liquid was destined to baptize the new boat; but long before that it had slid down the greasy skids and was resting gracefully on the waters of the canal. Arriving back at the office the incident was mentioned to the late Mr. Yokome who immediatey, as was his wont, suggested as a heading for the story, "Bessie Butler Scorns the Booze." And that was the caption under which the article appeared that day.

The Relics from the Cave

During the dog days in July and August, it was sometimes difficult to get together sufficient snappy stories for the Saturday edition and magazine section so, at times, it was necessary for us all to stretch our imaginations. Among my recollections in this respect in a story based on some old Indian relics associated with a cave a short distance beyond the village of Warsaw, which is also famous for its Quarry Lake, Mill Dam and Potash Kettle. A few years before, accompanied by Hal Choate, then in the general store business in Warsaw but now operating a hardware store in East City. I visited the cave — dark, slimy and eerie with its bats clinging to the sides and earth-worms eking out a lonesome existence with no knowledge of the great bright outdoors. In the Choate store at Warsaw we had one day located a quantity of Indian stone hammers and "tommyhocks" which had been picked up years before in Dummer, when the red men roamed the forest trails and paddled their canoes on the Indian River. These relics we gathered into a sack and again visited the cave They were allowed to repose on the soil of the interior of the cave for a few minutes and the brought into the Examiner office. The story in the Saturday edition recorded how they were picked up in an underground passage of the great grotto, and stated they were then on exhibition in the reportorial office. That evening before the ink was dry on the last copy in the press room, there began a steady stream of humanity to view the long lost weapons of our famous original inhabitants. We hope that, considering over twenty years have elapsed since then, forgiveness is ours.

The Scoop DeLuxe

It has been suggested that we tell of some of the important "scoops" secured while in the newspaper work in Peterborough. It wasn't my fortune to have very many with Van, McRae and Sawle of the Review to contend with. This story of a near-murder is mentioned merely because the old Oriental Hotel right on the front door step of our Hunter street contemporary. A man named Thorndyke or something like that, had stabbed a fellow "member of the bar" almost to death. Happening into the police station before our paper closed, my good friend Detective Newhall, now Chief of Police, gave me the details. The Examiner came out an hour later with a column and a half story while the Review hadn't a line about it. As this is the only "scoop" I can recall it is fairly evident there were no more.

The Typographical Eror

Everyone knows how simple it is to have typographical errors in a daily paper where the news perforce must go through with a bang. One amusing case that appeared in the old Morning Times comes to memory. The reporter had been to one of the churches the night befort to report the sermon. The choir soloist had sung "My Faith Looks up to Thee" but the Times version of it was "My Faithful, It's Up to Thee."

With so many pleasant reminiscences of newspaper life in Peterborough as evidenced by the above recorded incidents, is it any wonder that I am planning to revisit the scenes of other days and to renew acquaintances with so many old associates and sympathetic friends? So I propose to join the throng of other Torontonians present to help celebrate in fitting fashion the great centennial of the HOME TOWN.

THE OLD BELLEVILLE FLYER

Here is the Belleville Flyer, on the Midland Railway, No. 625. The conductor was William Morris, and the engineer, William Pilling. Someone has suggested that a similar old relic be engaged to haul the Toronto Scottish to Peterborough for Old Home Week!

I Want To Make Whoopee With Some of The Old Gang, Says Staid Toronto Editor

By C. H. L. Reid

Having been asked to write something for your special edition in connection with Peterborough Old Boys' Reunion, I can think of nothing more fitting than to give some of my own reasons why I intend to take at least a day or two off to visit again in the city where I spent more than five of the best years of my life — five years and more of the happy, irresponsible period of my early twenties.

I want to join in the Old Boys' Reunion festivities because I hope to meet again some of the good old scouts who fought and fished, courted and canoed, skated and schemed, boosted and booed, knocked and kicked around the Lift Lock City in the opening years of the present century. I want to live again with them some of the days—and nights—spent on the old Otonabee, Rice Lake, Chemong and Stoney Lake. I want to review some of the famous hockey games with Belleville, Lindsay and Port Hope and some of the games where All-Star teams were brought in in an effort to defeat the famous Peterborough boys. I want some one to tell me they have ever seen more enthusiasm created by a walking contest than was seen in Peterborough on the occasion when a score of men tried to see who could cover the most laps in Brock street rink in a week. I would like someone to tell me why the defeat of Dave Beland by Walter Knox in a hundred yards dash at the Exhibition Grounds on a Thanksgiving Day caused a riot among the cash customers. I want someone to tell me who it was knocked out a Lindsay boxer in the first thirty seconds of a go in the old Grand Opera House, about February, 1904.

I would like to ramble again in beautiful Jackson Park; if it were winter I should like to go down the toboggan slide again; I'd like to play tennis again on Nicholls Oval; swim in the Y. M. C. A. tank; fish off the locks pier; feast on huckleberries at Stoney Lake; picnic at Chemong; swim at Inverlea.

I want to hear again the Peterborough Regmental Band playing in Victoria Park. I want to hear Archdeacon Davidson preach in St. John's Church. I'd like to hear Max Dennistoun teaching his Bible Class. I want to visit the Y. M. C. A. and learn what kind of a Debating Society, Strangers' Fellowship Club, Camera Club and Tennis Club they now have.

I would like to go through some of the manufacturing plants — the great C. G. E.; see how they make wax paper at the Nashua plant; see what it is they "separate" at the De Laval place; see what makes the clocks tick over at Westclox; see how they make carpets, builders' hardware, harness, woollen goods, etc., at the various plants.

I want to buy a cigar from Bruce Patterson. I want to get Archie Campbell or Jimmy Lewis to give me a shave. I want Chris Graham to tell that one about the Irishman and the Scotchman. I want to hear J. Hampton Burnham orate. I want to hear Jimmy Brown sing and above all I want to have F. H. Dobbin admit that the eight-hour day for printers has been a success.

C. H. L. Reid, editor of "Baker and Confectioner," Toronto, formerly a member of The Examiner staff, who wants to do a lot of things during his Old Home Week visit.

Henry Calcutt

Henry Calcutt, son of James Calcutt was born at Cobourg in 1837. His father had come out from England and settled in Cobourg in 1830, owning and operating farm property and a distillery. Henry Calcutt remained at home until 1855 when he moved to Peterborough where he established a line of steamers between Peterborough and Rice Lake, connecting with the Midland and Cobourg and the Ontario and Quebec Railways. He also owned the scenic summer resort "Idyl Wyld", and bought one thousand acres of reputed mineral lands known as the Galway mines. Mr. Calcutt prospered in Ashburnham where he also operated a brewery in the old days. He built a flax mill on the site of Riverside Park, but fire wiped it out four years later. He was three years Reeve of the village, and was a member of the County Council during that time. He died in 1913.

A PLACE OF BEAUTY FOREVER

The old Dixon mill on Jackson Park creek. It was built by the grandfather of Mrs. W. F. Nelson, about 1842. Though the old mill has been demolished these many years, Jackson Park remains a place of beauty, having been preserved in its natural state. No visitor should miss visiting it at least once during Old Home Week.

BILL HARTLEY RECALLS TIME HIS TEAM QUIT

Left Him Playing Cricket All Alone When Train Whistle Blew.

KEG OF BEER AS PRIZE

Billy Hartley likes to recall the afternoon the Peterborough Cricket club left him playing against the whole Port Hope team, while his mates hurried from the field to catch the train for home.

"We were short two men, so we took on two boys from the Trinity College school. When train time came we were down about 120 runs. The rest of the team had gone out for five runs. I was at bat with one of the T. C. S. boys, Dick (R. B.) Rogers said to me. "If you don't go out soon, stay over night at the Queen's. I'll arrange for your expenses."

I was at bat for hours and a total of some 80 runs not out, but we were retired when one of our T. C. S. boys went out and made our tenth out. Port Hope won the game by 128 to 124."

Ham Burnham tells about meeting Billy the next morning and complimenting him on his score. Billy's comment was: "I always do well against good bowling."

Starred in First Game

But, reverting to Mr. Hartley's reminiscence: "The first game I played on the Peterborough team was against Lindsay. A bunch of us young fellows had organized the Maple Leaf team. We used to play alongside the old drill shed, about where the armory is. I remember Dick Rogers went over to the cricket field, (the old P. A. A. A. grounds) to see the game. Peterborough was a man short, so they decided to toss up a coin to see which of us two they would take. It turned up for me, and I finished with the top score of 60 runs. I was about eighteen then."

Walked from Kinmount

Mr. Hartley has lost all memory of dates, but this little incident illustrates his enthusiasm for the English game.

"I was working in George Hilliard's lumber camp about nine miles north of Kinmount. I got a telegram from Ed Peck to come down and play against Toronto. I left the camp about 8 o'clock the next morning and walked the nine miles to Kinmount, but missed the train. It was gone when I reached the station. So I set out to walk to Bobcaygeon and got here at sundown. I think it is about 42 miles from Kinmount to Peterborough, and I played the next day on the Peterborough team.

Won the Keg of Beer

Then there was the day we beat the Peterborough team. They had picked a team from around here including Walter Rackham, John Hammond, the father of Dr. Hammond, Crosswaite of Haliburton, an English cricketer, Blackwell from Lakefield, a fine batter, R. B. Rogers and others.

Some of our Maple Leafs were Jimmy Montgomery, who is still living, Tom Quincy, Billy Spence, Tom Rutherford, Geo. Henry, Sid Johnston and others. Dan Haggart who clerked for Col. Rogers in the store at the corner of Hunter street and Driscoll Terrace, promised us a keg of beer if we won, and we did.

John Burnham's Gift

Some of the old Peterborough team were Harry Strickland, Wm. Wrighton, Theodore Clementi and Fred Barbee. The club was presented with two acres for a playing field by John Burnham, and that's how the old P. A. A. A. grounds became a cricket field. They used to let the baseball and lacrosse teams play there.

A Gentleman's Game

In all the time I played cricket, I never saw a referee's decision disputed. When players were called out, they retired with their bats without a word, and not with the ragging and quarreling I have seen in lacrosse and baseball games. One of the best players here in my day was Billy Stratton. He was a very good batter. Jimmy Montgomery played at point. He was also a good batter, and I think the old team would say that Billy Hartley was a good batter and bowler, too.

Every village had a cricket team in those days. Omemee, Lakefield, Norwood and Keene all had pretty good clubs, and even Westwood could put up a strong game. Campbellford had a fine team with such men as Tom Tait, Bonnycastle, Caldwell, a lawyer, the Denmarks and others I have forgotten."

Ladies Served Tea

Many of the ladies of Peterborough used to be interested in the Cricket Club and would serve tea at the games, and there were times when the band attended, and other occasions when Finch Miller, hearing that Peterborough was winning would call the band together and meet the team across the river, accompanying the players across to town.

In those days when strong-armed men were evidently unrestrained in such attempts, Billy Hartley used to be able to throw a stone over St. Paul's church steeple.

CRICKETERS OF DAYS GONE BY

Do you remember when this cricket team entertained hundreds? It's a long time ago, but memories will be revived when the old boys gather in Peterborough next week. TOP ROW (left to right)—J. H. Burnham, Sam Ray, Col. Le Fevre, William Hamilton. MIDDLE ROW—W. Stocker, Dr. Beechum Boucher, Miles Hamilton, W. D. Parker. BOTTOM ROW—W. J. Montgomery, A. A. Hollingshead, R. B. Rogers.

Henry Denne

(Father of Two Mayors)

Henry Denne, miller, the son of Thomas Denne, was born in Kent county, England, in 1831. Coming of age in 1852 he received the sum of $1,000 from his father with which to make a start in life. As every ship which returned to England from far-off America brought tidings of the prosperity in that land, he decided to seek his fortune across the Atlantic. Accordingly he crossed to Newfoundland, and after a brief stay there came to Peterborough, where he rented a mill property owned by John Langton, and situated on the Otonabee River about two miles north of the town. He named it Blythe, and for several years conducted it in partnership with Louis Glover. They were largely interested in buying wheat. In 1877 Mr. Denne bought the flour mill in Peterborough owned by Anson Sperry and built upon the site of Adam Scott's old mill, which was the first building and certainly the first factory in Peterborough.

Henry Denne was a member of the Board of Education and the Town Council, but was defeated in the 1889 mayoralty contest with James Stevenson. However, where he failed, two of his sons succeeded; one of them was T. Henry, G. Denne and the other, our present Mayor, His Worship, Roland Denne.

Henry Denne married Harriet Fitzgerald, daughter of Edward Fitzgerald, of the 7th concession of Smith. Their family was composed of nine girls and two boys. Mr. Denne died in 1901.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Peterborough's Old Home Week

Positively the greatest effort ever put forth by the residents of this City and County to make a week of undoubted enjoyment and friendliness for all who attend

Saturday, June 29th to Sunday, July 7th

BOTH DAYS INCLUSIVE.

Every day and every night has a fitting program, and you are cordially invited to come to Peterborough as often as you can, and participate in the pleasure and frolic of this week.

Toronto Men Recall Newspaper Experiences Here

NOW AN EDITOR IN TORONTO 'VAN' ONCE GUIDED DESTINES OF TWO PETERBORO PAPERS

Scandal, Humor and Sport Are Recalled in Same Breath.

FIRST ELECTRIC CAR

Tells How James Kendry Played Safe in Politics and Letters.

By G. B. Van Blaricon
Editor, Canada Lumberman

A short period to look back at but a long period to look forward to is 35 years. It was in the early nineties that I began my newspaper career on the "Examiner" and after serving an apprenticeship of three years reporting everything from sermons to lacrosse games and from conversaziones to police court proceedings, I left for western Ontario.

Fourteen years later I returned to Peterborough, the object of my first love, and was editor of the "Review," which post I filled for several years, removing to Toronto in 1904 where I have since followed the journalistic profession and, for the last decade have been editor of the "Canada Lumberman".

With pardonable pride, may I point out that the "Canada Lumberman" is the oldest trade newspaper in the Dominion, being founded in Peterborough in 1880 by the late E. J. Toker. Next year the "Canada Lumberman" will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary and it stands out as the representative publication of the forest products industry from coast to coast.

Naturally on the occasion of the Old Boys' Re-union, my mind reverts to many incidents, some grave and some gay, in connection with my newspaper days in Peterborough, which, at the beginning of my career, had a population of about 10,000. Four constables then kept peace in the community in the persons of Chief Roszel, J. McGinty, Bob Adams and Joe Stewart. All have joined the great silent majority with the exception of the last named. The late Geo. Cochrane was high County constable, to be succeeded in later years by Archie Moore, who was a member of the old volunteer fire department of Peterborough.

Well do I remember when he, along with three others, was charged with arson. A great scandal was raised at the time but after investigation, all suspicion was wiped away. The older residents of Peterborough will recall that the volunteer brigade did splendid work and now and then a citizen would send in a cheque for $10.00 or $15.00 as an expression of appreciation for their services. This would go into a common fund and no one reaped any personal benefit from the gift. An old shed on Hunter St. caught fire one night and the brigade was shortly on hand. In some way a report was started that one or two of the firmen had been seen coming out of the building a few minutes before the alarm was rung. Rumor got about that members of the department were committing incendiarism in order to gain more funds from citizens, with which to hold jollifications in their hall on Simcoe St., now part of the city buildings. A more unjust charge was never pressed. There was not a tittle of evidence to support it and the boys, George Kincaid, Milt Metheral, Archie Moore and E. Hutchison were honorably discharged and the volunteer fire department stood higher than ever in the estimation of the public.

DAYS OF REAL SPORT.

They were real newspaper days of bustle and battle when G. B. Van Blaricom was editor of The Review, after serving his apprenticeship with The Examiner.

First Electric Car

Those were the days before the advent of the automobile and, speaking of transportation, I remember when the first electric car passed over the streets of Peterborough. It created great interest and crowds rode upon the trolley. T. Evans Bradburn, ex-M.P.P. was one of the promoters of the company. The electric system was conducted for a comparatively short time and did not pay. The rails on George Street grew rusty and finally disappeared beneath the road surface or in other words the thoroughfare was crowned so that the track was lost sight of. It used to be a popular jest a few years subsequently to say that Peterborough was in the same civic category as New York, Boston and other cities in that it had an "underground railway".

I recall that 35 years ago Peterborough was a great lacrosse centre and many a battle royal took place between the Peterborough wielders of the wicker stick and an aggregation from Port Hope, known as the "Ontarios". The players on both teams were supposed to be strictly local residents and many a jibe appeared in Peterborough papers to arouse the Port Hope bunch. It was said the name "Ontarios" was a very happy one, in that it was truly representative and distinctive, owing to the fact that Port Hope corralled its players from all parts of the province of Ontario. Naturally such a sting as this invited journalistic reprisals from the "Port Hope Guide". The amount of space in the "Examiner" devoted to sports in those days was about a column and sometimes less. When a full column was published the city editor used to lean back and view his sheet with peculiar satisfaction.

In baseball Peterborough was no mean opponent. The late Bob Hay was an enthusiastic player and Dan Macabe was the noted one-arm pitcher. "General" Tighe was also a leading exponent of the pastime.

Among the cricketers of those days were Sam Ray, Ham Burnham, George W. Hatton, W. D. Parker, Dr. Perry Goldsmith (now of Toronto) Walter Stocker and as the auction bills say, "others too numerous to mention".

Col. J. Z. Rogers was the officer in command of the 57th Battalion and among military names that come to mind are those of Col. Clegg, Captain E. F. Mason, Col. J. W. Miller, Col. Dr. Bell, Major Wm. Langford and a score of others. The battalion then had an annual outing, generally about July 1st and I accompanied the corps to Kingston, Perth and other destinations as "war correspondent." These trips were greatly enjoyed by the red coats; the khaki uniform had not then made its appearance.

The first fire that I ever reported was the disastrous blaze that visited the large frame structure of the Peterborough Canoe Co. in Ashburnham early one morning and wiped out the industry. Col. J. Z. Rogers was also head of this organization as well as the militia. There was also another Col. Rogers, (Col. H. C.) a cavalry man, who was post master of Peterborough for many years. His erect, stalwart, commanding bearing attracted attention on every public appearance.

Curling Was Popular

Curling was a great winter game and there was an annual contest between the "Granites" of Toronto and the Peterborough rinks. At the old Snowden House, a big banquet would be held after the day's contest. On the occasion of which I speak, the Peterborough devotees of the stane and besom vanquished their Toronto competitors in the afternoon by a score of forty, and, strange to say, were victorious again in the evening by the same number of points. One of the Toronto contestants, in replying to a toast, said he did not understand how Peterborough had trounced them so completely.

"That is easily explained, said George W. Hatton.

"How?" inquired the visitor.

"We struck a two-forty galt" was the quick response.

Naturally this reference was accorded salvos of applause, for Peterborough was then quite a centre for winter horse racing, sponsored by Martin Connors and others, and a 2:40 clip was one not to be sneered at. No banquet was in those days complete without R. Max Dennistoun, (now Hon. Mr. Justice Dennistoun of Winnipeg) singing that rollicking song "Drill Ye Terriers, Drill", in his own inimitable style.

"Jimmy" Stevenson, diminutive coal merchant, was the representative of Peterborough in the Federal House, to be succeeded later by the late James Kendry of Auburn Woollen Mill fame. The late Hon. J. R. Stratton was representative in the Ontario Legislature and held many meetings throughout the riding after each session, explaining what the Legislature had done. In this way he kept in close contact and sympathy with his constituents, their needs and views.

He Played Safe

James Kendry was one of the greatest authorities on woollen goods in Canada and if the industry was under discussion at the House of Commons or there was any proposition to change the tariff, his voice would be heard and his opinion respected. He was a cautious politician and, during his long career as a member of Parliament he never indited a letter so far as known to any of his constituents on a public matter. They might write him regarding appointments, patronage, public improvements, etc., but no answer would be forthcoming through the post. When Mr. Kendry met any correspondents he would glad confer with them but never would he acknowledge their graphic communications.

I enquired of him one day why he adopted this peculiar attitude and he naively replied, "Well, you see, letters, especially political ones, have a way of turning up at odd moments and facing you. I have known some of my M.P. friends to get in an awkward position by this means. Now, when you talk to a man your word is as good as his and you know that no accusations of broken promises or false pretences can be sustained against you when your friend (or enemy, as the case may be) has nothing from you in black and white."

Among pleasant reminiscences of the early days of the nineties were the excursions of the Olympic Orchestra. Generally this was the first of the season's trips up the lakes. Billie Lech was one of the old standbys of this well known local musical organization. On these outings of the Kawartha waters many business men enjoyed their initial holiday for the season. These Olympic sails, while they lasted, were features of the good old summer time that will not fade from the pages of memory.

One or two other instances of the good old days! Peterborough in the early nineties had two telephone systems. The town had a fight on with the Bell Co. over rates, service, etc. and not obtaining satisfaction, several local capitalists banded themselves together and organized the Ontario Telephone Co. Local pride and patriotism was appealed to and the fight went on for some time but the Ontario Co. was handicapped in that it was at times necessary to get important information and had no service installed in the railway stations. Nearly every office and store had two telephones. The arrangement was an unmitigated nuisance. Most of the telephones were on the wall and when there was a ring, it was difficult to tell which of the instruments sounded. Unless you waited for a repeat call and watched you were almost sure to pick up the receiver of the wrong phone. This meant delay and often tested one's temper.

The fight was waged merrily until finally the rival concerns got together. About 1895 the Ontario Co. was bought out by the Bell and then everything went along peacefully until a score or more years ago a machine phone company made its appearance in three towns in Ontario—Lindsay, Brantford and Peterborough. That organization installed instruments free but the service was only local. The pioneer mechanism was too complicated to give the satisfaction or performance promised and, after a fruitless opposition, another telephone organization withdrew from the Peterborough arena.

The Old Picnics

Crowds used to go out to the summer picnics of Rev. Father Keilty of Douro township and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick of Ennismore. Chemong was a great summer resort and the hotel did a flourishing business. The railroad then ran to Bridgenorth and occasionally excursions would be run there and a steamer taken for a trip up to Bobcaygeon or around the Kawartha Lakes.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Young, was then pastor of George Street Methodist (now United) church. Rev. Dr. Torrance was minister of St. Paul's and and Rev. J. G. Potter, (now of Montreal) held forth at St. Andrew's. Rev. Dr. Young's son, Rev. W. Harold Young, a score or more years later also became spiritual director at George Street church. I remember Rev. Dr. Young sauntering into the newspaper office one day and enjoying a chuckle all by himself. Asked the cause of his merriment, he replied with gusto that he had been out in Smith township that afternoon to perform a marriage ceremony. Thirty years ago one seldom thought of sending a carriage for the minister to take him to the function as generally he provided his own conveyance. Dr. Young had gone to Fred Jones' livery stable and hired a rig. After the marital rite the best man handed the reverend gentleman an envelope which was not opened by the recipient until his return to Peterborough. After he had turned in the horse and buggy at the livery stable, he broke the sealed packet to find that the envelope contained $2.00.

"And," said Dr. Young, "that is just what I paid the livery man. So you see," he added "I am not out any money, simply my time."

During my first year in Peterborough, the Y. W. C. A., now a flourishing institution, was opened upstairs on George Street just opposite the present Examiner office. Miss Barker, (now Mrs. H. P. Kennedy, Toronto) was the first secretary. Her father was pastor of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist church. The Y. M. C. A. had two rooms on the east side of George Street, midway beween Hunter and Simcoe. R. J. Colville familiarly known as "Dad" was the secretary. He afterwards came to Toronto and was with the West End Y.M.C.A. for many years and later with the Central body on College Street. He passed away two or three years ago.

In those days the president of the Y. M. C. A. was George J. Early, photographer, who afterwards resided in Cannington. He used to inject a little humor in his appeals for funds for the institution by saying no one could refuse him. When asked "Why," he replied, "You know the Early bird catches the worm."

A Lesson in Journalism

One morning after I had begun my career as a cub reporter on the Examiner, Jim McDonald, who had been a local writer and afterwards was town clerk for a while, walked into the office. It was during the first World's Fair in Chicago and any man in Peterborough, who had the temerity as well as the finances to travel as far west as the Windy City and take in such an attraction, was regarded in the light of a hero. The late Thomas Bradburn, the most extensive property owner in Peterborough, was among the first residents to see the World's Fair. Mr. McDonald, who was a special friend of Mr. Bradburn thought such an event should not go unchronicled and accordingly came to the sanctum with a rather fulsome reference to Mr. Bradburn, which, of course, was not written at the dictation or request of the latter. One paragraph, however, I shall never forget and it was to this effect. "As Mr. Bradburn is an outstanding citizen of great perspicacity, he will no doubt observe much and be in a decidedly favorable position to regale his friends with vivid recitals and animated anecdotes of his meanderings and explorations at the stupendous spectacle now in progress in the colossal western metropolis."

I had been in newspaper work only a few weeks and when I saw this flattering and verbose item, I thought if I could only write like that my future would be assured and I would be sitting on top of the world. I spoke to Mr. Yokome, then editor, regarding the matter and I shall never forget his kindly counsel.

"Young man," he said, "extravagant language does not carry weight or influence. Be simple, straight and direct in all you write and where a one-syllable word will answer, don't employ those of three or four. Remember that the greatest things in human life are all expressed in words of one syllable, as home, wife, hope, child, love, joy and faith."

A score and a half years ago we used to call at many points for news. One of the principal depots was Frank Fairen's billiard parlor, where the genial proprietor always extended a hearty welcome to the representatives of the press. Another port of entry was Sam Ray's tobacco store. I remember being at the shop one day when a green, backward visitor blew in. Going up to Fred Ray, brother of the proprietor, he rather awkwardly inquired the price of cigars. Fred replied that they had them all the way from two for a nickel up to twenty-five cents apiece.

"Let me have a look at those fellows selling for a quarter," piped the visitor. He took one up and inspected it long and critically. "Now show me your two for five." Out came another box and, for several minutes, the caller seemed to be weighing the pros and cons of quality vs. price and price vs. quality. Finally, with a reluctant drawl he placed a nickel on the counter and said, "I'll take the two for five" and out he went. To this day no one has ever discovered why he desired to wander into the realm of gazing at costly smokes.

Veterans Recalled

Peterborough must be a healthy home for the business man. If one demands corroboration of this assertion all that he has to do is to take one good, square glance at the sprightly Col. J. W. Miller, now 85 years young, Benjamin Shortly, now in his 84th year, a veteran in the harness and travelling goods business for over 60 years, with "the horse at the door"; F. H. Dobbin, now 80, growing more youthful as the years glide by—not to speak of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Kennedy, the oldest married couple in Peterborough and both still young in spirit. They have been wedded 67 years and Mr. Kennedy will be 90 years young on July 8 next.

Then perhaps it would be well to take a peep at those veterans who started in business half a century or or so—Robert Fair still in the dry goods line, Lou Potvin, confectioner, Thomas Hooper caterer, Frank Schneider, jeweller, and Sam Ray, tobacconist, whose shop in early days was a harbinger of the Peterborough Club. E. F. Mason and Wm. Lech and Sons. But why go on, and yet the impulse is strong.

I remember that only a short period before I started reporting in Peterborough, the Canadian General Electric Co. had removed from Sherbrooke, Que. and located in the city. For years the vast establishment was familiarly called the "Edison Works" A few years later B. F. Ackerman, hailing from Port Perry, launched a harness factory, which subsequently developed into the footwear line and other specialties. Then came the Quaker Oats and dozens of other industrial establishments, which have kept the prestige and pre-eminence of the city to the forefront.

Peterborough was always a great lumbering centre and is still going strong in that direction, possessing two well managed plants in the Alfred McDonald Lumber Co. and the Peterborough Lumber Co. The Dickson Co., "Big Bill' Irvin, George Hilliard, T. G. Hazlett, J. C. Shook, the Ludgates and other historic names in the forest products arena readily come to mind.

Once, when on the Examiner, I was passing the mill yard of the McDonald Co. at an early hour in the evening in company with Thomas J. Begely, now of Lindsay. We saw a small blaze start right in the midst of the lumber piles and speedily sent in an alarm. The prompt arrival of the fire department prevented the destruction of the plant.

Many other reminiscences, some humorous and some sad, I could recall, but my contribution is already too long. I desire to demonstrate that I am not like certain pioneer railways in the early development of the Prairie provinces which lacked terminal facilities and will now say, "au revoir".

So with hearty greetings to Peterborough and its continued prosperity and with every good wish for the Lift Lock City, the Plate Glass City, the Electric City—all of which it has been termed at various times—I lay down my pen, feeling that the days which I spent in the good old town were among the happiest and most mellow of my whole newspaper career.

TORONTO FOLK START CELEBRATION EARLY

When members of the Toronto committee came to Peterborough recently to make plans for the big Toronto day they got so interested in reminiscencing that business waited till the last minute.

Old friends dropped in to talk over old events—and the same good time was had by all that will mark next Tuesday as a red letter day in the life of every Toronto old boy returning home.

THE OLD MARKET PLACE

It has changed a lot, but the trading is just the same. There's a slight change in costumes; motor trucks have replaced some of the buggies and democrats—but you'll have no difficulty recognizing the square.

WE'RE ALL DRESSED UP TO WELCOME YOU HOME!

Two weeks ago active work started on the decorating of Peterborough for the reception of her returning old boys and girls. The plans were made months ago, and now the city is in gala attire, with flags, bunting and vari-colored lights.

So come on back!

REUNION WILL GIVE THRILLS

Former Review Reporter Sees Real Enjoyment for Toronto Visitors.

"LET NONE MISS IT"

By Percy Crane
(Formerly reporter on the Peterborough Examiner and Review and now with the MacLean Publishing Co. Toronto.)

Surely the author of these words (Goldsmith I believe it is) would have revelled in just such a happy occasion as is being planned in Peterborough during the first week of July. Do they not epitomize more than anything else one can think of, this great re-union of Peterborough old boys and girls?

The good people of Peterborough following months of preparation are making it possible for old friends to get together in old scenes and live over, once again, old times.

"Old Home Week". These are magnetic words whether they apply to Peterborough as they do at this particular time, or to the smallest, most obscure and unknown hamlet in the whole land. Everyone is proud of his own home town, and the magnetism of "Old Home Week" is just this. It draws one back to scenes of one's earliest life—to first pals, to first ('gals' too if you like) and to first impressions of life.

"Old Home Week for old boys and girls". Didn't you experience a real thrill when you received that invitation from good old Peterborough to return once again and participate for one whole week, in all the pleasures and pastimes that are being planned for our enjoyment? From past knowledge of Peterborough and its ability to do things well, time will not hang heavy one one's hands, and from all accounts (I have been reading the Examiner very closely for weeks past), there will not be a dull moment.

Why one only has to reminisce a bit, and here is one time when reminiscing may be forgiven, to recall some of the celebrations that Peterborough has made memorable. The good old Kalithumpian parades that used to mark the observance of the 24th of May, and sometimes Dominion Day—big events in bygone days. They were spirited and enthusiastic occasions and successful because everyone participated in the fun provided.

How Peterborough used to welcome its returning victors in the hockey world! Why the town fairly rocked with excited cheers of welcome, and who can forget that momentous occasion when Davey Hartley the walker was accorded rousing recognition of his triumph over the Port Hope barber in that never-to-be-forgotten walk from Port Hope to Toronto. Peterborough welcomes her returning sons and daughters in its own inimitable way and this forthcoming celebration, in the words of a theatrical Press agent, promises to eclipse all others.

A few days ago I received a letter requesting, as my contribution to a Toronto issue of the Peterborough Examiner an article anywhere from 500 to 5,000 words. The request came from one who, in the early days of my reporting experience on the old Peterborough Review, I would not dare to refuse. I refer to Mr. G. B. Van Blaricom, now editor of the Canadian Lumberman. "Van" certainly had a way of initiating the new "cubs", and being sick, sore and disgusted with the job of reporting at the end of the first week, only his determination and interest, made my refusal to continue absolutely impossible.

Those early days chasing the dead line and the police court and doing the church socials in the evenings, were filled with new and exciting experiences, but how the days lagged when quietness of an all pervading kind seemed to have struck the town and there just wasn't any news to be had.

Dear old Charley McGinty—a police officer who was always very kind to reporters. I can hear him even now saying in those nasal tones that were so peculiar to him "Nothin' doin' today, young fella." They struck terror to your very soul for you knew that on your return to your office, the only item you could write was one for the news nuggets, as the briefs were then called. It usually read as follows:

One almost wished the town was not so free from wrong doing. Can't you imagine Van's frowns? Hungry printers waiting for copy and that the best you can do? Similar and such remarks. Is it any wonder reporters crave something startling to happen? Can you blame them?

On the eve of this great re-union of Peterborough old boys and girls countless memories of days in the old town, some happy, and some, well perhaps not so happy, but all combining to make a heap of livin', rush to one's mind like a mighty torrent. And if one were to keep on recalling them this ramble would not be 5,000 words but several times five thousand.

However the joy and purpose of this re-union is to recall these other days and to live in retrospect. Let no one miss it. It is for our pleasure and happiness it has been planned.

OLD DAILY REVIEW EDITOR THINKS EXAMINER SUFFERED AMALGAMATION INDIGESTION

LAUDS F. H. DOBBIN.

Height of Journalism Used to be Making Other Editors Uncomfortable.

BUT THEY WERE GENEROUS

Every Meeting With Frank Dobbin is an Encounter, Says Milligan.

(By J. Lewis Milligan, of the Ontario Department of Mines, and one-time editor of the Peterborough Daily Review).

Peterborough was my first journalistic home in Canada, and I was naturally attracted by Mr. John R. Heron's invitation to spend a day or so in the city during Old Home Week.

I have many pleasant memories of my sojourn, seventeen years ago, in Peterborough as editor of the Daily Review—now, alas! no more. I hasten to explain I was not responsible for the death of that paper—unless, indeed, it died of a broken heart at my departure; but it took about two years to expire after I left.

I understand, however, that The Review did not really die, but was united, amalgamated, merged or absorbed by The Examiner. If The Examiner did actually absorb The Review, it must have suffered acutely from indigestion. In the old days my brother-scribe, the late F. R. Yokome, of kindly memory, must have spent many wakeful nights worrying over the trenchant invectives hurled at his head from the editorial chair of The Review. I recall—and confess to my shame—how I used to take a devilish delight in the thought of making the old gentleman feel uncomfortable. I would launch great volleys of censure, sarcasm and satire against his political positions, and pour vials of scorn upon the journalistic standing of his paper — as compared with that of The Review!

These attacks, however, did not appear to affect Mr. Yokome's health or disturb his gentle disposition, for whenever I met him he seemed quite happy, and we were always on the best of personal terms. When I left Peterborough he wrote a most generous editorial note regarding my work on The Review, which included the following passage, which I quote for his sake rather than my own:

"For personal and fraternal reasons The Examiner regrets the severance of Mr. Milligan's relations with our contemporary. He is a good man and a good newspaper man, a good writer and his work has given tone to the editorial character of his journal, which his successor, whoever he may be, will do well if he maintain."

I have kept the clipping, from which the above is taken, in my private wallet all these years, and I have endeavored to live up to my old friend's estimation of me. My memory of Mr. Yokome is one of a gentleman, in the best British sense of that term.

Another personage, who holds a prominent place in my recollections of my connection with The Review, is Mr. F. H. Dobbin, who, I am pleased to say, is still in the old home town. It was Mr. Dobbin who engaged me as editor of The Review, of which at that time he was the proprietor, managing director and everything else of importance. My first encounter with Mr. Dobbin was a memorable one. Indeed, every meeting with Dobbin is an encounter. I do not mean that he is a pugnacious fellow, but when you meet him, especially for the first time, you come under a searching physiological, psychological and almost a theological examination. He has a way of sizing you up and penetrating beneath any veneer or camouflage. The process is reassuring to the innocent, but very disconcerting to the guilty.

I came to Peterborough with a letter of introduction from Mr. Owen Herity, at that time editor of The Belleville Daily Ontario. I soon discovered that what Mr. Dobbin wanted was an editor and not a mere showman. He at once put me to the test. He challenged me to sit down there and then write half dozen editorials as examples of what I could do. I accepted the challenge, did my stunt and departed. Two weeks later I received an offer from Mr. Dobbin, which I accepted. I owe it to Mr. Dobbin for giving me my first real opportunity as a newspaperman in Canada. Shrewdness, blended with urbanity and a sparkling wit, are the distinguishing characteristics of my old chief, F. H. Dobbin. Long may he linger on the stage to enliven and adorn this little drama of life.

BILL O'BRIEN IS ENTHUSIAST

Secretary of Toronto Association of Old Boys Tells His Hopes.

By Wm. J. O'Brien
(Former member of Peterborough Review editorial staff and now with the Chartered Trust and Executor Co., Toronto).

The officials and citizens of Peterborough who conceived and are developing the Old Home Week idea are deserving of the gratitude of those of us who have left that city to work out our destinies in other places.

The week set aside for the special benefit of the run-aways will afford a wonderful opportunity for the latter to revisit the places that in the near and distant past formed part and parcel of their daily lives; in addition it will bring together the friends and acquaintances, so long forgotten, that to remember will require mutual re-introduction.

While, in the majority of cases, the absentee has forgotten in some degree, at least, his friends, neighbors —even relatives perhaps—one institution is still firmly focussed in the mind of each and every exile, and that is the school where he received his early education. There appears no chance to get away from the memory of the place where the rudiments of learning were drilled into the being of fast and slow alike — where the teacher, foe and friend of the young idea, taught the latter how to shoot and in the most cases how to shoot straight.

Peterborough has been outstanding in its educational progress. Its teachers have included and still include the best in the country, its buildings have for the most part kept ample pace with the city's growth and its Board of Education have ever been recruited from the most prominent, most unselfish of its citizens.

The past generation has produced a perfect host of things that distract the pupil from his work, the automobile and the moving picture show being the greatest offenders. Through it all, the Directors of Education have been strained to new invention and new effort to neutralize these distractions and that they have succeeded is being proven by the ever increasing enrollment at the higher schools and universities.

So, with the multitude of thoughts and feelings which will be ours upon our return to Peterborough for Old Home Week, there are two which should stand out most prominently. The first is that feeling of affection for our earliest Alma Mater—school, teacher and earliest friends. The other is the realization that the Directors of Education—the teacher, the inspector and the trustee—possesses in a most marked degree the virtues most seldom found in mankind — patience, perserverance and unselfishness.

Life Will Be Sweeter In The Years To Come Because Of Old Home Week's Backward Glance

EVERY organization in the city—church, fraternal and service—has been on the qui vive for months in anticipation of Old Home Week; now everything is ready to receive you old boys and girls!

Nothing has been left undone in the effort to make you comfortable, and your stay with us enjoyable. We will enjoy ourselves in the recalling of old times; even the youngsters will get a kick out of the reminiscences we will pass.

life will be sweeter for all of us in the years to come because of this look backward over the path we have trod. . . . .

So, come on back!

DAVIE HARTLEY MADE HISTORY

Was Peterborough to stand by and have Port Hope win fame and honour because one of its town barbers by the name of Jimmie Reynolds managed to establish a record in heel-and-toe walk from Port Hope to Toronto and return?—Not if George Stevens, the ash king of Peterborough knew anything about it. The honour of Peterborough amongst the sporting fraternity of the province must be re-established. The idea of Port Hope putting it over Peterborough in this heel-and-toe walking business simply got under the skin of George Stevens and made him boil. Surely there was some man, woman or child within the City limits of Peterborough who could restore to the city its pre-eminence in the sporting fraternity of Canada!

George Gives Davie the Once Over

There has been rumors that one Davie Hartley, at that time pursuing his peaceful occupation of making things brighter in Peterborough, by applying the painter's brush on ancient and weather-beaten buildings, had, in his earlier days, won a degree of local fame as a heel-and-toe walker. George Stevens, with discerning eye, gave him the once over. It is possible there were a few try-outs down to Downer's Corners and back. In any event George Stevens was determined to pull off something real big and it was shortly announced to the world that Davie Hartley would undertake a heel-and-toe walk from the City of Oshawa into Toronto, and thence immediately back through Oshawa to Peterborough, a total distance of 132 miles and that he would do it in faster time than Jinnie Reynolds the Port Hope barber had done the walk from Port Hope to Toronto and return, a distance of 128 miles.

There was nothing lacking in the details of the arrangements for Davie Hartley's heel-and-toe walk from Oshawa to Toronto to Peterborough. George Stevens saw to that. Sporting editors worked overtime grinding out publicity and even the farmers along the route were waiting impatiently to see the Peterborough marvel go briskly stepping by their freshly furrowed acres and their Autumn tinted woodlots, while anyone who pretended to have any sporting blood coursing through his veins, was ready to bet as to the time Davie would make to Whitby, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Bewdley or any other intervening point along the route.

Davie Hartley was not a man of huge stature. He was in fact less than what one might class a medium height, but he was wirey and peppery, quick of action and sound of wind and foot. George Stevens, with his team of mules hitched to an open buggy and accompanied by his son Charlie, as personal attendant, made the trip to the starting point at Oshawa and acted as pacemakers for the entire walk from Oshawa to Toronto and back to Peterborough.

Excitement Starts to Boil

The excitement accompanying the first few miles of Davie Hartley's heel-and-toe performance can be compared to that of a bitterly fought election contest just when the returns from the first few polling subdivisions have started to come in. Looking back now on the advent in the more recent years of the radio, the improved telephone service, the fast fleeting automobiles and various other modern means of communication, it is astonishing to realize the degree to which George Stevens had perfected his arrangements for up-to-the-minute information as to the progress of the walk.

On the return trip from Toronto Pickering, Whitby, Bowmanville were clipped off in remarkably quick time with Davie Hartley pressing the mules, the pacemakers, unmercifully. When Port Hope was reached it became reasonably apparent that he was going to smash the record of Jimmie Reynolds, and the cheers around the newspaper offices in Peterborough were such that they vibrated clear down the valley of the Otonabee. There were, however a few skeptical ones. Could Davie Hartley keep up the grind? Would he collapse before he reached the lake girded road that winds around through the village of Bewdley? How sad if Davie Hartley blew up at Baillieboro or Centreville? While the excited fans stood breathlessly by scanning the bulletin boards, some of these offering these senseless suggestions; while the telephones in the newspaper offices kept ringing incessantly as society women, ministers of the gospel, hotel porters and city aldermen begged for the latest news, George Stevens flailed the team of mules with his trusty black-snake whip, and Davie Hartley increased his pace.

Waddell's Corners and Fraserville faded into the distance as the fast becoming exhausted mules nosed their way over the C. P. R. tracks at Kendry Siding. Davie Hartley's chin was now raised high, his perspiring face was smeared with the dust of over one hundred miles of earth and gravel roads; still, however, there penetrated through the mask of muck and grease a smile of supreme confidence. And still George Stevens whacked the mules with his black-snake whip. The farmers on either side of the highway stopping their plowing to shout across the fields a word of encouragement, the farmers' wives from the house verandas waved tablecloths, bed-clothes and various articles of fall underwear, while little children cried to be told the meaning of it all.

Arrangements for the Reception

W. S. CAMPBELL
Chairman of the Transportation committee.

Motorcade Head Heartily Invites You To Come Along

As convenor of the Transportation Committee, I extend a hearty invitation to all who have cars, to join in the motorcade to the "old home town."

Elsewhere, in this Toronto Eition of The Peterborough Examiner, is shown the route for the parade. Escorted by a Provincial convoy, the procession will leave Fleet Street and Spadina Ave., Toronto, at 8 o'clock on the morning of Tuesday, July 2nd. It is expected that several hundred automobiles will be in line Everything will be well regulated and prominent banners displayed so that all, who witness the parade, will know from where it comes and where it is going.

May I point out to the people of Peterborough it is most important that persons, already in the old town, be advised to leave their cars on the right side of the highway on the Loope Line, which leads to Scott's Corners by the low road and in this wey keep the chief route clear for the motorcade from Toronto.

As soon as the main Toronto section has passed the junction point, Peterborough cars on the loop should immediately fall in with the procession. I hope this arrangement will be quite clear to residents of Peterborough, who ride out to participate in the parade, as no one wishes to see the main highway blocked.

Former residents of Peterborough, who have a deep longing to revisit the old town, renew their youth and enjoy its associations and hospitality, should join the motorcade leaving Toronto on the morning of Tuesday, July 2nd, at 8 o'clock, the assembly point being the corner of Spadina Ave. and Fleet St.

"PETERBOROUGH" is the watchword and will be the sign displayed on all sides on our arrival.

ONE AND ALL, come and help make the motorcade and Toronto Day events that will long be remembered.

W. S. Campbell, Convenor of Transportation Committee.

In the meantime George Stevens' self-appointed advisory committee back in Peterborough was busy. As the various points of settlement along the route were heard from and the telegraph and special runners brought into headquarters the news of Davie's splendid progress and superb condition, arrangements were gotten under way for a reception befitting the event. The self-appointed advisory committee included such well known citizens as Billy Bowman, Mark Spenceley, Jim Gardiner, etc., etc.

It was on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day—October 31st, 1907, that Davie Hartley paced by George Stevens' mules turned off the boundary road at Scott's corners on what was now looked upon as the final lap of the Oshawa - Toronto - Peterborough heel-and-toe walk. Careful calculations made by the sporting editors and the self-appointed advisory committee disclosed the fact that Davie should finish at the Munroe house at about four o'clock p. m. Long before that time every point of vantage from the Post Office to the western limits of the city was preempted. No victorious warrior ever passed down through such a seething mass of humanity. The arrangements for the reception as might be expected by any one familiar with the make-up of the self-appointed advisory committee, were perfect. No other word could properly describe them. Davie Hartley was met on the outskirts of the city on the Monaghan Road by the self-appointed advisory committee, a brass band and three thousand children of all ages and sexes. It was with difficulty the committee in charge managed to keep Charlotte street sufficiently clear to ensure that Davie Hartley was not fouled just as he was about to complete his record tramp. But for the timely and efficient work of Mark Spenceley the procession would have been badly disorganized. Mr. Spenceley, with the aid of a club, somewhat longer and somewhat thicker than a regulation baseball bat, did excellent work in maintaining a straight line of onlookers on at least one side of Charlotte street.

The Band Played, the Mules Crawled, and Davie Stepped

First came the band, the big drummer pounding furiously and the E-Bass cracking like a radio in distress. From the shrill notes of the E-Flat cornet, however, it was quite apparent the band was playing the tune most suitable to the occasion; a tune that had ushered many a warrior back to his native land—"See the Conquering Hero Comes."

George Stevens and his team of mules came next; that is immediately following the band. To anyone student of animal life it was quite apparent the mules were all in, and that they were not enjoying the noise and tumult. As pace-makers for Davie Hartley they had given of their best; at the same time they looked as if they wanted to turn into Fred Robinson's livery stable and have a rest. But George Stevens, kind of heart, knew that a few more blocks and all would be well. He therefore with the aid of the black-snake whip urged the mules on to further effort.

But the cynosure of all eyes was Davie Hartley. The sight was inspiring. The band increased its' time, the cheers of the crowd grew terrific and Davie Hartley changed in an instant from low to high gear. As he swung up George Street, he was stepping at a pace that would have brought pride to the heart of a father of a high school cadet. His knees almost hit his chin with the elasticity of his movement, his shoulders were thrown back like those of a sergeant of the Guards, and his arms swung with the precision and pep of the driving rods of a locomotive engine. His attire was light; in fact only what was demanded by the laws of decency but emblazoned across the breast of his abbreviated shirt in good clear letters was the word "Peterborough." For one hundred and thirty odd miles Davie Hartley had carried the name of the city across five counties of the Province of Ontario.

When he finally crossed the intersection of Hunter and Water Street, thereby completing his heel-and-toe walk from Oshawa to Toronto to Peterborough the crowd got completely beyond control. Near-mob scenes followed. It was with difficulty the self-appointed advisory committee rescued Davie from his admirers, everyone intoxicated beyond control with enthusiasm. However, he was rushed to an upstairs room in the Munro House. In the meantime George Stevens was trying to extricate his team of mules and buggy which had become swamped in the crowd. A hitching post was located and the mules anchored.

Billie Bowman Acts as Chairman

By this time the hero of the walk was being given scientific treatment in an upper room in the Munro House. The crowd was still wildly cheering when Billie Bowman appeared at an open up-stairs window. He had been selected by the self-appointed advisory committee as chairman extraordinary. Mr. Bowman, in a few well chosen remarks thanked the citizens of Peterborough for their enthusiastic assistance in the great undertaking and assured them that Davie Hartley would soon appear in person and express his gratitude for their kindness and support. He had very much pleasure in the meantime, in introducing Mr. James Gardiner.

Mr. Gardiner whose professional life from his most youthful days had been devoted to the commendable task of obtaining for the farmers of Durham, Northumberland and Peterborough the highest possible price, under the hammer, for their horses, sheep, hens, bulls and other agricultural products, was a man of striking appearance. His voice did not require to be stepped up by amplifiers. Tall and well set up with keen eye and pensive face he raised his right hand after the style of an orator of the old school, in an endeavor to obtain some slight degree of silence. No one in the vast crowd could for a moment doubt that Mr. Gardiner had spent a lifetime in the auctioneering profession. He immediately proceeded to dwell upon the great honor that had been brought to Peterborough by their worthy fellow citizen, Mr. Davie Hartley. At the first mention of the name Davie Hartley, the pent-up enthusiasm of the crowd broke loose again. From the Post Office steps on the opposite corner, from the roof of the Crown Hotel immediately across the street, from in fact, the throats of ten thousand wildly cheering men, women and children came in unison, the words: "DAVIE HARTLEY—WE WANT DAVIE" It was useless for Mr. Gardiner to attempt to proceed with what the self-appointed advisory committee had intended to be the chief oratorical fireworks of the afternoon. The champion must be produced without further delay.

Davie had some few minutes previously been divested of his scanty attire and was having a well earned rub-down by friends and volunteer trainers all anxious to horn in, even to a very insignificant degree on the glory of his performance. A rush was made to Davie's room and without even wasting time to throw a blanket around him he was carried bodily to the open window. He blushed with pride as he gazed down on the vast multitude and the women in the crowd in return, blushed with modesty on Davie's near nudeness. "I thank you," declared Davie Hartley in a voice so modest that only Billy Bowman and a few others at the window could hear what he had said and the hero staggered back to his dressing room to finish his rub-down.

Wins By a Two-Hour Margin.

Davie Hartley had walked a distance of 132 miles in 34 hours and 6 minutes. His great rival, Jimmie Reynolds, had a few weeks before done 128 miles in 36 hours and 19 minutes, Davie being the victor by two hours and thirteen minutes and he had also travelled in that time and extra four miles. No wonder that before the vast throng moved away the hat — several hats — were passed around and a substantial collection was taken up as a slight token of appreciation of the honour he had brought to the city.

This was not the last occasion in which he appeared in a matched heel-and-toe walking contest. The controversy as to the relative merits of Davie Hartley and Jimmie Reynolds still raged in the press of the province and on November the 25th, following a matched walk was staged in the old Mutual Street Rink, Toronto. Once again the Peterborough marvel was the victor.

Davie Hartley was a likeable soul, unassuming, clean living, with a friendly greeting for everybody. He bore his honors modestly. Hard-working and honest he contributed of his best to the industrial, social and athletic life of the city. Some years ago, when in the pursuit of his calling as a painter, in assisting in the redecoration of the old Central school building, he fell and received injuries which proved fatal. His tragic death was mourned, not by present residents of Peterborough alone, but by thousands of Peterborough old boys, who will, during the coming week, miss his pleasant smile, his kindly voice, and a welcome from him, back to the old town.

Alfred McDonald

Alfred McDonald was born in Trenton in 1857 and died in Peterborough in 1906. His father was engaged in the lumber business there, but came to Peterborough in 1871, and established a similar industry here, Alfred assuming control of it when his father died. The saw mill at Point St. Charles was destroyed by fire in 1899, and when it was rebuilt the frames from the old Chas. Perry mill at Nassau were used in the new mill on Little Lake.

Peterborough Wants You.

The spirit of Peterborough's Old Home Week, June 29 to July 7, is to be found in the reminiscences of former Peterborough newspaper men as published in this issue.

Newspaper men are commonly regarded as "hard-boiled"; in other words, as cynical and minus the slightest atom of sentiment.

Yet here we have them recalling old days in Peterborough with a heartiness that suggests that love for the old town occupies a prominent place in hearts that were supposed to be devoid of tender feeling.

They are still Peterboroughians, and they're delighted to have a chance to hold a re-union in the old town, shake the hands of old acquaintances and visit the old scenes.

They're all coming back for a gala time in the place of pleasant memories that many of them still call home, albeit their lot is cast elsewhere.

The warmest of welcomes awaits them all whether they come from far or near.

To-day a special invitation goes out to you among them who live in Toronto.

Tuesday is your day, and hundreds of old boys and girls residing in the Queen City are uniting in a mass movement back to the old town that promises to be one of the outstanding features of the whole celebration.

Toronto old boys and girls, Peterborough is waiting to welcome you with open arms and the freedom of the place.

Come for a week if you can, come with the Toronto delegation on Tuesday if a week isn't possible, but come at all events, if you can only spend a day.

Peterborough will be glad to have you, and you'll be glad you came.

The Mason Family

Francis Mason.
W. J. Mason.
E. F. Mason.
Herbert G. Mason.

Francis Mason was born in Sligo, Ireland, in 1805, came to Canada about 1830, and settled at Cobourg. He was a cooper by trade. In 1842 he moved to Peterborough where he resided until his death in 1877. His wife, Belinda Corneil, was born in Limerick, Ireland, in 1813.

W. J. Mason was the elder son of Francis Mason. He was born in Cobourg in 1836, coming to Peterborough when six years old with his parents. He received his education at the public school and in 1856 entered the mercantile business of Bradburn & Son, to learn the business. He subsequently became a partner in the concern, and continued in the relation for more than twenty years, disposing of his interest in it in 1879. He then opened a business on George street, which has carried the family name down to the present day with increasing verility and enterprise.

The Mason family is of Norman extraction Their ancestors fled from France at the time of the persecution of Waldenses, and settled in Sloego, Ireland, in the reign of Queen Anne. Francis Mason was the first of the family to come to Canada. His marriage to Miss Corneil took place in Cobourg. He lived in Ashburnham when he moved to this community During the rebellion of 1837-8, he was a Lieutenant of volunteers. His wife was a descendant of the Palatines, a religious body who, on account of persecution by the authorities, left Holland about the same time the Waldenses left France, also settling in Ireland.

W. J. Mason died in 1892. E. F. Mason is his son, and in turn his son Herbert is helping successfully in the business founded by his grandfather

F. H. Dobbin

Frank H. Dobbin was born in Watertown, N. Y., in 1850 and was educated in the common and High schools of Peterborough. He served his apprenticeship to the printing trade with Robert Romaine of the Peterborough Review from 1864 to 1869. He was manager of the Lindsay Post from 1881 to 1887. Then he became one of the owners of the Review of which he was managing director until his retirement in 1914. He has given largely of his time and effort to public enterprises. He was president of the Board of Trade, President of the Fair Board for three years and a member of the City Council. During the war he was the local secretary of the Canadian Patriotic Fund.

F. D. MACKAY RECALLS DAYS ON OLD REVIEW

Now President and General Manager of Canadian Telephones and Supplies, Ltd.

IS UNABLE TO COME.

Reminiscences of Old Beat in Town Are Vividly Recalled.

(By F. D. MacKay, formerly reporter and editor with the Peterborough Review; now President and General Manager of Canadian Telephones and Supplies, Ltd., Toronto.

I would be delighted to get on the job once again and do my bit in getting out an edition of a Peterborough paper.

You speak of getting "a kick" out of it. Why it gave me a real thrill to read your letter and have a picture rise before me of the days when, as "a bright and intelligent youth", I gathered the news of the town and gave it to the public through the columns of the late and lamented "Daily and Weekly Review" and I see myself at the Police Court with Magistrate Dumble and Chief Roszel presiding and Charlie McGinty or Bob Adams, or Joe Stewart, all real police officers, in the witness box or preserving order. At the County Police Court I see County Magistrate Edmison with the County Chief Constable and George Cochrane at his right hand and County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood prosecuting.

I was once again on my morning rounds, dropping in to see the special reporters we always cultivated in all the town churches, which, I believe, received much more space then than they do now. I was in to see George Morrow, who as the youthful secretary, ran the affairs of the Board of Education as successfully then as he has managed his own affairs since; to see W. G. Ferguson in Peter Connals's grocery store for curling news; to see Sam Ray for cricket and baseball news; to see Frank Farren, who always had some news picked up in his George St. emporium; to see George Ball in his tailor shop, which was the head centre for labor news in those early days of labor organizations in Peterborough; or once a week to see W. H. Wrighton, who supplied market reports.

I also recalled the city council meetings, when James Stevenson was Mayor and R. S. Davidson, Thos. Cahill, Harry Winch, John McNaughton, E. H. D. Hall, Thos. Kelley, T. E. Bradburn, Adam Dawsonson, James Kendrey and Arthur Rutherford were councillors and supplied frequently three or four columns of red-hot debate for the newspapers. Incidentally it was these same men, who as the town council, laid the foundation of Peterborough's claims as an industrial centre. Then, too, the meetings of the Board of Education with live discussions led by D. W. Dumble and J. B. McWilliams frequently furnished four or five columns of matter for the press. The reporters worked in those days.

My thoughts ran also to the town buildings as they were then, with Jim English as the man-in-charge as Engineer of the steam fire engine and the fire brigade under Chief Jack Craig with eighteen or twenty as active firemen as ever fought a blaze.

I believe I remember also that there was no prohibition in those days, although Peterborough had the Scott Act which was supposed, when adopted, to close the bars but which, as I found it when I came to Peterborough, only meant that the bars kept open all night as as all day.

Peterborough was a live, growing prosperous town and a good place to live in. As Harry Lauder would say, "I'm tellin' ye, mind ye, those were the happy days."

Then came the later years when my chief on the Review went to the City Clerk's office, which he has so ably and worthily filled ever since, and I moved up to the dignity of Editor, with Billy Buchanan now the substantial Western Senator, as my reporter. I assure you that if your invitation to write an editorial for the "Examiner" had reached me in those days when politices were politics and elections were fought to a finish in the newspapers and on the platform, I would have certainly relished the opportunity of saying something of real interest to The Examiner readers. In fact there are a few of the old guard left who might be touched up to some good effect, if one had the opportunity such as your editorial columns would afford. However, in those days we fought our campaigns hard but were all good friends in the interests of Peterborough when the smoke of battle had cleared away.

Sitting here now with only one newspaper in a city of twenty-five thousand as you do, I would recall for your thought and consideration our press conditions at that time, when Peterborough had something around ten or twelve thousand people. The Morning Times was then published by W. H. Robinson as the only "morning newspaper between Toronto and Ottawa" and it established a unique record which I know was not duplicated elsewhere. We had three newspapers with F. R. Yokome, one of the best newspaper writers in the Province and a most likeable and cultured gentlemen as the Editor and Charlie Allison as the popular reporter on The Examiner. Notwithstanding that we had two evening dailies and one morning daily in the field, the newspaper men all ate regularly and were able to dress presentably, but we never worried about money. We left that to the business office.

Yes, indeed, your letter gave me "a kick" and I think your idea is a good one. I would enjoy playing a part in the program (especially the "bang-up-dinner") if it were possible.

Unfortunately I have booked my passage for a trip to England and Bonnie Scotland, this month. So unless something happens to interfere with present plans I will not be able to attend the "Old Home Week." This is a matter of real regret, for I know I will miss the opportunity of meeting and shaking hands with hundreds of old boys and girls who were in Peterborough in the happy days of years ago.

Wilfred Stratton Has Plans Ready For Entertainment

As convenor of the Fireworks and Entertainment Committee our task is to see that you are well looked after on arrival in progressive Peterborough. Mr. W. S. Campbell, chairman of the Transportation Committee, has invited you to join the parade and go back to the old home town on Toronto Day, Tuesday, July 2nd, but he has not told you all the splendid entertainment which awaits you at your destination.

After the motorcade reaches the city limits the proceedings begin and rest assured that there will not be a dull moment from start to finish In the limited space at my disposal, I cannot outline everything, except to point out that the official program in another column affords complete information on "What's doing."—

As an old Peterborough boy, I am looking forward to the return home with deep interest and high hopes and I am sure that many others are animated by this vision and enthusiasm.

The program presented by the Toronto Concert Band will be of the highest character and rendered in an artistic and admirable manner. From the hour the Toronto caravan enters the city limits until midnight there will be, as the official folder points out, "a never ending source of delight and entertainment, unexcelled in diversity and humor." I do not think that I can improve on this particular reference; it is so comprehensive and characteristic of what is in store.

I would like to add a word, however, in respect to the fireworks at the Exhibition Park in the evening, or to use a more enticing expression, pyrotechnic display. All pieces will be supplied by the T. W. Hand Co., Hamilton, pioneers in color, charm, variety and design of fireworks. There will be silhouettes of His Worship Mayor Denne and Frank P. O'Connor, chairman of the Toronto Association of Peterborough Old Boys' Association.

Without boasting, may I say that the members of my committee and myself believe that the magnificent display of fireworks on Toronto Day at the Exhibition Grounds will not soon fade from the page of memory.

It should be a great pleasure for all former Peterborough boys and girls to answer the call home, renew old acquaintances, gaze upon familiar scenes, meet boyhood and girlhood friends and join in the festivities that will make Toronto Day, July 2 a signal success in the broadest interpretation of the term.

The Entertainment Committee is sure that no one will be disappointed in the delightful character of the program.

Best wishes and a hearty welcome to each and all.

WILFRED W. STRATTON, Convenor of Fireworks and Entertainment Committee.

OLD GOOSE POND IS REMEMBERED

Orville Shortly Tells of Incidents of His Boyhood Here.

(By Orville B. Shortly, member of Publicity Committee, Toronto Association of Peterborough Old Boys.)

Not long ago I was introduced as Orville Shortly from Toronto, but I am not—I am Orville Shortly from PETERBOROUGH, and always will be.

In going to Peterborough, I am going home. This brings back to me very vividly that one of the dear old teachers at the public school (after considerable patience) forced me to learn that very old piece of poetry:

Breathes there a man with soul
so dead
Who never to himself hath said
This is my own, my native land.
Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned
As homeward his footsteps he hath turned
From wandering on a foreign

and it seems to me that when we Old Boys go back to our home town, our hearts will burn within us as we recall many precious things that happened during our boyhood days.

There are many incidents which crowd in on my memory as I reminisce, but I will have to content myself with a few.

Do you remember the old "Goose Pond" where we used to run the logs and swim? I often wonder how we escaped being drowned when we fell off these logs.

Then, there was the flume at the old mill, near the dam, above the park on Water street. That was a great spot on a hot day. And, still there was another swimming hole away out the "missing link" railroad on the way to Lindsay—many of you boys will recall that place.

We will always remember Stoney Lake; in fact, we still go there and no more delightful place can be found in which to spend the summer. Peterborough is fortunately located, and sometimes I wish I were living in the dear old town again on these hot, noisy, nerve-racking days of a big city.

Many of you will remember the old horse at the front door of my father's store, where it stood for nearly half a century. I remember it well because I led this dumb animal (which was on wheels, of course) out to the front of the store every morning about half-past six, and dusted him off again at night and put him back in the store. In those days, we hung the goods for display outside; now it would not be safe to do this—some difference.

Do you remember when the fire bell used to ring down at the market and everybody dropped whatever they were doing and ran down the street to see the horses run and watch Charlie McGinty, the policeman, keep back the crowd?

Seriously, we are all glad we were born in the town of Peterborough and when we look over the list of old Peterborough boys who have made good all over the world, we are proud of our town.

I am going back once more to meet friends I have not seen for years and to renew friendships and recall many happy days. I am looking forward with keen interest to spending several days in my old home town.

We may well look back to the happy-go-lucky days of youth when responsibility was lacking, and think how amusing were those early years. What jokes we played—what parties we had—the days which seemed hard, now enrich our memories.

We make friends but once in our lives—real friends—and that is in our boyhood days.

Folk,

PETERBORO

Wants You Home!

This is the greatest week in Peterborough's history—and we don't want any Old Boy or Girl to miss it.

Come on back—and Make Whoopee!

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Solloway, Mills & Company Through

SUDBURY CONTACT

A crew of men have been sent in to the Ridout properties, more than 1,000 acres, in Greenlaw and Cunningham townships. These claims have revealed favorable geological structure. Crew also sent into Dowling. In the meantime, exploration work is being continued on Vermilion Lake holdings of Sudbury Contact, located just south of Sudbury Basin Mines property.

New Sudbury Showings

Showings on McGinn block, under option to T. H. Rea of Toronto, have been so favorable that diamond drilling is warranted. Claims in Baldwin township, and trenching revealed good values in copper, some nickel, over substantial widths. Believe exploration at depth may prove up a fair tonnage of medium grade ore, sufficient at least to justify a more intensive development program. Sampling has given better than 3 per cent. copper over widths varying from 8 to 46 feet.

NIPISSING AND CONSOLIDATED SMELTERS

Nipissing and Consolidated Smelters ex-dividend June 29th.

SAN ANTONIO

San Antonio Mines annual meeting June 28th.

SISCOE

COBALT CONTACT

One car bagged high grade silver and one car cobalt shipped by Cobalt Contact last week. Another car of cobalt will be shipped before end of month.

GEORGE COPPER

Consolidated Smelters reported to now hold 92 per cent. of George Copper, having acquired shares of George family and several other smaller blocks. Consolidated has been conducting quite an intensive driamond drill campaign on property at Portland Canal.

Platinum producers in other parts of world reported seriously alarmed at Nickel's big production campaign owing to attendant output of platinum as by-product. Canada's output will likely increase in next couple of years 50 to 100 per cent.

WHEAT PRICES AVERAGE LOWER

PROVISIONS SAG.

CHICAGO, Ills., June 26. (C.P.) — Reports of beneficial rains in Canadian drought sections led to early downturns in wheat values to-day. Rallies ensued however at times as a result of continued excessive dryness south of the Canadian boundary and of considerable export business overnight. Opening at 1c to 1 3-4c set back, wheat afterwards recovered much of the loss. Corn paralleled the action of wheat, starting 3-8c to 3-4c off, and subsequently turning upgrade. Oats were easy. Provisions likewise tended to sag.

GENERAL LIST IS FIRMER ON TORONTO CURB

International Nickel, Standard Steel and Ajax Oil Pivot Stocks in Active Trading.

WALKERS FEATURE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — International Nickel, Standard Steel and Ajax Oil were the pivot stocks of a broad and active market on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Nickel led in activity with more than 7,000 shares being dealt in, it was also a strong spot for after selling at 52¾, the stock eased to 52⅛, which was a gain of 5-8. Standard Steel recorded the widest gain on the list by jumping 4¾ points to 83. Ajax Oil was the second most active stock and despite profit-taking held firm at 2.09.

Hiram Walkers continued to lead the brewery stocks with 3,000 shares changing hands at 19, a gain of 1-8. Service Station was unusually active and 7-8 higher at 65½. Hamilton Cottons and Hamilton Bridge each advanced ½ to 30 and 50¼.

Imperial and International Petroleum led the oil stocks in volume, and both were strong at 27½ and 40½.

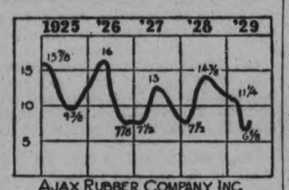
STOCK A DAY



AJAX RUBBER COMPANY INC.

The Ajax Rubber Company, Inc., and its subsidiaries constitute one of the smaller units engaged in the manufacture of automobile tires and tubes. It has five subsidiaries. The company has two plants, one in Racine, Wis., and one at Trenton, N. J. The Trenton plant has been closed and its operation transferred to the Racine plant where production facilities have been increased. The present operating capacity of the Racine plant is 2,100,000 casings and equal number of tubes per year. The company operates selling branches throughout the United States.

The relapse in rubber prices caused a continued decline in earnings throughout 1928. It was evident however that unsatisfactory results were anticipated by the company since it established a $500,000 reserve to meet rubber price fluctuations. This was applied against loss in 1928 when the deficit was $2,563,970. This compared with a deficit of $1,990,700 in 1927. Since 1918 the aggregate losses have exceeded the profits by over $4,500,000.

Funded debt is $2,289,000. Capital stock outstanding consists of 880,330 shares of no par value. No dividends have been paid since 1920 when a distribution of $5.50 was made. As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets were $4,893,847. Total current liabilities amounted to $904,362 while net working capital was $3,989,485. Book value of the common stock amounted to $7.66 a share.

OIL GOSSIP

EAST CREST

East Crest drilling in brown sandstone underlying Dalhousie oil sands; expects to cut limestone in about 200 feet.

SPUD IN WELLINGTON

Another well may start on Home Oil acreage to-day when Wellington Oils with sublease from Home is expected to spud in.

WAINWRIGHT PRODUCTION

Sasko Wainwright 55 barrels; B. P. No. 3B, 35 barrels; Edmonton-Wainwright 20 barrels are daily shipments being made to Associated Refineries, Wainwright. Wainwell oil is shipped to Wainwell Refineries in which company it has an interest. Price for Wainwright crude runs about $1 per barrel.

OKALTA NO. 1

When back pressure is applied, which should be done shortly, W.S. Herron expects Okalta No. 1 well to show substantial increase in gas flow. Recent production has been a little over 400 barrels daily.

WAINWRIGHT

Acreage prices in Wainwright field have jumped substantially during last couple of weeks. Quite a number of new companies are entering field.

FOUR NEW WELLS

Sunlight, Mercury 1 and 2, and Miracle, four Turner Valley wells to be drilled by Union Drilling Company, Calgary, will be spudded in soon.

Turner Valley Oils

Turner Valley Oil Company books now closed and registered shareholders have until June 29 to buy two shares Turner Valley Exploration for each share held in parent company.

DIAMOND DRILL AT HOME 3

Diamond drill used to bring in Home 2, now being rigged up on No. 3. Meanwhile cement has been drilled out and when bit starts it will be right in limestone.

NEXT PRODUCERS

Wells in Turner Valley which will likely provide next new producers are Home No. 3, Associated, Imperial Highwood, Foothills No. 2, Royalite 19, Illinois-Alberta No. 2. Southwest Petroleum is very close to lime and several others including East Crest, are rapidly approaching that horizon. Mayland is changing drilling rigs and is believed to be just above lime formation.

C. and E. SUBSIDIARIES

Announced that Calgary and Edmonton Corporation will have four royalty subsidiaries for Turner Valley oil holdings. Each will be capitalized at 600,000 no par shares and 241,510 shares distributed to shareholders on basis of one for ten now held.

C. and E. CORPORATION

About 48,000 acres of oil royalties of C. and E. Corporation on various Alberta structures are leased or optioned on annual cash rental plus royalties 10 to 20% of petroleum and gas produced. Deals so far closed call for drilling 20 wells this year.

OILS AGAIN BARGAINS

Associated, Dalhousie, A. P. Consolidated, three excellent oils, have practically given up their recent gain and are again decided bargains. It is a sign of strength that in Monday's weak market Home, Mayland and Southwest Pete only recorded one price level. Around $2, Baltic is regarded as a gift.

WAINWELL

Wainwell Oils preparing to place No. 4 well on pump. Well is rated around 150 barrels daily, which means gross revenue of around $54,750 yearly

BIDGOOD

For each five shares held of record June 22, Bidgood shareholders have right to take up one new share at 40c. Rights not transferable and expire July 24th.

SAN ANTONIO

San Antonio report reveales liquid assets $65,329; current liabilities $8,437. Shares issued 2,350,000 out of 4,000,000 no par.

TROUBLE AT ROUYN

Former Noranda employee sent for trial on charge of conspiring with Horne Copper employees to obtain information contrary to criminal code. Globe says it is commonly reported in Rouyn accused was in employ of minority holders of Waite-Ackerman which is controlled by Noranda, and which ships ore to Noranda. For some time rumors of dissatisfaction with present situation has come from minority Waite holders who fear that they may suffer at hands of majority holder, Noranda.

BOTH ISSUES REGISTER LOSS ON STANDARD

General List Becomes Stronger With Gains Ranging From Fraction to 2.25.

NORANDA ADVANCES.

TORONTO, Ont., June 26.—(C.P.) —With gains ranging from fractions to 2.25 the market on the Standard Mining Exchange swirled upwards today with nearly every stock to make its appearance on the board showing firmness. There were two notable exceptions, however, these being the two bullish stocks of yesterday, Ajax Oil and Newbec, which were pushed back slightly by profit-taking.

Noranda was the big feature today with a spectacular gain of 2.25 to 58.75. About 8,000 shares changed hands at prices ranging from 56.25 to a high of 59.00. International Nickel continued strong and the noon price of 52,65 showed a gain. Hudson Bay jumped 45 to 17.70 and Sudbury Basin 20 to 8.45.

Amulet was in demand and 6 higher at 1.31. Lake Shore spurted ahead 1.00 to 26.50, while Teck-Hughes improved 10 to 8.50. Dome Mines climbed 15 to 10.00 and Manitoba Basin 4 to 38. Wright-Hargreaves recovered 3 to 1.68.

Ajax Oil and Newbec furnished nearly half the total turnover up to noon. Ajax fell back 2 to 2.10 after reaching 2.15. Amulet dropped to 53, climbed back to 60, then eased to 58, a loss of 2.

NEWS IN BRIEF

(By Canadian Press)

MOTORIST KILLED.

FORT ERIE, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — One man was killed and ve injured in a series of accidents on the Garrison Road, near the Peace Bridge yesterday. Victor Kuntz, Buffalo, was killed when his car skidded and overturned in the ditch.

IF THIS WERE TRUE—

LONDON. — Mrs. George Cadbury has prepared the following list of rules for happy matrimonial ventures: Laugh a bit; put a piece of humor into the marriage mixture. Never worry about what other people say and think. Don't bottle up grievances. Bury the hatchet, but do not mark its grave.

BAD FOR BARBERS

PARIS. — A new drug that's destined to throw some apprehension into barbers will enable people to experience complete baldness for a week —it is thallium acetate. You drink it and at the end of three weeks your hair is gone. At the end of another week it starts to grow in again.

CALCUTTA, India. — A cat was indirectly responsible for the burning of a whole village of 400 cottages in Bengal Province recently. An old woman caught it and tied a piece of jute to its tail. She then lit it and the cat leaped on a thatched roof, igniting it. In this manner the other cottages were fired.

RESIGNS COMMAND.

NANKING, China, June 26. (C.P.)—General Ching Kai Shek, the so-called President of Nationalist China, today notified the leaders of Northwestern China, that General Feng Yu-Ssiang, erstwhile leader of the Central China Military Opposition, has resigned from his command and had decided to leave China for a foreign tour.

REORGANIZE COURT

TORONTO, Ont., June 26 (C.P.). —"There will be a thorough reorganization of the Hamilton Police Court," said Hon. W. H. Price, Ontario Attorney-General, commenting to-day on the resignation of Magistrate Jelfs, which will take effect within a week, and the appointment of C. Burbidge, Hamilton, in his place.

RAIL STOCKS AT NEW HIGH

Practically All Ground Lost in May Reaction of Industrial Group Wiped Out.

ON NEW YORK CURB.

NEW YORK, N.Y. June 26. — (Canadian Press)—A broad upward movement of prices took place in to-day's market with the railroad and public utility averages reaching record high levels. While the industrial average was still a few points under the year's top, the recent advance has practically wiped out all of the ground lost in the May reaction. Oils and coppers were the only important groups which failed to participate in the up-swing, due largely to the uncertainty regarding the outlook in those industries.

Call money renewed unchanged at 10 percent, with an apparently sufficient supply of funds attracted to keep the rate at that level all day. There was no change in time money or commercial paper rates. Wall Street is looking for another large increase in Federal Reserve Brokers' loans this week, due not only to the revival of bullish activity in the stock market but to the expiration of stock purchase 'rights'.

Mr. Alex. Hunter, Miss Eileen and Vernon Hunter have returned home from a motor trip to Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines and Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Howden visited their daughter, Mrs. W. Bryans, of Campbellcroft, on Sunday.

"Part-time" clergymen, who would be ordained and serve under license without payment while carrying on their ordinary work, is one suggestion for meeting the shortage of clergy in England.

OLD BOYS AND GIRLS WHO ARE BACK

JAMES SHEEHY.

James Sheehy, of Chicago, who was on a business trip to Western Ontario, could not withstand the lure of Old Home Week, and as a consequence is a visitor in the city. Mr. Sheehy was one of Peterborough's finest lacrosse players, and at one time was a reporter on The Examiner, afterwards going into business on George Street.

In Chicago he has been very successful. He is a brother of the late Richard Sheehy, and has many friends and acquaintances in the city with whom he is renewing old friendships.

GILBERT SCOTT.

Gilbert Scott, an old Peterborough boy, formerly with the C.G.E. here, but now a teacher in the wood-working department of the Hamilton Technical School, is here for Old Home Week. Gilbert, who was a member of the Old St. Andrew's Church Young Mens Guild when it was one of the most active church organizations in the city, is having a great time talking over old experiences with former members, work associates and friends, and is delighted to be here for Old Home Week.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES A. FIFE.

James A. Fife, B.A., and Mrs. Fife, of Edmonton, are in the city for Old Home Week, and are registered at the Empress Hotel. It is just 23 years ago since Mr. Fife and his family left Peterborough for the West, where he has filled a very important position and done excellent work in the educational life of Edmonton. Former students of Mr. Fife in the Collegiate Institute are still living in the city, and many graduates who have made their homes elsewhere but are returning for Old Home Week, will be pleased again to shake hands and renew old acquaintances with Mr. Fife.

On a recent trip to Vancouver in a short space of time he met five of his former Peterborough pupils, all well established in the professional life of that city.

After Mr. and Mrs. Fife have completed their visit here, they will go on to visit their son, Jack A., surgeon in Buffalo, and also another son, Max, Professor of Civil Engineering in the Boston School of Technology.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fife are very pleased to get back for Old Home Week, and to renew acquaintances with all their old friends.

Mr. Fife stated that the city was one of the finest small cities to be seen anywhere.

PATRICK COLLINS.

Old Home Week is drawing its quota from all quarters of the United States and Canada, and bringing home many who have been away for years, but it would appear that Patrick Collins, who is here from Oklahoma with his daughter after a complete absence of more than fifty years, would likely be the longest away from Peterborough Old Boy to be present for the celebration.

Mr. Collins was born in Douro and left home as a small boy with a friend to make his living in one of the Middle West States. He is a brother of Joseph Collins, Munro Avenue, and also of Mrs. Crowley, who has not seen him since she was 17 years of age. He is at present visiting with another brother, James Collins, at the old homestead in Douro, and will spend two weeks in and around the city and district.

HARRY HARCOURT IS FOUND GUILTY

Sentence of Former Managing Director of Jackson-Manion Mines Deferred.

TORONTO, Ont., June 26 (C.P.).—Harry E. Harcourt, formerly managing director of Jackson-Manion Mines Limited, was found guilty by Judge O'Connell to-day on the charge of publishing false statements and prospectuses in connection with the company. Sentence was delayed on request of counsel for the defence and Harcourt was released on bail of $10,000.

Counsel for accused said he intends to prepare an appeal against the conviction, which Judge O'Connell said he would consider between now and June 28, when Harcourt will be sentenced.

The accused had been tried some time ago, the trial lasting more than a week. His Honor found that Harcourt had had published statements and alleged values of mine assays not in accordance with the facts.

Judge O'Connell, in summing up the case, enlarged upon discrepancies as between the reports of D. M. Thomson, mine superintendent, and those accused had had published in the press and distributed to directors of the company.

Immediately after Harcourt had been found guilty, the trial of Thomson commenced. He is similarly charged with publishing prospectuses, statement, or accounts, knowing them to be false in material particulars, with intent to induce persons to become shareholders in the mine.

BIG PREPARATIONS FOR FEATURE BALL

Armouries Will Be Changed Into Enchanted Fairy Land On July 3.

The drab walls of the Armouries will be turned into an enchanted fairyland on Wednesday, July 3, when the event of Old Home Week to which the dancing set of Peterborough is looking forward to, arrives. The night of the big dance in the armories will be remembered as one of color, soft and changing lights, a bevy of beautiful girls with their handsome partners, novelties beyond the imagination, and entertainment in the form of special acts, dancing; acts and novelty acts that will make the patrons of big city night clubs wish that they could stay in Peterborough and enjoy such a dance over again and again.

The floor will be transformed into a smooth slippery surface that will will make dancing a real delight, the dance committee with Art Costello and Andy Purman are leaving no stone unturned to do something that will never be forgotten.

The orchestra—"Jerry Shea" from Montreal—just remember the name and then think of all the popular places that this band has played and the reputation this leader has for his modern rythm and one will realize what music there will be for this big event.

There will be a final meeting of the dance committee to-night at the city buildings at seven-thirty to make the final arrangements for the dances to be held during Old Home Week. This meeting is very important and all the members are asked to be present.

I.O.O.F. TEMPLE RE-DECORATED

Grand Preparations Have Been Made For Old Home Week.

FINE COLOR SCHEME.

The Oddfellows' Temple has donned a new dress, it has curled its hair and powdered its face and has even pinned on a bouquet, in preparation for the festivities of Old Home Week. In other words, the George street home of the various I.O.O.F. lodges of the city has undergone a re-furnishing and cleaning and re-decorating that makes it one of the most attractive halls of the city and the old boys who belong to the Order will have a chance to see it under the very best conditions.

An energetic committee from the Triple Link Club Board, including the president, C. C. Mowry, P.G., J. Lancashire, P.G., C. E. Wiley, P.G. and A. H. Mowry, P.G., has had the work in hand, and the result fully justifies all the hard work they have put into the execution of their plans

All the rooms have been thoroughly cleaned and the woodwork freshened. New linoleum has been laid in the hall and an entire refurbishing and re-decorating of the club-room and billiard room makes them bright and pleasant.

A color scheme of brown and cream is used in the woodwork, which has been re-painted, while a dado of soft red gives the proper note of contrast. Brown also is used for the floor covering and there are bronze and rose silk shades for the tall floor lamps. Little yellow globes from oxidized brass wall brackets cast a soft radiance over the pleasant club room, with its attractive pictures, its soft blue window curtains and its pretty wicker furniture. There are comfortable black leather-covered rockers, a polished reflectory table for magazines and wicker holders that hold spreading green ferns. The secretary, W. F. Green, has a bright new desk on one side of the room.

Mr. S. Boyd, of Markdale, and his daughter, Miss Margaret Boyd, of Toronto, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Henderson this week.

Mr. T. J. Lang was a business visitor to Toronto on Wednesday of this week.

Sales of farm property in this vicinity put through by T. J. Lang recently include the purchase of George Fallis' farm on the Fallis line by Reg. I. Fallis, and of the George Elgar farm by his brother, John Elgar, on the Second line, Cavan.

The Johnston family will hold its annual re-union at the Agricultural Park here on Monday, July 1, when it is expected that over two hundred guests will gather for the day's outing together. For several years this family re-union was held at Blackstock, and last year Orono was the point chosen for the gathering. H. W. Johnston, of Millbrook, has been president of the big family organization for the past year, and others in this locality who are connected with the Johnston clan are: Mr. and Mrs. John Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. James Roddy, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Fallis. There will be a full program of sports for July 1, and it is hoped that attractions in other cities and towns within a comparatively limited radius will not materially lessen the attendance at the annual family day together.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Thorne motored from Raeboro and attended the district I.O.O.F. picnic at the Agricultural Park on Saturday.

Mr. Harold Egerton, of Elgin, Manitoba, is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilkinson, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lamb, having come from the West by motor.

The Reverend H. Kenny, Consecon, and former minister of St. John's United Church here, is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. T. J. Kennedy and Mrs. F. A. Burger are at their home, Saskatoon avenue.

Mr. J. C. Birmingham was admitted to Kingston Hospital yesterday, where he will undergo an operation.

The thunder storm which passed over this district yesterday morning did not disappear without leaving some trace of its passing. Sometime soon after four o'clock in the morning, a streak of lighting terminated at the rear end of a small barn owned by Thaddeus Patrick, Portage street, and removed several boards from the wall sheeting and also splintered the two-by-four studding. Although there was hay in the barn it did not take fire.

Last night was slightly cool, but the annual garden party of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was a decided success, especially when compared to that of last year when a downpour of rain completely ruined the entire evening. The manse lawn was gaily lighted and dotted with several refreshment booths and stalls of various kinds. Music was furnished by the Northumberland Regimental band under the direction of Bandmaster Pearson, A.L.C.M.

J. B. Hall Lodge Attends Divine Service at Grace Presbyterian Church.

SPECIAL ADDRESS.

MILLBROOK, June 26 (Examiner Correspondence). — J. B. Hall Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 145, G. R.C., held its annual parade and attended divine service at Grace Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, the minister, Rev. John Riddell, preaching an appropriate sermon, and the choir, under the leadership of Charles Thorndyke, having prepared special music for the occasion.

Beautiful flowers were banked about the church altar, and the congregation was a large one, in spite of the fact that rain came on about the hour when churchgoers, in greater numbers, were doubtless preparing to attend the service.

The musical part of the service included an anthem, "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us," by the choir, and following the sermon a most appropriate solo, "The Old Rugged Cross," sung by Mrs. W. H. Roy, of Orono. Miss Ella Elson presided at the pipe organ.

Rev. Mr. Riddell welcomed the visiting brethren of the Masonic Order to the church, on behalf of the congregation, mentioning also the honor which he personally felt, as chaplain of the J. B. Hall Lodge, in delivering a message to his fellow-members in Masonry on this, the annual occasion of their attending divine service in a body.

Taking his text from an ancient script belonging to the Order, Rev. Mr. Riddell based his remarks upon the worlds, "Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth," stating that these were words familiar to human hearts everywhere. Referring to the parable of the Good Samaritan as an outstanding example of brotherly love, the speaker urged his hearers to forego too ready a condemnation of the priest and the Levite, their action suggesting the general power of organization over against the need of man.

"Jesus saw that it was difficult to administer brotherly love and relief; that men do not want charity, but opportunity to earn, which is theirs by right; that young people, lured to the city by promise of high wages, find that living expenses are accordingly high, and in time of unemployment when destitution stares them in the face, often step over the moral line. To recognize the bonds of brotherhood will require a change of heart on the part of priests who are so bound up in ritual they have no time for personal service; and on the part of capitalists and leaders of industry,who make profit their sole goal."

Defining truth as the reality of things as they have been, as they are, and as they will be, the minister said "God, Who is the same yesterday, to-day, and for ever, is truth in essence; but God is love, therefore love is truth as a great reality. There are two ways of expressing truth, in the realm of science and, greater than any power of the universe, the still, small voice of God in men's hearts. There is a conflict between science and religion, and there are two great divisions, modernists and fundamentalists; but these terms have no meaning if the right way of looking at truth is followed."

"Jesus left us an example of clinging to truth even unto death, and God set His seal of approval upon Him at the resurrection, and the disciples had a new vision thereafter. Men are drawn, not forced, to Christ, Who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life. Truth is to be sought and practised in the lodge room, and without, always and everywhere; thus shall we find and show the spirit of our Lord and Saviour."

The ushers for the evening worship were two of the younger men of the church, Laird Bothwell and J. Thompson.

Upon return to the lodge rooms, the usual votes of thanks were passed, opportunity for a social hour being afforded. The hour for evening worship in Grace Presbyterian Church will continue to be 7.30, instead of 7 o'clock, until further notice.

MILLBROOK LODGE HOLDS ANNUAL DECORATION DAY

INSPIRING ADDRESS

MILLBROOK, June 26.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A gathering, representative of the entire district, met in the town hall square on Sunday afternoon at 1.30 p.m. for the annual decoration day service of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, the parade, with J. A. Vance, P.G., acting as marshal and headed by the Citizens' Band of Peterborough, proceeding from the I.O.O.F. hall and meeting at the Cenotaph for the program.

The noble grand of Millbrook Lodge, I.O.O.F. No. 308, C. B. Sutton, conducted the lodge ritual throughout, with H. J. Armstrong acting as chaplain, and the Peterborough band led in the singing of the hymns.

H. A. Fallis, D.D.G.M., read the names of the departed brethren, and as each was mentioned several members of the local lodge placed a beautiful rose or peony on the base of the Cenotaph, until it was completely encircled with the fragrant blossoms. The large sheaf, commemorating those who had gone before, was laid in place by A. J. Henderson, and immediately following the flower ceremony, the hymn, "Blest be the Tie That Binds," was sung.

Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., pastor of the United Church, and a member of Bowmanville lodge, gave an inspiring address, basing his remarks upon the Master's words in John 13:34 and 35, "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; as I have loved you that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

"Obedience to this command of our Divine Master is the ideal kept before our order, and is the test of our loyalty to the principles for which Oddfellowship stands. In the thought of our Lord, the ability to love his brother is placed first in the list of the powers of man's being."

That love will break through all barriers, whether set up by culture, ecclesiasticism or racial distinctions, was maintained by the speaker, who declared that all rancour, strife and bitterness must go as we are true to the ideal of this new commandment. "We must fight together all forms of sham, falsehood and villany, or present to the world a sorry spectacle, for outsiders can only see brotherly love as it breaks through in action, as to-day, when we remember in gratitude the lives of those who have gone on before and are now serving in the grand lodge above.

"It makes a difference whether a farm is used to grow wheat for bread or poppies for opium; whether the factory produces a commodity to build up life or guns to destroy it; hate will blast any civilization on earth into blazing ruins and turn us back to cave men; hence the importance of going forward in fellowship over the whole earth. As members of this order are we prepared to practice this new command of our Lord, 'By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples'? And may God speed us in accomplishing our ideal."

At the conclusion of the address the band played a sacred selection and the Last Post was sounded by G. E. Burnham. The closing ritual was followed by a hymn, and Rev. Mr. Jones led in prayer.

After the return to the lodge rooms, the committees appointed to visit the various cemeteries and place flowers upon the graves of deceased Oddfellows proceeded to the fulfillment of this duty, the bouquets being in readiness at the I.O.O.F. hall for this purpose. The following are the cemeteries, with those interred therein, and the committees who decorated the graves.

Presbyterian Cemetery—W. S. Given, P.G.; T. A. Kelly, P.G.; J. D. Fair, P.G.; R. McMahon, P.G.; W. O'Brian, Edward Kerr, John Hicks, P.G.; Alex. Armstrong. Committee—W. E. Ball, P.G., and T. G. Harkness.

United Church Cemetery—W. W. Gillott, John Bateson, H. Dunford, R. Fallis, E. Richardson. Committee—C. B. Sutton, N.G.

Ballieboro Cemetery, J. D. Perrin; Centreville Cemetery, Fred Deyell; Frazerville Cemetery, W. B. Elliott (overseas) and David Baxter. Committee for these three cemeteries—D. Sheppard, P.G.; E. Morden and H. A. Fallis, D.D.G.M.

Fourth Line Cemetery—Robina McCamus. Committee—T. G. Harkness, Mabel Fallis, P.N.G., and Maud Armstrong, N.G.

In out-of-town cemeteries where members are interred and graves were decorated on Sunday: Cherry Valley, Sara Bentley; Port Perry, Eunice Bingham; Little Lake, Peterborough, Walter Green and L. Hudson; Orillia, T. H. Preston.

Two brethren passed away during the year, T. H. Preston, who retained his membership in Millbrook Lodge, No. 308, and was buried at Orillia, and Alex. Armstrong, whose home was in the West, but whose body was brought here for burial in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

OBITUARY

SAMUEL JAMIESON.

BETHANY, June 26. — (Examiner Correspondence). — On Sunday evening, in Whitby Hospital, following three years' illness, there passed away another of Bethany's highly respected citizens in the person of Samuel Jamieson, brother of Dr. Arthur Jamieson, of Millbrook, and beloved husband of Margaret Lee.

The funeral took place on Tuesday from the family residence to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

FRANK R. LALOR

DUNNVILLE, Ont., June 26.—(Canadian Press).—Frank R. Lalor, former member of parliament for Haldimand and founder of Monarch Knitting Mills died at his home here Monday night. He was seventy years old and his death came after an illness of two years.

Mr. Lalor was born near Dunnville and started life as a poor boy and later owned a store. He started in a canning factory, then evaporation business and finally the knitting business,of which he was president until his death.

He was first elected to parliament in 1904 and was re-elected in general elections of 1911 and 1917. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader made touching reference to Mr. Lalor's illness but before meeting was over he had to announce the death of his former colleague.

MRS. JOHN TOLBERT

BETHANY, June 26.—(Examiner Correspondence).— The death occurred early on Sunday morning of Myrtle Fallis, beloved wife of John Tolbert, of Toronto. Mrs. Tolbert was one of six daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fallis and for a number of years was operator in central for the Manvers Municipal Telephone System. About three years ago she became the bride of John Tolbert, of Toronto, where she has since made her home.

Two weeks ago, due to ill health she came to Bethany to visit her parents, and three days later she suffered a stroke from which she did not recover.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon and burial took place in Fallis' Cemetery, the service being conducted by the Rev. A. Poulter, pastor of the United Church.

Left to mourn her loss are her husband, her parents, five sisters, Mrs. William Fair, of Cavan; Mrs. Roy Fern ,of Cavan; Irene and Edna, of Toronto, and Laura at home; also two brothers, Harvey of the United States and Fred at home.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received and a large number gathered to pay their last respects to one whom they had long known and loved.

PRIZES PRESENTED TO SCHOOL PUPILS

BETHANY, June 26 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Friday afternoon the regular closing exercises for the summer vacation at the public school caused excitement among the pupils, owing to the fact that the members of the Women's Istitute had promised money prizes to the pupils having the best record during the term.

Mrs. A. Reynolds, president; Mrs. Alfred Driver, secretary, and Mrs. Sidney Armstrong, treasurer, and Mrs. Ona Thorndyke were the members of the Institute who attended and presented the prizes.

The program consisted of a chorus by the children, "Land of My Fathers"; recitation by Pauline Thorndyke, "Flanders Field"; a second chorus, "O Canada" and "The Pledge to the Flag."

The pupils in the senior room who won a prize were Muriel Patterson, Evelyn Bigelow, Loraine Hutchinson, ine Thorndyke, Patricia Poulter Ar-Loraine Jackson, Beverley Dake, Paulthur Patterson, Madeline Whiteside, Gwen Bray, Jean Smith and Irene Weatherilt. Those in the junior room were Ruth Rowland, Roy Whiteside, George Simpson, Phyllis Bigelow, Charles Morton, Ronald Patterson, Jack Palmer, Yvonne Rowan, Jack Crerar and Dorothy Graham. A special prize for the pupil present every day, in a beautiful bouquet of flowers, was won by Madeline Whiteside.

A request was made by the pupils of the school that the Institute donate an emergency kit for their Red Cross work next year.

INQUIRY IS CLOSED INTO SUNKEN VESSEL

Council Submits Vestris Was Unseaworthy and Overloaded

LONDON, June 26.—(Canadian Press).—Taking of testimony at the Board of Trade's inquiry into the sinking of the liner Vestris was concluded yesterday with reiteration of testimony that overloading was not a material factor contributing to the disaster.

Attorney Stephens, representing the Underwriters and some of the passengers opened the argument of counsel. He said his submission was that the vessel was in an unseaworthy condition. This unseaworthiness he charged, existed in three respects, first, overloaded, second, lacked stability, third, she had a number of hatches which were not closed and which, as they could not be dealt with after the vessel sailed, remained open.

SURGERY SAVING FORMERLY HOPELESS CASES.

It would seem that physicians in charge of tuberculosis patients can never be discouraged no matter how serious and dangerous the case.

As you have read of how the sanitarium treatment with good food, rest, and fresh air has saved the life of thousands, and taken tuberculosis from the top of the list as a cause of death, you have thought that the perfection of treatment had been reached.

However, there are cases in which the above treatment was not sufficient to stay the progress of tuberculosis and physicians have been striving to save these lives.

Now the first thought in tuberculosis of the lungs is "rest"; rest of the lungs or lungs affected.

However, even ordinary breathing in the lying down position does not give a badly affected lung a rest, and some means of "making" it rest must be taken.

The first effort is what is called the pneumo—thorax treatment whereby gas is pumped against the affected lung and this so squeezes the lung that it does not expand; it has to rest.

Where this treatment has not been sufficient the nerve that controls the muscles that move the diaphragm (the floor of the chest) downwards, is cut, and so the diaphragm remains up against the lung thus preventing it expanding.

And during the past couples of years, still another method of living an ailing lung rest, is to cut out a portion, three inches in length, of the ribs, close to the back bone.

This means that as the ribs cannot expand the chest on that side, therefore the lungs get rested.

Drs. Morin, Cardis, and Picot, French physicians, report results on fourteen cases, in which the pneumothorax and cutting the nerve operation had been of no avail, and this rib cutting operation or thoro plasty was performed as a last resort.

In five cases they obtained a complete cure and in seven cases there was a pronounced benefit. Only two deaths occurred; one in three months from pleurisy with pus formation; and the other within six months from increased symptoms in the other lung.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

NO

There comes a time in the course of a child's lifetime when father or mother must say NO in thundering tones. Say it so loudly, so sternly, so convincingly that the matter is settled for good and all.

That NO marks a crisis. It is no daily affair. The child who has been brought up on no's will not mind an extra one and indeed the parent accustomed to saying no day after day will not have the power to use the NO I have in mind.

You see a child is trained to obedience, to trust and confidence in a parent's love and care and fair mindedness by experiences with obeying. If the training has been for the sake of the child's welfare, if it has been pointed toward growth, useful living and happy expression of activity, without selfishness or carping, the child has learned to look for guidance and advice when he needs it. He will accept it readily and understandingly.

But the best of children, best intellectually and spiritually, are experienced in the ways of the world and are certain at one time or another to wish to do what will bring them distress. They will question, argue, coax and plan. They will bear down upon the wearied parent to the last grain of patience. Then the NO must be spoken.

A boy in his sophomore year in college falls in love with a girl of fifteen. The girl does nothing but make herself attractive. The boy is diverted from his studies. He does not understand this passing phase of sex attraction and he wants to leave college and go to work, to marry this helpless girl. You say NO. And you stick to it.

A girl of eleven suddenly becomes enamored of boys. She has been a good child in school and at home. She has been guarded and instructed and carefully reared. Yet she delays on the street corners to meet a boy. She goes off for a ride with him after school without telling anybody about it. She wants to "keep company" with this boy. You who know her danger, you who understand the phase of growth through which she is passing, stand by and say NO. And you carry that NO through even though you must chaperone that child to and from school, wherever she goes, until she gets past the trying time.

It is better to be in advance of the crisis IF you can. When you see these danger signals looming ahead bend every energy to redirect the thought, the interests of the young person. Try to head them toward other fields. Fill their hours with work and fun and fill their minds with thoughts of service. Try to balance them by giving them responsibility.

Sometimes it is not possible to meet the crisis. The wilful child goes his way and pays the penalty. But if one has laid the foundation for trust and confidence back in the early days, it usually holds and the big NO works.

Felt Tired and Miserable

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for miserable and tired feelings and it gave me strength to do my work. My nerves are better and I feel well and strong and have a good appetite. I sleep well and am in pretty good spirits and able to work every day now. I recommend the Vegetable Compound and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Miss Delvena Wallace, Union Street, North Devon, New Brunswick.

DIGNIFIED LINES.

THE STYLE No. 2842 in capucine tones in natural rajah silk, so delightfully cool for summery days, will appeal to discriminating taste, because of dignified lines. It boasts of becoming neckline with attractive scarf collar of plain rajah in blending tone. The bodice is shirred at center-front just below end of V-neckline, a new idea to add extra fulness through bust and to swath the hips. The low-placed skirt because of long-waisted bodice concentrates fulness at center-front. Shantung silk broadcloth in gay stripe, printed voile, georgette crepe, crepe silk, and flowered chiffon are appropriate.

THE PATTERN is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew. You can make it in two hours, even though it is your first attempt. It is cut out and made according to Picture Chart. This Picture Chart is a complete lesson for making this dress. It perfectly explains in Pictures how each part is joined. You'll be so thrilled, you'll want to make another with same pattern.

NEW SUMMER FASHION BOOK is just filled with Paris and New York styles attractively presented and cleverly adapted for the use of home sewers. A book far superior to all previous issues. Price 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

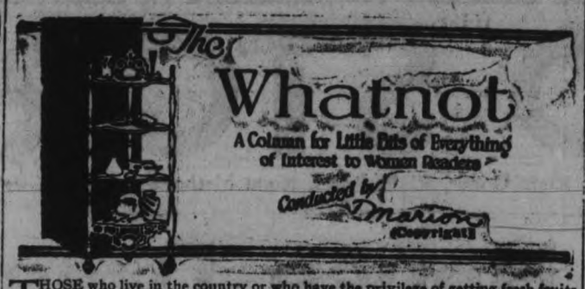
DUNSFORD UNITED CHURCH

DUNSFORD, June 26.—(Examiner Correspondence).— Rev. J. H. Arnup, B.A., D.D., of Toronto, secretary of Foreign Missions for the United Church of Canada, was the preacher on Sunday evening in Dunsford United Church. Dr. Arnup chose his text from Romans, Chapter 1:16: "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ for it is the power of God unto Salvation", and by use of illustrations taken mostly from his own experience in Western Canada while working among many nationalities of folk beautifully described the influence of the story about Jesus.

His presentation of the gospel message was most convincing in favor of the work of Christian missions. Many of his hearers were deeply stirred as they listened to Dr. Arnup's masterly narration picturing conditions in heathen lands and comparing them with conditions of life in Christian lands.

Y.P.S. Meets.

At the Young People's meeting on Tuesday evening the Bible lesson from Psalms 123 and 124 was read by the president, Elwood Beavis. Rev. Mr. Everson gave a talk on "Putting up with People." Velma Burgess gave a recitation and Miss Idena and Eunice James beautifully sang a duet.



THOSE who live in the country or who have the privilege of getting fresh fruits and vegetables from a nearby farm and those who have kitchen gardens, however small, realize that products have to be enjoyed in their special seasons as they come along.

• • •

This is not true to the same extent where the products are brought from fine stores. These stores have the call on the markets of the world, and buy from one section and another as vegetables and fruits ripen in varying temperatures where grown. The season is thereby prolonged, beginning when the first products are ready to eat and continuing as long as available from the northermost sections. But even so the native fruits and vegetables as they appear are in the greatest demand.

• • •

Some seasons for home grown or native products are very short. Some are quite long. Those products should be enjoyed to their full by lavish use during the time.

• • •

I have known green peas to have such a poor season that only for about two weeks were they available. The weather was the cause. But how delicious was the succulent green vegetable, while it lasted!

• • •

One of the pleasures in having a kitchen garden even though it be small, is watching the vegetables and fruits develop in counting the time when each variety will be mature enough to have on the table, and in making epicurean events of such times.

• • •

Certain vegetables and occasional fruits, such as the everbearing strawberry can be had during entire seasons. Most of these require consedutive plantings, the intervals between times varying according to the product.

• • •

Every farmer knows this and it is only the amateur gardener who has to learn it. But there are many 'city folk who know absolutely nothing of how vegetables etc., are grown and merely take it as a matter of course, that they should be available all summer long. These persons miss all the joy of vegetables 'fresh from the garden'.

• • •

If they cannot have this pleasure the next best thing is to note when 'native' fruits and vegetables are quoted as in the market and at such times to make the most of them. It is at such seasons only the farm products are most delicious whether picked from one's own garden or bought from the green grocer.

• • •

The housewife who has the combined task of closing the winter home and opeuing the summer one immediately thereafter, usually is confronted with the second piece of work at a time she is very tired.

• • •

Some suggestions for the best way to go ahead in the accomplishing of the latter are given to-day. In order that the one upon whom the chief burden falls, shall be entirely worn out by the work involved only the things which are necessary to a comfortable night's rest, and a satisfied stomach should be attempted the first day.

• • •

When one looks at work to be done, it takes a certain amount of fortitude for the conscientious housewife to defer the doing of it. But if the day following that of arrival, is not to be one of complete collapse, moderation is required.

• • •

The airing of bedding as well as of the house is of first importance. If the day be fair, mattresses, quilts, and pillows will soon be rid of their musty smell in the open air. The preparation of the simplest meal will be arduous without right cooking conditions, so the next step is to look well to them.

• • •

An excellent "cottage opening" was "staged" when a group of young people regarded the occasion as a lark. Each member of the party brought enough prepared food so that the difficulties of the first meal were eliminated, and all pitched in to help.

• • •

While it is not possible for everyone to make a pleasure of cottage opening in this manner, a little forethought in the matter of provisioning will help.

• • •

Although it may take extra effort at the point of starting, it will certainly be appreciated upon arriving.

• • •

If enough cooked food is brought or sent to supply the demands of the appetite for the first meal, matters are smoothed, and tempers spared. It is indeed surprising how well received the most rustic repast will be, after hunger has been piqued by the journey.

• • •

A mother of two children was the butt of derisive remarks when she insisted upon packing a tin container filled with the remnants of a stew which had already made several appearances at table. But the relish with which the food was eaten at the other end of the line reversed matters entirely. Country air and tiring travel had put just the right touch to the sauce of "hunger" to make it taste delicious.

• • •

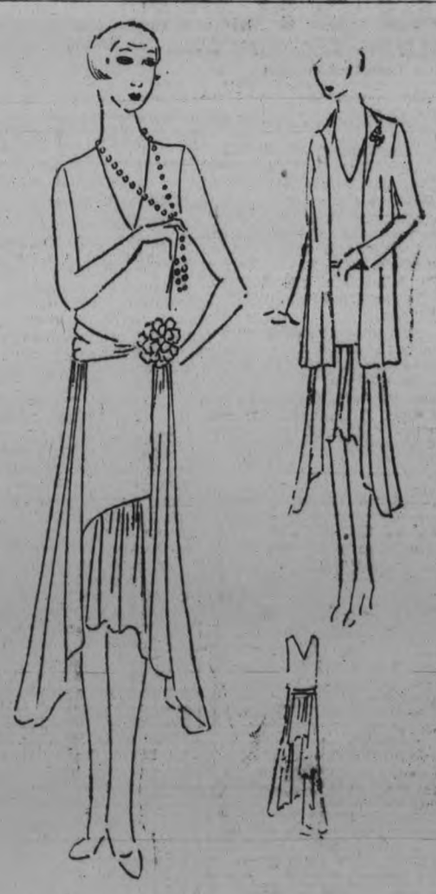
If the newcomers arrive early in the day, the rooms may be swept out as well as bedding aired and meals made ready. Otherwise, the housewife may consider the day successful if only the food and sleeping conditions are satisfactorily resolved. Another day is coming during which any number of neglected details can be seen to.

ALARM CLOCK

If your alarm clock seems to be balking this summer, try oiling it. The chances are that it needs oiling badly.

EASY PEELING

Plunge hard-boiled eggs in cold water and the shells will come off easily without breaking the whites.



Diagonal nervures meeting in a point in front give character to this Nicole Groult model in red georgette. The lace collar is a pleasing note.

DINNER GOWN [illegible] BLUE AND RED G[illegible]
By Nicol[illegible]

The combination [illegible]ue and red gives a very stri[illegible]t in this dinner gown in georgette, which I have created for summer evening wear. The high waistline is marked by a soft girdle and the skirt falls in full graceful tiers forming an uneven hemline. A simple jacket in navy blue georgette accompanies this frock.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

"To take short views is a wonderful help in hard crises. Anyone can carry his burden, however heavy, till nightfall. Anyone can do his work, however hard, for one day. Anyone can live sweetly, patiently, till the sun goes down—and—this is all that life ever really means."

The following is a reprint of a little article entitled "An Unbidden Guest," written by Mrs. E. N. Frederick of Toronto, formerly of this city, and appearing in The Toronto Saturday Night of June 15th issue.

"All the flowers in the garden were looking their very best. Tulips of every hue—scarlet, yellow, white and mauve—each clump seemed to be more glorious than the other. The grass was such a vivid green, so refreshing after the snows of winter. Up against the clear blue sky, the purple lilacs made another mass of color, and their fragrance made sweet the air.

"There was almost an air of expectancy, of waiting and perhaps a little feeling of excitement among the flowers in the garden.

"Was it not the day on which the city folks came to see and admire their bright beauty? A day looked forward to from year to year—and there was always a longing for a fine day. And it was such a perfect day.

"The visitors arrived, and everyone exclaimed and studied the flowers. Suddenly there was a hush—an absolute silence—and all eyes were turned towards a white lilac tree,—What was that little bit of scarlet? A very vivid scarlet that flitted from branch to branch,—so vivid was the color that when it flew to the purple lilacs it was still very conspicuous. It was an unbidden but very welcome guest, to the nature lovers' garden party, a Scarlet Tanager.

"There was a breathless silence while the exquisite scarlet creature flitted from tree to tree; the tulips that had been bowing towards the greensward, seemed to lift their heads up high, as though they, too, would like to watch the brilliant plumaged bird, their winged rival in the scented garden.

"A few minutes flitting and it was gone. As it disappeared, one friend turned to another and said: "I feel as though I had a little peep into Heaven."

The very illuminating conversation that accompanied the showing of the talking picture, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," had its funny, as well as its sordid, moments. One of the witnesses, a dancer from the "Follies," had a candid style that appealed immensely to the gum-chewing listeners in the front rows of the packed courtroom.

"Gracious, Mr. Galwey, you wouldn't expect a girl to go to hell in a wheelbarrow," she expostulates, when the prosecuting attorney alludes to the fact that Mary Dugan accepted a Rolls-Royce from the dead multi-millionaire.

"A girl never quarrels with her heavy sugar," and, "He was a dim blub, a good entertainer, but not entertaining, if you get my meaning," were further revelatory sentences in this drama of low life.

• • •

"It is from the slow and gradual vindication of the unknown force we deemed at first to be pitiless, that our moral and physical life has derived its chief prop and support."

One of the speakers at the U.F.O. Club picnic, held at Wallace's Point last week, told a joke about a countryman who had a sick wife and also a very sick cow. He had both ailments diagnosed and prescribed for. The same druggist prepared the two medicines. When he was wrapping them, the customer said:

"Be careful and don't get those bottles mixed. I don't want the Holstein to die."

NEW GIRDLES

New dress foundations, as corsets now are called, come in the most astonishing fabrics. Made of real lace and ribbons or of satin or crepe with insets of lace or printed chiffon, they are decorative enough to be worn atop a frock instead of under it.

CHARTREUSE VOGUE

Chartreuse is the favorite for colored blouses with suits this summer. One of flat crepe is banded with melon pink and a soft brick red. Another is of chartreuse chiffon, very finely accordian pleated from a cute square yoke. There is a bit of real lace across the front V neck.

WRAP-AROUND

A carmencita flat crepe frock has a tight, wide hip yoke and a wrap-around skirt that opens on the right rear side with its edge outlined in scallops. The bertha is split on one side of the back and scalloped also.

NEW RELATIONS

Necklines are treated now in relation with hemlines. The evening gown of longer backline invariably is cut lower in the back than the front. To be correct, its decolletage should round, point or be irregular as the hemline. Daytime frocks should copy this relationship.

Friends of Miss Katherine Wallis of this city, the celebrated sculptsess who is now in Paris, France, will be interested in the following extract from the Parisian section of The New York Herald: "The sculptural section of the Salon of the Societe des Artistes Francais is unusually good. Although space precludes even a brief survey, attention should at least be drawn to the smiling bust by Denys Puech of President Doumerge, to Mr. Edward Lud's excellent portrait by Lajeune, and to Paul Laudowski's two large-sized contributions; a colossal statue of Sainte Genevieve and a highly decorative and graceful group of two girls playing with two gazelles. There is also a full-length figure of Marshal Foch by Boubry, presented to the Musee de l'Armee by a group of French and Belgian women. And there is an excellent carved wood group of a mother and child attacked by a wolf, labelled 'Struggle for Life,' which is the work of a Canadian artist, Katherine Wallis."

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"HIS NAME'S ON THE ROLL OF HONOR"

(Contributed by 'Beatrice')

On the roll of honor is his name,
Small comfort to my heart,
The finest pal I've ever had,
At last we've had to part,
After all these years of gladness
I must struggle on alone,
All the sunshine turned to sadness,
While my heart feels like a stone.

Yes, he did all that a man could do,
When Britain called her sons,
He helped to hold the Khaki line,
Against the en'mies guns;
When he saved his wounded Captain,
All his comrades called him brave,
Though he did not win a medal,
Still he found a hero's grave.

Chorus:

For I've lost the finest pal a girl could wish to find,
Somewhere in France in his last sleep he lies;
And nothing but the memories are left with me behind,
How bitter and how blank now seem the days;
No more his smiling face I'll see,
Nor hear his hearty laugh,
As together the fields we used to roam,
But there's an old mill by the stream
Where I'll often sit and dream,
Of you old pal, the best I've ever known.

The words for this song were written by Sergeant J. Bruno, D.C.M., and the music by Bomber H. Rose, both of the Third Battalion, C.E.F.

"THERE'S A CORNER OF THE FLAG FOR YOU TO HOLD"

(Contributed by 'Beatrice')

From the sunny coral islands, where the beaches gleam in gold,
To the lonely Arctic barrens, where the snows are ages old,
A flag floats in the breeze, on the seven rolling seas,
And millions know that flag is theirs to hold;
For the tribes of men are white and brown and black,
And all are free beneath the Union Jack,
So whatever clime or birth at the ends of all the earth
There's a corner of the Flag for you to hold.

To the outposts of our Empire rang the story often told,
That the honor of our Nation, and our Flag, could not be sold,
And the best have fought and died for the Flag that is our pride,
And foes shall ne'er wrench it from our hold;
For the warships of the British fleet sail on,
In storm and calm their watch is never done,
And to-day we know their worth on the seas of all the earth,
There's a corner of the Flag for them to hold.

Chorus:

There's a corner of the Flag for you to hold,
Keep it up, boys, we all can take a fold,
For whatever you may be,
Day or night on land or sea,
There's a corner of the Flag for you to hold;
There's a corner of the Flag for you to hold,
To the North, South, East, and West that Flag's unrolled,
So let us not forget that the sun can never set,
On the corners of the Flag we'll always hold.

The music for this song was written by Jules Brazil and the words by F. Gordon Dagger.

BLOUSE PROVIDESS NOVELTY TO WARDROBE.

The smart addition to any wardrobe this season is a blouse of crepe satin, plain or printed silk crepe, chiffon, georgette crepe, lame, jersey, or wool crepe. It is an economical choice, too, for it can be worn all Spring, to provide novelty to important ensemble, which will be part of every smart woman's wardrobe. The styles illustrated, express the unusual in chic, for sports and afternoons.

Slender type in Style No. 3409 with monogram motif and bow-tied hipline, is given decided preference for sports, developed in novelty tweed, jersey or silk crepe, and invariably contrasts with color of skirt. It also receives much attention as a "tuck-in" to wear with separate woollen skirts, with the bow omitted from hipline and finished at bottom with elastic band. It's an opportunity! Pattern in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure, and takes but 1 7-8 yards of 40-inch material for 36-inch size. Trans. No. 706 (Blue or yellow)—15 cents extra.

Style No. 2612 introduces a new note in one-sidedness in jabot frill in printed georgette crepe. The frill cuts in one with right front of blouse; lower part of blouse is gathered to hipband. Silk crepe, crepe satin and handkerchief linen are extremely flattering for its development. Sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. The 36-inch size takes but 2 1-4 yards of 40-inch material.

Each pattern 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred.) Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City and are guaranteed to fit perfectly.

Send 15 cents to save $15.00. Our Spring Fashion Magazine will help you save at least $15.00 in preparing your spring wardrobe. If you order a pattern at the same time the price of the book is only 10 cents. Order your copy to-day.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

Holy Trinity Church

HAULTAIN, June 26.—(Examiner Correspondence).—On Sunday afternoon at Holy Trinity (Anglican) Church Haultain, Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly delivered the concluding sermon of a series on the Prophets of the Old Testament. The sermon was entitled "Christ, the Goal of Prophecy."

Taking as his text, Matthew v:17 "Think not that I am come to destroy the law and the prophets; I came not to destroy but to fulfill," the preacher went on to show that in spite of the many differences noticeable in the writings of the Old Testament Prophets, there runs throughout them all a unity of aim and objective, which comes to a fitting expression in Jesus Christ.

The function of prophecy is to bear witness to Christ with respect to His Person and Office; then in regard to His Teaching, and lastly with respect to His Kingdom. The manner of the fulfilment of the Prophecies of the Old Testament was vastly different from what the prophets themselves expected. They were looking for a great Deliverer from a national and politial point of view. Christ is the great Deliverer but from a spiritual viewpoint.

The Prophecies pave the way for the glorious hope expressed in the life, death and Resurrection of Christ. Those prophecies were fulfilled, but not exhausted in Christ, they are fulfilled and illuminated in Him. For this reason we should be glad to return to their teaching inspired by Him who came "not to destroy but to fulfill."

POST'S BED BUG POISON.

Post's Bed Bug Poison is composed of Carbolic Acid, Methyl Hydrate and Corrosive Sublimate. When this preparation is used according to directions, it is sure death for bed bugs, cockroaches and insects of all descriptions. Two or three applications are all that is necesasry, but as it is very poisonous, this preparation should be kept out of reach of children.

YOUTH DROWNED.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — Joseph Cecchini, 12 was drowned in the Rideau Canal last evening. His body was recovered fifteen minutes later, but pulmotor apparatus failed to revive life.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE DON'T SEE THINGS UPSIDE DOWN.

A noted psychologist once made himself a special kind of eyeglasses which were so constructed as to turn everything upside down. He wore these glasses constantly for three days. At first he had great difficulty in getting around. Men seemed to be walking on their heads, his soup dish appeared to be upside down, the stairs went up where they should go down, and down where they should go up. Everything was topsy-turvy. His world had suddenly become confused. It was as though he had taken a trip to the planet Mars where everything is likely to be the opposite of what it is on this earth.

But he reports that after a dew fays he became so completely adjusted that he got along almost as well as he had before putting on his queer spectacles.

The strangest part of all was that when he removed his glasses he was as badly off as when he first put them on. He had to learn to see all over again, for now he again saw the world topsy-turvy.

Everything we look at is presented to the eye upside down. The image on the retina of the eye is inverted just as the letters of this line will appear inverted if you look at them in a mirror.

The secret of why we don't see things upside down is in the mechanical construction and operation of the eye. While the image of any object that you look at, is inverted on the retina or seeing part of the eye, you do not really see the image at all. And stranger still, you do not in fact judge the position of the object by the position of the image.

This is what takes place. To look at the top of an object means that you are trying to make the image or impresion of the top of the object fall on the center, best part of the eye, which is called the fovea. To do this you have to pull the eyeball upward; and to see he bottom of the object you have to roll the eyeball downward.

Now, it is by the direction of the muscular pull required to see the top and bottom of the objects that we judge the position of the object. Thus while the image of every object that you look at is inverted on the retina of the eye, you do not see it that way because you judge position by the muscular contractions rather than by the image itself which you do not really see.

HER FIRST HOLIDAY IN 27 YEARS VEN GREY NUN "CELEBRATES"

Sister Bouceir Is Down From Fort Smith North of Great Slave Lake.

45 YEARS SERVICE.

Had No Time To Be Lonely With So Many Children To Feed.

(Special to the Examiner, Copyright.)

Edmonton, Alta., June 26.—When the Mother General of the Order of Grey Nuns, celebrates her golden jubilee this summer, there will join in the festivities, a sister who for forty five long years has served her church in the Hinterland of Canada. Sister Bouceir of the Fort Smith mission, previously of Fort Providence, on the Mackenzie river north of Great Slave Lake, who is now taking a holiday in Montreal, the first in twenty seven years, has "carried on" in the north country for almost half a century. The first thirty years were spent in Fort Providence where the Sisters of Charity have a residential school and orphanage; the last fifteen years she has spent at the Fort Smith mission where a provincial house of the order is located, together with a hospital and day school. Unless the easier life of Eastern Canada appeals to her—which is not likely—Sister Bouceir will return to Fort Smith in the autumn, to spend the remainder of her days there.

Sister Bouceir is a frail looking little woman whom one might imagine would gladly flee from the cold of the north. But her heart is there, and the warmth of her heart is a charm against the cold winds and keen frosts. Life in the north has not crushed her sense of humor either. In the course of an interview (with Sister St. Cyr acting as interpreter, for Sister Bouceir does not speak English), her eyes lit up with merriment, and her face was wreathed with smiles.

When Sister Bouceir went "down no th" forty-five years ago travelling into that lone country was not the simple matter it is to-day. The journey from Montreal in 1884, took four months time. The first stage was by train from Montreal to Lebret, the end of steel. From Lebret she and her companions travelled in a heavy wagon to Lac La Nighe. There they took passage in a scow for Fort Smith. After making the portage at Fitzgerald, they embarked on another scow and continued their journey north.

The mission at Providence was established in 1867, and the convent in 1867. Mgr. Tache having chosen a central place in order that the Bishop o be appointed for the Athabaska-Mackenzie, might fix his residence and where a convent might be established. "Without nuns," said Mgr. Tache, "we shall not be able to do any permanent good in these missions." There were six Sisters of Charity working there when Sister Bouceir, another nun, and three auxiliary sisters joined the mission.

In the early days of Sister Bouceir's life there, the residents of the mission fared simply on fish and potatoes, with sometimes potatoes and fish for variety. On this diet they looked after the physical and cultural welfare of the Indian and half breed children. "We did not have time to be lonely with so many children to feed, to make and mend for, and to educate," the sisters say, and one can readily believe that they would have little time for repining when their charges numbered anywhe e up to ninety—the number enrolled now. Some of the present pupils are descendants of the earliest pupils. They are taught English and French, and such other academic subjects as are suited to their needs. When they enter the school, their education consists only of a knowledge of their native tongue, and of nature. Frequently they leave the school, equipped with three languages and a fair general education.

Education is Free.

The parents pay nothing for this education. Indeed it often happens that an Indian whose daughter has been in the school for years, will come to the sister ask what they are going to pay him for having his daughter so long!

The history of the Grey Nuns in the Far North, is one of hardship and sacrifice, in which Sister Bouceir shared, though of these things she says litt.e She was at the mission when conditions there reached a crisis in 1881-2. A knowledge of the state of affairs reached the mother house in Montreal, and the sisters were ordered to abandon the mission. "It is a martydom of the sisters. There is no hope of being able to live there; they must withdraw," was the edict. The Sisters were greatly distressed, as they were averse to abandoning the work into which they had put their hearts. However, it hapened that the fates were with them. The boat carrying the official message north was delayed by ice, and the Sisters were unable to close the mission and take the last boat up the river before winter set in. Sister Charlebois, the mother general's assistant, went aboard by herself, and it was arranged that the other sisters would follow her in the spring.

Meanwhile, other forces were at work to keep them in the north. The chief factor of the Hudson's Bay company at Fort Simpson, informed the nuns that there would be no room for them on the company's boats if they were going out for good, and that if they stayed, the company would bring in supplies, carriage free. He even assured them, in response to the explanation that they must go if they were commanded, that since all letters passed through his hands, no such order would reach them! Through the long autumn and winter the nuns prayed that they might be left in the north, and their prayers were answered. In March, 1882, the bells of the dog train were heard tinkling along the trail from the south with the winter mail which brought the "reprieve" for the sisters, and they stayed joyfully.

The first convent at Fort Providence was replaced by a larger building in 1899. A third convent is now in course of construction, as the sister explains, the old one is so old and so cold they cannot live in it much longer.

ONE LAPEL

A new coat in bright navy crepella has a novel closing. The right side is finished with a three-inch facing that extends around the neck to form a turn-down collar and ends in a long scarf that hangs below the waist on the left side. The left front has a finished lapel that buttons across to the right facing.

TRAFFIC DON'TS

During Old Home Week this city's motor traffic will be doubled at least, and the police have drawn up the following don't for motorists:

Don't park on streets chosen for parades.

Don't park around Confederation Square after 1 o'clock Sunday.

Don't park near Victoria Park after 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

Don't leave your car unlocked.

Don't leave any valuables in your car.

Don't take chances; the police don't want to make arrests during Old Home Week, but they are going to maintain safe driving principles.

Don't drive your car at all if you can walk without discomfort.

CANARY FOOD

Does your little bird get his spring green regularly? You can grow a little bird garden easily and it will delight your feathered pet. A pinch of mustard seed, bird seed, chickweed or other green will bring forth little sprigs of green shortly. Remove the bottom of the cage and set the cage over the garden for the bird to scratch around in. He will love it.

SPRING SOUP

Use up your next roast bone by making the family a spring soup. This is a cross between a regular vegetable soup and a stew. Add every vegetable you have, season with curry and cook slowly. It makes an excellent and satisying dish.

BOTTLE CLEANER

Fresh milk bottles and fruit jars call for one of the inexpensive bottle brushes. Their long handles make the task an easy one. In summer, also, one should be careful to rinse out the can after any fruit or vegetable is emptied out, before throwing the can in the rubbish.

LINGERIE MODES

Princess lines are followed by dainty new French underwear. A blue Ninon gown, with a lace yoke that ties with satin ribbon on one shoulder, is cut almost form-fitting to the hipline and then flares considerably, with circular godets inserted on each hip.

Weariness falls off like a cloak!

Guests coming in for the evening? The theatre? A bridge party . . . tired . . . what matter?

Trust, then, to a few restful moments in your Lifebuoy bath . . . you will emerge with your skin clear, refreshed and protected.

Gone will be the lines of weariness and the drawn tensity of tired muscles . . . and you will feel as you look . . . charming.

Into the countless tiny pores the gentle, creamy, antiseptic lather of Lifebuoy has penetrated and cleansed . . . relaxed the strained nerves and opened every pore so that it may breathe.

And more . . . the antiseptic properties of Lifebuoy will stand guard as an invisible shield against infection, purify the pores of your skin and keep them clean and sweet.

2,000 INDIANS LOSE LAST VESTIGE OF THEIR ANCIEENT BIRTHRIGHT

Government Commissioners Leave By Airplane To Negotiate Treaty.

182,320 SQUARE MILES.

Cree and Ojibway Indians Will Become Wards of Dominion Government.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 26 (Special to The Examiner, Copyright): — Scattered over a vast area of northern Ontario 2,000 Indians of the Cree and Ojibway tribes are about to sign away the last vestige of their ancient birthright, for $4.00 cash and a perpetual annuity of $4.00 a year.

By th surrender the province of Ontario will be enriched by 138,320 square miles of territory reaching from the west side of James Bay and the south side of Hudson Bay to the Manitoba boundary and southward to the Albany River running into the foot of James Bay.

A joint commission leaves Ottawa and Toronto by airplane next week for the North to make a treaty between the Indians and His Majesty the King. Under this treaty the Indians will surrender the last of the lands held hitherto beyond the pale of provincial control, and will become to a greater extent than ever the wards of the Dominion Government.

First Ceded in 1850.

In 1850, under the Robinson treaties the Ontario Indians gave up large tracts of land lying between the height of land and Lakes Superior and Huron. In 1873 under the Northwest Angle Treaty, the Saulteaux Indians ceded a large tract east of Manitoba, part of which now falls within the extended boundaries of the Province of Ontario. The first treaty was made with the old province of Canada and the second with the Dominion.

Then industry trade and commerce in Ontario started northward, and it became advisable to extinguish the Indian title to a huge area of northland. By the James Bay Treaty of 1905 a further 90,000 miles of land draining into the Albany and Moose River systems was ceded by the Indians. Since the previous treaty it had been provided that the Province of Ontario was to be consulted in any further treaties with the Indians in her territory, and so D. G. McMartin was appointed by the Ontario Government to act with Dr. Duncan Campbell Scott on the Commission.

The same principle is followed with the new move to extinguish the Indian title to the land north of the Albany River. H. N. Awrey, of the new commission, and W. C. Cain, Federal Department of Indian Affairs, has been appointed to the Provincial Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests, has been appointed for the Province of Ontario.

Included in Treaty of 1905.

The last northern Indian area was included in the James Bay Treaty of 1905, but nobody was much concerned about it, and the Indians were left in undisturbed possession. The trend of Ontario's empire having turned northward the Federal and Provincial authorities have deemed it advisable to take over the area and provide for the Indians therein.

When the 1905 treaty was made it took the commission ten days to get to Osnaburg, where the first conference with the Indians was held. The Awdrey-Cain Commission will make Osnaburg in less than two days. A Fairchild plane, piloted by Flight-Lieut. Rose, and carrying a mechanic, will take Mr. Awdrey and Dr. Bell, of Sioux Lookout, and possibly a cameraman. A smaller moth plane, piloted by Captain Roy Maxwell, will take Mr. Cain.

The surrender by the Crees and Ojibways means the last holdings by Indians in Eastern Canada. On the northern coasts of British Columbia there are Indian bands which do not live on reserves and have a certain amount of native freedom. They are none the less wards of the Dominion Government. All Indians in the Dominion are under the guardianship of the Federal authorities. The Eskimos are the only aborigines who retain their absolute freedom. The treaty Indians are not entitled to old age pensions; the Eskimos are. It has not been decided whether an Eskimo can vote or not; an Indian cannot.

BIG SHIPMENT OF CACTI PLANT

J. H. Callander Shipping Nearly Four Hundred Varieties To Superior, Arizona.

MANY RARE PLANTS.

The largest order of cacti and the greatest number of varieties ever shipped into the United States is being sent to Superior, Arizona, by J. H. Callander, the well-known florist of this city. This order includes nearly four hundred varieties, practically the complete list of Mr. Callender's cacti, and will establish the cacti department of the South Western aboretum, the State Gardens, at Superior, Arizona.

Mr. Callander is the only persons in North America who could supply such a comprehensive list of cacti and only by special permission from Washington was the Western Aboretum allowed to import his many cacti.

The United States will not allow Mexican plants, such as cacti, to be imported into the country, and the large aboretum in Arizona had to seek special permission to have Mr. Callander supply them with his wonderful plants.

The United States does allow Mr. Callander to bring plants from Mexico through to Canada and it was in this way that he was able to establish the finest varieties of cacti to be found on this continent.

Part of the shipment to Arizona will be made immediately and the rest as the plants come to such a condition to allow them to be transported over such a long distance.

Mr. Callander expects that he will have to send to Germany, Belgium and England to re-establish some of the very rare varieties that he is shipping to the States.

GARDEN NOTES

THIN AND TRANSPLANT

Thinning and transplanting are very important jobs in any garden. As a rule seed is much too fine to sow far enough apart so that thinning would be unnecessary, and if one could do that half the seed might kill out, which would leave the plants too far apart. With the flowers, this work is particularly important as one wants a big top with spreading branches and large flowers. With plants of the zinnia, marigolds and scabiosa type, eight inches each way is not a bit too much, and twelve inches is preferable. The calendulas, calliopsis, cosmos and similar flowers which may have seeded themselves, must be thinned rigidly. If plants are wanted in another bed, select and move them now. In the vegetable garden, it will pay in larger plants and higher quality of the crop produced to thin lettuce, beans, carrots, beets, spinach, radish; in fact, practically everything. Even where the first beets are to be used for greens one should thin to about two inches apart.

FIGHTING THE BUGS

Now that the garden is up and growing, one must mobilize sprayers and spraying material to fight the millions of insects and other pests which prey upon flowers and vegetables and cause the conscientious gardener to lose a lot of unnecessary sleep. These things are not hard to control. Roughly speaking, the pests are divided into two groups,—those that eat holes in the foliage, and those that suck out the juices. In the first case, poison is applied while the "suckers", the damage from which is apparent by the plant wilting and dying, are destroyed with a spray which will burn them but not the foliage.

FOR INSECTS.

For the easting insects, spray with paris green, arsenate of lead, hellebore or some patent poisonous preparation. The latter will probably be found most convenient as it is usually neecssary only to add water and stir. Paris green is usually applied at the rate of one ounce dissolved in ten gallons of water. Adding a couple of ounces of freshly slacked lime will make this mixture stick and will prevent burning of the foliage. One scant ounce of arsenate of lead thoroughly stirred in a gallon of water makes another good poison, or bad if we look at it from the bug's standpoint. Hellebore rapidly weakens when exposed to the air so it will be necessary to get a fresh supply of poison every year. Apply at the rate of one ounce to a gallon of warm water, or it may be dusted on dry when the foliage is damp. A special dish is usually perpared for those enemies of all soft growing plants,—the cut worms. These grubs are about three quarters of an inch long, grey in color and plump in diameter. If your freshly set out petunia, zinnia, tomato, or any other plant withers and topples over, you will usually find a cutworm busy just where the stem leaves the earth. Mix one quart of bran with one teaspoon of paris green, add one tablespoonful of molasses and enough water to moisten the bran. Spread this enticing mixture around the plants and as the cut-worm will leave the watery juice of the plant for the poison, results are usually satisfactory to the gardener. Thorough cultivation will also check the ravages of the cut-worm, and, in small gardens or where particularly valuable plants are used, a paper collar sunk half an inch into the earth around each plant will be very effective.

For sucking pests, chief of which are the aphids or plant lice, spray with whale oil soap, four ounces of soap to a gallon and a half of water; nicotine sulphate, or "Black Leaf 40", or any other repellent advised by seedmen. Cold water from a fine nozzle, under high pressure, will sometimes wash off the pests.

FUNGUS DISEASES

When a fungus disease attacks the plants, the foliage usually turns yellow or brown, or white spots like mildew cover the leaves. Careful examination will usually reveal the presence of tiny pores on the under side of the leaves. Attacks of this kind may be expected during warm, murky weather. Spraying with Bordeaux Mixture, or dusting with specially finely ground sulphur, when the plants are moist, will usually be found effective. When rust attacks hollyhocks, phlox and other plants, dusting with sulphur will usually control the disease. An ordinary baking powder tin, with the cover pierced like a salt shaker, makes a good duster. Adding a dry poison such as arsenate of lead, or tobacco dust, will make the mixture effective against fungus and insect diseases as well.

Managers, 50 yards' walk—W. L Ferguson.

Great credit is due the energetic committee who engineered the annual outing of the Sunday school.

Two ball games followed this feature of presentation and when end was called, all having "played the game" (ladies included) the happy crowd retired for the buses and automobiles; and returned to the city, chalking up another successful picnic to the list in the history of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Sunday school.

Beautiful Supper Served.

Having played and romped to their heart's content, the excursionists were ready to indulge their appetites, and under a willing body of waiters, sandwiches, cake, hot tea and lemonade were soon dispersed, and satisfaction beamed from every face. A pooling of baskets and boxes of rations enabled a splendid assortment of edibles to be passed out by the workers, and this was followed by an ice-cream cone for each scholar.

Presentation of Prizes

Immediately after the "tea hour" Art McLeish blew a blast, and summoned the winners of the various races and those of the baseball team to receive the gifts, provided by the Men's Club — balls, bats, pencils, games, and haberdashery—splendid prizes for everyone, and every prize worthwhile.

PENSION ACT REGULATIONS ARE DEFINED

Person Must be British Subject With Income of Less Than $365.

CHILDREN RESPONSIBLE

Indians Are Unable to Qualify Under Present Law.

TORONTO, Ont., June 26. — (Canadian Press).—Qualifications for pensions under the Old Age Pension Act were defined yesterday by Order-in-Council in the Ontario Gazette as approved by the Ontario cabinet. A person must be a British subject or being a widow who is not a British subject was such before her marriage, has attained seventy years, resident of Canada for twenty years, and resided in the province for five years. They must not be an Indian as defined by the Indian Act, is not in receipt of an income of as much as $365 a year and had not made any voluntary assignment or transfer of property for the purpose of qualifying for a pension.

Under the act, a son or daughter having sufficient means is bound to provide for maintenance of a dependent parent, the act not relieving them from such obligation.

GIVEN THREE YEARS

GUELPH, Ont., June 26.—A three-year sentence to the Portsmouth Penitentiary was given Carl Regis, of Toronto, in police court here this morning on a charge of burglary. The sentence is to run concurrently with a similar sentence imposed in Toronto yesterday.

You're up in the hills where the air is cooler when you drink this fine old ginger ale

LIKE the refreshing vigor of a mountain breeze is the thrill of drinking this finer, purer ginger ale. For just as the air is a little sweeter, a little fresher, and your spirits are a little higher in the mountains, so do you feel when you capture the coolness, the stimulation, of "Canada Dry" Ginger Ale.

Cool as the mountain lake you drink from deeply . . . pure as its crystal depths when you look into it . . . refreshing as the smell of pines wafted across it . . . and as stimulating to your appetite as a meal cooked in the open!

Pure Jamaica ginger subtly flavors "Canada Dry" and makes it a real ginger ale. Delicate and uniform carbonation produces a delightful sparkle. High-quality ingredients assure its purity and deliciousness. And in countless homes throughout this country and Canada this fine old beverage is making countless friends.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HOLDS OUTING

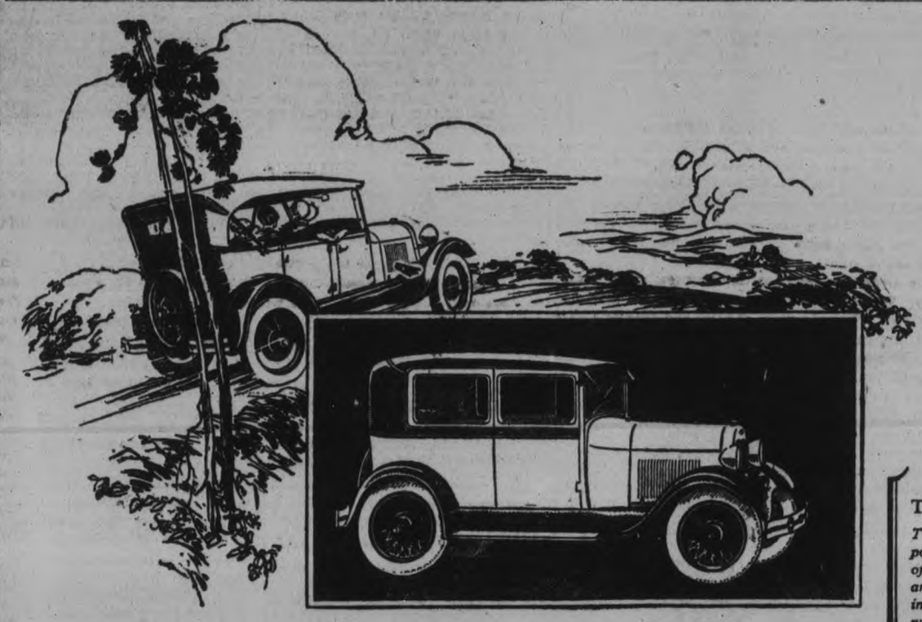
St. Paul's Teachers and Schools Enjoy Afternoon at Wallace's Point.

ENTERTAINMENT PROVIDED.

Saturday, June 22, will be a date added to others of happy memory to the scholars of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Sabbath school. The picnic provided for those attending this department of the church life was held on that date—it was looked forward to and heralded with the most pleasant anticipation—and when the rising generation are asked to hold themselves in reserve for a big event, they do not lag in expectation. The scholars were not disappointed on this occasion—as in previous years they had the promises fulfilled one hundred per cent, and a glorious time had they, one and all (this included the grown-ups, scholars of other days). The youngsters were out in large numbers, and the officials, from Oliver Steer and Harry Taylor, the worthy superintendent to the plain, everyday teacher, were glad to see the crowds of happy folks at Wallace's Point (than which there is no more suitable and beautiful spot to hold such a gathering).

Entertainment Provided

Buses left the church at one and two o'clock and conveyed the majority of the children to the picnic grounds. They soon scattered—some to the swings and slides and teeters provided by the owners of the grounds, others to the ball park,



The TUDOR SEDAN

The Tudor is a most popular model, a car of general utility with ample leg room seating five people. With wide doors, deep cushions and full vision, this is a car in which every member of the family may take personal pride and pleasure.

Simple and Economical

THE Ford Car has proved the case for the light car as a long distance traveller. It has demonstrated its ability to carry you across a continent without fuss or fatigue. Never failing mechanical performance gives mental comfort with the assurance that you will arrive fresh and relaxed at the journey's end.

Simplicity of design in every mechanical part means less wear and friction and long life without repair or adjustment. Speed and acceleration are there in full measure. And the beauty of Ford performance is enhanced by the knowledge that every mile is covered at great saving in gas and oil, and, even at high speeds, with an engine that is conserving rather than exhausting its power and endurance.

Drive it Yourself— There is no Better test

Ford Car Features

Choice of colours
55 to 65 miles an hour
40-horse power engine
Full balloon tires
Fully enclosed six-brake system
4 Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers
20 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline
Shatterproof glass windshield
Theft proof ignition lock
Reliability and low upkeep

COMFORT—Deeply upholstered seat cushions, set at a restful angle, match in comfort your easy chair. Large windows on the closed models allow unobstructed vision and open wide in warm weather. Four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers, and the unique Ford feature of transverse semi-elliptic springs give the effect of riding on air.

DEMONSTRATION—Ask your Ford dealer to let you drive a Ford car. He will be glad to take you out. Select the steepest hills, the heaviest going—you will be amazed at the power at your command. Make for the thickest traffic. Drive alongside other cars. Try the quick getaway, the swift pickup in second, the easy gearshift. Feel the smooth sure action of the six-brake system. A demonstration will convince you of the outstanding merit of the Ford car.

TIME PAYMENT—If you prefer to buy out of income, you will find the authorized time payment plan offered by all Ford dealers most attractive.

The Truth About Pirates

by
Robert D. Andrews

I
"One Flaming Day of Fortune"

First of Ten Thrilling Tales of Pirate Adventure

This is how Peter the Little, a failure and a jest for thirty years, leaped up from a rowboat, took the flagship of the Spanish treasure fleet, seized one great fortune, and made his new name "Pierre le Grand." Many buccaneers followed his method—like these bold adventurers. (From a lithograph of 1720, in the English naval collections.)

PETER THE LITTLE.

That was what they called this giant man, through thirty years of beaten, hopeless failure on the Spanish Main.

Then one brief hour of flaming glory came to him. One sudden hour of fortune. And his name was changed.

Peter the Great, the god of pirates.

So they wrote his name across the bloody Spanish seas. So a whole century of buccaneers came to follow in the trail of this one man.

For Pierre le Grand of Normandy went out and took the flagship of proud Spain's grand fleet, and took it with a sinking, stolen rowboat and twelve wailing thieves for crew. He got away to France with millions in good gold, and knew enough to quit. He died a gentleman, with a field around his castle and the sea forgot. He left a stolen fortune to a worthless nephew, and that heir at once put all the money into ships and lost them to the buccaneers his uncle fathered. Which was the sort of joke life plays on many men. . . .

Peter had his hour of fortune, after thirty years. The hour he longed for, and a sum of loot no other pirate ever equaled in one single fight. A fortune, after thirty years of starving and of want!

He came along the beach on hot Tortuga, on a weary, glaring day. White sand was all around him, and it burned beneath his feet. The ugly green of trees and tangled jungle to one side, the calm, sardonic blue of the wide ocean on the other. Nothing more. Behind him, shrill in argument, twelve ragged, broken men. These were his followers, his retinue, each one a little blacker than his mate, each one a little farther sunk in petty sin. But none as hard and bitter as their chief.

Consider what must weigh upon his soul. A childhood lean and empty, and then flight to sea to hunt a fortune that he never found. Hard ships, and bitter food, and brutal lords to serve. A lashing on the deck, one day among the smiling islands. Then he fled.

Cut loose from everything he knew, and lost among the lovely, sneering islands, all alone. A little sneaking thieving, just to live. A try at fishing, and a dozen raids. Knife wounds across his face and chest, and from one hand two fingers clipped off by a shot. Always a struggle for a chance to live. Always a struggle for the one big chance. A big man, and a clever, and yet sunk so low.

Somehow, he came to live among the buccaneers. These got a living of a kind from killing goats and cattle running wild upon the little cays, and selling their fried meat to passing ships that had run short of food. They called this sunjerked meat "boucan,' and so the hunters had the name of "boucaniers." Some few would settle down together, and there pool their gains. So little towns grew up, and lust and lechery moved in. Much brawling, and much drinking of hot rum. Much scheming. And much talk of fortunes sailing past untouched.

Some unknown spirit dared the sea, at last, and with a little stolen boat he took two fishers' ships and some small revenue in coin and silken contraband. Then one and then another followed him. Some won, and others died. Yet men who spent their days in slaughter, just to live, would not quail over much at slaughter for good gold.

So what were hunters came to be much more than that. Some got small ships, and went out on the Grand Account. But others were like Peter, lost upon the beach. No ship, no means, no men that he could trust. Only twelve satellites to follow and to whine for food. . . .

But Peter laughed. His great voice boomed along the sunbaked shore. His great voice jeered at fate and failure, and at life.

"This is my day of fortune," Peter told his twelve. "This is the day I celebrate my birth. Laugh with me, my brothers! Laugh!"

They laughed. They laughed, and gathered round the giant man. Then all sat down within the borders of the shade, to wait for dusk. Around the point there lay a little Indian village, and that was their goal. Some stolen food, and then a stolen boat, and then they would get out to sea. It did not matter where. They sailed with one whose luck had come to be a jest to all Tortuga; they sailed with Peter, and they had no hope.

Yet suddenly one ragged scarecrow leaped up from the sand, and shouted shrilly to the men around:

"A ship! A fleet!"

Eyes swung to follow on his pointing arm, and saw eight Spanish ships come gracefully around the distant point, well in to shore, with white sails flapping loosely in the easy breeze, with red and gilded pennons at the peaks, with men along the decks and naked guns run out at all the ports. This was the dons' grand fleet, and loaded down already with fine gold and jewels, but bound for more at Cartagena. Then a passage home, and lovely wealth for Spanish dons to play with as they willed.

All that the buccaneers could see. And they had seen enough like these before to know each signal flag, each gun along the decks.

Then one man looked at Peter, and cried out in fear. The black man stood up hulking, eyes upon the fleet. His rusty sword was out and swinging in one hand. His lips were moving in what might be prayer. Then he was running down the beach, pellmell.

They looked, and called, and jostled, and pursued. They saw this madman race along the shore. They followed on, and wondered what he did. They came around the palm fronds and at once were in the Indian town. They saw their captain's cutlass flick at one tall brave, and watched that man go down. They heard the women screaming, and the children fled. They followed on and wondered, but no man dropped back.

As they came racing down upon the little cove beyond the town, they saw huge Peter leap into a dugout boat. He called and cursed them:

"Follow me!"

A moment more, and they were rowing out to sea, into the thickening dusk. The sun had fallen suddenly beyond the trees. Night was upon them, and the riding lights were twinkling all along the fleet.

One asked a question, and him Peter struck down with his cutlass hilt. No other spoke. Once Peter called out "Faster!" and they heeded and sped on. At last he spoke again.

"We go to see this flagship," Peter told them. That was all. Yet there was something new and eerie in his voice. A sudden power, a sudden firm conviction, these they felt. They knew not where he led, or why. They knew his fate and fortune. Yet they did not speak.

At last, he raised one hand against the murk, and told them, "Rest!"

The boat slid quietly along the waves. There was no whispering among the men. Above them, all at once, there loomed a high, black wall. Lights flickered, here and there. Across the quiet water came the talk of many men. They were beside the flagship of the Spanish fleet.

One heard a tiny, scratching sound. One looked, and could not quite believe, then saw what the mad Peter had done to the boat. Through half a dozen little holes came leaping, singing towers of water. The boat was going down.

"Now you will follow!" Peter rasped out fiercely, and he gripped the nearest man. "Now you will follow, or you all will drown!"

"Where?" one man whispered in shrill terror, and the captain told him, "There!"

He pointed up at the ship's chains above their heads. He pointed up, and leaped, and caught one chain, and was a twisting figure up against the sky. Below him, terror gripped his men. Then water was around their knees, and soon the boat must sink. They could not win their way back to the land. There were sharks waiting, in the phosphorescent waves. There was no hope of safety, but upon the ship. They leaped up at the chains and followed, chattering in their fear.

One man stood up to face the looming Peter, but he fell. He went down quietly, and Peter leaped across his victim, hunting more. But he saw none. Far down the deck, a knot of men sat casting dice and drinking wine. No one stood guard. This was the mighty flagship of the Spanish fleet, riding within the limits of that fighting fleet. No one had thought of danger. No one could know of Peter and his little boat.

He brought his men around him in a compact group. He whispered certain words, and his eyes shone. They watched this man they called "The Little," and they knew that day was past. This was his hour of fortune, come at last. They gripped his arms, and drew out swords, and followed softly down along the deck. They slipped along the shadows, and came to a stairs from which came glowing light. They listened, and they heard a jangle of loud voices and a clink of glass. They knew the admiral was there, and with him all his officers, at drink and games.

So this great Spanish admiral sat drinking pretty wine, and rich magenta shadows rolled along the polished walnut of the long, wide table as he drank. He sat, and all the others stood. It was a toast to Ramirez the Mighty, admiral of the fleet.

But then a form slipped ghostlike through the crowd. A giant hand was at his throat. A gleaming sword was at his heart. Men shrieked, and spun, and faced on waiting swords and pistols all around. One of the twelve leaped up and clanged the bar down on the heavy door. Then he faced back and joined the men who held an admiral and all his lords at bay.

The dons were speechless, and they were afraid. No men like these had ever stood before them in their lives. No fiendish leers like these, no thirsty swords like these. They stood like stone, and no man spoke.

Then Peter's voice rang coldly in the stricken room.

"You are my prisoners," he said, and laughed. "You are my men. Let one man move, and this your admiral shall die. Let one man speak, and he shall die, and all the rest. Let each man hold his place, and no man cry for aid. It will not come. You are my men."

Then that great laugh rang long and loud in the close cabin, while the admiral squirmed. Think of a man who waited thirty years for his fine chance, then came to this! Think of the man they laughed at in the boozing kens, now master of an admiral and all his men, and of his ship! The great man laughed, and smote his thigh, and laughed anew. And all his twelve joined in.

It was a madhouse, for a joyous moment, while the admiral and lords were helpless at swords' points. Then all the laughter stopped.

Black, grim and purposeful, great Peter gripped the quaking admiral's fat hands, and held them to the light, then tied them with a napkin, jerking till the admiral screamed. Each man in turn they served the same.

Upon the door, men beat in fear and questioning. Outside the door, the petty officers ranged men with muskets, and called out "We fire!" But Peter's sword was at the admiral's fat throat, and this poor little captive shrieked out "No! We are their hostages. Leave us alone!"

Then Peter laughed again, and gave his orders, while the Spaniards scowled. No man should leave this cabin, Peter said. The admiral should call to him five trusted ones. These were to have his orders to escape the fleet. It did not matter how the thing was done. If, when dawn came, another Spanish ship was near, said Peter coldly, this fat admiral would die. He drew a crimson line along the admiral's white skin, to back his word. Then he sat back and drank the admiral's wine, and said no word, but only chuckled on and on.

Through all the night, twelve ragamuffins and the man called "Little" held a flagship's dons at bay, while on the deck a driven crew sailed out beyond the islands and deep into mantling fog. No question came, and no man called a warning. They were schooled to venerate their lords. They knew their lords must die, if they should risk a cry. They knew their blood would pay for that, if every one escaped. So they sailed on.

At last came dawn, and Peter took his admiral upon the deck. He carried him upon one arm, a helpless sack of anger and of broken pride. He dropped him on the boards, and told one man of his, "Go to the helm." He called his orders, sharp and brief. The crew and all the soldiers circled round. Death was in every eye. Yet Peter never quailed. Against the admiral's throat, he held his thirsty sword. Against the admiral's heart, he aimed his loaded pistol. So he stood.

They made a landfall, early in the day. Peter spoke softly to the admiral, who cried "The boats! Swing out the boats!" Then into these got half his crew, and all his soldiers, and they pulled away for shore.

So Pierre had made his capture. From each sailor left, he took all weapons and all gold. Down in the strongroom, Peter found a treasure that no other pirate ever equaled. Millions in gold and jewels lay there, and all belonged to Peter and his men. He set the captive crew to working at the ropes. He put his twelve behind them, driving on. He counted out the treasure, and then told his crew:

"We raid no more. Our hour of fortune has done this for us. We sail for France and peace and riches all our own."

They sailed. Long days upon blue water. Once the captives rose, but Pierre was on them in a flash, to drive them back to ropes and sails, to tell them "Peace, and when we land each man is free. War, and not one shall live!" So they sailed on.

They came to Dieppe, where once a hungry boy first saw the sea and said "There I will earn my fortune." They lay aboard the ship, while Peter bargained up and down the wharves. Between the night and morning, they were gone again. Upon a quiet shore, boats landed all the gold and loot. Upon this shore, they freed the captives and told each one, "Go!" Here they smote hands and parted, looking back at Pierre le Grand.

Men said he sold the ship, and shrewdly, and for good hard gold. Men said the treasure that he kept was millions, and none lost or gambled through the twenty years he had to live. Men said he had the finest castle in all Normandy. Men said he never saw the sea again.

One hour of fortune, and one flaming deed. Then he had stopped, and left his name and fortune for a legend on the Spanish Main.

But Peter was not "Little" any more. They called him "Pierre le Grand." And "Peter the Great" became the pirate god of victory.

The Spanish admiral?

He died the second day. From apoplexy. Admirals cannot stand shocks like that.

Leafs Stage Batting Rampage to Beat Bears 4-2

TORONTO CLUB ADVANCES INTO FIFTH POSITION

Now Trailing Newark Bears and Montreal Royals By One Point.

O'NEILL BEHIND BAT.

Hirelings Bombard Opposing Hurlers To Break Newark's' Winning Streak.

NEWARK, June 26 (Canadian Press). — The Leafs did a turn-about face yesterday. Not only did they come through the triumphal arch with a 4 to 2 prize, but slapped the galloping Newarks all around and shot their eight-game winning streak full of holes.

How did they do it? That's easy, fans! They were inspired by Manager Steve O'Neill, who was behind the bat. His hirelings just busted the Bears right on the beezer, and then followed it up with several more cuts to the same pace, and it was all over.

The Leafs are now trailing the Bears and the Montreal Royals, who are tied for fourth place, by one point.

LAND AT SUDBURY.

SUDBURY, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — The plane bearing W. C. Cain, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, and piloted by Captain Roy Maxwell, Director of Provincial Government Air Service, landed here yesterday. To-day they will go on to Remy Lake, where they will meet two planes bearing Dominion Government representatives. The party will proceed north on its mission of bringing under the Crown the unceded Indian territory of Patricia.

CENTRAL SCHOOL HOLDS FINE PICNIC

Pupils Enjoy Outing in Victoria Park—Program of Sports Held.

The pupils of the Central School, along with many parents and friends, held their annual picnic in Victoria Park last Friday afternoon. A bountiful supply of cakes and sandwiches were sent by the mothers, whilst the Home and School Association provided an ample supply of lemonade for the children and tea for the mothers. Ice cream and soft drinks were given out at cost from a booth in the school. Mrs. Wes. Flannery, president of the Home and School Association, assisted by the teachers and a host of willing lady workers, spared no effort to make the afternoon an enjoyable one for the children. These ladies spent a busy afternoon in the pavilion getting the refreshments ready. The pupils were arranged in their several groups and served by their own teachers, which not only added to the enjoyment of the afternoon but helped to keep alive the friendly spirit between teachers and pupils which is characteristic of Canadian schools.

During the tea-hour a slight shower of rain somewhat dampened the spirits of the picnickers, but otherwise the weather was ideal.

Before the refreshments were served a program of sports were run off by teachers and supervised by Principal Wightman and Mr. Frost. The Home and School Association provided prizes for these, and the following were the successful contestants:

Senior School.

Girls' 25-yard race, 9 years — 1, Mary McPherson; 2 Constance Bregg.

NEW SPORT IS YOUNG MAN'S GAME

J. R. Ardiel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Ardiel, of Windsor, formerly of Peterborough, made good right off the bat in the sea flea regatta at Clear Lake on Saturday. He is only fifteen years of age, and will no doubt be heard of in the many sea flea races that are scheduled for this season. Writing in the Toronto Star Lou Marsh describes the youngster's performance as follows:

A new—and even more youthful—star has risen over night in the racing outboard hydroplane firmament. Saturday's Sea Flea regatta at South Beach, Clear Lake, was full of sensational happenings, but one of the big kicks of the entire afternoon's racing and chasing was the unexpected and clean cut victory of 15-year-old J. R. Ardiel, son of Harris Ardiel, of Windsor, and formerly of Toronto, in Class B. Young Ardiel was only presented with a racing outfit by his did a week ago, but on Saturday at Clear Lake he not only won the race, but he won real class and took a leg on the Champlain Cup. The youngster had the honor of trouncing Don. Wood "The Cyclone Kid" from Peterborough, who recently cleaned up this class at Toronto and Frenchman's Bay, and he did it in two straight heats.

When young "Jay Are' in his boat, Miss Windsor, came down in front of the daredevil Wood in the first heat the wise ones winked and intimated that young Wood had just laid up a heat, but when Ardiel nailed him in the second heat by a sensational piece of driving right on the home buoy at the end of the first leg and kept him carefully covered the rest of the journey the rest of the drivers commenced to sit up and take real notice of the youngster.

Young Jimmie Rogers of the National Yacht Club of Toronto was third, and Frank James of the same club fourth. All four drove Johnson Sea Horses.

ROBINS WIN FROM GIANTS

Brooklyn Tallies Five Runs in Ninth Inning To Win 12-10 Victory.

BRAVES SPLIT BILL.

NEW YORK, June 26. (C.P.) — Brooklyn rallied against Larry Benton in the ninth innings for five runs to tie the score, and counted two more off Dutch Henry in the tenth, winning its third straight game from the Giants 12 to 10, here yesterday.

Mel Ott hit his twenty-first homer in the second innings. Val Picinich capped the tying rally with another shot into the stands in the ninth.

BRAVES SPLIT BILL.

BOSTON, June 26. (C.P.) — The Braves and Phillies split a double header here yesterday, the home team winning the first game 5 to 4 and the visitors the second 8 to 6.

The loss of the first game brought the Phillies' losing streak to nine but they made six runs in the ninth inning of the second game to break the jinx.

NORTH ENDERS TO MEET TECO

Tidy Battle Predicted For City Softball League To-morrow Night.

CLOCK MAKERS ON FRIDAY.

What should be one of the hardest fought battles of the local softball league will be staged to-morrow evening at Central School grounds when Harrisons and the Teco meet.

Both teams possess strong line-ups and should provide the fans with a good softball bill.

Dundas will likely be Harrisons' pitching selection while Carruthers will get the call for the Teco with Darling in reserve.

The teams will line up as follows: Harrisons—Dobson, c; Dundas, p; Smith, 1b; Ross, 2b; Ward, ss; Dorrington, 3b; Vinette, lf; Montgomery, cf; Clarke, rf.

Teco—White, c; Carruthers, p; Frick, 1b; Crary, 2b; Westbrooke, ss; Hall, 3b; Miller, cf; Jones, lf; Kennealley or Board, rf.

The game will be in charge of "Cy" Haskil and Jack Green and is called for 6.30 o'clock sharp.

Bridgenorth and Western Clock will play on Friday night.

CHURCH TEAM WINS BY RUN

GOOD FIELDING.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 26 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Charlie Montgomery and his Mill Men gave the Presbyterian ball team a bad scare last night when they led the hunt for the first half of the game. So far the Mill has not won a game this season, but their increasing efficiency and improvement in general play was evident in last night's game. In the first innings, St. Andrew's scored four runs against the Mill's two. The next frame saw it five to four for the Churchmen, and in the third the Clothmakers had the upper hand at seven to five. They scored in every frame but the sixth, and in two instances held the Presbyterians scoreless. There were plenty of hits during the game, but the fielding saved the situation. The Mill's batting was another feature. Cochrane got the home run idea and hit one to left field the first time he came up. He repeated the dose in the seventh and drove in two runs as well as his own. Bill Reynolds had a touch of the same fever, and clouted a homer in the eighth just after Wilkes' homer had cleared the bases. Both these runs were hit to right field. Wilkes knocked out another to the same field in the fifth. During the entire game, only one man got a base on balls. This was a case of brotherly love when Cochrane walked Storie, the Presbyterian pitcher.

The victory last night puts the St. Andrew's nine in first place. But it was anybody's game till the very end. St. Andrew's were leading at the end of the seventh by one run. They still had a one-run margin at the end of the eighth. In the ninth, the Mill evened the score and Charlie McArthur came to bat for St. Andrew's. He got a run and broke the tie, thus ending the game.

The line-up:
St. Andrew's — Storie, p; P. Sanders, c; Ingram, 1b; B. Reynolds, 2b; C. Massie, 3b; N. Reynolds, ss; Dunk, cf; C. McArthur, rf; Irwin, lf.
By innings:

St. Andrew's .. .. 410153031—18 32 ..
Umpires—Free and H. McArthur.

ERRORS COSTLY FOR CLUB TEAM

Simmons Given Poor Support By the Knights and Wildcats Win Out.

FINAL COUNT 21-10.

The Bridgenorth Wildcats defeated the Knight of Columbus by the score of 21 to 10 in a softball fixture at Central School grounds last night which was featured by errors and sloppy playing.

The Knights refused to give Simmons any support and although there was only one hit during the first six innings of the game, the Bridgenorth men garnered in fifteen runs. The left-hander, Darling, then replaced Simmons in the seventh, and during the time he was on the mound eighteen men faced him, nine in each innings, and ten runs were scored.

Drives into the field and bunts that should have been put-outs, were featured by the K. of C. playing often out of their position and giving an all around lax exhibition of softball.

Forsythe went the nine innings for the Cats and had eleven strike-outs to his credit.

Gillespie drove his usual homer, a beautiful drive in the second innings to the school. Weese in the eighth also travelled the paths on a four base hit.

The game was practically devoid of any spectacular playing and was about one of the slowest moving softball games of the season.

Line-ups:
Bridgenorth.—G. Dormer, ss; H. Dormer, 1b; Galbraith, rf; Weese, 2b; Baird, lf; Jopling, lf; Connors, c; Gillespie, cf; Forsythe, p; Bradshaw, 3b.
K. of C.—O'Toole, ss; B. Bennett, 2b; McGrath, c; T. LeBarr, 3b; F. Simmons, cf; L. LeBarr, 2b; A. Griffin, 1b; R. Bennett, lf; Ranger; B. Simmons, p; Darling, p.
Score by innings:
Bridgenorth .. ..30202446x—21
K. of C. .. ..010012213—10
Umpires—Ranger; Board; Green.
Strikeout—Forsythe, 11; Simmons, 2; Daring, 1.
Home runs—Gillespie and Weese.

8 INCHES OF HAIL

DURBAN, Natal, June 25.— The most destructive hailstorm in this city's history occurred here during the night, causing intense damage which some estimated at 500,000 pounds sterling, about 2,500,000. A few minutes after the hail started it lay eight inches deep on the streets, some of the stones being four inches in diameter.

PLAN BIG REUNIONS

KINGSTON, Ont., June 25.—Arrangements are being made by Queen's University General Alumni Association for reunions of the classes of Arts '04 and '24, as well as Arts classes graduating in the "nines" from 1869 to 1919. The reunions will be held the week-end of the oTronto-Queen's game. October 11-13.

MACKMEN LEAD BY TEN GAMES

Stretch Advantage Over Idle Yankees By Taking Double Bill From Red Sox.

TIGERS WIN OUT 14-2.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26. (C.P.) — The pennant - bound Athetics stretched their lead over the idle Yankees to ten full games yesterday by sweeping a double header from the Boston Red Sox 7 to 1 and 8 to 2.

Bob Grove held the Bostonese to six scattered hits to bang in his twelfth victory of the season in the opener.

FATAL SEVENTH FOR SOX

DETROIT, June 26. (C.P.) — After six innings of almost faultless baseball yesterday, the Tigers turned Navin field into a shambles in the seventh and scored 11 runs against the Chicago White Sox before the 16th Tiger batsmen was retired. The ultimate count was 14 to 2. Five errors were made during the period, each responsible for a Tiger run. Prior to that disastrous inning the Sox led 2 to 1.

HOLDS CLEVELANDS.

ST. LOUIS, June 26. (C.P.)—Walter Stewart held the Cleveland Indians to two hits, one a double, in the second game here yesterday, and the Browns walked away with an 8 to 0 victory. The Tribe, however had made it two straight over the Browns by capturing the first game by a 10 to 7 score.

PLAINVILLE WINS.

Garden Hill Defeated 13-3 in East Durham League Fixture.

BAILIEBORO, June 26 (Examiner Correspondence). — Bailieboro baseball team motored to Elizabethville on Saturday evening. Due to a misunderstanding in the schedule the homesters were not prepared for a game. The Bailieboro boys then returned to Garden Hill to see the league fixture between Garden Hill and Plainville. Plainville was on top of the world all through the game, as the final score 13-3 shows. The batteries were: Garden Hill, Cantrell and Dunbar; Plainville, Wiley and Halstead. Umpires, K. Halstead and A. Mercer.

The East Durham Tuxis are working with considerable success. All scheduled games, except those to be played with Elizabethville, have been played. Postponed games which affect the league standing are to be played later.

The league standing is:

	Won	Lost
Bailieboro	3	0
Plainville	1	1
Garden Hill	0	2
Elizabethville	0	1

European Finals On Berlin Courts

BERLIN, June 26.— (Canadian Press).—The final of the European zone elimination play for the Davis Cup championship between Great Britain and Germany will be played on the courts of the Red and White Club in Berlin on July 12, 13 and 14.

Germany's team has not been definitely selected, but it probably will include H. Moldenhaue, Dr. Ham Preen, H. Kleinscorth and Dr. Landman.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Close Harmony" the All Talking Musical Comedy, With Charles (Buddy) Rogers, and Nancy Carrol at the Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

With blaring trumpets and moaning saxophones, not to mention resounding drums and lamenting trombones as his media of expression, Charles (Buddy) Rogers "jazz-tuned" his way across the audible silver screen at the Capitol the last three days of this week for his first sound appearance as a versatile orchestra leader.

"Close Harmony" is a play of backstage life, and Rogers, as the leading male characters, plays a role for which he seems splendidly fitted. Doubtless his earlier training as a player in the student orchestra at Kansas University had something to do with the capable musicianship of this amazing young actor. It was certain that the Buddy Rogers fans were agreeably surprised to see and hear their favorite in the kind of part they always wanted to have him perform for them. And those present who were not fans before the picture began were Rogerites after it ended in a blaze of musical color and romance.

Nancy Carroll, who was last seen with Rogers in the screen version of "Abie's Irish Rose"' was gorgeous as the leading woman, playing the part of a song and dance headliner in a big cinema palace where Buddy and his band were given a try-out. Miss Carroll demonstarted the singing and dancing prowess that made her famous on the New York stage before she entered the "flickers."

The play has plenty of gripping plot and an abundance of sure-fire comedy, supplied by the stars and Jack Oakie and "Skeets"' Gallagher. In sum, "Close Harmony" is rare entertainment.

BE SURE OF YOUR STANCE IN GOLF.

There is always a temptation on the part of the golfer to force an iron shot. Usually the body does its work before the club head has had a chance to do its work. This comes from playing the shot with the feet too close together as a rule. A sure cure is to spread the feet further apart which permits the left leg to act as a brace and prevents the body from turning quickly.

The golfer must remember that one of the most important things in golf is the stance. Be sure you are all set to hit the ball and you will save yourself the annoyance and embarrassment of many weird shots.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS IN THE SPORTS WORLD

BOOSTS AND KNOCKS for EVERYONE

(By "TED" OUTRAM)

A LITTLE HELP NEEDED.

Loud complaints are sometimes fired into this office in which the idea is voiced in no uncertain terms that some sports are being discriminated against. Just the other day one lawn bowling enthusiast said hotly that the grand old game of the greens was being left out in the cold. He complained further that too much space was being devoted to baseball and other sports.

Modern newspapers do make special efforts at considerable expense to give their readers service in regard to athletic events that are of world-wide interest. Still newspapers do not have to seek for this service. Some of it is thrust upon them. The National Hockey League last year established a publicity bureau that aided greatly in getting the news to the papers; and the big baseball leagues work on the same plan.

In the softball, baseball, soccer, hockey, tennis, rugby, basketball, cricket and bowling leagues in this city officials in charge make it a point to keep the paper well informed as to what is going on, and the results of games.

It is difficult for a person outside to appreciate just how much is going on at the various athletic fields throughout the city every evening. It is impossible to cover everything and some must be sent in.

The Examiner stands ready to aid any game and sport, but some encouragement in the way of information is necessary. A little co-operation would be appreciated.

CRICKET CLUB HAS BIG PROGRAM.

The local Cricket Club is doing its share in arranging a fitting sports program for Old Home Week. Three outstanding matches have been scheduled for next week. On Saturday a strong team representing the Toronto Cricket Club, will be the visitors; on July 1 the Birchcliffe Club of Toronto, will be here; and on Wednesday, July 3, the Upper Canada College, which is touring Eastern Canada, will play here. All these games will be staged at the Oval, and it is fully expected that a large number of old time cricket players, as well as those interested in the great game, will be spectators.

The Peterborough Cricket Club is to be congratulated on the fine series that has been drawn up, and incidentally in helping to advertise the city throughout the world of sport.

REAL BOUT AT PARK STREET TO-NIGHT.

James Stevenson Park will be setting for a smart ball game in the Junior series of the City League this evening. Kiwanis and Lockworks are the teams, and the last time, just one week ago, that these nines engaged, they played a tight, eager, exciting game. The score for that struggle was 5 to 3 for Jack Deannard's Kiwanis. The game this evening promises to be just as smartly handled, and these teams deserve the support of the fans.

On July 1 the Kiwanis team will journey to Belleville to play the pick of the Junior teams in the Quinte town. The game is scheduled for the morning.

BANTAM GAME SIGHT FOR SORE EYES.

Ball fans are sure missing the cream of city sports when they toss up these City League games. The little Canuck and Midget Maple Leaf nines played a bantam game at Sacred Heart grounds last night that was a delight to watch. These youngsters have been well coached and they put all pep and go into their struggles. Especially noteworthy was the expert manner in which they chased after flies, and weaved their way beneath them. Practically every ball hit into the outfield was caught without a quiver. The few errors that were made came as overthrows to the bases, and it's an easy matter to throw over some of those little infielders' heads. The pitching, too, was peppy, Calladine serving them for Leafs, and Wainwright working for Canucks. The former struck out ten, while the latter was most effective, too, with seven.

It is such games as these as gladden the heart of any real fan, and Peterborough's position in the baseball world is secure as long as young players like these are coming along.

C. G. E. RUNNERS ARE GAME.

The C. G. E. runners are not being deterred from their activities by the hot weather. It takes plenty of stamina and heart to get out and run around the half-mile track at Exhibition Park five or six times these evenings, but that's the nightly work out for a dozen or so of these enthusiastic runners. They appear to be in great shape, too, and certainly proved their class in the long race from Trenton to Belleville. They deserve cheers, and not the odd jeer, like those coming out of the grandstand on Monday night.

* * * * * *

The runners will have another opportunity to show that this city is not behind in track sports during Old Home Week. In former days Peterborough was famed for its track athletes, and the C. G. E. Club is doing well to keep the city on the map in this branch of sport.

NINE INNINGS IN CITY LEAGUE NOW.

All City League games will henceforth be nine innings. Up until the present only seven innings have constituted a game, but with the longer daylight there is plenty of time to get in the extra two innings. All the playoff games in the O.B.A.A. are nine innings, and the officials are wise in preparing the teams to go the full route.

It is likely that the East Peterborough League will revert to the full game, too.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

A FEW WORDS OF CRITICISM

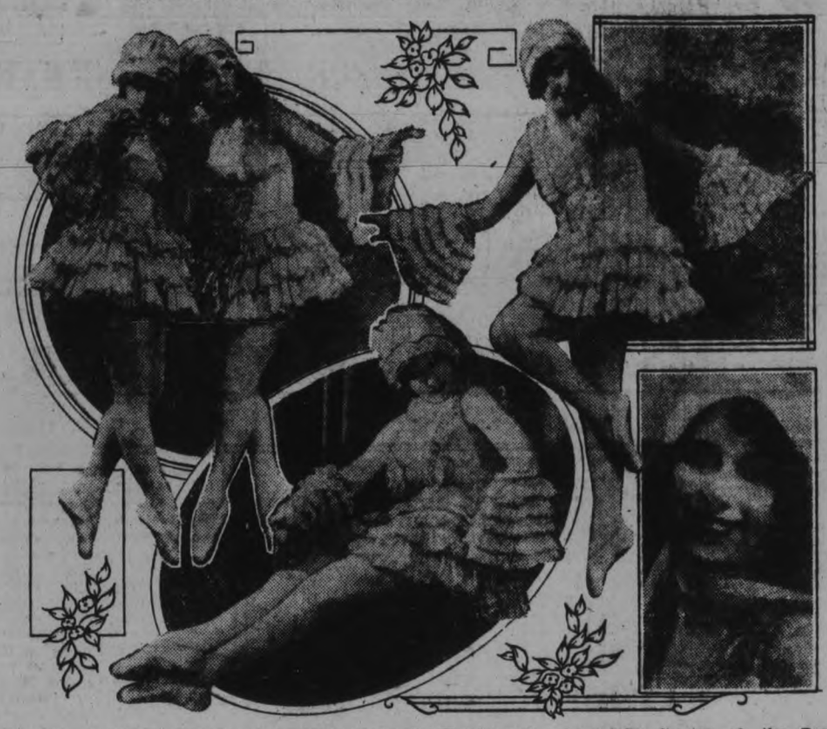
I fully agree with the poets
Who tell us that nature is grand,
But I have little praise for a few of her ways,
Which I find I cannot understand.
The bugs which arrive in my orchard
Leaving sheer desolation behind 'e
When they go on their raids are arrayed in such shades
That the wrens and the robins can't find 'em.

The aphids, those razor jawed creatures
Which are scattered around by the ants,
Are clad in a green of a translucent sheen
That matches the stalks of the plants.
And by never a bug eating songster
Which over the garden has hovered
In a forage for food for his hungering brood
The pirating mites are discovered.

The hen, although noisy, is useful
Because of the eggs she will lay
But a hawk or a kite as they poise in their flight
Can see her a half mile away.
And the birds which make wonderful music
Are a prey to the foes that beset them
Their plumes are so bright that they glow in the night
And the pot hunting tom cats can get them.

So I file this complaint against nature
Who is given, I hold to mistakes.
I've contended for long that she's rather too strong
For worst of the creatures she makes.
For most of her plentiful blessings
I am filled with a sense of thanksgiving
But I think that she errs in the habit of hers
Of letting the pests go on living.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE FEATURE DANCE



This trio of clever dancing girls are sure to make a big hit at the feature dance of Old Home Week which is being held in the Armouries on Wednesday night, July 3rd. In the upper left hand corner are Mme. Diagnault and Miss "Tony" La France. Mme. Diagnault is a solo dancer of the Capitol Theatre and a student of the famous Russian Kosloff Studios. She recently toured the United States with the French Opera Comique, and has appeared in some of the largest entertainments in Canada and the United States. Miss "Tony" La France is a student of Leonidoff, director of the Roxie Theatre in New York, and recently appeared on the stage in that metropolis. In the upper right is Miss Diagnault again. In the centre is another picture of Miss La France, while in the lower right is Miss Germaine, Capitol Theatre ballet dancer in Montreal.

LEAFS LOSE TO CANUCKS

HURLERS' DUEL.

In a closely contested bantam fixture at the Sacred Heart grounds last evening, the Canucks nosed out the Maple Leafs by a 6-3 score. The game was featured by the excellent brand of twirling exhibited by both pitchers, Calladine and Wainwright. They each turned in records for the game that would have been a credit to any of the higher league moundsmen. Due to their efforts, the game was a snappy affair, the batters being retired in regular order. There were few walks handed out by either pitcher and the gains made were due more to the faulty work of the teams as a whole than the men in the box.

Calladine, in the box for the losers, made the gamest effort of the game but did not get the support required to do the trick. He struck out ten and allowed but three walks. On the six hits the Canucs managed, they counted only three tallies. Their runs were effected mainly on errors and stolen bases.

With the exception of some wild infield throwing in the middle of the contest, the youngsters on both teams exhibited big time ball. Long clouts to the field were repeatedly nabbed with a surprising expertness by the diminutive lads. Hatton in the right field for the winners and Conners and Burton in the Leaf right and centre fields starred in this line.

In the first three frames of the game, the Leafs failed to tally, any runs while the Canucks brought in three. In the next two innings the East City lads easily matched the Canucks with a much smarter style of fielding than they had exhibited. At the close of the fifth the two line-ups were re-arranged but neither were able to tally again during the game.

Score by innings:

MISS MACKENZIE WINS AT BUFFALO

Misses Maude and Cecil Smith Lose To United States' Golfers.

BUFFALO, June 26. — Eight of the Canadian contingent of women golfers entered in the ninth annual Buffalo Country Club's invitation tournament won their first round matches yesterday, while seven were casualties. The luck of the draw brought out three matches in which a Canadian contestant faced one of her own countrywomen and so almost one-half of the number that went down owed their defeat to the brilliance of members of their own invading force.

Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, stroking in her usual masterful style, scored a three and one victory over Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City; Mrs. Victor Sifton of Toronto, won over Helen Bernard of Montreal, two and one; while Mrs. J. W. Ross, Ottawa, defeated Mrs William Gurney of Buffalo, by the lopsided tally of 5 and 4.

The defeats suffered by the Misses Cecil and Maude Smith of Toronto, were wholly unexpected. Margaret Lockhart of Montreal, was also in the losing column. Mrs. Gage McLeod of Toronto, lost 7 and 5 to Louise Fordyce, the Youngstown, Ohio, star.

Other matches in which Canadians figured resulted as follows:

Mrs. J. J. Ashworth, Toronto, defeated Kate Robertson, Montreal, 4 and 2; Mrs. Reginald Davison, Toronto, defeated Mrs. Lloyd Bissell, Buffalo, 1 up; Mrs. Sidney Jones, Toronto, defeated Mrs. W. W. Denner, Niagara Falls, 7 and 6; Frances Sharpe, Ottawa, defeated Mrs. James W. Banks, Transit Valley, 3 and 2, and Mrs. D. P. Cruikshank, Ottawa, defeated Mrs. W. Green, Toronto, 2 up.

Virginia Wilson, Chicago, maintained the brilliant pace set in capturing medalist honors by scoring a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit. Peggy Wattles of Buffalo, defeated Helen Payson of Portland, Me., in an extra-hole match.

AUSTIN DEFEATS JACQUES BRUGNON

Hopes of Britain For Winning Championship Lies On Youthful Tennis Star.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 25 (Canadian Press Cable). — H. W. "Bunny" Austin, youthful idol of the British tennis enthusiasts who yesterday defeated Francis Hunter, second ranking United States player, added to his laurels to-day by defeating Jacques Brugnon, one of the French 'big four,' in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

Literally bounding into the tennis firmament last year with victories over leading British exponents of the court game, Austin is showing much improvement this year and his triumphs during the past two days have raised hopes that the tenn's title may at last be retained by Great Britain.

Air liners driven by steam and carrying 1,000 passengers are foretold by French scientists.

KEEN COMPETITION.

Three wins in as many starts has put the Industrial Control No. 1 team in first place in the C.G.E. Softball League, and with six teams tied for second place, the race promises to be a hot one.

The Machine Shop, by winning a stiff argument from the Test Men, are right up with the leaders, and if they can provide a few more upsets they should be in a strategic position. Six teams so far have not scored a point, but their lack of success seems to be due to lack of practice rather than inability. Every one of the teams in the cellar position have good pitchers, but fall down badly on the fielding.

SCHMELING GETS TEST ON THURSDAY EVENING

German Heavyweight and Uzcudum Conclude Their Training.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Full of fight and trained to the minute, Max Schmeling, husky young German, and Paulino Uzcudun, squat Spanish veteran, settled down to rest last night and forget, if possible, that they must battle fifteen rounds tomorrow night in the Yankee Stadium.

In widely separated training camps, the two foreign heavyweights, who have all but swept the field clear of United States contenders for Gene Tunney's discarded heavyweight crown, wound up preparatory work for the headline battle on Mrs. William R. Hearst's milk fund card, fit and ready. Both will loaf to-day and come to New York for the first major engagement of the open-air season to-morrow.

The match, one of the few free-swinging heavyweight affairs that have been scheduled over the long routes in recent years, is the first step in clearing up the muddled situation left by Tunney's' rettirement. The winner will meet Jack Sharkey, the Boston sailor, here in September in which may be considered a title go unless Jack Dempsey returns for another fling at his old crown.

The consensus of opinion indicates that the match will not go the fifteen round limit. The chief question seems to be Schmeling's ability to absorb body punishment—something as yet untested — for there seems to be no question but that the sturdy, courageous Basque will bring to light any weakness that may lurk in the Teuton's' armor.

APPEARS AT DANCE.

Miss Patsy Hanahan, who will appear at the feature dance on July 3rd. Miss Hanahan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hanahan, well known in local musical circles. Miss Hanahan is a clever young dancer who has just recently won distinction and who was trained by the star Russian dancer Rulinoff.

MANY QUERIES FROM TOURISTS

More Visitors Are Expected This Year Than On Any Former.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Greater tourist activity this year than ever, is indicated by the heavy correspondence being received at the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. Many letters of inquiry are coming in every day. Most of them are requests for route information and maps but a surprising number ask for definite information on cottages to rent.

The letters are coming from many different sections of the United States and Canada. In the United States Ohio leads in the number of inquires with New York and Pennsylvania close seconds. Various localities in Canada especially Ontario, are well represented. In Ohio many originate in Cleveland but also they come from smaller towns and cities throughout the state.

Often the inquirers state that they were induced to write by the Trent Waterway Exhibit in the New York Motor Boat Show. This goes to prove the importance of these displays to the district. On the other hand, some were induced by information and suggestions they have received at motor clubs and other associations throughout the county that have been supplied with information by the Peterborough Chamber.

Iroquois Trail.

It is indicated by the mail that the publicity concerning the Iroquois Trail booklet mainly, but also ask for other information of a divers nature. Some of these letters evidence a sad lack of knowledge concerning the geography of this section of the world. One writer state his intention of cruising up the Richelieu River to Georgian Bay or the Saguenay, and in the past, letters have arrived which indicated the belief of the writers that Buffalo, N.Y., is about the last outpost of civilization on the north. These missives expressed doubt as to the existence of even the occasional general store at a point as far north as this.

The attraction for many proves to be the possibilities of water travel for they request information about our waters that would apply to all kinds of craft from canoes up to the largest cabin cruisers. They want the specifications of the locks, canal regulations and other pertinent data. Fishing is the subject of many a letter also. However an occasional one comes in that indicates the firm intention of the vacationist to enjoy all the conveniences of life while 'roughing it". This type of person stipulates his desire for a real golf course and a tennis court, yet at the same time expresses his desire to be in the heart of the wilderness.

Salient Points of Bidding.

Auction: Following three passes, East, with five or more Quick Tricks in four suits, bids a No Trump. South passing, West also passes, having no distributional or other reason for disturbing the No Trump bid. North passes, concluding the bidding.

Contract: East's holding in both Quick and Probable Tricks and their distribution warrants an opening two bid, preferably that of No Trump, as he holds all four suits stopped, of which three are doubly stopped. South passing, West responds with three Clubs, showing two Probable Tricks, which may be high-card or long-card tricks, in this instance a combination of the two. East then goes to three No Trumps.

The Play.

South opens the 6 of Spades. East winning, leads the Queen of Clubs and covers it with Dummy's King to lead a Diamond for a finesse if the trick holds. North, holding up the Ace of Clubs, Declarer leads a Diamond from Dummy and successfully finesses the Jack. He then leads another Club to establish the suit or else, winning in Dummy, to take a second Diamond finesse. This time North cannot afford to hold off, because Declarer may have no more Clubs, in which case failure to take the trick would result in a present of it to the Declarer. On the other hand should Declarer hold a third Club, his gain through the establishment of the Club suit could be partially offset by the establishment of Spades before Diamonds. Subsequent play showed that North adopted the only possible method to save game, and that its failure was due to Declarer's holding three Clubs.

North, upon winning with the Ace of Clubs, leads a Spade. Declarer, winning, puts Dummy in with a Club and makes Dummy's three Club tricks, discarding his own two losing Hearts. Then taking a second Diafinesse, he wins with the Queen, plays his Ace of Diamonds and Ace of Hearts and concedes the last two tricks, scoring four-odd at No Trump.

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN ON JULY 8

Appointments Are Made For Supervision of City Playgrounds.

J. ABRAHAM IN CHARGE.

Again this summer the city's school children during the holidays will be able to enjoy supervised play and sport under ideal conditions at the school playgrounds. The playgrounds will open on Monday, July 8, and will continue for six full weeks until August 17.

The children, as in former years, will be trained and amused in wholesome outdoor sports. The girls will be taught sewing and fancy-work and good stories will be read. The boys will be trained in baseball and other group games. On certain days the children will be taken to the bathing beach where they may disport in the water under careful supervision, and those who desire will be taught swimming.

There will be two playgrounds located at Central School, over which Miss M. Cox and Hedley Vickers will be supervisors, and at King Edward School, where Miss M. Bulmer and Alex. Rogow will be in charge. The general supervisor will be Mr. James Abraham, who has long experience in this work.

The playgrounds are maintained by the Board of Education with a view of keeping the children engaged in clean outdoor activities under supervision, and not having them on the street, endangering their lives and getting into mischief.

RECEPTION IS PLANNED FOR MR. AND MRS. GLIDDON

Twenty-fifth Birthday of Conservatory Will Be Celebrated On Tuesday.

The reception which is being tendered Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Gliddon on Tuesday afternoon in recognition of their twenty-five years work for the advancement of music in Peterborough and in celebration of the twenty-fifth birthday of the Conservatory, promises to be a delightful affair.

Letters are coming in from pupils and teachers of former years, many of whom will be present. Duncan Walker is to preside over the program portion of the proceedings when in addition to singing and playing of The Madrigal Singers and the Symphony Orchestra, short congratulatory speeches will be delivered by His Worship the Mayor, His Honor Judge Huycke, E. A. Peck, M.P., and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C. Charles Peaker, Mus. Bac. F.R.C.O. of Toronto, will say a few words on behalf of former teachers and Dr. Park on behalf of the orchestra members. Sir Joseph Flavelle, President of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, also hopes to be present and take part in the proceedings.

DO YOU WANT A REAL HOME IN PETERBORO?

My client has for sale a very beautiful Old Colonial style house in Peterborough, the reason being that his business has taken him away from the city. It is a comparatively new house, situated in one of the leading residential districts. This is not merely a dwelling, but a real home.

The lot is 50 feet wide and 120 feet deep to a lane with a right-of-way. The grounds are in first-class condition, some hundreds of dollars having been spent on lawns, shrubs and perennials. The house itself is nearly forty feet wide. There is an entrance hall with a tiled floor and marble trim. The living-room, which is about 25 feet long, is trimmed in oak and has a very handsome open fireplace. The dining-room is of ample proportions, and decorated in a dignified manner. The kitchen is thoroughly modern and with lots of windows and cupboard spaces. It is fitted with an electric range. All fixtures are of the most modern type.

On the second floor, there are three bedrooms and a sewing-room, all with more than ample clothes closets; also marble trimmed bathroom with built-in bath and pedestal basin. On the next floor there is a large library (or den) with an electric magicoal grate, and a store-room.

The floors are hardwood throughout. There is a good basement, with stationary laundry tubs and an electric water heater. The entire house is equipped with handsome electric fixtures, blinds and curtains. The house is also furnished, and if desired a satisfactory deal would be made for the furnishings or such part of them as a buyer might wish to have.

The property could be sold for cash, free and clear of all encumbrances. It is beautiful, and the situation is ideal. It cost a lot of money to build. On the other hand, my client knows that when you have to sell a house you cannot get as good a price for it as you can if someone comes along and wants to buy it. He is therefore prepared to make a considerable sacrifice in the sale of this home, and if a prospective buyer will pay all cash the price will be that much better.

If there is anyone in Peterborough who wants to secure what literally is a wonderful bargain, this is it.

If you are interested, write to me and I will send your letter on to my client. I am not a real estate agent, and there is no commission either way. You will deal directly with my client, not with me. Address in confidence:

Peterborough,

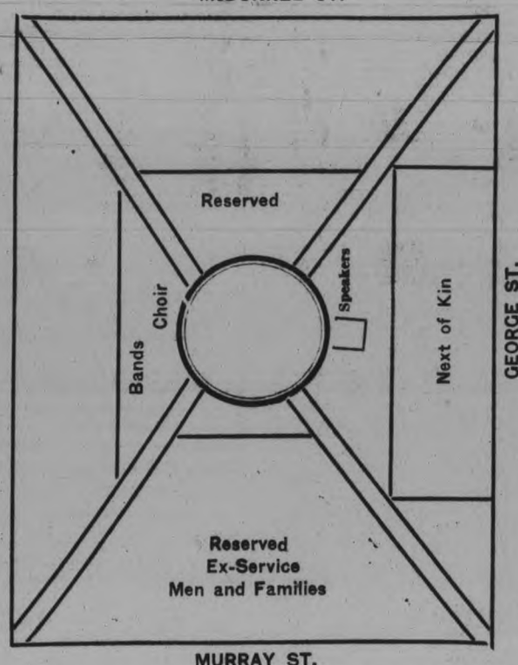
Plan of Confederation Square for Unveiling Ceremony, Sunday, June 30th



The above is a rough plan of the arrangements that have been made for those who are to be taken care of in Confederation Square for the unveiling of the memorial on Sunday next. After the next-of-kin, the ex-service men and families and the military units have been taken care of, there is a very great deal of room for the general public, and with the installation of the loud speakers, every one present on this occasion should hear the ceremony. The committee in charge of these arrangements, through Col. C. H. Ackerman, chairman, has submitted the following which will be carried out: Ex-service men will parade at 1.45 p.m. from Aylmer Street, between Charlotte and King Streets, to be inspected by Colonel the Rev. Canon Scott. Dress, mufti with medals. Headed by the band of the Toronto Scottish, the parade will proceed to Confederation Park and will occupy a section, specially reserved. The next-of-kin will occupy a reserved section immediately in front of the Memorial, and admission to this enclosure will be by ticket only, and it is requested that written or personal application for these cards be made to the Chamber of Commerce at once. See page 14 for definition of next-of-kin.

STREET RAILWAY MEN THREATENING TO STRIKE

London Officials Refuse To Acknowledge Award of Ontario Railway Board.

LONDON, Ont., June 26.—(C.P.)—Failure of the London Street Railway Company to pay the two-cent-an-hour wage advance ordered by the Ontario Railway Board in an arbitration award, threatens to end in a strike to tie-up the city's transportation system. President John Colbert of the Union announced yesterday that the men are determined to enforce the award and that to this end a meeting of the Union has been called for to-day to take a strike vote.

Meanwhile the city council is formally notifying the company that it will not permit the abandonment of Central avenue and Wellington south car lines and the substitution of buses as the company plans for July 1. The city regards the company's move as an endeavor to forestall the city's plan intended to bring about an early settlement of the whole transportation problem.

For Land Settlement

J. F. WESTON, Vice-President of the Colonization Finance Corporation of Canada Ltd. and Managing-Director of the Imperial Life Insurance Company. The Colonization Finance Corporation has entered into an important agreement with the Canada Colonization Association for the settlement of privately owned lands, says the Department of Colonization and Development, Canadian Pacific Railway.

TO PARADISE IN FOUR HOURS

Did you ever realize that a veritable outdoor paradise can be reached in the same time it would take a person to walk across the city? Four hours comfortable travelling and one is transported from the dust and heat of the city to the cool woods and sparkling waters of the Muskoka Lakes.
There are no dull hours on a Muskoka vacation. Bathing in the soft waters of the lakes, canoeing, sailing, motor boating, golfing, tennis, fishing and steamboat excursions, provide something new for each day. One may indulge in all the festivities of gay social life or enjoy the restful calm of hidden bays and coves, bordered by sweet scented pine woods.
Don't miss the opportunity of visiting one of the most highly developed resort districts in Ontario with its bracing summer climate and wealth of opportunity for recreation.
Ask any Canadian Pacific agent for the well illustrated and descriptive booklet on the Muskoka lakes; it will be of infinite help in choosing the place to spend your vacation.

The British Nautical Almanac was first prepared in 1767 by the Astronomer Royal, Dr. Maskelyne.

DECORATED BICYCLES OFFERED PRIZES

Will Be in the Parade in Large Numbers.

At the request of numbers of bicycle riders who are going to a good deal of trouble to decorate their wheels, it has been suggested that prizes be offered for the first three best decorated bicycles, as follows:
First prize—$5.00.
Second prize—$3.00.
Third prize—$2.00.
This has been agreed to, so boys now get busy and make the best job you can of your bicycles.

Wedding Bells

ODETTE—CONWAY

The marriage was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning, by the Rev. K. Corkery of Marjorie Kathleen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Conway, and Peter Albert Odette.
The bride wore a lovely ensemble of yellow georgette with hat, shoes and hose to match.
The bridesmaid, Miss Mildred Conway, was in rose beige georgette trimmed with lace.
Mr. Bernard Jones acted as best man.
Later, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents at 346 Water street and a large number of friends were also invited for an evening celebration, with supper followed by dancing until midnight, when a delicious lunch was served.
The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a pearl rosary and the bridesmaid was given a white gold necklet with amber pendant.
Mr. and Mrs. Odette will live in Peterborough.

IN MEMORIAM.

STEENBURGH. — In memory of George Steenburgh, who died in the Nicholls Hospital, June 14, 1928:
Just to show he is remembered,
Greatly missed and loved as well,
How our hearts are filled with mourning,
Only those who mourn can tell.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow;
Memory keeps him ever near us,
Though he died one year ago.
No one knows how much we miss him,
Friends may think the wound has healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That's within our hearts concealed.
Yet again we hope to meet him
When the days of life are fled,
And in heaven with joy we greet him,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

INCREASED EMPLOYMENT.

Old Home Week has penetrated everyhere in the city, even at the employment office there is an increased demand for help. The Lottridge Shows want twenty-five girls for dining room and kitchen work. This carnival is contemplating on erecting a huge dining tent to help feed the hundreds that will be in the city.
Help of this kind seems difficult to get at such a time as there will be so many visitors in the homes where people who would want this work at any other time cannot get away to accept such an opening.
Twenty-five laborers are also wanted for the shows during this week.
The waiting list at the employment office is comparatively small, there being approximately forty or forty-five men who have their applications on record.
The demand for farm labor is still slack while the trade demands are a little stronger. A stone mason who will be paid $1.25 an hour is wanted, as well as a textile color designer, a man about 45 years of age, who is capable of creating designs and arranging color schemes. Female machine operators are also in demand.

BENCHES IN PARK.

Benches have at last appeared in Confederation Park. They are of a very artistic type with concrete sides and the slat type seat and back, and by the number that have taken advantage of them seem to be of a very restful nature. After much wise cracking and notes in the "Voice of the People," the benches have at last shown up and now that they have they are a real credit to the Parks committee.

MAN PLACES DECORATED.

The color scheme so far as the decoration of George street is concerned is all to the advantage of the west side, but the east side will, as it always has, do its share to lend plenty of color for Old Home Week.
It costs but little to decorate and adds a gerat deal to the appearance of the city and creates an enthusiasm that will be felt throughout the week.

ODDFELLOWS' ARCH UP

The arcn built by the Independent Order of Oddfellows has been placed at the main entrance to the city at the extreme west end of Charlotte street to welcome the home-coming motorists.

FAMOUS BAND LEADER

Gene Fogarty, who is leader of the orchestra playing this week at Chemong, has had a great deal of experience in this line before organizing his present band a year ago. He has played in and directed some of America's leading dance orchestras and has had engagements at some of the leading dance places on the continent.
The Ace Brigade, Bernie Cummings, both Victor recording dance bands were two which were under his direction. He has also directed orchestras at the Walton Roof Garden, Walton Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa.; Monte Carlo Club, New York City; Belvidere Hotel, Miami, Florida; The Joyland, in Buffalo, and came to Peterborough direct from a two months' engagement at Jacksonville Beach, Jacksonville, Florida.

REGIMENT COMING HERE

The Lindsay regiment is preparing to come here 150 strong. The Lindsay Post says: "Two parades of the Victoria and Haliburton regiment will be held this week for the organization of the unit which will go to Peterborough for the three days on the week-end of July 1. Already a few parades have been held and about 140 men have signed up to take in the holiday at Peterborough. The parades are being held on Tuesday and Friday nights in the armouries."

AID TO STRAWBERRY CROP

Farmers state that the rain of yesterday was worth a lot of money to the strawberry crop which was sadly in need of moisture during the recent hot dry spell. Other garden stuff also benefitted by the downpour.

CITY BUS STRANDED

One of the busses of the Peterborough Bus Lines ran out of gas at the corner of Hunter and George streets, the other day and stranded itself half way across the intersection. An S.O.S. call was sent to the bus terminal, not [illegible] and a mechinic soon arrived on the scene and "filled her up" and "away she went," as one witness explains the instance.

KNIGHTS TO ERECT ARCH

The Knights of Columbus are busily preparing for the erection of the arch which will stretch across from their club rooms on Simcoe street to the opposite side of the way. They have gathered a great quantity of cedar and fir boughs on their lawn and soon the arch will be up and ready to welcome incoming visitors for Old Home Week. The insignia of the K. of C. will be emblazoned in colored letters on the front of the arch. Grand Knight McKinnon is in charge of the arrangements.

CAUGHT BIG PICKEREL

Louis Anthony was proudly exhibiting a 7¾ lb. pickerel on Saturday night which he caught in the Otonabee just behind the Packing Company plant.
It looked to be the prize pickerel of the season.

WESTERN CLOCK CLOSES SATURDAY

Plant Will Undergo Repairs During Annual Two Weeks Vacation.

The Western Clock Company, manufacturers of Westclox, closes on Saturday for its annual two weeks' holidays. All those who have been employed with the company for a period of five years have one week's holiday with pay.
During the period of closing some repairs and alterations will be going on to the building and plant, so that it is not possible for it to be open for visitors.

HOME COMERS MAY REGISTER AND SAVE TIME

A Large Number of Old Boys and Girls Now in the City.

As there are numbers of old boys and girls already in the city and the official registration booth does not open until Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, it has been arranged that any who desire may register Thursday and Friday at Mr. Dobbin's office in the City Buildings, thereby saving some time and possibly congestion.

by car from Autlan to Guadalajara, capital of the State of Jalisco, to tell his plight to Percy Holmes, British vice-consul there. The latter took the matter up with the British Minister in Mexico, who made representations to the Mexican federal authorities and secured eventually Kingsford's release and pardon.
The three charges against him, first, of obstructing operations of State, second of exaggerating claims for a uniform and thir exaggerating claims over war medals, both the latter taken by Maraudos, were all laid by the local authorities of Jalisco.
"I was foolish" said Major Kingsford, as a man who has learnt a lesson.

Cannot Return

"You cannot," I asked, "go back to Jalisco for your stuff."
"I haven't much to go for," said Major Kingsford.
It was in 1922 that Major Kingsford came down to Mexico to try ranching after having had a post war shot at Ontario farming, which he implied, had not been much of a success. He took up this Hacienda in Jalisco, which belonged to an Englishman, Bertie Johnson, with an area of 145,000 acres. It was in jungle hill country and was called the Hacienda Alcihuatl a beautiful possession on the tall slopes of the lower Rockies. On it were 2,000 or 3,000 head of cattle, which were much harassed by leopards.
Major Kingsford moved into Autlan and in 1927 he married, renting a house. He was the only English speaking person there, the only Britisher. He almost forgot how to speak English as he said repeatedly to-day when he struggled momentarily for a word.
In 1928 he was captured and taken away from his Autlan home for five days as far as Purificacion. His wife hid and escaped, but he and three natives of Aultan were taken off. The price of his release was set at 5,000 pesos, it was cut to 200 pesos and he finally paid 100, or roughly $50.

China is about six times as large as the state of Texas.

COMPLETES FIRST LAP OF FLIGHT

DERBY, Northwest Australia, June 26. — (Canadian Press).— Captain Charles Kingsford Smith in his plane, the Southern Cross, landed here at 10:30 a.m., local time after a non-stop journey across the Australian continent from Sydney. They had perfect flying weather, although there was extreme cold.
The flight was intended as the first lap of a Sydney to England flight, a previous attempt at which ended in a forced landing and abandonment near the Port George Mission.

In Police Court

In the absence of Magistrate O. A. Langley at Police Court this morning, Justice of the Peace Frank Adams conducted the routine proceedings. E. R. Hummel was fined $5 and $4.75 costs for speeding on Charlotte street, and Miss Laura Reid was fined the same amount for speeding. A. Northey failed to appear to answer his summons for speeding and his case was adjourned for one week.

Vol. 1, No. 14 Peterboro Wednesday, June 26, 1929

Watch for the "News" each week. Suggestions and news items invited.
W. Burns, Editor.

The longest day has passed. Soon the days will be as short as the man looking for money in an old discarded vest.

A spring-trip hitch on a tractor plow is like an insurance policy. They both protect you against loss. The hitch on the McCormick - Deering No. 8 Little Genius is a spring-trip type and it comes as regular equipment. Many plows do not come equipped with this essential device. The spring-trip will protect you against damage to the beams or bottoms should a hidden root or stone be encountered.

A strong well-built McCormick - Deering Field Cultivator equipped with special quack grass points will work wonders with cleaning out your quack infested fields.

You shouldn't kick about being a little "under the weather" when this old earth of ours has been that way since the beginning.

How are you fixed for grinding your mower knives? We can offer you a simple McCormick - Deering Knife Grinder which fastens onto the mower wheel or bench and grinds the knives rapidly and uniformly. The grinding stone is shaped to grind two surfaces at once. Ask us to show you one of these grinders.

Summer fallow the quick and efficient way with a McCormick-Deering Tractor and Plow. Combination rolling colters and jointers bury the weeds and trash.

The only time a groom attracts much attention at a wedding is when he fails to appear.

HON. R. B. BENNETT VISITS CAMPBELLFORD

ESKIMO YOUTHS ARE RETURNING TO HOME LAND

Boys, Unable To Stand Change in Climate, Are Retreating North.

MADE RAPID PROGRESS.

Since Christmas Boys Have Passed Through Great Deal of Sickness.

Climate—that unfeeling enemy to progress which has taken so many lives in the advancement of civilization—has won another battle and has forced two little Eskimo invaders who ventured from their environment in the silent north to retreat, broken in health but not in spirit.

Ben and Sam, sons of the land of the midnight sun, who came a year ago to Lakefield to learn the white man's ways, so they could return to their native land and give their knowledge to their fellow-countrymen, have not been able to stand the change in climate and will soon return to the land in which they were born.

An Eskimo chieftain some two years ago asked the head of the missionaries to send his son to Canada, where he could acquire knowledge to meet the white man on his own ground so in the fall of last year, Ben, the nine-year-old son of Chief John Ell, head of the Southampton Eskimos, accompanied by Sam Pudlutt, of the same age, were brought down from the Arctic wastes by the Rev. F. H. Gibbs, a returning missionary, and placed in Grove School at Lakefield.

Made Rapid Progress.

These little lads knew no English, but soon picked up a few words, and were very intelligent as well as being good sports, which made them friends with all their school-mates and were the general favorites in the school.

Just before Christmas, both Ben and Sam were taken ill and had to suspend their studies for some time. Disease after disease ravaged their little bodies. Influenza, pneumonia, measles, tonsilitis, mastoids and adenoids all took their grip on these unacclimatized Eskimos until it became apparent that the only outcome of this experiment would result in the way that every other similar one has, in death.

Leave July 16.

So on July 16, Ben and Sam will sail homeward from Montreal on the Hudson Bay Company's ice-breaker, the "Nascopie." These two little Eskimo lads will be in charge of returning missionaries. Instead of being happy at the news of their returning home, they are depressed as they hate to leave their new playmates at the school, as little Ben said, "Me no want to go home—leave all school and boys—too code (cold) in Eskimo."

In St. Joseph's Hospital.

Ben is at present in St. Joseph's Hospital, recovering from a second attack of mastoids. He has been there since June 10, when he had his tonsils and adenoids out, after which he developed further complications.

Little Ben is quite a checker fan, which he revealed by beating The Examiner in two straight games at the hospital when the reporter visited him this morning. He has mastered the white man's game, and is also an ardent fan at rummy, playing a canny hand. He said that he learned to play checkers in Lakefield. The Examiner asked, "Do you want to go home?"—"No," replied Ben, "too code (cold) and no friends.", "Don't you want to see your father?"—"No. Too code," was the answer. Ben had a picture of himself that appeared in a Toronto paper, which he pointed to with chuckles, and said, "Sam—Ben.."

There was also the picture of a man in a fur Eskimo outfit. "Have you one of those home?" The Examiner asked. "No, Lakefield," was the reply. "What are they?"—"Doukas, nice and warm." "Is your father at home?" he was asked. Sam replied, "Yes, mother, a brother and a sister."

Enjoys His Dinner.

It was dinner time and the nurse brought Sam his food. "What is that?" he was asked—"Egg," he answered. "Have you any of those in Eskimo land?"—"Sure, but they fly."

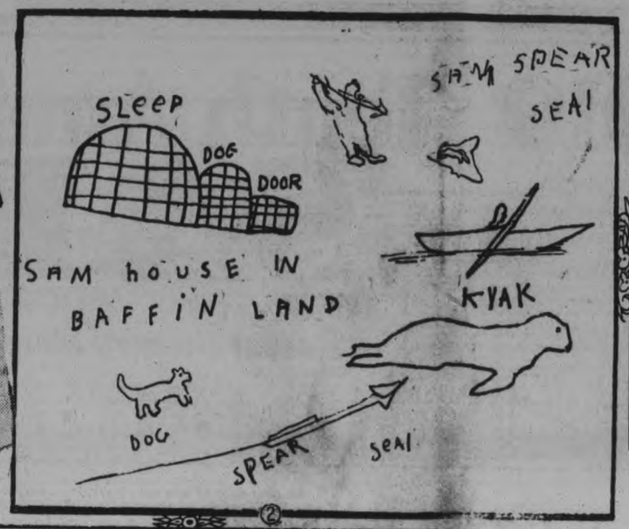
Attempt to Bring Up Eskimo Boys at Lakefield School Fails



WHITE MAN'S DISEASE DRIVES BEN AND SAM NORTH

An experiment to educate two nine-year-old Eskimo boys at the Lakefield Preparatory school, Lakefield, Ont., has failed. The pair were brought down from the Arctic last fall and proved to be exceptionally intelligent, good humored and obedient students. Soon after their arrival they developed influenza, which was followed by pneumonia, measles, tonsilitis and mastoid trouble. The opinion is that unless they are returned to the Arctic immediately they may die. They sail from Montreal on a Hudson Bay Co. ice-breaker July 16. The layout shows: (1) Ben Aullanak, son of the chief of Southampton Island, in his caribou parka. (2) drawings of home life executed by Sam Pudlutt, Lake Harbor, Baffin Land. (3) Ben and Sam in the white man's garb, and (4) a map showing the path the ice-breaker, "Nascopie" which makes only one trip a year, will take to deliver Ben and Sam to their respective homes in the Arctic.

Labor Minister Intends Studying Employment Conditions in Dominion.

BRITISH FINANCIAL AID.

LONDON, June 27.— (By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.) — Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Minister in charge of employment, intends to visit Canada within a few weeks to investigate the question of immigration from Great Britain at first hand, it is learned from authoritative sources to-day.

Mr. Thomas, who is officially Lord Privy Seal in the new Labor administration, but is devoting his energies to reducing unemployment, will also make personal enquiries concerning the possibility of some common agreement between the Mother Country and other parts of the Empire under which the development of works of inter-Imperial necessity would be undertaken by the Dominions with financial aid from Britain, with the object also of providing an outlet for the surplus of British labor.

SEEKS GENERAL UNITY.

It is understood that at a recent meeting of the cabinet Mr. Thomas produced proposals for an enquiry into the possibility of large works of general utility and development which might desirably be undertaken in any part of the Empire, including the Dominions as well as crown colonies. According to the scheme the Dominions will be asked to what extent they are prepared to guarantee employment of British labor and manufacturers in such works if the British government offers certain financial inducements and enquiries on the matter were to reach the Dominions immediately, it was believed.

Mr. Thomas made a brief visit to Montreal last year on private affairs, and to attend the wedding of his son in the Canadian City.

When the previous Labor Administration held office for a few months in 1923-24, Mr. Thomas was the Colonial Secretary—the office is now termed the secretaryship for the Dominions and Colonies—and in that capacity naturally gained closer connection with Empire affairs in general.

Starting as an engine cleaner, Mr. Thomas became general secretary of the National union of Railwaymen. He has represented Derby, a two-seat constituency and great railroad centre, since 1910, as Labor member of Parliament, and is a former president of the International Federation of Labor Unions.

WINE GROWERS ASK PROTECTION

Resolution Asks For Increase in the French Tariff On Agricultural Products.

STOP PLANTING VINES.

PARIS, June 27 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The French wine-growers want a higher tariff. The wartime curtailment of wine exports and prohibition first hit them, and the world demand is apparently not what it was. The production so greatly threatened to exceed the demand that recently it was proposed to impose a penalty upon anyone planting vines where there were none before.

Now the Confederation Generale des Vignerons, meeting at Montpelie, has passed a resolution favoring increased tariff protection for the growers of wine grapes. The resolution would also have the French tariff on agricultural products raised sufficiently to enable the French producer to defend himself against the importation of similar products from abroad.

DANNY SIMONS ON PROGRAM

Well Known Peterborough Vaudeville Star To Perform During Old Home Week.

AT EXHIBITION PARK.

Danny Simons, for many years popular in vaudeville and on the legitimate stage, is back for Old Home Week and is on the vaudeville program Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Exhibition grounds in a number of dances, one of which will be Essence of Old Virginia, the first reel he ever danced before the public and was on a program given in Bradburn's Old Opera House, the music on this occasion as well as the previous one suplied by F. Clarke.

CUSTOMS MEN SEIZE BOATS

132 Cases of Beer "Knocked Off" in Early Morning Raid.

FIVE ARRESTED.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 27 (C.P.).—The personnel of the Amherstburg rum fleet was reduced by five at 3.30 o'clock this morning, when the quintet with three row boats containing 152 cases of beer were "knocked off" as they attempted to run past the American Customs border patrol near the foot of Westfield street Ecorse.

The men who were nabbed without the discharge of artillery were all Ecohse residents: Lewis A. Riley, Dick Cox, John Stewart, James Maguire and Phillip Mammause. They are to be arraigned before United States Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd, at Detroit.

An automobile containing 19 cases of assorted liquor and 10 kegs of whiskey malt was seized by the border patrol of Jefferson Beach at Grosse Pointe early to-day. The runners escaped.

SOUTHERN CROSS LEAVES DERBY FOR SINGAPORE

Captain Kingsford Smith and Companions Attempting to Break Australia to England Flight Record.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., June 27 (Canadian Press). — Captain Charles Kingsford Smith and his three companions, took off in the Southern Cross from Derby, Western Australia today for Singapore, Straits Settlement, en route to England. The distance is about 1,650 miles, over the Indian Ocean, Java, and the Java Sea.

The Southern Cross left here on Tuesday, completing the first lap of its flight to Derby on Wednesday. It was hoped to better Bert Hinkler's record of 15 days.

MUST SUPPLY NAMES.

Next-of-kin are again reminded that they must furnish names to the Chamber of Commerce at corner of George and Simcoe Streets if they wish to be admitted to seat at the unveiling of the War Memorial on Sunday. Entrance will only be by ticket.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT SUGGESTS LAUSANNE FOR CONFERENCE

Belgian Cabinet Has Officially Accepted London As Seat of Meeting.

IMPORTANT GATHERING

Young Reparation Plan Will Then Be Put Into Effect.

PARIS, June 27 (C.P.—The French Government will probably suggest Lausanne, Switzerland, as a "neutral ground" for the coming political conference of the nations concerned which is to be called to put the Young plan into effect.

Premier Poincare, it is understood, favors the first week of August.

A Cabinet meeting to discuss the matter was held to-day.

LONDON, June 27 (C.P.).—A Reuter's dispatch from Brussels says that the Belgian government has officially accepted London as the seat of the conference which is to discuss the reparations experts' report.

The British Government is understood to favor London as the conference place, particularly as it would be difficult for members of the new Laborite Cabinet to leave London during the next month or two because of the newness of the government and the present session of Parliament.

Advices from Berlin indicate that the Germans also would be willing to come to London and would not be in favor of Lausanne, preferring Geneva if the meeting is to be held in Switzerland.

ARMY TO WELCOME NEW COMMANDERS

Two Women Will Be in Charge of Local Salvation Army.

This evening in the Salvation Army Temple, an official welcome meeting will be held to greet the new officials in charge of the Army work in the city. For the first time in eighteen years, when the corps here was in charge of a woman, Brigadier McNamara, there will be women in charge of the Salvation Army Temple in the persons of (Miss) Adjutant Winnie Jones and (Miss) Captain Feltham. The former has been connected with Army work for more than twelve years, and the latter for the past six years. Both have been in charge recently of the Dovercourt Corps in Toronto, and have also had command of a number of important charges in Canada East Territory, including Hamilton.

Adjutant Jones was a member of a delegation which went to Sunbury, England, two years ago, in company with twenty two other Canadian officers, including Ensign Green, for a special course in Salvation Army training work.

Adjutant Jones and Captain Feltham will reside at the Salvation Army home at 515 King street.

The welcome to them this evening will take the form of addresses from various local departmental leaders, and a program of music by the band and the Senior and Junior Songsters.

Ensign Green has received an appointment to the Finance Department at Territorial headquarters in Toronto.

CONSERVATIVE CHIEFTAIN

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative Leader, who last night spoke to a big audience in Davidson's Arena, Campbellford.

Committee Urges Laying In Supply Of Victuals

As there is every indication of crowded city during Old Home Week I am hopeful that all restaurants, hotels, storekeepers or business people in any way supplying food to the public will lay in an ample supply of staple food-stuffs as well as soft drinks and other light refreshment.

The worst thing that could happen would be if we were to have several hundred people in the city at any time during Old Home Week and not be able to provide food for them.

The Accommodations Committee has given the food situation careful study and everything points to the city being able to feed its visitors provided, of course, that all people catering to the public equip themselves plentifully.

The Committee is most anxious to hear from any and all citizens who will have vacant rooms in their homes during Old Home Week. Whilst revenue from the rent of rooms is not an important consideration with the householders it should reimburse them for the slight expense incident to having visitors in the homes and we would urge at this time that we be notified of vacant rooms. The charges for accommodation in homes range from $1.00 per person per night to $1.50 and very often breakfast is included in this price. In advising of vacant rooms citizens are asked to please address the Accommodations Committee, Chamber of Commerce, Peterborough.

Co-operation as above, which is necessary if as a city we are to put the Old Home Week over in fine style, will be especially appreciated at this time.

James Dutton, Chairman, Accommodations and Registrations Committee.

Restricted Trade Agreements Throughout the Empire Rather Than Preferential Tariffs Are Best Means of Promoting Trade, Hon. R. B. Bennett States.

ADVOCATES CAREFUL STUDY OF RESOURCES OF EMPIRE TO DETERMINE WHAT COUNTRIES EXPORT

Promises To Call Economic Conference of All Parts of Empire To Meet in Ottawa To Discuss Inter-Empire Trade If Returned To Power.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., June 26. (By Frank Flaherty, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.) — Restricted trade agreements throughout the Empire rather than Preferential Trade Tariffs, are the best means of promoting inter-Empire trade, for through them the exchange of products between the British nations would be increased, and no damage need be done to any established native industry. This was what Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader told meetings in Belleville and Campbellford yesterday.

Mr. Bennett elaborated his ideas on Empire trade somewhat more than he has yet done in the course of his Ontario tour.

He advocated a careful study of the resources of the Empire to determine what each country produces for export and what each is required to import. This, he said, could be done through the medium of an economic conference of the Empire, and if he is placed in power after the next election one of the first acts of his government will be to summon such a conference to meet in Canada.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 27 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Adherents to Liberal and Conservative parties and not a few Americans, summer tourists, crowded Davidson's Arena last night to hear the address given by the Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., M.P., leader of the Conservative party in Ottawa. After he had concluded his remarks, there was no room for doubting the fact that he stood for protective tariff for Canada and Empire trade. He wanted the Canadian industries to thrive and was in favor of protecting them in order that they might do so. He did not come to solicit votes, he said, but to lay the facts before the people so they might think over the situation and when the next opportunity came for them to go to the polls, they would be able to vote conscientiously in the best interests of their country.

There were few frills connected with the civic reception accorded the great politician. Arriving in town via the Brighton road, about eight o'clock, he was met by the band and a host of citizens in motor cars. The parade formed at the intersection of the C.N.R. tracks and Grab road and proceeded from there to Davidson's Arena, a distance of about one mile. The procession was headed by a motor car carrying the mayor and other civic officials. The regimental band was next, followed immediately by the car in which the Hon. R. B. Bennett was riding. Cheers and motor horns blared their greetings. At the rink, three large amplifiers were arranged to carry the speeches to every corner of the great auditoium. The platform was erected at the East end and was decorated with red, white and blue, arranged so that the speaker stood under a wide arch of the same colors. The ring was not filled to capacity, but it was easily the largest crowd that has ever graced its interior.

The Platform

Members of parliament, wardens of counties, mayors and reeves of towns and reeves of townships, together with women prominent in the work of the party, constituted the large group on the platform. Among them noticed: M. E. Maybee, M.P., and Mrs. Maybee; Fred Bowen, M.P., W. E. Tummon, M.P.; Sam Nesbitt, ex-M.P.P., and Mrs. Nesbitt; Major the Rev. J. F. B. Belfourd, ex-M.P.P.; Col. F. D. Boggs, K.C., Cobourg; Reeve Willmott, Cobourg; Mayor Davidson; Ex-Mayor Kingston; Reeve Vanvolkenburg, Seymour; John Sexsmith, ex-M.P.; Dr. Hess, Hastings; Fred Dinwoodie; John Horsman; William Baker, Warkworth; William Styles, Rawdon; Mrs. A. Haig; Mrs. A. T. Linton; Miss Dorothy Linton; Mrs. A. Kingston; Mrs. C. H. Davidson; Miss Bibby, Toronto; Miss Wilson, Toronto; Mrs. Gartshore, Brighton; W. J. Armstrong; N. Alex MacColl; Robert Lowery; Mrs. W. H. Ashton, and others.

Address of Welcome

As usual, Mayor Davidson,s remarks were brief and to the point. He did not intend to take up much time, he said, since the people had come to hear Mr. Bennet, and not himself.

Welcomed By Mayor.

It was with great pleasure on behalf of the citizens of Campbellford that he brought most cordial greetings and a civic welcome to the Hon. Mr. Bennett, as the town's distinguished guest, and the leader of the Conservative party, Mayor Davidson said in welcoming the speaker. The town of Campbellford is honored by your visit. The people of the municipality throw wide open to you the gates of the town and they treat you as their honored guest. Regardless of what party affiliation they may be, the people of the town stand together as one solid community in welcome to you. They are prompted by a sincere friendliness and goodwill, recognizing you as a great Conservative with a message for Canadian people. May I conclude in again welcoming you here to-night.

Sealing his address with a handshake with the Hon. Mr. Bennett, the Mayor turned the meeting over to the chairman of the evening, ex-Mayor G. A. Kingston.

Ex-Mayor Kingston.

I deem it a pleasant duty and an honor to welcome to our town and vicinity the distinguished guest of the evening, the Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., M.P., leader of the Conservative party of the Parliament of Canada. Our honorable and honored guest in one sense represents the whole of the Canadian people, and in reality is the representative of half a nation. According to the will of the people as expressed in 1926, the Hon. Mr. Bennett represents about 50 per cent. of the citizenship of Canada, and his Conservative friends are hoping that when the people again have the opportunity of expressing themselves, that he will not only be acclaimed by a majority of the people, but by a majority of the constituencies of the country. Let me here assure the Hon. Mr. Bennett of a very cordial welcome to Campbellford and the good old county of Northumberland.

One is impressed, in looking over the history of Canada, at the exceedingly large place, in proportion to their population, that the native sons of the provinces down by the sea, on both sides of politics, have played in the affairs of this country. One has only to mention such men as Joseph Howe, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir John Thompson, Sir George Foster, and that great statesman so lately deceased, the late Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding.

We in this central province of Ontario, a province rich in resources of all kinds, a province populated mostly by descendants of British stock whose heart throbs in unison with that great Mother Heart beyond the seas, knowing something of your achievements and of your policies in connection with Government of this great, growing nation, welcome you as an exponent of our highest political ideals. Born in the Maritimes, your life has been spent mostly in the West. You

Deputy Commissioner Finds All Boats In Rum-Running Are American Owned

TORONTO, Ont., June 27. (C.P.) — In a report submitted to the Attorney-General to-day, Alfred Cuddy, Deputy Commissioner of Provincial Police, states that there is very little short-circuiting of liquor along the border at Windsor. He found from his investigations, he states, that all boats engaged in taking liquor away were American-owned and manned, and that little liquor is being moved from the docks at the present time.

Provincial Police now on duty at Windsor are able to handle the situation, in the opinion of the Deputy Commissioner. He comments that Federal Customs officials sometimes clear rum boats that have no names and frequently clear them under names assumed merely for clearance purposes.

Water Supply Is Becoming Short In Many Cities In England

LONDON, June 27. (C.P.) — Even tourists and fresh air fiends, who have been chuckling with glee at the long absence of rain, may possibly be driven to pray for a change if they peruse the warning given by the Meteorological office yesterday. The report states the past semester has been the driest recorded, and serious damage is threatening all crops.

The drought covers the whole of England, and is due partly to the fact that the three winter months saw hardly any precipitation. Water engineers everywhere are anxious as to the adequacy of their supplies. For instance, Shipley, Yorkshire, although severely rationing the water to the civic population, has been forced to buy water from Bradford. Shipley has but 14 days' supply of water, and Bradford but five weeks' supply.

PERCY LANCASTER RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF CONSERVATIVES AT PETERBORO COUNTY MEETING

Convention of Former East Peterboro Association at Havelock.

W. G. MARTIN, M.L.A., SPOKE.

Says Party Has Nothing To Fear in the Next Election.

The Conservative surge in this district yesterday was nowhere more significant than at the annual meeting of the party association for East Peterborough at Havelock, with its harmony and external evidences of reintegration in the presence of some Tories of the old stock who had been more or less alienated by their adherence to somewhat utopian, if not entirely practical, ideals represented by the once potent and promissory shibboleths—"O.T.A." and "U.F.O."

Several members of prominence, earnest prohibitionists who had fixed their faith in the efficacy of the Ontario Temperance Act and had resented their leader's assumption of the policy of government control of the sale of liquors, have apparently been reconciled by Hon. Mr Ferguson's administration of the Act.

A special welcome was extended to ex-Warden Morley Smithson, the present Reeve of Otonabee, by the president, Mr. T. P. Lancaster. If reports recalled from those days be correct, Mr. Smithson was one of the multitude of intelligent farmers who were impressed by the program and the class opportunities of the U.F.O. At any rate he was called to the platform by the president, he was elected second vice-president, and the chairman singled him out with this greeting:— "We welcome Reeve Smithson back among us. He was one of our stray sheep and we are more than glad for the one that is back than for the other ninety-nine in the fold."

Mr. Smithson replied briefly, thanking the association for the honor of the office to which they had elected him, and promising his fullest co-operation for the advancement of the Conservative cause.

Appeal for Fellowship

Rev. J. T. O'Conor-Fenton made a sympathetic plea of fellowship for those Conservatives who, following the dictates of training and conscience, had voted for the Ontario Temperance Act and against the pledges of the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson.

"They should not be spoken as traitors to their party" he said. "Many of them had been told and taught that the O.T.A. was the only right course for uplighting of their fellow men, and they voted that way in a strong conviction of their duty to God."

The main address of the annual meeting was delivered by Rev. W. G. Martin, M.L.A., of Brantford, who asserted that the Conservative party in Ontario had nothing to fear in the next provincial election.

J. A. Sexsmith In Form

John A. Sexsmith, ex-M.P., now a veteran of East Peterborough's political fields spoke for about ten minutes dealing for the most part with the Federal Government. Mr. Sexsmith speaks with all his old time vigor and resonance, and also all his fervor for the Conservative party.

On the platform with Mr. Lancaster were:—Col. R. E. Birdsall, E. C. Squire, Mrs Birdsall, Reeve R Sanderson of Havelock, Matthew Elliott of Norwood, Reeve Smithson, Rev. J. T. O'Conor-Fenton, J. A. Sexsmith, and Dr. J. R. Fraser of Lakefield.

Letters of regret for their absence were received from E. A. Peck, M.P.; W. H. Bradburn, M.L.A.; and Mayor Denne, of Peterborough. A letter from Dr. A. T Embury, M.P., of Bancroft, acknowledged the association's condolence with him in the recent death of his wife.

The secretary, Matthew Elliott, reported more than $50 in the treasury.

The constituency of Peterborough county comprises all the townships and villages with the exception of North Monaghan, which was tacked on to the city of Peterborough to make the riding of Peterborough city.

Election of Officers

The officers elected yesterday were as follows:—

Honorary Presidents—Dr. J. R Fraser, J. A. Sexsmith, E. C. Squire, and Harry G. Fitzgerald of Lakefield.

President—T. P. Lancaster.

Assistant to Pres.—Mrs. R. E Birdsall.

1st Vice-Pres.—Col. R. E. Birdsall.

Trotzky Is Not Wanted By British Cabinet

LONDON, June 27 (Canadian Press).—The majority of the Cabinet members in the new Labor Government was understood yesterday to be against granting permission to enter England to Leon Trotzky, Bolshevik leader, exiled in Constantinople. No official decision has yet been reached, but the question was put before the Labor Ministers.

TRADE UNIONS ASK REPEAL OF DISPUTES ACT

Law Was Passed By Former Conservative Government in England.

CERTAIN STRIKES ILLEGAL.

Doubtful if Premier Will Indicate What Steps His Government Will Take.

LONDON, Jun 27—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—The General Council of the Trades Union Congress has passed a resolution welcoming the prospect now afforded of repeal of the Trades Disputes Act, with the advent of a Labor administration. It is doubtful however if this matter will find a place in the King's speech from the throne when the government's legislative program is indicated at the formal opening of parliament next week.

The act was passed by the former Conservative government soon after the disastrous general strike of 1926. It renders illegal any strike or lockout "designed or calculated to coerce the government, either directly or by inflicting hardship upon the community." It places restrictions on picketing and upon unions of civil servants being associated with politics, and furthermore professes to remove the element of compulsion from the levy on union members.

The aspect of the bill which affects the payment of dues is probably the one most agitating the General Council for probably the most militant member of the Trades Union Congress would never wish to repeat the general strike experiment practicable.

In this early stage of the new ministry's career however it is doubtful whether Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald is prepared to indicate immediately the prospect of legislation concerning this act in any of its details.

LIBERAL LEADER EXPLAINS STAND

Support of Government Control Was Decision of Liberal Caucus, Sinclair States.

CHARGES PETTY POLITICS.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 27 (C.P.).—Political connivance on part of Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General, was charged by W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader in Ontario, when he discussed the resignation of Magistrate Jelfs, at a political meeting in Dundas. He declared that the men in charge of the political machinery of country should be above this sort of thing.

The Liberal leader, explaining his stand on the liquor question, and his enforcement of the present law in the Fort William speech, stated that the decision was announced after a caucus of the Liberal party and was not necessarily his own inclination. "It represented the considered judgment of the Liberal party," he added. "It is not a personal turn on my part and there is nothing sudden about it. In 1927 when the O.T.A. was law, we got behind. Then it was promised that if the people wanted a change the Liberal party would give it them. We say now, that we will enforce the Liquor Control Act. It is not being properly enforced by the Ferguson Government at the present time."

Referring to Premier Ferguson's educational policy, Mr. Sinclair said: "No one knows his policy, for it is different every time he speaks.

TO BUY 55 NEW CARS.

TORONTO, Ont., June 27.— Subject to the approval of the Board of Control the Toronto Transportation Commission will purchase 55 new street cars and trailers from the National Street Car Corporation of Hamilton, for $1,064,305.

RECOMMENDS RETIREMENT.

TORONTO, Ont., June 27.—Attorney General W. H. Price announced to-day his recommendation to the Provincial government that Magistrate George C. Jelfs, of Hamilton, Ont., should be retired August 1 and that H. Burgudge, K.C., Hamilton, should succeed him. Magistrate Jelfs issued a statement at Hamilton agreeing to retire at the time specified and accepting the pension provided by the city and the province.

FORMER LINDSAY BOY HEADS LARGEST AVIATION CONCERN

Wright, Curtis and Ten Affiliated Airplane Companies Unite.

C. M. KEYS IS PRESIDENT.

Business Founded By America's Pioneers Will Thus Be Amalgamated.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 27 (Canadian Press). — Clement M. Keys, a native of Lindsay, Ont., and graduate of the University of Toronto, is to head the largest aviation concern in the world. This became known last night coincident with announcement of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, Curtiss Airplane and Motor Company, of which Keys is president, and ten affiliated companies.

The merger, which is to be effected through the formation of a holding company — Curtiss-Wright Corporation — brings together the businesses founded by America's air pioneers—the Wright Brothers and Glen Curtiss.

In addition to Wright and Curtiss Corporations, the following companies will be taken over through an exchange of stocks: Keystone Aircraft Corporation of Bristol, Pa., Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Company of St. Louis, Curtiss Airports Corporation, Curtiss Flying Service Inc., Curtiss Airplane Export Corporation, Curtiss Caproni Corporation, New York Air Terminals, Inc., and New York and Suburban Air Lines.

TORONTO, Ont., June 27.—Clement M. Keys, who has been chosen to head the largest aviation concern in the world, is the son of an Anglican clergyman of Lindsay, Ont. He entered the Arts course at University of Toronto and graduated from University College in 1897. Following his graduation he went to New York as a newspaperman. His success in the financial world has added another Canadian to the already long list of Canadians who are numbered among the captains of industry and finance in the United States.

YOUNG AVIATOR BURNED TO DEATH IN PLANE CRASH

Held in Blazing Airplane Young Man Calls For Help From Mechanics.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N.I., June 27.—(C.P.)—Held in his blazing plane by his safety belt, Francis Phillips, 21 year old son of the late John M. Phillips, so-called "Queen's Sewer Pipe King," burned to death under the eyes of 200 people yesterday as his plane overturned in landing and caught fire.

Conscious for several moments as the flames roared around him, Phillips, who was a cripple, shouted his instructions and then entreaties to the mechanics and fliers who were making vain efforts to quench the flames to reach him.

Phillips' passenger on the death ride, Henry R. Goldsmith, died in hospital last night of his injuries.

Three Vacancies Filled On Campbellford Staff

CAMPBELLFORD, June 27.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)—At a special meeting of the Board of Education held recently, three of the four vacancies in the teaching staff of the Public schools here were filled. One more teacher is still to be chosen. This teacher will be the successor to Mss McGirr, specialist in Kindergarten-Primary work. The teachers taken on the staff were Harold Dunk; Miss Hazel Wright and Miss Helen MacDonald. Chas. S. Haig, principal of the schools, was given an increase in salary of one hundred dolairs per annum.

NEW ZEALAND PROMISES TO AID IN LEAGUE WORK

World Peace and Disarmament Are Stressed in Opening of New Parliament.

SPONSORS EMPIRE TRADE.

Present Instructions On Immigration From Britain Will Continue.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., June 27. — (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's). —The Government's attachment to the League of Nations and its determination to take any steps necessary to forward the work of the League, particularly in the direction of world peace and disarmament, were stressed in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the New Zealand Parliament to-day.

The Speech also stated that no change was contemplated regarding naval defence. As a necessary auxiliary to land and sea defence, the Government intends to promote the interests of aviation throughout the Dominion.

The Government fully realizes the importance of encouraging Empire trade and will fully maintain the system of tariff preferences for British manufacturers, the Speech also said.

While affirming the soundness of the policy of British migration within the Empire, the Speech declared that assisted migration from Britain to New Zealand must be regulated and therefore the present restrictions would continue.

Sir Joseph Ward heads the Liberal Government in New Zealand, which came into power following the defeat of the J. G. Coates' administration as a result of the general elections a few months ago.

THREE YEAR OLD GIRL DIES AFTER AUTO CRASH

Toronto Constable's Automobile Crashed into Truck in Head-on Collision.

TORONTO, June 27.— (Canadian Press)—Mary Francis Lawlor, three year old daughter of police constable Lawlor died in Toronto General hospital early to-day as the result of injuries suffered when the car her father was driving crashed into a truck on the Kingston Road last night. Her sister, Kathleen, 14, was seriously cut about the head and neck and lies in he same hospital in a critical condition while Constable Lawlor is in the General Hosptal where his condition to-day was pronounced satisfactory.

The accident occurred when the policeman, who had recently purchased the car, attempted to pass a truck only to collide with another heavy vehicle travelling in the opposite direction.

PROTEST ERECTION OF DAMS.

CORNWALL, Ont., June 27 (Canadian Press). — Councils of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry, the town of Morrisburg and the township of Williamsburg will unite in a common protest against power development schemes on the St. Lawrence River at Chrysler's Island, east of Morrisburg. They claim that thousands of acres of land would be inundated by the erection of proposed dams.

The resolution passed at a session of the United Counties Council here yesterday claimed that the flooding would cause removal of population, injury to property values and the obliteration of historical sites.

CHECKERS BY RADIO.

GREEN BAY, Wis., June 27.—Chess has been played by radio, but it is doubtful if checkers has. But Curtis Peacock, operating W9FIN, here, and Miss Pauline M. Joslin, operating W9EIW., Anamosa, Ia., recently planned a radio checker game. He picked up Anamosa the other day, talked with Miss Joslin and the checker game was the outcome.

TIME FOR PENSION.

WATERFORD, Ont., June 27.—The man to hold the office of bailiff of Lambton longer than any other in the Dominion of Canada is James Furzer Eliot, who is celebrating his sixty-third year in that capacity. As bailiff, county constable and auctioneer, he has seen the town of Lambton grow from a narrow trail through the woods to its present size.

FLYERS BRIDE LANDS AT HAVRE

HAVRE, France, June 27.—(C.P.)—Pauline Parker, now Madame Jean Assolant, was welcomed to France with an aeroplane salute today while her husband and his two comrades of the Yellow Bird bent low and kissed her hand.

Assolant's bride of but a few weeks was jealously guarded by the three airmen and went to a Duclair river resort for lunch. They probably will fly to Paris.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, June 27.— Decline in the price of cattle at the opening of the week brought about a big falling off of cattle yesterday. The fresh supply at the opening of the market amounted to less than 350 head. There were, however, 1,000 stale cattle added, and while movement was somewhat more active than Tuesday prices were unchanged at 75 cents to a dollar decline on most killers.

Steers sold in the early trading from 8 1-2 to 11 1-2 cents a pound. Heifers brought from 8 1-2 to 11 1-4 cents. Good butcher cows made 8 to 8 1-2 cents, with plain cows downward to 6 1-2 cents a pound.

Bulls continued a slow trade at 8 to 8 1-2 cents a pound for the best.

Choice baby beef sold at 13 1-2 cents a pound. Stockers and feeders were easier than last week but not to the same extent as killers. Good stockers sold from 9 to 9¾ cents a pound.

The calf trade was somewhat draggy, with only a few prime veals making 14½ cents a pound. The bulk of the choice sold from 13 to 14 cents. Medium and heavy calves were worth 10 to 12½ cents a pound and grassers from 7½ to 8½ cents.

Lambs were selling unchanged from Monday's 60 cents a hundredweight decline, with the best making 16 cents. Fair lambs brought from 15 to 15½ cents a pound and culls sold at 14 cents. Sheep were steady at 6 to 7 cents a pound for good light ewes and 3 to 4½ cents a pound for culls.

Hog prices were unchanged from Tuesday at 12 cents F.O.B. and 13¼ cents W.O.C. for select. Road hogs were marked at 12¾ cents a pound.

Cattle receipts: Cattle, 344; calves, 505; hogs, 1,026; sheep and lambs, 850.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, June 27.—Conditions on the local wholesale produce market yesterday were again very much the same as the day previous, and trading was largely confined to consumptive channels. The butter market retained its firmness, and all supplies were removed with ease. Production continues at the height, and the quality of all arrivals was declared excellent. Dealers announced themselves to be quite satisfied with trade conditions, and felt that the situation was normal in all respects. Prices remained steady, with No. 1 creamery at from 38c to 38½c per pound, and No. 2 at from 37c to 37½c per pound.

Continued hot weather has materially decreased egg demand on the local wholesale market lately, and trade dragged badly against yesterday. A slight decrease in production has been evidenced in the past few days, but receipts from country points continue to be large for the season of the year. Shipments from outside dealers and egg brokers were offered on the local market yesterday in addition to the usual arrivals, which would seem to indicate that some difficulty is being encountered in finding purchasers for the supplies on hand. Prices, however, remained unchanged, and no alteration in the differential between extras and firsts has as yet come into effect in Toronto. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned, are as follows: Fresh extras, 27 to 28c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c to 26c per dozen; fresh seconds, 22c to 23c per dozen.

Demand on the local wholesale cheese market was slightly weaker yesterday, and trading was quiet, with prices for No. 1 large colored, parafined and Government graded cheese easing to 19¼c to 18½c per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June, 27.—After many rapid changes, down and up, wheat prices yesterday closed under extreme tension but at almost the exact level of 24 hours before

Wheat finished nervous, unchanged to ½c lower, with corn ½ to 1⅛ cents up, oats unchanged to ⅝ cent off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12 cents.

Forecasts of rain in Canada and in domestic wheat territory south of the Canadian boundary had much to do with late pressure to sell on advances in price.

Western Nebraska wheat crop conditions attracted considerable notice yesterday dispatches from there telling of high winds and dearth of moisture. Messages from South Dakota said another week without rain would mean that large areas of that State would barely make seed.

Commission houses were persistent buyers yesterday of December delivery of corn as a consequence, that delivery rose to a new high-price record for the season. The buying of December was based a good deal on numerous reports indicating that growth of the new corn crop is seriously behind schedule. Near-by deliveries of corn were offered more freely than December. Oats values were eased by favorable oats crop advices.

Provisions inclined downward, sympathizing with hog values.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, June 27. — Wheat prices on the cash grain market were advanced 1c per bushel yesterday. There were no other changes.

Butter receipts were again small here yesterday, while prices remained unchanged. The market for Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized was quoted at 37¼c to 37½c per lb. in a wholesale way. Prices to the retail trade held at 38c for solids and 39c for prints. Receipts were 192 boxes.

Lower values prevailed in the local cheese market. No. 1 Western white and colored, waxed, sold as low as 19c per lb., with quotations ranging from 19c to 19¼c per lb. Eastern No. 1 white was 18¼c, with colored at 18½c per lb. These prices were generally ¼c lower than Tuesday's prevailing values. Receipts were 5,134 boxes.

Egg receipts were 2,587 cases, with prices unchanged.

Potatoes were also unchanged.

Poultry was selling as follows to the retail trade for dressed lines: Squab broilers, 46c to 48c per lb.; selected broilers, 40c to 45c per lb.; selected chickens, 40c to 43c per lb.; milk-fed chickens, 42c to 45c per lb.; selected fowls, 28c to 34c per lb.; selected turkeys, 36c to 46c per lb.; selected goslings, 30c per lb.; selected ducks, 31c per lb.; domestic ducklings, 34c per lb.; green ducklings, 37c per lb. These prices are for "standard" poultry. For "A's" prices are from 2c to 4c per lb. less.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 27.—Another erratic price movement occurred on yesterday's grain market, wheat values moving within a range of from 4c to 4½c. Selling pressure in the first hour shoved prices down about 2¼c, but a sharp reaction near mid-session sent values soaring 1⅝c to 2¼c over the previous close. The gains were not held, however, and the market closed ¼c higher to ¼c lower for the day.

Rumors that the Argentine Government had ordered curtailment of wheat exports from that country were responsible for the sudden advance around mid-session. The rumors were not confirmed however, and support fell away from the market.

Rains reported in Alberta and Saskatchewan Tuesday night resulted in the decline at the opening.

With the exception of No. 3 Northern, cash wheat trading was dull, with prices unchanged to ¼c higher. Canadian and American millers bought large quantities of No. 3 Northern.

All coarse grains were dull. Oats declined fractionally and barley dropped more than one cent, but flax was bid up more than four cents. Rye also showed a gain of one cent.

Toledo, in Spain, was the first locality to practice the art of paper making. This happened in the early eleventh century.

Incubators capable of dealing with 50,000 eggs at once are in use on a poultry farm at Elten, Germany.

CONSERVATIVE CHIEFTAIN GIVEN BIG OVATION IN CAMPBELLFORD

should, therefore, be familiar with the needs of the country as a whole.

You will have observed in your journey through this part of the province that we are largely an agricultural people. A century of hard and honest toil on the part of the British pioneers and their descendants has transformed a forest wilderness into the rich and beautiful homesteads of to-day.

Centre of Rich Fertile Country.

The town of Campbellford is therefore the centre of a rich fertile agricultural district. We are also an industrial town, and while the wheels of our factories are sometimes silent on account of foreign competition and of adverse tariff conditions, we are hoping for the time to come when the statesmen will remove this great drawback. Our industries comprise the manufacture of woollen goods, pulp, paper, boots and shoes and flour. You will also have observed that we are happily situated in the centre of the power area of Central Ontario. In our power plant, owned and operated municipally, we possess an asset of which very few other towns can boast. It enables us to sell power to manufacturers at $12.00 per horse power continuous service. Naturally enough, situated as we are, we are deeply concerned with the fiscal policies of the various parties in Parliament, and would hail with delight, a policy that would keep our people busily engaged in Canada manufacturing our raw products within the confines of our own country.

May I say to the Hon. Mr. Bennett, on behalf of the people of Campbellford and Seymour and Northumberland County, that we welcome him here to-night, not only as leader of the great Conservative party, the records of whose achievements are synonymous with the history of Canadian progress, but with one accord, independent of political affiliations, we welcome him as a great Canadian.

George Vanvolkenberg, Reeve of Seymour, spoke briefly, welcoming Mr. Bennett, and saying that it was not for him to speak when Mr. Bennett was the man the people had come to hear.

Major Belford Speaks.

Major the Rev. James Belford, ex-M.P.P., received a rousing ovation when he rose to speak. He said it was a pleasure to speak again in Campbellford, particularly when the people were becoming politically warm. He claimed that when the people of Campbellford got interested there was something doing. He appreciated the fact that the Hon. Mr. Bennett had come to Campbellford and assured him of the loyal support of the people of the constituency. Major Belford looked upon Mr. Bennett, not only as a great Conservative, but as a successful business man in a large way, and one quite capable of handling the affairs of the country. He also congratulated Mr. Bennett on having the Conservative party behind him and on having been appointed at the greatest convention ever held by the party. Canadian history, he said, was indelibly stamped with the Conservative stamp of progress. It was an honor to lead such a party. He was pleased to welcome him as such last night, but would be more pleased to welcome him later as the Prime Minister of Canada.

W. E. Tummon M.P., also spoke briefly. He felt that he had been honored in having been recognized and called to the platform. He was a deskmate with M. E. Maybee in Ottawa, he said. It was out of place for him to speak at any length since those present had come to hear Mr Bennett.

J. E. Sexsmith, ex-M.P., said he was surprised that he had been called to speak. He, like the previous speaker, did not think it his place to speak at any length, but said that Canada was a great country, and the Canadian a great people. He did not like to see them leaving their own country for work elsewhere, due to the lack of the proper policy.

Mr. Bowen, M.P. for Durham, was also brief. He believed that the Conservative Party was becoming stronger as time passed. He knew Mr. Maybee and believed that he would be re-elected as a loyal supporter of Mr. Bennett and the Conservative Party.

Sam Nesbitt, ex-M.P.P., was both glad and surprised to be called to the platform. He had come to hear Mr. Bennett, he said, not himself. He had recently returned from the southern States, and had not hesitated to claim Canada as one of the greatest countries in the world. He did not think that Canada should be run according to the desires of other countries. We are Canadians, he said, and can run our own affairs in our own way regardless of others. We are red-blooded Canadians and we will do it.

F. J. McArthur, Cobourg, spoke next. He touched on the tariff question and the good roads question. He claimed that the Campbellford industries were suffering because of the tariff situation. G. A. Kingston admitted that industry wasn't as brisk as it might be in this town. William Clydale, provincial organizer, was called, but he was not in the audience at the time. Alexander Hume, as a representative farmer, said that he believed it was time for some protection on farm produce. He thought that Mr. Bennett never had a better opportunity to win the country than at the present time.

Introduces Speaker.

M. E Maybee, member for Northumberland, deemed it a great privilege to welcome the next Prime Minister of Canada to Campbellford, the Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of His Majesty's loyal Opposition. He also thanked his colleagues for coming such great distances to attend the meeting. All, he said, had confidence in Mr. Bennett's talent and ability to fill the office of leader of the party. People had watched his stand carefully and knew that he had advocated a policy which would mean prosperity and contentment in Canada. It would mean the manufacture of raw material in Canada and not elsewhere. It would maintain British ideals, and this was not always the case at the present time. Ontario, he said, had great possibilities. It was peopled largely by British stock Many of the people of these counties were of U.E.L. descent. All were waiting for a policy of "Canada First." In closing, he expressed his thanks to the people for coming to the meeting and said it was his great pleasure to introduce the Hon R. B. Bennett.

Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., M.P.

Cheers greeted the leader of the Conservative Party as he rose to address the large crowd. He began by thanking the Mayor for the invitation to be present and for the warmth of the reception he had received. It was his first visit to the town, and he had been impressed with its situation, its beauty and its possibilities. He compared it to smaller places in Central Europe, and hoped that it would prosper regardless of what happened to the Government. There was something more than power behind a Government, he claimed; there was the contentment of the people. He also thanked the previous speakers for their kind remarks and said that the country had done much for him, therefore it was his duty to do something for the country. Mr. Maybee was also commended for his work in the House, and Mr. Bennett expressed the hope that the people of this constituency would honor Mr. Maybee by their loyal support should he again seek election.

He did not come, he said, to make a partisan speech. He was a Canadian, and came to look into the problems of the Canadians and see if a solution might not be found. Democracy was not yet a complete success, he believed. Everyone over the age of twenty-one had the right to vote. Though each individual person voted to elect only one member, the individual vote might affect the issue all over the Dominion. The exercise of the franchise was a serious problem and should not be lightly discharged. But he was not here for the purpose of soliciting votes. He simply wished to state facts which could not be disputed. It was the duty of the people to consider carefully the trend of events and think what will be the end, then vote It was well for the younger people to ponder Canada's historic past. It was a beautiful tale, and particularly interesting since Confederation. Although Confederation had been accomplished by both parties, the Liberal Party had withdrawn shortly after, and Sir John A. MacDonald and his Government had been the ones who dealt with the tremendous problems, such as the including of the western provinces. Railroads had been another question. When several roads in the States had gone into the receivers' hands, the Canadian roads had continued to operate. When the C.P.R. was built, it was opposed by the Liberal Party. One prominent man at that time had said that British Columbia was a sea of mountains, and that a railroad would not earn enough to pay for the axle grease used.

Great Heritage.

Mr. Bennett doubted if any people on the globe had a greater heritage than the Canadians. This had been realized before and it was realized at the present time. He had advocated a national policy. In order that a policy might be a national one that a policy might be a national policy, it must bring prosperity to every part of the Dominion, and to every class of people in it. He recalled the days when he first went west and the tariff question had been on the tip of every tongue. Then he sketched the history of the Government in this respect for the past twenty-one years. Regarding the reciprocity question, he believed that Canada was ready to trade with any other country on fair terms. He did not believe that the reciprocity treaty was fair since it was for no set time, but could be terminated at any time by the United States. Then came the war and the Coalition Government.

What had the United States been doing during this time? Several years ago Canadian goods went there practically free. But the American statesmen saw that their country must have protection and they increased the tariff. Under the McKinley Tariff, Canada found it impossible to export to the States. The DingleyTariff came and the small towns of the United States prospered. The time came eventually when the States thought the tariff should be lowered. It was, and Canadian goods crossed freely. But the Democratic Party was defeated at the polls and the Republicans called an emergent session and set up the tariff again. They believed that produce should come within the States, and that their industries should be prosperous. At a later session a further tariff was assessed on farm produce. In the first year, the Canadians lost the market for one hundred million dollars worth of farm produce. Manufactured goods were not allowed in at all.

What could Parliament do to-day? In 1923 Mr. Robb took over the office of Acting Minister of Finance. He had yielded to the demands of the people in the West, and taken down the barrier on imports into Canada. At the League of Nations meeting Canada's representative had made it his boast that Canada was the first and only country since the war to lower its tariff. The announcement was greeted with cheers. Why? Because those who applauded it realized that this meant a market for their produce. They were the countries of Central Europe. They had reason to cheer. There were no cheers from the men here who lost their jobs and had to go elsewhere for work. He preferred the cheers of these men coming back to their jobs in Canada to any others, he said.

The remark brought loud applause but the Hon. Mr. Bennett raised a hand inviting silence. Then he explained that he did not say such things merely for the applause they would bring. He wanted the people to hear his speech and understand it as he went along. "I'll talk and you think," he said. "After I'm gone, you talk and I'll think."

Unable to Make a Bargain

There was only one trouble with our Government, he claimed, that was that they could not make a bargain Robb had made one with Australia and the Government majority had approved it. The result was that Australia butter was shipped into Canada and injured the home industry. Then a dumping duty was imposed and the butter stopped coming. Soon after a similar agreement was entered into with New Zealand. The effects of this were interesting. In 1925 Canada supplied her own needs and sold 24,500,000 pounds of butter. This was before the treaty. In 1926 before the treaty was well under way, she sold 23,300,000 pounds. In 1927 the exports dropped to 9,000,000. In 1928 they were 2,600,000. For the twelve months ending March 31, 1929, the export was 1,800,000 pounds. People said that the times changed and people were eating ice cream etc. But this was not the whole case. They were still eating butter, and would continue to do so. In 1925 Canada bought from New Zealand 198,000 pounds of butter. In 1926 the figures were approximately seven million pounds. In 1927 they increased to 7,190,000 pounds. In 1928 they were they were 15,000,000 pounds. For the twelve months ending March 31, 1929, the figures were 25,609,000 pounds.

Canada he said, had become dependent on other countries for the necessities of life. Chances were that the people were eating New Zealand butter and did not know it. Creamery men bought it, re-salted it and sold it again. He had been told so by them. Last winter there were 101,000 fewer head of cattle in the Dominion than the previous year. The number of swine was also down. The figures for the United States showed an increase in both. The reason was that the government could not make a bargain. The toll on New Zealand butter was one cent per pound. There were opposite seasons between Canada and that country. It was cheaper to ship butter from New Zealand to Calgary than from British Columbia to Calgary. Thirty-five years ago, the United States had to buy butter and the toll was two cents per pound. Since that time it has increased till it is fourteen cents. Last year, the States imported only 4,500,000 pounds. There were one hundred and twelve million people in the States and only nine million here, yet Canada had to import butter. Only last week, he said, a ship from New Zealand had docked in Halifax with a cargo of butter, fruit and meat. He wanted to promote Empire trade, he said, but not at the expense of one part of the empire to benefit another. The tariff on meat was much the same as that on butter. The Government claimed that the slump in the woolen industry was due to the fact that women wore silks and dresses of other materials but wool. Mr. Bennett claimed, Canadians used $44,000,000 worth of woolens yearly. Seventy-five percent of it was imported. He, personally had seen the looms in factories standing idle since the change in the tariff. There were $4,440,000 worth of hose imported into Canada last year thus injuring the home industries.

Treaty With France

At one time, Canada had made a treaty with France. There had been preferences given to France regarding certain goods to be shipped to Canada. In return, France had agreed to charge Canadians the same tariff as charged to other countries. This seemed fair enough till France raised the minimum three times its orignal figure. Wheat had gone from eght to fifty-four cents. Italy had done the same thing. The minimum on wheat had jumped seventy-four cents per bushel.

Last year the Republican party had promised increased tariff. Hoover was elected. A special session was called and the tariff increased. The American farmers were also provided with a revolving credit of $5,000,000, one fifth of the Canadian war debt at the close of the war. This state of affairs not only stopped the market for Canadian farm produce there, but also set up the stiffest of opposition. Twenty-two countries had protested against the increase. Even while the Canadian parliament was in session and the president of the United States was signing the proclamation, one of the Canadian ministers had said, "Don't provoke them." The reason the United States Government had done this was because it was legislating in its own interests. Mr. Bennett did not blame them. The Apostle Paul had advised the same course.

Time to Look After Canada

"Don't you think," he asked, "that it is time for us to look after Canada and not any one else. He had said it was a prosperous time for Canada. The reason for that was because Canada had the money to pay for what she bought. He quoted figures to show the revenue from the farms, the forests, the mines and the fisheries of the Dominion last year. But he said that the forests would not come back within the lifetime of the youngest child present. The mines would never come back and the fish were becoming fewer. Canada was rich to-day, because she had the money. He was not preaching Blue Ruin, he said, but wanted to know what the country was going to do with the revenue. Prosperity was the test of a man, not adversity. When a man is up against it he will work. It is when he is on easy street that he stands the test. Canada's revenue last year was approximately $1,360,000,000. She spent for imports, $1,265,000,000. Of this sum, 67 cents out of every dollar went to the United States, and men and women had gone to follow the money. As proof of his statements, he quoted several cases of raw material being sold to the United States, manufactured there and then sold back to Canada. In one case he showed where Canadians payed higher for a commodity than the American consumer. Among the things mentioned were Asbestos, copper, newsprint. With regard to the latter, he claimed that every Sunday edition of the big newspapers represented several acres of wood and claimed that Canada bought back many millions of dollars worth of paper from the States last year. He also mentioned boots and shoes and furniture. There was a thirty percent duty on furniture, and radios were now considered furniture.

In conclusion, Mr. Bennett stated that if his party were placed in power at the next election, whether or not he himself where there, they would see there were statutes on the books which would give Canada fair competition and an even chance to work out her own destiny with the rest of the world. The Canadians had forged the tools with their own hands and they were to be used for defence, not offense. He wondered how long a dependent people could remain free and maintain their place among the nations. The battle of commerce was on day and night. He wanted Canada to have an equal opportunity, and believed that the young people must have it. The mission of the Conservative party was the same as it always had been since it came into being. We were all proud to be part of the great British Empire, so great that at the present time it was yesterday in some parts or to-morrow in others. All paid homage to the same King. It was possible to produce everything required by the Empire, within the Empire. He believed that an Empire conference might clear up the matter but did not want any blanket preference to any one part. What we want, the other parts of the Empire can produce he said; and what they want we have to sell.

History had taught him, as it had others, that we could not have a great country like Canada dependent on others for the necessities of life and still remain free and retain its integrity. This was the thought he wished to leave in Campbellford. He did not wish to solicit votes, merely to request them to think, ponder and discuss what he had said, and then vote as their reason indicated they should. With this he would be content. He wished he could impart to their minds the settled convictions of his own. His final appeal was that they let nothing deter them from going to the polls at the next election, and support the ideals of their fathers.

At the close of his address the crowd cheered the Conservative leader, and the meeting closed with the national anthem. This was followed by an informal reception at which the majority of those present were presented to Mr. Bennett.

Ford Dealers Indicate Continued Interest in Your Satisfaction by Establishing New Model A Service Policy

CLEAN, CAREFUL, COURTEOUS SERVICE

Your Ford dealer has a genuine interest in your car, not only when you buy it, but as long as you continue to drive it.

This is indicated in the new Model A Ford service policy, established by all Ford dealers, in addition to the usual warranties which are being continued.

Every Ford dealer in Canada will give every Ford car buyer free service at 500, 1000 and 1500 miles.

No charge is made for labor incidental to this service, except, of course, where repairs are necessary through accident, misuse or neglect. The only charge is for new oil.

Our organization is built on the creed that it is our duty not only to make a good automobile, but to help the owner get the greatest possible use over the longest period of time, at a minimum of trouble and expense. When you buy a Ford car you can enjoy it from the minute you first get behind the wheel.

You know, of course, that every detail of its design and construction has been planned to yield you care-free and trouble-free motoring.

And now, during that important period while your car is new, you are assured of expert attention, which will lengthen its life and prevent unnecessary trouble later on.

Ask your Ford dealer for full particulars.

MODERN traffic demands a car not only designed and built to meet modern conditions, but, through proper maintenance, kept up to the highest degree of efficiency. Proper care and attention is especially important when the car is new.

REASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Motorists should note the request issued by the police department in regard to traffic regulations during Old Home Week.

With thousands of visitors here for the re-union and the tourist season opening out at the same time, traffic conditions are sure to be abnormal, and common sense and courtesy on the part of drivers will be necessary to avoid accidents and unpleasantness.

The suggestions made by the police are reasonable and sensible, and should be complied with readily.

Particularly worthy of note is the request that Peterborough people should leave their cars at home when they can do so without inconveniencing themselves.

In the case of such events as the unveiling of the war memorial on Sunday there is little sense in people who have but a few blocks to walk bringing out their cars to add to the congestion and confusion on the streets.

Co-operation with the police department and consideration for others will do much to avoid trouble during the days of Old Home Week.

MEANS MUCH TO PETERBOROUGH.

The sudden increase in popularity of outboard motorboat racing as a major sport is of great moment to Peterborough.

The "sea-flea racket," to adopt a sporting phrase, has become the rage, and right now this city is Canadian headquarters for the sport.

Here is the home of the Johnson Seahorses, the only outboard motors manufactured in Canada.

Here the fastest boats in the game are being turned out by the canoe companies and such designers as the Carter brothers and J. B. O'Dette.

Here clever and courageous racing drivers, such as Don. Wood and Wes. Kelly are being developed.

From all angles, the rapid development of outboard motor racing contains splendid possibilities for Peterborough, and it should, and doubtless will, mean a great deal to this city, both from an advertising and from a business viewpoint.

A city that produces the fastest engines, best boats and cleverest drivers in a sport that is taking hold everywhere is bound to prosper from its unique position in this regard.

NOT A SINECURE.

While advantage for their own political party doubtless is the primary object of their activities in this respect, the tour of Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Opposition leader, throughout Ontario and the speaking trip of W. E. N. Sinclair, the Ontario Liberal leader, in the northern part of the Province, indicate that political chieftains have to make many sacrifices for which they receive little credit from the people they serve.

Mr. Bennett, one of Canada's' wealthiest men, might well spend the holiday season in a much more pleasant and comfortable manner than addressing outdoor gatherings in hot weather, while Mr. Sinclair, after being absent from his law office during the session of the Legislature, has had to give up his own business for several more weeks to visit New Ontario and discuss the problems of that section of the Province.

In both cases a genuine sacrifice has been made, and it is well for Canadians to realize that their public men give up much in order to discharge what they regard as their responsibility to the people.

Political leadership, whether in or out of office, is hot a sinecure.

BETTER LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE.

Attempts to have liquor selling power restored to Ontario's hotels are not new.

Each recent session of the Legislature has seen the question of the sale of wine and beer in hotels brought forward by such members as Mr. Wilson, of Windsor, Mr. Pinard, of Ottawa, and others—and in no case has the movement succeeded in making any appreciable headway.

There is no reason to expect any greater success for the latest move along this line, for the simple reason that the Government is well aware that there is no great pressure of public opinion behind the request for increasing liquor-selling facilities in Ontario.

Bar-room conditions are not wanted again in this Province, and no one realizes that fact more clearly than Mr. Ferguson.

He is satisfied that the people of Ontario are not prepared to authorize further relaxations that will get away completely from the principle of Government control, and petitions with this end in view are merely a wasted effort.

Those who are opposed to prohibition as a means of dealing with the liquor problem should be satisfied to let well enough alone.

It is not difficult to set the pendulum swinging the other way.

OLD HOME WEEK.

(From the Toronto Globe)

An announcement in the Globe of yesterday tells of the extensive preparations being made for the holding of an "Old Home Week" in the city of Peterborough. During the days between June 29 and July 7 tens of thousands of those who look upon that city as their home will turn their faces thither to renew again "auld" acquaintance and the friendships of "lang syne." It is a universal instinct in the heart of humanity that makes men and women cling to the place of their birth, however far away they may wander along the broad highways of the world. It matters not whether that place be a veritable paradise on earth situated among the isles of the biest, a long stretch of barren shore or an area throbbing with industry and shrouded in an eternal pall of smoke: thither the heart of some one turns and calls that spot home.

To whom belongs the credit for the inauguration of "Old Home Week" we do not know. One thing is certain. The idea was a splendid one, and its appeal to men and women may be judged by the success that invariably attends such events. They provide excellent opportunities for the knitting again of friendships that time had almost severed. They are occasions of happiness and rejoicing, seasons of good-fellowship and generous camaraderie when friend clasps hand with friend of yesteryear, and happy faces are illumined with the light of other days.

THE LIVESTOCK SITUATION.

In view of possible tariff developments, the Canadian livestock industry has come in for more study and discussion of late than for some time past, particularly the export cattle trade. With the air cleared, Agricultural and Industrial Progress in Canada, a Canadian Pacific Railway publication, believes that the outlook remains bright and the general attitude is one of continued optimism. Apprehension that the Canadian cattle industry can in this manner be seriously affected seems to have been effectively dissipated by the authoritative utterances of leaders of the industry. Livestock raisers are being urged on all sides steadily to improve the quality of their stock, while advice is general to pay more attention to the home market and the possibilities of its development.

The Federal Government's Livestock Market and Meat Trade Review for 1928 is on the whole optimistic and encouraging in tone. It draws attention to the high prices prevailing for cattle in 1929, exceeding at times anything previously known, due to the extremely heavy demand from the United States, which resulted in an export of cattle to the Republic in that year equal to about 20 per cent. of Canadian stockyard sales. Prices should remain profitable for at least two years, it judges, and the United States market continuing favorable. While, however, recognizing the value of this profitable outlet, it finds it too insecure at all times to make this market the chief factor in ordering Canadian breeding and feeding practices.

The sheep industry, according to the review, experienced another excellent year in the marketing of both wool and meat, price levels being above those of the previous year. Renewed confidence in sheep raising, so manifest during the past three years, is more in evidence than ever. Under the stimulation of a remunerative market the sheep industry is showing appreciable expansion, gains being especially good in the four Western Provinces and in Ontario. Good breeding females have been closely held, and while a number of large sheep ranchers in Southern Alberta reduced holdings, the greater percentage of sales went to increase British Columbia flocks.

Much the same opinion has been voiced at the meetings of western livestock associations. Cattle prices, it is generally believed, will remain high owing to an undisputed scarcity of supply in the United States. At the same time the shortsightedness of relying too much on this market is reiterated. The possibilities of the British market were discussed at length with a generally favorable view as to possibilities, though it is the opinion that there is still something to be done in the way of rendering this a really profitable outlet. The suggestion is made that a suitable representative of livestock men be placed in Great Britain to act for them as is now done in that country for Canadian butter, cheese, bacon and egg interests.

In particular, however, attention is drawn to the fact that Canada has over a period of years grown to consume from 80 to 85 per cent. of her marketable cattle and that the small surplus could be materially reduced by an active campaign to increase the home consumption of beef. In regard to this it is considered the active development of new mining camps in all parts of the country and the railway construction programs to be carried out over the next five or six years should be important factors.

After his re-election as president of the Western Stock Growers' Association, Senator D. E. Riley asked the question, "Where in the future will we find our markets (for cattle)?" and proceeded to answer it. "Our home market now takes 85 per cent. of our beef production. Can we not in some way develop that market to take the entire 100 per cent.? That is the problem that confronts the cattlemen to-day, and I believe with the combined efforts of all livestock organizations and interested parties that the problem can be solved."

The Province of Alberta, so far from showing any signs of worrying, is moving between its Government and livestock organizations to bring about further improvement in its cattle. Representatives of the Alberta Livestock Board are conferring with Government officials for the prohibition by provincial law of the further importation and breeding of "scrub" cattle and the adoption of further means for the encouragement of the importation and subsequent breeding of prize cattle. The Government is stated to be entirely sympathetic to the adoption of such measures.

A step of outstanding importance, which will have a significant bearing on marketing, was the recent amalgamation of Canadian livestock interests in a single organization when representatives of eight provincial livestock co-operative bodies formed the Canadian Co-operative Livestock Producers with headquarters at Toronto. The national organization includes the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, and is the materialization of plans formed last fall following a conference of provincial livestock men for the purpose of linking up a marketing program with a quality production campaign.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Old Home Week begins Saturday. How about your decorations?

It is to be imagined that Jackie Johnston, Canadian boxer, will be off Chocolates for some time.

When better racing boats, engines and drivers are produced, Peterborough will produce them.

For the benefit of tourists, it may be mentioned that sea-fleas do not bite.

It is a long highway, it may be mentioned, that has no hot dog stand.

It is suggested that examinations should not be held in the hot weather. Any student would like to move in amendment that they should not be held at all.

MISERY

The misery children make for their parents is well known; the misery parents make for their children not so well.

What To-day Means To You.

JUNE 27th.
"Cancer"

If June 27th is your birthday, the successful hours for you on this date are from 5 a.m. to 7 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m., The danger periods are from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m., and from 3 p.m. to 4p.m.

Do not crumple uo when things go wrong on this day, as a great deal of profitless contention will prevent progress being made. Unexpected difficulties can be tuned to great account if met in the right spirit.

Children born June 27th will have very high ideals, great ambitions, and a true sense of honor. They will fight for right and justice, but will be more fond of peace than strife. They will have the pluck to make many of their dreams come true.

Adaptability and resourcefulness are your two most striking characteristics. No matter where or with whom you are, you feel at home. No matter what troubles overtake you, a way out is always readily devised, by your agile mentality. You will never achieve success by slow and sure methods. You are not a plodder. You must, to merit Fortune's smiles, do something out of the ordinary and in an extraordinary manner.

You are not, by nature, affectionate and when love is bestowed on you, as it surely will, you will take it as a matter of course, and forget that to maintain the flame the fire must be constantly fed with fuel. In spite of a genial exterior, you when alone, often experience fits of melancholy, and these are invariably caused by self-analysis. You have the sense to appreciate how much you fall below the 100 per cent. that you, in earlier days, mapped out for yourself.

You are a good judge of human nature, and few can fool you. Although not a drudge, you have a flair for detail, and you not only visualize the end of a dream, but you can correctly anticipate all the happenings from the very beginning. you are self reliant, and indifferent to the opinions of others, and your independence is sometimes trying to your friends.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress, Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworthbef ore his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It is burned beyond recognition, but from a small patch of scalp. Dr. Cavanaugh identifies it as the body of Sheila O'Shay, Barbara faints when she hears him tell this to Peter. Peter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh search the boudoir of the murdered woman. The breach of promise papers have been taken, but they find a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter goes on the trail of Orme.

CHAPTER 30.

"If he has any sense, he'll have beat it away from here into other spots and left no forwarding address," Peter informed "Bossy" severely as he swung into the boulevard leading to the camp grounds.

But despite his efforts to batten down his enthusiasm with stern common sense, excitement prickled up and down his spine and tightened his hands on the wheel. It did not so much as occur to him that he had set out, unarmed and alone, to pursue a possible murderer. He did not even wonder how he would induce Orme to give himself up, if he found him.

Peter was a profound believer in the futility of crossing bridges before he came to them—the bridges were so very likely not to be where you expected them, or be missing altogether.

Despite his lack of sleep, he was buoyed up beyond the reach of fatigue; his head felt a little light, but uncommonly clear. "Bossy" seemed to dip and skim along the highway like a gull coasting down the lanes of air. His cap blew off and rolled hoopwise to the side of the road, but he did not pause to retrieve it. There was no real need for hurry—if Orme had not left long since, he was unlikely to get away in the course of an hour-but speed gave him the illustration of pressing on in an obscure race with fate.

"Gee, if the luck only holds!" he murmured once, and for a moment, his long face took on the look of one who has uttered a prayer.

"If this man Orme was mixed up in it, Barbara wasn't. perhaps she was trying to shield Ellsworth—loyalty, the practical, incorruptible virtues.

There were things about Ellsworth that certainly were'nt clear; but Orme was another line altogether. There was no connection between the two men that Peter could see. It looked as if the mystery of Sheila O'Shay's death might be further complicated by the mystery of her life. If there were things that she herself had wanted to conceal, digging them out would not be so simple.

Peter's eyes darkened as his mind veered from Sheila's picturesque and polychromatic career to Barbara, fighting her way so gallantly, so foolishly, through shadows.

"Gosh, I'll bet that woman had a past as checkered as a Scotch plaid," he told the wheeling landscape with a half grim line. "If I'd had the chance to marry a girl like Barbara, I'd have bumped off the old girl myself before I'd have let her bulldoze me into marrying her. Ellsworth is the fool of the world—unless it's Peter Piper."

For Peter was coldly, dismally conscious that if he got Orme, and if Orme cleared Ellsworth, he himself might be clearing the way for Ellsworth, to marry Barbara.

"Well, it can't be helped," he muttered through clenched teeth. Barbara, in the numbing chill of her orphan asylum childhood, had found the glory of life in the vision of another world, where honor gleamed above peril, where loyalty fluttered like a pointed banner at a spear-head, where men rode into death with the scarves of their ladies bound to the sleeves of their coats of mail.

There was nothing very knightly about the battered "Bossy" careering along an asphalt highway guided by a reporter in a torn sweater. And yet, in that world of Barbara's, if a knight set out to rescue a lady, he tied no strings to it. He did not barter for a reward, even in his mind. He simply did it. And whatever the nature of Barbara's folly. Peter knew that he must save her from it.

For one split second, Peter saw Barbara in that barred room smelling of whitewash in the city jail. Never! If it came to the worst, he would drive her himself to the Mexican border. He didn't know what he would do. But they should not get Barbara—never—no matter what she had done.

With a squeal of brakes and a dragging of wheels on the pavement, Peter brought "Bossy" to an abrupt halt. He had almost driven past the entrance to the automobile camp.

"Bossy" looked by no means out of place in the scattered company of derelict cars parked in a field worn to dusty smoothness by innumerable tires.

A hot dog stand on wheels filled one corner, and a strip of unpainted cabins at the rear, offered shelter at twenty-five cents a night. But most of the campers were content with tent-like roofs stretched from the frames of their cars to stakes thrust into the ground. A number had only rolls of tattered bedding spread beside the runningboard. Thin lines of gray smoke wavered upward from rusted camp-stoves squatting here and there about the enclosure.

Peter stretched his cramped legs and, tossing his pipe into a corner of the seat, lighted a cigarette.

"And the romance of gypsing has come to this!" he mused, his gaze drifting from a man stretched in stertorous slumber to a woman with draggled gray hair cutting thick slices of bread with a clasp knife, to a girl in grease-spattered khaki army breeches and high heeled patent leather pumps, to a group of quarreling, dirt-smeared children.

Gypsying! Green dells and wandering tinkers, the singing freedom of the countryside. Perhaps it had always been like this, really, just as Barbara's knights had ridden out of castles unblessed by plumbing. These were the modern vagabonds, the unemployed, the drifters, the petty thieves, the incompetents, who bundled their families an scant possessions into ramshackle Fords and roosted, rent free, at public campgrounds until they were periodically weeded out, to rattle on again as far as their gas would take them—without hope, without plan, without beauty, without even the clean crash of real disaster.

Like most buoyant persons, Peter drowned periodically in depths of motiveless depression. He was sure that he would not find Orme. He was sure that Jimmy would fire him, that he could not find another job, and that he would slide step by step down hill until he and the last fragments of the chugging "Bossy" would come to roost somewhere in a public camp-ground. He was sure that in some crazy, heroic, inexplicable moment Barbara had herself killed Sheila O'Shay and that he would have to stand by, helpless, and watch that shining head betrayed to the gray turreted walls—not unlike a mediaeval castle, in their way—of the state's prison.

That thought roused him to action.

"Not till I'm dead, anyway," he said aloud, and dragged his steps drearily, hopelessly across the field to a corner where a young man sat on the running board of a mud-spattered runabout, munching a hamburger sandwich.

Peter held out his package of cigarettes and forced his stiff lips to a companionable grin.

"What's the luck up this way, buddy?' he asked ,as a conversational opening.

"Rotten," the young man answered laconically. "There ain't no work for nobody no more, seems like I gotta get something before I can move on. And the next place it'll be just the same."

This pessimistic view of the economic situation chimed with Peter's discouraged mood; but after all, he had not come to discuss generalities of unemployment.

"I'd sort of arranged to meet a pal of mine somewhere around here," he remarked. "You been here long?"

"'Bout a month. I got a week's work picking strawberries. But hell, it's enough to break your back in two. I quit before my week was up, and been hanging around ever since, looking for something to turn up."

"Maybe he ain't showed up yet. A kind of a sickly looking chap——"

The man on the running board shook his head.

"Oh, that feller! Sure, I seen him. He ought to be 'round somewheres now—he's been sticking pretty close to camp. Ain't that him, over in the middle with the woman and the bunch of kids?"

But Peter, having tossed the remainde of the cigarettes into the lap of his astonished companion, was already crossing the field in long-loping strides.

New Federal Tax Takes Effect Monday

The new Federal tax on Canadian mining security transactions will go into effect on July 2nd and in future traders figuring their profits will have to recognize th is. A good deal of criticism has been directed to this increased taxation and the original schedule was changed slightly, but the new rate still represents a substantial increase and will be given first trial next week. Starting Monday the Federal tax will be based on the selling price and a sliding scale as against par value and as a fixed rate of 3 cents a share $100 par value in the past. The new tax will be one-tenth of a cent on shares selling for less than 50 cents; one-quarter cent from 50 to 1.00 ;one cent from $1 to $3; two cents from $3 to $20; three cents from $20 to $100 and four cents $100 and over. To this will have to be added the provincial tax of three cents for each $100 of par value.

Duke Of Gloucester Leaves For Quebec

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 27 (Canadian Press). — After three weeks here convalescing from a fractured collar bone, the result of a polo spill on June 4, His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester left Vancouver last night for Quebec, from where he will sail for England on July 2.

The Duke will proceed to Ottawa, where on July 1 a meeting has been arranged between His Royal Highness and Premier King. He will also spend a few hours with Their Excellencies, Lord and Lady Willingdon at Quebec.

GAINS DIVIDED ON MINE MARKET

Heavy Demand For Sudbury Issues Features Trading On Standard.

NEWBEC ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 27 (C.P.).—Wide price fluctuations throughout the entire list and an unusual demand for Sudbury issues featured the market on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. After showing marked early strength the market reacted somewhat toward midday and gains and losses were about evenly divided. Sudbury Basin held the attention of market observers when, with trading in approximately 20,000 shares, it leaped forward 65 points to 9.25. At one time it sold as high as 9.45.

Newbec assumed the active leadership with 285,000 shares being dealt in at prices ranging from 54 to 63. The noon quotation of 55 showed a gain of two. Ajax Oil was the second most active stock and also one of the weakest. It commenced strong but selling pressure forced it back to 1.90, and at noon it was down 10 to 1.93.

Noranda continued to hold a prominent position both in trading and strength and at midday was 30 higher at 58.40. Lake Shore climbed 15 to 26.40 on favorable reports from the property. Amulet jumped 7 to 1.40, while Hollinger Consolidated was 40 better at 5.65. Sherritt-Gordon sold 15 higher at 7.65.

McIntyre down 20 to 15.80; Dome Mines 5 to 9.95, and International Nickel 30 to 52.70 were included among the weak spots.

ISSUES SOAR HEAVY TRADING

Revival of Activity in Oil Shares One of Features of Session.

ON NEW YORK CURB.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 27 (Canadian Press).—Disregarding the prospect of a large increase in Federal reserve brokers' loans, the Stock Market to-day continued its recovery with trading again in brisk volume. Buying orders were distributed over a fairly broad list, but in the public utilities, chemicals, electrical equipment, merchandising and rail shares presented the most outstanding points of strength. Revival of activity and strength in the oil shares was one of the interesting features of the session.

Call money renewed unchanged at 10 per cent., and although the supply at that figure was relatively small, the rate was expected by money brokers to hold through the day. Offerings of time money were more liberal, but there was no change in rates. Importation of an additional $5,000,000 in gold from England was announced during the day by the Irving Trust Co.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, June 27. (C.P.)—Foreign exchange quiet; demand rates (Great Britain in dollars) 4.84 1-4. Canadian dollars 29-32 of one per cent. discount.

BOTANY CONSOLIDATED MILLS INC.

The Botany Consolidated Mills, Inc., was formed as a result of the merger of the Garfield Worsted Mills of Garfield, N.J., and the Botany Worsted Mills of Passaic, N.J. The plants form a complete unit for the manufacture of dress goods, cloakings and worsted yarns. Normal capacity is about 125,000 pounds of yarn and 325,000 yards of fabric weekly.

Operations have been unsatisfactory since 1926. There was a larger deficit sustained in 1928 than in 1927. In 1928 this amounted to $1,459,128. In 1927 it was $939,220, and in 1926 $4,458,459. These losses are attributed to the continued depression in the woolen industry, the Passaic strike and efforts of the company to reduce inventory. The company has liquidated its foreign holdings and inventories have been sharply reduced as have banks loans.

Funded debt totals $9,082,000. Capital stock outstanding includes $5,000,000 of Class "A" of the par value of $50 a share and 380,129 shares of no par common. The Class "A" stock has preference as to dividends at the rate of $4 a share per year, and is entitled to participate on an equal basis with the common stock after the common stock shall have been paid $4 a share until the Class "A" shall have received $7. Class "A" has no vote except when its dividends are in default for two years when it has equal voting power with the common. Accumulated dividends on the Class "A" stock on Dec. 31, 1928, amounted to $10 per share, none having been paid since May, 1926.

As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets were $15,370,181. Total cuttent liabilities amounted to $4,119,068, and net working capital was $11,251,113. Book value of the common stock amounted to $36,53 a share after allowing 10 per share for the accumulated Class "A" dividends

Kingston To Have New Grain Elevator

KINGSTON, Ont, June 27—(Canadian Press)—Kingston is to have a new elevator for the transhipment of grain brought down the lakes when the new Welland canal is in operation An agreement was reached to-day between W. H. Coverdale representing a group of financial interests and an engineering firm for the preparing of plans and the calling of tenders.

The proposed elevator will have a capacity of 5,000,000 bushels and will be erected at Little Cataraqui Bay. It is to be ready for operation Sep. 1, 1930. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. A sum of money has already been provided by the Dominion government for dredging operations and it is expected work will be started in the course of a few weeks.

The site of the structure is now outside the city limits but a special act for its annexation will be introduced at the next session of the legislature.

Aimee McPherson To "Spar With Devil"

DETROIT, Mich., June 27.—(C. P.)— Aimee Semple McPherson announced to-day that she would "spar with the devil" for two minutes to-night at Olympia Arena just before the Johnny Risko-Tuffy Griffiths heavyweight bout.

The Los Angeles evangelist, who is here conducting a campaign to "clean up Detroit," assured the Olympia management she would not talk against fisticuffs. She said she believed in fighting and had been battlin the devil for years.

Wheat Prices Sag Under Favorable Crop Reports

CHICAGO, Ills., June 27. (C.P.) — With rains reported both in Canada and in domestic spring wheat territory wheat prices here underwent an early setback to-day. Liverpool wheat quotations that were higher than due, and were associated with talk of possible curtailment of shipments from Argentina, attracted but little notice. Opening at 7-8c decline to 1-8c advance, Chicago wheat later underwent a material decline all around. Corn, oats and provisions were easy with corn starting unchanged to 1-2c higher and subsequently showing a general sag.

Trophy Offered For Cadet Competition

A handsome cup has been presented to the Collegiate Institute Cadet Corps for competition on Monday, July 1. A staff officer will make the award to one of the companies during the course of the parade. Among the points to be noted will be the number on parade, neatness of uniform, and steadiness in passing the reviewing point.

The instructor will be on hand at the Cadet Armoury in the basement of the Collegiate to issue uniforms on Thursday, June 27, from 5 to 6; on Friday, June 28, from 7 to 8; and on Saturday, June 29, from 5 to 6 and from 7 to 8. Enter by the main door on McDonnel street.

Sore, Tired Feet

Oh! How good it feels to put your tired, aching feet in a "Tiz" bath! You can just feel the pain being drawn out and grateful comfort being restored.

"Tiz" draws out the acids and poisons that puff up your feet and make them tender and sore. It takes all the soreness out of corns, calluses and strained muscles and makes tight shoes feel a half size larger. Get a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store and have weeks of foot comfort for a few cents.

Bathe Them in "TIZ"

Two months ago L. L. Harrison Toronto, imported the latest thing in the outboard mot board game — a motorized aquaplane board — but it was not until this week that he found anyone who would try to ride the blamed contraption. This aquaplane or ski-board is a six-foot affair to which is attached a racing outboard motor. The driver—or rider—starts the engine and then stands up and rides—or tries to ride—the outfit a la aquaplane. The affair jumps and curvettes making a wild western broncho look like a rocking horse. Bert Bury, the hockey and lacrosse player ,tackled the outfit the other night and he rode it successfully for half an hour, but, just when he was pulling into the dock, in a conquering hero attitude ,the ski-board decided to cut up a few extra didoes and bucked Bury into the lake. Going over a twelve-inch wave at full speed this board actually leaps entirely clear of the water. It takes a combination of a human eel and a slack wire performer to ride this, the strangest craft in the outboard fleet.

GENERAL LIST HOLDS STEADY

Toronto Curb Fails To Respond To Stronger Action of New York Market.

NICKEL LEADS TRADING.

TORONTO, Ont., June 27 (Canadian Press).—Stocks on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day failed to respond generally to the bullishness prevalent on New York markets. With the exception of Brazilian Traction, International Nickel and Dominion Stores, the list was inclined to be narrow and price movements irregular.

Nickel continued to dominate the market. More than 6,000 shares were dealt in at from 52 7-8 to 53¾. The noon quotation of 53½ indicated a gain of ¾. Brazilian Traction came out of its lethargy with more than 1,000 shares changing hands. It opened weak but soon firmed to 58, and at noon was selling at 57½, which was a gain of one. Hiram Walkers held its customary position in the trading and firmed fractionally to 19¼.

Maple Leaf Milling recorded the widest gain on the list by soaring nine points to 207. Dominion Stores jumped 2 to 49, while Hamilton Bridge was 3½ better at 54.

Ajax Oil suffered the largest decline on the board when, in active trading, it slumped 9 to 1.92. Dominion Bank dropped 2 to 253, while Consolidated Bakeries eased ½ to 34.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

One of the finest journals ever published by a brokerage organization is now on the street with the issuing of the current edition of the Canadian Mining World, house organ of Stobie, Forlong & Co. The issue deals principally with Alberta oils and Canada's petroleum possibilities although the mines are also given consideration. The journal is edited by Sidney Norman, well-known mining man who has had experience in practically every camp on the continent.

Officials of Newbec inform the Financia l News Bureau that they have heard nothing regarding the reported strike of ore at the 250-foot level of the property. Unofficial reports yesterday stated that ore had been encountered. The stock has been particularly active on the Standard Exchange recently.

Harker is reported to have encountered their main vein in a cross-cut at the 1,000-foot level. Porphyry and syenite dykes are said to have been encountered at both 1,000 and 500 feet. These were not found at surface or upper horizons, and are taken as an indication of improving conditions at depth.

Installation of a new ball mill at the Lake Shore is expected to be completed in about a week's time, when tonnage will be stepped up to approximately 1,500 tons daily.

Ajax Oil has been another active and strong spot on the mining market. Latest particulars and news regarding this company are given in an earlier bulletin. The salient points are that a dividend is improbable for some time, directors preferring to wait until a cash surplus has been built up and that output of No. 4 well will most likely be marketed within 60 days when a new pipe line is expected to be completed.

Nearly 700,000 spiders, it has been estimated, would be required to produce a pound of web. A single spider has been known to spin a thread 34,800 yards long.

New Federal Tax Takes Effect Monday

The new Federal tax on Canadian mining security transactions will go into effect on July 2nd and in future traders figuring their profits will have to recognize th is. A good deal of criticism has been directed to this increased taxation and the original schedule was changed slightly, but the new rate still represents a substantial increase and will be given first trial next week. Starting Monday the Federal tax will be based on the selling price and a sliding scale as against par value and as a fixed rate of 3 cents a share $100 par value in the past. The new tax will be one-tenth of a cent on shares selling for less than 50 cents; one-quarter cent from 50 to 1.00 ;one cent from $1 to $3; two cents from $3 to $20; three cents from $20 to $100 and four cents $100 and over. To this will have to be added the provincial tax of three cents for each $100 of par value.

Duke Of Gloucester Leaves For Quebec

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 27 (Canadian Press). — After three weeks here convalescing from a fractured collar bone, the result of a polo spill on June 4, His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester left Vancouver last night for Quebec, from where he will sail for England on July 2.

The Duke will proceed to Ottawa, where on July 1 a meeting has been arranged between His Royal Highness and Premier King. He will also spend a few hours with Their Excellencies, Lord and Lady Willingdon at Quebec.

GAINS DIVIDED ON MINE MARKET

Heavy Demand For Sudbury Issues Features Trading On Standard

NEWBEC ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 27 (C.P.).—Wide price fluctuations throughout the entire list and an unusual demand for Sudbury issues featured the market on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. After showing marked early strength the market reacted somewhat toward midday and gains and losses were about evenly divided. Sudbury Basin held the attention of market observers when, with trading in approximately 20,000 shares, it leaped forward 65 points to 9.25. At one time it sold as high as 9.45.

Newbec assumed the active leadership with 285,000 shares being dealt in at prices ranging from 54 to 63. The noon quotation of 55 showed a gain of two. Ajax Oil was the second most active stock and also one of the weakest. It commenced strong but selling pressure forced it back to 1.90, and at noon it was down 10 to 1.93.

Noranda continued to hold a prominent position both in trading and strength and at midday was 30 higher at 58.40. Lake Shore climbed 15 to 26.40 on favorable reports from the property. Amulet jumped 7 to 1.40, while Hollinger Consolidated was 40 better at 5.65. Sherritt-Gordon sold 15 higher at 7.65.

McIntyre down 20 to 15.80; Dome Mines 5 to 9.95, and International Nickel 30 to 52.70 were included among the weak spots.

ISSUES SOAR HEAVY TRADING

Revival of Activity in Oil Shares One of Features of Session.

ON NEW YORK CURB.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 27 (Canadian Press).—Disregarding the prospect of a large increase in Federal reserve brokers' loans, the Stock Market to-day continued its recovery with trading again in brisk volume. Buying orders were distributed over a fairly broad list, but in the public utilities, chemicals, electrical equipment, merchandising and rail shares presented the most outstanding points of strength. Revival of activity and strength in the oil shares was one of the interesting features of the session.

Call money renewed unchanged at 10 per cent., and although the supply at that figure was relatively small, the rate was expected by money brokers to hold through the day. Offerings of time money were more liberal, but there was no change in rates. Importation of an additional $5,000,000 in gold from England was announced during the day by the Irving Trust Co.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, June 27. (C.P.)—Foreign exchange quiet; demand rates (Great Britain in dollars) 4.84 1-4. Canadian dollars 29-32 of one per cent. discount.

BOTANY CONSOLIDATED MILLS INC.

The Botany Consolidated Mills, Inc., was formed as a result of the merger of the Garfield Worsted Mills of Garfield, N.J., and the Botany Worsted Mills of Passaic, N.J. The plants form a complete unit for the manufacture of dress goods, cloakings and worsted yarns. Normal capacity is about 125,000 pounds of yarn and 325,000 yards of fabric weekly.

Operations have been unsatisfactory since 1926. There was a larger deficit sustained in 1928 than in 1927. In 1928 this amounted to $1,459,128. In 1927 it was $939,220, and in 1926 $4,458,459. These losses are attributed to the continued depression in the woolen industry, the Passaic strike and efforts of the company to reduce inventory. The company has liquidated its foreign holdings and inventories have been sharply reduced as have banks loans.

Funded debt totals $9,082,000. Capital stock outstanding includes $5,000,000 of Class "A" of the par value of $50 a share and 380,129 shares of no par common. The Class "A" stock has preference as to dividends at the rate of $4 a share per year, and is entitled to participate on an equal basis with the common stock after the common stock shall have been paid $4 a share until the Class "A" shall have received $7. Class "A" has no vote except when its dividends are in default for two years when it has equal voting power with the common. Accumulated dividends on the Class "A" stock on Dec. 31, 1928, amounted to $10 per share, none having been paid since May, 1926.

As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets were $15,370,181. Total cuttent liabilities amounted to $4,119,068, and net working capital was $11,251,113. Book value of the common stock amounted to $36,53 a share after allowing 10 per share for the accumulated Class "A" dividends.

Kingston To Have New Grain Elevator

KINGSTON, Ont, June 27—(Canadian Press)—Kingston is to have a new elevator for the transhipment of grain brought down the lakes when the new Welland canal is in operation An agreement was reached to-day between W. H. Coverdale representing a group of financial interests and an engineering firm for the preparing of plans and the calling of tenders.

The proposed elevator will have a capacity of 5,000,000 bushels and will be erected at Little Cataraqui Bay. It is to be ready for operation Sep. 1, 1930. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. A sum of money has already been provided by the Dominion government for dredging operations and it is expected work will be started in the course of a few weeks.

The site of the structure is now outside the city limits but a special act for its annexation will be introduced at the next session of the legislature.

Aimee McPherson To "Spar With Devil"

DETROIT, Mich., June 27.—(C. P.)— Aimee Semple McPherson announced to-day that she would "spar with the devil" for two minutes to-night at Olympia Arena just before the Johnny Risko-Tuffy Griffiths heavyweight bout.

The Los Angeles evangelist, who is here conducting a campaign to "clean up Detroit," assured the Olympia management she would not talk against fisticuffs. She said she believed in fighting and had been battlin the devil for years.

Wheat Prices Sag Under Favorable Crop Reports

CHICAGO, Ills., June 27. (C.P.) — With rains reported both in Canada and in domestic spring wheat territory wheat prices here underwent an early setback to-day. Liverpool wheat quotations that were higher than due, and were associated with talk of possible curtailment of shipments from Argentina, attracted but little notice. Opening at 7-8c decline to 1-8c advance, Chicago wheat later underwent a material decline all around. Corn, oats and provisions were easy with corn starting unchanged to 1-2c higher and subsequently showing a general sag.

Trophy Offered For Cadet Competition

A handsome cup has been presented to the Collegiate Institute Cadet Corps for competition on Monday, July 1. A staff officer will make the award to one of the companies during the course of the parade. Among the points to be noted will be the number on parade, neatness of uniform, and steadiness in passing the reviewing point.

The instructor will be on hand at the Cadet Armoury in the basement of the Collegiate to issue uniforms on Thursday, June 27, from 5 to 6; on Friday, June 28, from 7 to 8; and on Saturday, June 29, from 5 to 6 and from 7 to 8. Enter by the main door on McDonnel street.

Ramon Novarro, who paid a brief visit to Toronto en route from Europe to Chicago, warned Canadian movie-struck girls to keep away from Hollywood. "There are ten thousand would-be movie actresses for every hundred jobs available," was his brief message.

Two months ago L. L. Harrison Toronto, imported the latest thing in the outboard mot board game — a motorized aquaplane board — but it was not until this week that he found anyone who would try to ride the blamed contraption. This aquaplane or ski-board is a six-foot affair to which is attached a racing outboard motor. The driver—or rider—starts the engine and then stands up and rides—or tries to ride—the outfit a la aquaplane. The affair jumps and curvettes making a wild western broncho look like a rocking horse. Bert Bury, the hockey and lacrosse player ,tackled the outfit the other night and he rode it successfully for half an hour, but, just when he was pulling into the dock, in a conquering hero attitude ,the ski-board decided to cut up a few extra didoes and bucked Bury into the lake. Going over a twelve-inch wave at full speed this board actually leaps entirely clear of the water. It takes a combination of a human eel and a slack wire performer to ride this the strangest craft in the outboard fleet.

Toronto Curb Fails To Respond To Stronger Action of New York Market.

NICKEL LEADS TRADING.

TORONTO, Ont., June 27 (Canadian Press).—Stocks on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day failed to respond generally to the bullishness prevalent on New York markets. With the exception of Brazilian Traction, International Nickel and Dominion Stores, the list was inclined to be narrow and price movements irregular.

Nickel continued to dominate the market. More than 6,000 shares were dealt in at from 52 7-8 to 53¾. The noon quotation of 53½ indicated a gain of ¾. Brazilian Traction came out of its lethargy with more than 1,000 shares changing hands. It opened weak but soon firmed to 58, and at noon was selling at 57½, which was a gain of one. Hiram Walkers held its customary position in the trading and firmed fractionally to 19¼.

Maple Leaf Milling recorded the widest gain on the list by soaring nine points to 207. Dominion Stores jumped 2 to 49, while Hamilton Bridge was 3½ better at 54.

Ajax Oil suffered the largest decline on the board when, in active trading, it slumped 9 to 1.92. Dominion Bank dropped 2 to 253, while Consolidated Bakeries eased ½ to 34.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

One of the finest journals ever published by a brokerage organization is now on the street with the issuing of the current edition of the Canadian Mining World, house organ of Stobie, Forlong & Co. The issue deals principally with Alberta oils and Canada's petroleum possibilities although the mines are also given consideration. The journal is edited by Sidney Norman, well-known mining man who has had experience in practically every camp on the continent.

Officials of Newbec inform the Financia l News Bureau that they have heard nothing regarding the reported strike of ore at the 250-foot level of the property. Unofficial reports yesterday stated that ore had been encountered. The stock has been particularly active on the Standard Exchange recently.

Harker is reported to have encountered their main vein in a cross-cut at the 1,000-foot level. Porphyry and syenite dykes are said to have been encountered at both 1,000 and 500 feet. These were not found at surface or upper horizons, and are taken as an indication of improving conditions at depth.

Installation of a new ball mill at the Lake Shore is expected to be completed in about a week's time, when tonnage will be stepped up to approximately 1,500 tons daily.

Ajax Oil has been another active and strong spot on the mining market. Latest particulars and news regarding this company are given in an earlier bulletin. The salient points are that a dividend is improbable for some time, directors preferring to wait until a cash surplus has been built up and that output of No. 4 well will most likely be marketed within 60 days when a new pipe line is expected to be completed.

Nearly 700,000 spiders, it has been estimated, would be required to produce a pound of web. A single spider has been known to spin a thread 34,800 yards long.

HEAVY STRAWBERRY CROP IS PREDICTED

Home Grown Berries Make First Appearance On Millbrook Market.

MILLBROOK, June 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Home grown strawberries made their first appearance on the local market last week, the crop promising to be a heavy one, with fruit, on the whole, large in size and fine in flavor.

Most householders who own a garden cultivate the strawberry, having a bed large enough to supply home requirements, but probably not everyone knows that all the cultivated varieties of this popular fruit in North American, and practically in the whole world, are the progeny of only two kinds of wild strawberries —one indigenous to the Pacific coast, and the other native to the eastern states.

The wild berries have a flavor all their own that makes them very desirable, and plant breeders feel assured that in the several varieties other than the two mentioned there must be valuable traits that might be inbred in the domestic kind, adding to their luscious qualities. Hence the development of new types constantly engages the attention of those practically interested in strawberry breeding, and thousands of crosses have been made, and from the outcome of these the most promising varieties are selected, and further propogation proceeded with. It takes time, however, before this branch of the Department of Agriculture can make recommendations for planting, as tests for adaptation must be made and results certainly known.

When two parent varieties are crossed, whether wild or cultivated, the resultant seed is planted and brought to fruitage. Selections are then made, the most promising being propogated in short rows, the fruit being put through certain preserving and canning tests, when it will be known which, if any, are suitable for recommenoing to market gardeners, or owners of private plots.

Circle Meets.

Mrs. David Lunn entertained the Golden Links Mission Circle for its June meeting, the president, Miss Jean L. Burnham, in the chair.

The Circle's share in the bale for which the Woman's Auxiliary, the Mission Band, and the Circle are responsible, was stated by the president, and the material for the baby's layette given out to various members, the sewing to be done in the homes. The bale must be ready by September first, and left with the Presbyterial Supply Secretary.

The program, following the opening devotional period, included a reading by Miss Margaret Luxon, "Curiosity as a Virtue"; a piano solo by Miss Dorothy McDowell; a sketch of the life of a Korean Girl, Miss Beatrice Jones, and a reading, "Our Immigrants, the Care of Their Souls and Bodies", Miss Helen Mitchell.

Arrangements for the July meeting, which is to be a joint gathering with the Auxiliary, the Circle being responsible for the program, were made, an executive meeting to be called before the date which will be announced later. The Misses Stella and Lila Pethick are the hostesses and it will be an evening gathering, held on the lawn if weather permits.

Mrs. Lunn served ice cream and cake during the social hour at the close.

DECORATION SERVICE.

Stirling Oddfellows Hold Annual Service On Sunday Afternoon.

STIRLING, June 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—What might have resulted in much damage being done occurred here on Saturday evening, when a team owned by Mr. McRory, a farmer of the third concession of Rawdon, ran away when one end of the neck yoke became loosened.

Cars were parked on both sides of Mill and Front streets with very little traffic to pass down the street. Mr. McRory was able to keep hold of the lines, however, and the horses were brought to a standstill in the barnyard of Mr. Belshaw, with no damage being done.

Hold Decoration Service.

The Oddfellows of Stirling Lodge No. 239 held their annual decoration service on Sunday afternoon. About sixty members of the order were in the line up. The attendance would have been larger but those from a distance were deterred by weather conditions, a downpour of rain having occurred at noon. The Stirling Citizens Band led the procession and played several selections at the cemetery and on the return march. J. W. Sarles and J. B. Thompson led in the depositing of the flowers on the graves. Noble Grand J. G. Butler gave the oration and John Carlisle was chaplain. About sixty graves were decorated. The late W. T. Sine, who had led the procession at all the former services of this kind—as well a many other Stirling Lodge has had—was noticeably absent, having passed to his eternal reward on November 1, 1928. Many others placed floral tributes on the graves of their deceased friends.

Distributes Bills.

M. W. Sine, tax collector for the village, is delivering the notices this week as the first instalment for 1929 is due now. The rate is 45 mills on the dollar, 20 mills is collected as the first instalment and 25 the second, due December 14. If the whole tax is paid now 3 per cent interest is allowed as a rebate off the second payment.

President's Address

Percy Lancaster's presidential address mentioned his opinion that there will be no election in Ontario this year.

"One of the signs" he said "is that Hon. Mr. Price is leaving for Europe on Monday and Mr. Finlayson is already there, and John S. Martin is ill. There are only two available Ministers residing in Toronto at the present time.

We in Peterborough East need a member at Toronto who is a follower of the Government. There is no use beating around the bush. Billy Anderson is a good fellow personally, but politically you might just as well have a rubber stamp for the representative of this county. In fact he might as well stay at home for all that he can do in Opposition. We all know that a member of the Opposition has no standing in the House. He can't obtain the recognition for the constitutency which he should obtain. We need a member to secure adequate grants. Our northern townships are not receiving adequate grants for their colonization roads. Hastings year in and year out receives wonderful grants from the Ferguson government. It is represented by Hon. J. R. Cooke who is always to the fore in obtaining everything possible for the riding."

Formal resolutions of confidence in the Hon. G. H. Ferguson and Hon. R. B. Bennett and their policies and leadership were adopted on Dr. Fraser's motion, seconded by Col. Birdsall.

A Clean Government.

Mr. W. G. Martin's address extolled the Ferguson Government's legislation that may be classed as humanitarian, asylums, hospitals, special provision for the assistance of under-privileged children, a broad educational program extending from the technical schools in the cities to the schools in railway coaches for children in Northern Ontario where the advantages are meagre.

"The Ferguson Government's record is absolutely clean, and no one can point a finger to any form of corruption under the wise and skilful leadership of the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson. In 1923 we had a housecleaning, and to-day our house is sweet and wholesome, and rays of light enter the windows on problems that were obscure prior to that year. The floors are polished, and are proving slippery for some of the other side who have to walk on them.

"Now we find the leader of the Opposition telling the people of the north country that he is being won over to the Conservative policies. I am not surprised at the stand Mr. Sinclair has taken in his reference to Government Control and some other matters because he was engaged in dramatic stunts to curry favor with the public. Last year we had the so-called ballot scandal.

"In the last election some of our Conservative friends did not vote with us and some of our Liberal friends were not against us. Mr. Sinclair declared that there should not be any tampering with the O. T.A. Now he is professing a change of heart.

"This is not surprising, because Mr. Ferguson just forestalled Mr. Sinclair. If Mr. Sinclair could have got ahead of Mr. Ferguson in point of time it would have been a Sinclair policy of Government Control. What he said recently is just a sop to men of temperance convictions who voted against him because they felt the O.T.A. was not effective legislation. He is trying to tempt them with this morsel back into the fold. But I believe the people will not be attracted to a man who brings this out for his own personal advantage.

"If the O.T.A. was as good as he said it was, why didn't he stick by his guns? Whether there is an election this year or not, we have nothing to fear as far as this Government is concerned.

"Ontario is enjoying an era of splendid prosperity such as was never experienced by the people of this province in any other generation.

"If the people maintain the Ferguson Government in power for the next ten years, we shall witness such advanced legislation that will make this province the most desirable place to live in on earth."

Mr. Martin spoke at length on the Ferguson educational program. One of his statistical statements was that there are 39,000 adults and young people attending night classes in the technical schools of Ontario and 20,000 young people by day, all without any fee.

The Old Age Pension Act and British Immigration were other topics of Mr. Martin's address.

"The men and women who laid the foundations of the Empire in this Province were mainly of British stock. They labored and sacrificed until they made the wilderness blossom as a garden of God. We welcome the desirable people of all nationalities, but we have got to see to it that the British element maintains the majority."

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, for Hon. R. B. Bennett and Hon. G. Howard Ferguson.

Ayrshire Cattle Bought From District Breeders

MONTREAL, June 27.—(Special to The Examiner).—Peterborough district appears to be a happy hunting ground for ambitious breeders of Ayrshire cattle, according to figures compiled by Frank Napier, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Ayrshire Association. A pair of promising 2-year old heifers have been purchased by the newly formed Barrie Ayrshire Club from George H. Stokes of Tweed. The purchase was negotiated by C. F. McKenzie of the Dominion Department of Agriculture and K. A. Hay of Lachute, Quebec, fieldman of the Canadian Ayrshire Association. Messrs. Hay and McKenzie also purchased a heifer each from John Locke and Sons of Tweed and R. H. Little, Campbellford. Travelling further afield are two bulls from the herd of J. Gordon Mann and Son, Bridgenorth, to breeders in New Liskeard. The review of the Department of Agriculture of Ontario cooperated in the transaction.

Easier Housecleaning

Old Dutch brings Healthful Cleanliness and is your greatest help at housecleaning time. Old Dutch Cleanser cleans with a scientific efficiency and represents a significant advance in modern home cleaning. It is perfect for porcelain and enamel, tile, painted woodwork, floors, steps, windows, utensils, etc., in fact for all cleaning throughout the house. There is nothing else like it.

For greater economy Old Dutch is unequalled. No cleaning preparation does so much as Old Dutch and none can do it so well.

My Boy will have every chance

A simple solution to an all-important problem

"I wanted my boy to be well prepared for life's problems and to go as far as possible in the calling he chooses.

"I figured at first it would cost too much and couldn't see how we could give him special training or put him through college.

"Then I found out through a friend that The London Life have insurance policies specially designed to finance a program such as this.

"I readily adopted the plan because it spreads the cost over a period of years so that it is no burden at all.

"The greatest advantage, however, is that if I shouldn't live, the finances will be provided for all I plan to do.

"If I should pass on—I want him to know I thought enough of him to provide for his future."

"I am now fully restored to health"

ALL over the world, women of forty and upwards, are finding new life in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Anaemia, the dread disease that seizes so readily on the devitalized blood of middle life, and shows itself in pale lips, overtiredness, heart weakness, and recurring fainting spells, is steadily being overcome by this blood-enriching, purifying tonic. Here is one typical example. Mrs. H. Landon, Bishop's Mills, Ont., writes:—

"I was very nervous, had nervous headaches and dizzy spells, and even fainting spells. The least exertion would leave me tired and breathless. The doctor said I was anaemic. After trying various treatments without success, I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am now fully restored to health and always keep the pills in the house as a tonic."

AIR EXPEDITIONS UNITE IN TRIP INTO NORTH

Party of Three Planes Leave Moonbeam on Northern Expedition Friday.

MOONBEAM, June 27. (C.P.) — The Provincial and Dominion Government Air Expeditions into the Patricia District to sign treaties with the Indians joined forces late yesterday afternoon at Remi Lake when the Ontario men, Captain W. Roy Maxwell, director of the Provincial Air Service, and Walter C. Cain, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests, arrived in their moth seaplane.

On Friday morning the whole party, comprising three planes, will leave for the English River post, which is the first stop on their six weeks' itinerary through the north.

At present the party is awaiting the arrival of Dr. Bell from Sioux Lookout, who is taking the trip to make observations on the health of the Indians.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR FARM PRODUCE

BURNBRAE, June 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Just when Burnbrae farmers had begun to feel that Providence had overlooked them in the matter of rain, the much needed shower arrived on Tuesday morning and prospects for the 1929 crops are 100 per cent better in consequence. Several farmers had started haying as the alfalfa and clover had begun to dry up as a result of the drought.

While the rain will delay haying a little and cause some small damage to that which is cut, this does not compare with the great amount of good that will come. Corn was about the only crop making any progress previous to the rain and many farmers were unable to get corn sowed owing to the difficulty of plowing with the ground so hard and dry. Root crops and spring grains were at a standstill while fall grain headed out was in a fair way to be a failure unless rain arrived. A few hours of steady rain has done much good and crop returns will be much greater than expected only a few days ago.

The milk flow in some sections has not been up to standard due to flies and heat with dry pastures, but this should be improved with the freshening of the pastures. Cheese prices are looking up and dairy farmers have reason to feel more than usually optimistic.

DEPLORES SALE OF LIQUOR.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 27. — The increasing facilities for the purchase of liquor under the Liquor Control Act were deplored by Mrs. G. E. McLachlan, president, in her address at the eighth annual convention of the Hamilton District and Wentworth County Women's Christian Temperance Union. "We are selling our childhood, our womanhood and our manhood," said Mrs. McLachlan, declaring that no country could continue to spend millions of dollars a year on liquor without suffering moral disintegration.

Measles as a disease is now more often fatal than scarlet fever, diphtheria and typhoid fever put together, in England.

ALWAYS TIRED! NO ENERGY! CONSTIPATED!

You Need "Fruit-a-tives."

If you feel like this, give "Fruit-a-tives" a trial. Get up in the morning full of pep and life—never drowsy throughout the day — constipation gone easily and naturally. That is what this wonderful medicine has done for thousands of people. Mr. Duperron, Maxville, Ont., says: "Drowsy, tired, constipated condition gone—'Fruit-a-tives' has made a new man of me." Feel like this yourself! Start "Fruit-a-tives" to-day.

VARIED MENU.

LONDON, June 27.—Animals in Regents' Park menagerie not only are supplied with food without working for it, but get plenty of it. The menu includes everything from hay to dried flies. The vegetable course contains 144 tons of hay, and 34 tons of potatoes. Other courses are 3 tons of grapes, 187,000 bananas, 15,000 oranges, 111 pounds of honey, 26,000 eggs and 10,000 gallons of milk. Of course, that's one year's supply.

FRECKLES

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes your freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist or department store and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

OIL REMOVALS CAUSE SHOCKS

Earth Settles As Oil and Gas Is Extracted, Claims Geologist.

EDMONTON, Alberta, June 27 (Canadian Press). — Tremors and subsidence of the earth's surface in the vicinity of the Turner Valley section of Alberta are believed to have resulted from the extraction of large volumes of gas and oil from the sedimentary rock in the valley, and the strange rumbling sounds heard recently coming from under the earth there are regarded as slight tremors due to readjustment of the rock body following such extraction Dr. John A. Allan, head of the Department of Geology, University of Alberta, in an interview with the Edmonton Journal, is quoted as saying that the supposed subsidences would probably be small and of a local nature, as the earth tremors would be from the same cause. Dr. Allan some time ago suggested to the Dominion Government that a survey should be taken by the Geodetic Department as some interesting results might be shown therefrom.

The Journal says: In support of his view that tremors and subsidences would necessarily be only of a minor nature, Dr. Allan points out that the amount of gas and oil removed from the sedimetary rocks is comparatively small in comparison with the volume of rock itself, and that consequently, adjustments would be of a minor nature, and probably so slight and so slow in effect, as not to be noticed except by scientific instruments.

He thinks it quite possible that earth tremors in oil and gas fields such as Turner Valley would be be sufficently strong to be recorded on the seismograph.

The taking out of huge quantities of oil and gas in a comparatively restricted area has no detrimental effect on the land itself, either by way of earthquake readjustment or surface subsidence. Dr. Allan states that there have been no records of such happenings in the densely developed areas in some parts of southern California, where, if at all, definite evidences might be expected.

DAWES ATTENDS COURT IN EVENING DRESS

American Ambassador Fails to Wear Knee Breeches According to Etiquette

LONDON, June 27 (C.P.).—Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes appeared at the third Royal Court of the current season at Buckingham Palace last night in the black trousers of conventional evening dress although other members of the American Embassy staff wore knee breeches according to etiquette.

Gen. Dawes was simply following the dictates of his own personal taste in the matter of his dress. Reports that he had obtained a dispensation from the Lord Chamberlain to dispense with the silk knee breeches prescribed by court custom, are unfounded in fact.

Gen. Dawes declined to comment for publication on his costume.

Since Col. George Harvey wore knee breeches to Princess Mary's wedding, this conventional costume has been worn by two American Ambassadors at the Court of St. James', Alanson B. Houghton and Frank B. Kellogg.

Palace officials commented last night that the costumes of diplomats like the stockings or lack of them on women at Wimbledon tennis tournament, is a matter of individual taste, not subject to order.

REGISTER Of Social and Business Meetings

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance and reserve evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to setting dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

Equipment stolen is of no great material value.

Big Zeppelin May Leave On July 15

BERLIN, June 27 (Canadian Press).—Despite the Zeppelin Corporation's announcement, the Graf Zeppelin would not be ready for its trip to America before the last of July or the first of August, passengers of the giant dirigible have received notices from the Hamburg-American Lines. It will depart July 15 or July 17.

FIVE UNDER ARREST IN MARLOW SLAYING

Material Witnesses are being Held By New York Police

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 27.—(C. P.)—Five persons, one of them a young woman, were arrested early today as material witnesses in the slaying of Frank Marlow, Broadway racketeer. Police Commissioner Whalen announced that homicide indictments would be sought against two unidentified men.

The commissioner said detectives had traced Marlow's movements up until 45 minutes of the time when he was found fatally wounded Monday night near a cemetery at Flushing, Long Island.

Those arrested, all of whom were said to have spent the afternoon and early evening in the company of the slain night club owner, were: Johnny Wilson, former middleweight boxing champion; Edward M. Lewis, known as "Boston Louis", a gambler, of 63 Babbick Street, Boston; Al Siegel, a dancer, of Coney Island; Ignatius Coppa, proprietor of a West 52nd street restaurant where Marlow dined shortly before his death, and Mary Seiden, of Coney Island.

Commissioner Whalen said Lewis came to this city from Boston on June 16 on a "mysterious mission" later moving to Coney Island where he shared a hotel room with Siegel until Monday morning when both got out.

THE BEST COMEDY IN AMERICA

Copyrighted, 1929, by The Collegiate World Publishing Co. (CollegeHumor) Through Bell Syndicate.

Bottoms: I hear Mrs. Murphy is still taking in washings since her husband left.

Up: Yes, the washer often stays on long after the nut is gone.

—Orange Peel.

"Oh, Mamma, look at the quaint, old fashioned girl."

"Yes, dear."

"But, Mamma, what are those funny seams running up the back of her legs?"

"S-s-sh, dear, be quiet. She wears stockings."

—Missouri Outlaw.

Bill: Something has been eating up my flower bed.

Pill: Must be bedbugs.

—Orange Peel.

FOR FLAVOR

A state food inspector happened into a drug store just as the proprietor was putting something into his orange drink.

"I hope you're not putting some adulterant in the orangeade," remarked the inspector.

"No, sir," answered the druggist, "I'm putting in the orange."

Would-be Center Man of Basket Ball Team: I can jump as high as this college.

Coach: What! You think you can jump that high?

Aforesaid: Sure, better than that, the college can't jump at all.

—State Lion.

He: Well, my dear, I've just had my life insured for a million dollars!

She: How sensible! Now I shan't have to keep telling you to be so careful every place you go!

—Illinois Siren.

"Don't you want to be the kind of girl that people look up to?"

"Naw, I wanna be the kind of girl that people look around at."

—Texas Ranger.

Funnyface: Your stuff don't seem to be gettin' across. You ain't yourself.

Second Clown: Aw, it's my love life again, Fishmouth; I ain't had my heart broke in three weeks.

—Golden Bull.

Persistent: We are going to stay right here until you kiss me—

Poor, Tired Old Dobbin: Say! Where do you get that WE stuff?

—Ohio State Sun Dial.

"So you're from Dar'mou'! Know Hank Field?"

"Nope."

"Know Jim Hoppe?"

"Nope."

"Know Bill Sicklesh?"

"Nope."

"My gosh, feller, don't you drink?"

Newlywed (at telephone): Hurry home, dear, my mother is dying!

Husband: Sorry, dear, but business before pleasure.

—Penn. State Froth.

The man who drives with both hands keeps the modern girl worried. She wonders what he would do if he had to blow his nose.

—Green Goat.

Customer: Sure, I've still got some dough.

"He's the head of a long line of blotting paper manufacturers."

"Oh, the old soak!"

—Stevens Stone Mill.

"The jig is up," said the doctor, as the patient with St. Vitus dance died.

—Annapolis Log.

"What is it that keeps him broke all the time?"

"Speakeasy payments."

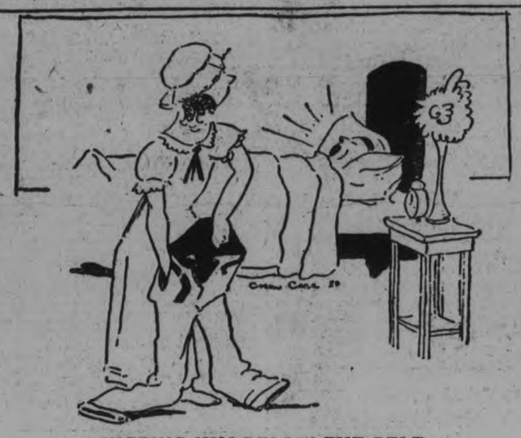
—Tawney Kat.

She: Let's play house.

He: That's such a kid's game.

She: Not the way I play it.

—Iowa Frivol.



HITTING HIM BELOW THE BELT

—M. I. T. Voo Doo.

Hypnotist: My gosh, I've got this college student in a deep sleep and I can't get him out of it. What'll I do?

Assistant: Ring a bell.

—Colgate Banter.

Dumb She: Are corpuscles under your skin?

Ditto He: Naw, only these damned top sergeants get under my skin.

—Sour Owl.

IN PIRATE DAYS

Englishman (about to walk the plank): Really—I've just eaten; I cawn't go in the watah now.

—Washington Dirge.

Agriculture Prof: Yes, that's a pear tree. Now what would you call that?

Bored Student: Apple source, Professor, apple source.

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

Photographer: Have you ever seen a steam roller?

Irish: No, how does one roll steam?

—California Pelican.

Mother: My son is in capable hands.

Neighbor: Don't you mean arms?

—Cornell Widow.

And did you know that two Scotch boys turned in their basket ball suits because they couldn't shoot all the free throws?

—Iowa Frivol.

"Why did you run away from that man?"

"I wanted to be chased."

—Brown Jug.

Collegian proposing: Marry me and I'll show you the best two-time of your life.

—Temple Owl.

"Why don't you like our freshman-pledge?"

"Oh, she's so horribly self-scented."

—Georgia Cracker.

"I hear that the captain of the football team took to hard drink during the summer vacation."

"You're right; he was an iceman."

—Arizona Kitty-Kat.

Co-ed: Do you have sweatshirts?

Prop: No; but you might try the sweatshops.

—Penn. State Froth.

Redcap: Porter service, sir?

Traveler: No, the name is Ed White.

—Colgate Banter.

"Say, eight ball, did yo' all heered dat Robaduminus Washington wuz 'sent up'?"

"Why, man, dat's nuthin'; so wuz my brother."

"How come, Ethiopian? How come?"

"Well, he done crawled in a dawk log after a striped kitty, an,' man, he wuz shoah scent up."

—Sour Owl.

DIAGNOSIS

"Now that," said the policeman, as he watched the drunken epileptic, "is what I would call a tight fit."

"What makes you stutter?"

"I-I d-don't s-s-tutter—I j-just h-hesitate."

—Dartmouth Jack o'Lantern.

"Who wrote the first short story?"

"A Scotch author."

—Okla. Whirlwind.

Magazine Salesman: Could I help you make a selection, sir?

Male Customer: Yeah, I'm undecided between the one with the dimple in her knees and the one with a mole on her thigh.

—California Pelican.

The best way for a woman to keep a man at a distance is by marrying him.

"I want you to have a date with a girl friend of mine."

"Smatter? What doesn't she do?"

—Vanderbilt Masquerader.

She: You hug and kiss just like John Gilbert!

He: How's that?

She: Well, you use your arms and lips.

—Ohio State Sun Dial.

Nurse (to reviving patient): Your appendix, pancreas and spleen have all been safely removed, sir.

Patient: And all I wanted to see the doctor for was to get a whisky prescription.

—Pup.

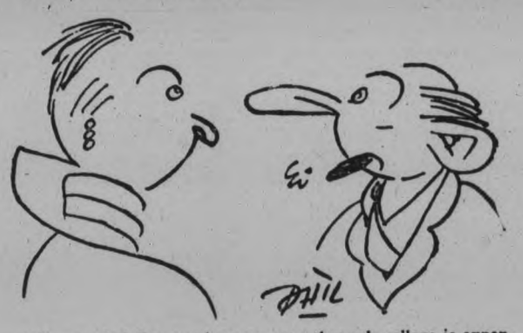
She was the absent minded professor's daughter but she never forgot herself.

—Denison Flamingo.

Lady (in a pet store): I like this dog, but his legs are too short.

Salesman: Too short! Why, madam, they all four reach the floor.

—Mugwump.



"Do you find that putting your son through college is expensive?"

"Expensive! Why, that boy drinks a thousand dollars' worth of books a semester."

—Arizona Kitty-Kat.

PLANT VARIETY

One of the sights in the south end of the city during the past week is the enormous flowering rose bush owned by Mrs M. Buchan, of 15 Young street. The queen of the flower garden has surpassed herself in this Climbing Beauty which grows at the side of Mrs. Buchan's house and has in bloom upon it at present over two hundred perfumed red roses, with as many more buds in process of development. On Sunday, many carloads of people made a special visit to the house to see the ambitious rosebush.

ORGANIZE BALL TEAM

Besides providing popular music for the patrons, the orchestra at Rye's Pavilion has branched out into athletic fields. Aided and abetted by the Rye brothers and several employees of the Pavilion, Roy Locksley and his Canadians have organized a baseball team which has already come off victor in several encounthers and is ready to try conclusions with all and sundry.

CHAIN LETTER BUG

The chain letter bug has infected a number of local people with its virus. According to a lady subscriber, the pest seems to have a special influence over women. Perhaps they are more superstitious than the lordly male sex and the dire threat of much bad luck which is supposed to haunt the pathway of those who break the chain has its effect on them. "There are plenty of women who are just foolish enough to sit down and write out six letters because some silly persons sends them a chain letter and tells them to do so. But something ought to be done about it. It's a nuisance. I've had as many as four of them in a week," declares a wrathful feminine resident.

EXHIBIT PICTURES

Announcement has been made by the provincial motion picture bureau that pictures will be taken of purebred cattle herds and sent to the agricultural representatives. These will be exhibited in each district to inform the stock breeders of the many advantages of raising pure-breds of the best. Peterborough county will likely be among the foremost to take advantage of this excellent means of education as there is a great interest at present in accredited herds.

CHAMPS OF THREE YEARS

A car of intercollegiate nature was parked on George street yesterday. In the front seat were three individuals and from left to right they represented the winners of the Intercollegiate football crown over the last three years, the first man was from McGill, last year's champions, the second representative was from Varsity, winner of the year before and the third man was from Queen's, winner of three years ago. For such an intercollegiate hodge podge, the party seemed to be getting along nicely.

COURTESY CARS

The Peterborough Automobile Club is making arrangements to have courtesy cars during Old Home Week. These cars will carry a sticker inviting pedestrians who are in the city during the week to ask the motorist for a lift or for any other courtesy in this manner.

EAST SIDE NEGLECTED

George Street presents a real gala appearance, especially the west side of the street Some of the people on the street remark about the difference in the decorating of the two sides of the street. The east side seems to have been neglected in spots.

FRUIT PICKERS BUSY

The coming of the strawberry season opened the fruit pickers harvest. Several children and some grown ups were reported to have canvassed the local gardeners and to have secured jobs whereby they receive some compensation for the outdoor work.

NEGROS DEPORTED

Handled in a very efficient manner by Mr. McLaughlin of this city and a representative of Spark's circus the sixteen darky vagrants arrived in Cobourg Tuesday, all in as contented a frame of mind as ever. They spent last night in the Cobourg gaol and were placed on board a boat for Rochester, terminating their brief but troubled stay in Canada.

DREDGING WATER FRONT

Dredging operations are in progress in the waters off the George street wharf. Every few years this work is made necessary by the deposits of sediment that accumulate in the bay.

REPRESENTATIVE AT GUELPH

Peterborough County is being represented at the annual conference of Ontario agricultural representatives being held at Guelph by J. B. Nelson, the agricultural representative for this county. The conference is at the Ontario Agricultural College during the first four days of the week.

LOG DRIVES

Another drive of logs is under way between Lakefield and Peterborough and they are beginning to collect in Little Lake. Sea-flea operations off George street wharf will have to be suspended as a result of the congestion.

CADET UNIFORMS

All member of the Prince of Wales school cadet corps who have not received uniforms are asked to call at the school for them between 7 and 8 o'clock on Friday night. All uniforms must be returned to the school on Tuesday night next between 7 and 8 o'clock.

FASHION SERVICE

A clever use of printed and solid-color has been made in this afternoon frock which Nicole Groult has designed.

TINY BUTTONS AND GRACEFUL TOUCH TO THIS FROCK.

By Nicole Groult.

Navy blue crepe de chine printed with white flowers has been combined with a solid navy blue in this little afternoon frock, which I have included in my summer collection. The wide band of navy blue runs diagonally across the front and back of the bodice, falling into folds in the skirt, and repeating itself on one sleeve. The tiny buttons on the sleeves are a graceful touch.

Live life to the full

THIS is the most amazing century in the history of the world. Within the brief span of twenty-five years man has learned to fly, to talk across space, to see through living bodies. No one knows what miracles the next quarter of a century will produce.

But it is not in these more spectacular inventions alone that human progress has leaped ahead.

Since the dawn of civilization women have aged faster than men. The deadly monotonous routine and drudgery of housekeeping has borne them down.

But modern science has taken away the chief causes of drudgery. Through advertising, women by the millions have found a way to have water, light, heat, cold . . . at the touch of a finger. No women of even the most modest means need be a drudge to-day if she reads advertising.

It is advertising that has stimulated an overwhelming demand for these newer, better things of life. And this demand has made possible tremendous new industries furnishing well-paid work for millions of men. An endless circle that has made the average American family to-day the healthiest, happiest and most prosperous in all the world.

Read advertising. Don't miss the new things—live life to the full

70 Feels 20

What does age matter if you're feeling young? You'll never feel old till you feel ill. Take Kruschen and you can laugh at the calendar. Here is an example:—

"I am 70 years of age, and for several years I suffered from lack of appetite, sickness day and night, faintness and giddiness. For about four weeks I have been taking your Kruschen Salts every morning. I feel now exactly as if I were 20 years of age with a good appetite for every meal, feels de here, such energy as I have never had before in all my existence; in fact, it is exactly as if in one month I had found a new life."

Madame S. of D.
Original letter on file for inspection.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at drug and department stores in Canada at 75c. a bottle. A bottle contains enough to last for 4 or 6 months—good health for half-a-cent a day.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

A BLESSING

(Contributed by "Red Wing")

When I look on thee and feel how dear,
How pure and fair thou art,
Into my eyes there steals a tear,
And a shadow mingled of love and fear,
Creeps slowly over my heart.

And my very hands feel as if they would lay
Themselves on thy fair young head,
And pray the good God to keep thee alway
As good, and lovely, as pure and gay
When I and my wild dreams are dead.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. McDermid Drug Co., Ltd., McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store sells lots of it.

AUTO TAKES DITCH.

CORNWALL, Ont., June 27.—Dan Alpin Grant, Glenbrook, was killed on the South Branch road near here yesterday when an auto in which he was riding turned into a ditch.

More than half a million birds were imported into America last year, the majority of which were canaries. More than 1000 of these were shipped in every day.

The most expensive animal to keep in captivity is the walrus. Its food bill is $2000 a year—a sum which would supply three elephants with food during the same period.

SNAPSHOTS OF A BOY LEAVING FOR CAMP - By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

PILES GO QUICK

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

Soon She Must Seek GOOD FOODS

SOON after the strains of the wedding march fade away, her thoughts will turn to her new responsibilities—none of which are more important than Good Foods for "him."

Her first and most natural impulse will be to go to the A & P in her community, for already she knows there is no source of greater goodness.

Almost every good brand of food she has read about in advertisements awaits her selection, for A & P stores specialize in nationally advertised brands of foods.

She can be sure of everything she buys at the A & P, for only foods of known merit ever find a place on A & P shelves. And, like other women, she will choose the store that gives her the utmost in value, as in quality. A & P's country-wide reputation for substantial values is her complete assurance that whenever she seeks Good Foods and Good Values—at the A & P she will find them.

SHOPS DESTROYED.

Bert Lummis Suffers Heavy Fire Loss—Provincial Police Visit Stirling.

STIRLING, June 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Shortly after one o'clock on Tuesday morning, the villagers were awakened by the fire alarm, when it was found that the wood and blacksmith shops of Bert Lummis were a mass of flames, preventing the rescue of any of the contents.

The efficient work of the firemen kept the fire from spreading to nearby buildings. The owner, J. Canton, being out of town, it could not be ascertained whether the property is insured.

Visit Stirling.

On Monday, Provincial Police visited Stirling and as a result, some citizens will be called to court for using 1928 markers on their cars.

O'Keefe's Dry GINGER ALE

What is the secret that gives O'Keefe's Dry that exclusive...inimitable flavor?

First...the water, crystal-clear, from a famous spring...then it is because we skilfully blend the finest Jamaica Ginger, pure cane sugar and selected fruit essences, and further because O'Keefe's, like a rare old wine, is mellowed by age.

There is no secret about the fact that O'Keefe's Dry is Canada's favorite beverage.

NEW STATION IS COMPLETED

Imperial Oil Spent $6,000 More On Project Than At First Planned.

ATTRACTIVE BUILDING.

The Central Service Station, opposite Confederation Square has been completed and is now open for business. The building is of the quaint old English type with graceful roof, shingled in blending colors, the walls are finished in a rich cream stucco and tapestry brick with the woodwork and trimming of dark brown.

The Imperial Oil Company claims that it has built no finer station and that it is one of the nicest between Toronto and Montreal. This fact is proven by the revelation that this company has spent $6,000 more on the project than they promised the city council and have succeeded in making a very attractive spot opposite the park. A motorist from Philadelphia dropped in for service last night and on leaving said that it was one of the finest stations he had seen on his trip and that the service was of the best.

The equipment of Peterborough's newest gasoline station is the very latest. In the main building is accommodation for washing and greasing cars.

In the south end two cars can be greased and have the springs sprayed at the same time. Pressure greasing and spraying is featured while a special drain outlet for old oil assures that these pits will be as free as possible from the usual dirty grease that is common around such plants. Overhead lighting and lights in the pits assure the customer that at night as efficient work will be done as in the day when the light streams in through the spacious windows.

Double Washing Pits.

The double washing pits are in the north wing of the station, where the most modern washing facilities are installed. A sixty gallon tank for hot water has been installed and this will be used instead of cold water when the cars are cleaned, assuring a real job.

In the centre of the building, at the front is the bright office where all types of accessories are handled and the business of the station is carried on. Directly in the rear is accommodation for tire repairing.

In the brightly illuminated canopy in front of the station are a pair of double pumps connected with tanks of 2,000 gallon capacity. Free air and the usual courteous service goes unsaid as an outstanding feature of this new station. There is also parking space in the rear of the buildings for twenty-five cars, which is a feature that few stations boast of.

Al Gray and J. Detcher are the genial managers, whose service with A. Brown for many years will be remembered by their former customers. It is also contemplated by these courteous members to increase the staff in the near future to assure the best service in the city.

DELEGATE CHOSEN TO GO TO GENEVA

Miss Jean Browne to Represent Junior Red Cross of Canada.

TORONTO, Ont., June 27 (C.P.).—Early in July Miss Jean Browne, National Director of the Canadian Junior Red Cross, will leave the national headquarters in Toronto for Geneva, where she will represent her society and country at an international conference of all the Junior Red Cross Societies of the world, convening July 13.

Delegates have been invited from 41 countries in which the society flourishes. The main object of the conference will be to consider in detail the report of Everett Sackett, noted educationist, who has been engaged for the past year in making a survey of the amount, kind and benefits of the international correspondence among school children, which is so very prominent a feature of Junior Red Cross activity in many parts of the world. It is through this correspondence, maintained by picturesque portfolios of letters, sketches, specimens of fauna and flora, descriptive material and handicraft exhibits, being constantly exchanged from schools in one country to schools in distant lands, that Junior Red Cross children are educated to the broader aspects of brotherhood and to world citizenship. It is, therefore, of vital importance that its character and volume should attain high levels, and these levels will form main themes at the conference.

Miss Browne, in addition to being one of a small consultative committee which will guide the affairs of the Junior Red Cross meeting, will lead in the discussion of the health aspects of the movement and will take a prominent part in the many functions which have been arranged in honor of the delegates by M. Georges Milsom, the international director.

Later, Miss Browne will attended the meeting of the World Federation of Education Associations, in Geneva in the week following.

PROMINENT ENGINEER IS DEAD

ST. THOMAS, June 27.—(C.P.) — James A. Bell, C. E., an engineer of national prominence died at his home here late Tuesday night. He had been ill five years with pernicious anaemia. The late Mr. Bell was 78 years of age. Born in Lobe township, he had lived in St. Thomas for the past 53 years. From 1882 until the time of his death he was municipal engineer for the County of Elgin, and during the years 1862-1891 and again from 1896 to 1911 he was city engineer of St. Thomas.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

I DON'T KNOW.

Children worry their parents by an endless variety of mistakes. Temper and disobedience, idleness, bad manners, and worse. "What shall I do with him? How can we make him what we want him to be?" That plea rises from thousands of troubled hearts every day and I must be honest and say, "I don't know."

It is a mistake to set laws and rules for the training and education of children and so incline people to believe that what is good for one child, for a group of children, is good for every child. It may be that the one particular child of your heart is the only one in a host with whom the established principle won't work.

When you discover that the usual treatment fails instead of trying to force its success stop and consider the child. Study what he is doing. Study what you are thinking and doing about what he does. It may be your thought that is wrong and not that of the child. Each child is different in greater or less degree, from his brother and sisters. The small and very precious difference makes all the world of difference to the child. In training him, educating him, that difference must be preserved so the child's individuality may be held sacred.

No child will be successful if he is forced to be a copy of some one else no matter how fine that someone else may be. Father may be a fine professional man and his children quite opposite in ability and ultimate power. They may be industrial workers, or artists, or mechanics and not a lawyer or a doctor or anything like them, in the group. Father and mother may both be working folk and one or more of their children be scholars, scientists, professional people of high standing. There is no set rule that nature follows. A few broad principles seem to come clear through the mystery and secrecy of life and upon these we build as securely as we can.

What shall be done with this wayward one, this sullen one, this heedless one? I don't know. What kind of child is he truly? What secrets did nature pack away within his secret places? Only careful, honest, unselfish, unbiased searching can disclose that. Patient study the child and learn why he did what he did, why he wanted what he seemed to want, why he took what you thought was the wrong road when you had so thoughtfully opened the right one.

Ask the doctor to help. Ask the teacher and the psychologist to aid in the study you are making. Read all the good books you can get on the subject. But always, and always, study the child that you have and try to stop your endeavor to create a new one.

Search well in your mind. Are you picturing the kind of child you wish this to be and bending every energy to make him that? Or are you honestly keeping your hands off,—correcting, guiding, advising, holding up a standard of character by example as well as precept—doing your best to make clear the way for this child that he may be the best kind of child of his kind? That's what you want. The best kind of child of HIS kind. There is no rule. But there are a few sound principles. Follow them and follow your child. The way will open.

ALMOND GREEN

The newest green is one that has an indefinite softness in a grey or beige shade. It is called "almond" and is equally good with beige or grey accessories. Contrariwise, a blouse, kerchief, hat or other touches of it are excellent with the blue suit.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

TREATING STOMACH ULCER AT HOME.

Perhaps you wonder why I talk so often about ulcer of the stomach and of first part of small intestine.

The simple reason is that so many individuals are suffering with what they call indigestion, and undergo such misery, who are really suffering with ulcer from which they may often easily obtain relief.

Ulcer of the stomach or intestine is just what its name implies—an ulcer of the lining or mucous membrane of these parts.

Now as mentioned before, it is not the food getting into the ulcer that causes the pain, but the strong hydrochloric acid in the stomach digestive juice which at a certain definite period after eating gets into the raw ulcer and causes the pain.

This pain disappears with the taking of food or some alkali like baking soda. Now even if you have an ulcer it doesn't necessarily mean an operation nor does it always mean that you will have to go to the hospital. Drs. J. M. Blackford and J. M. Bowers Seattle, analyzed some of the cases as to which did best, the cases that were treated in hospital or those that were permitted to be up and around at their homes.

They found that where there were no complications that the results were satisfactory in 60 per cent. of the cases, whether they were treated at home or in hospital.

However "hospital" treatment may better train the patient to look after himself, but the results have not been better for the patient! The patient in hospital is in a better position to get necessary surgical treatment if any emergency arises.

On the other hand the patient being treated at home has not the unfamiliar surroundings that so affect and often depress hospital patients. However, the point is that these ulcers will heal if given proper treatment, irrespective of whether the treatment is at home or in hospital.

So don't suffer with indigestion. Find out what is causing the indigestion, and if it should be ulcer, don't get alarmed but follow the treatment faithfully whether in hospital or at home. Most ulcers heal if properly treated.

WEDDING BELLS

CARRUTHERS—NICKLE.

MADOC, June 27. — (Examiner Correspondence).—The following account, taken from the Regina Leader, is of special interest to readers from Madoc to Eldorado:

"A ceremony took place at Weyburn, Sask., recently by which Ada Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs J. Q. Nickle (formely of North Madoc Township) was married to V H. H. Carruthers, son of J. C. Carruthers, of Grand Falls, N.B., Rev. W. W. MacPherson officiating.

The bride wore a gown of blue crepe romaine and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The rooms were decorated with pink and white apple blossoms and potted plants. A buffet luncheon was served after which the bride and groom left by motor for Regina and other points in the province. The bride travelled in a blue and beige ensemble with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Carruthers will make their home in Weyburn."

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,

That old and antique song we heard, last night.

Please Mr. Conductor

(Contributed by "Neighborly Soul")

A lightning express from a depot so grand,
Had just started on its way,
Most of the passengers who were on board
Seemed to be happy and gay.
A little boy sat in a seat by himself
Was reading a letter he had,
'Twas plain to be seen by the tears in his eyes
That the contents of it made him sad.
A stern old conductor then started to take,
The ticket of everyone there,
Till finally reaching the side of the boy
He gruffly demanded his fare
"I haven't a ticket," the boy then replied,
"But I'll pay you back some day."
"I must put you off at the next station then,"
But stopped when he heard the boy say:

Chorus

"Please Mr. Conductor, don't put me off the train,
The best friend I have in the world sir,
Is waiting for me in pain,
She's expected to die any moment
And may not live thro the day,
And I want to bid mother good-bye sir,
Before God takes her away."

As mother was ailing before I left home,
And needed a doctor's care,
I went to the city employment to seek,
But couldn't find any work there;
This morning a letter from sister arrived
Come home, mother's dying, did say,
And that is the reason I'm anxious to ride
Tho I haven't the money to pay."
A little girl sitting close by them exclaimed:
"If you put that boy off it's a shame."
Then taking his hat a collection she made
And soon paid the fare on the train.
"I'm obliged to you miss, for your kindness to me."
"You're welcome," said she, "never fear."
Each time the conductor would pass thro' the car
The boy's words would ring in his ear.

BUTTER is an essential food product in every home.

* * *

One each housewife set pans of milk from the cows on the farm, skimmed the cream, churned the butter, pressed out the buttermilk, added the salt and went through every detail in the process of butter making for her own home, however small or large the establishment was.

* * *

To-day there is very little butter made at home. Dairies and creameries have taken over this part of the once necessary home work. This simplifies housework. It also makes it part of the homemaker's interest to understand grades of butter, and to know what she is buying.

* * *

Here are some of the classifications known to dairymen; sweet cream butter, sour cream butter, ripened sweet cream butter, dairy butter, ripened dairy butter, whole milk butter, imitation creamery butter, renovated butter, and packing stock butter. A list of even this many kinds of butter is illuminating to the housewife as it shows how definitely and carefully butter is classified.

* * *

While it is interesting to realize these classifications, it is not essential for the homemaker to comprehend all processes any more than it is needful for her to know every detail for instance in the the manufacture of a fine davenport in order to enjoy the luxury of one. She is expected to rely on the good faith of the firm from which she buys an article, and the guarantee that it is as represented. It is a bit important for the woman to know what she wants and to ask for it.

* * *

For example, unsalted and lightly salted butter contains a lower percentage of water, and of course of salt, as the names imply. Also they contain a higher percentage of fat. These facts are determined by a technical method known as 'scoring'. Butter of these types is the highest grades of table butter. The butter is rich in flavor, free from milky moisture, is creamy and smooth.

* * *

Whole milk butter is estimated as "the last word" for excellence but so rare, that it enters but little into calculations. Unsalted butter of the type known as 'sweet butter' in common parlance has grown in favor. It belongs to the class of whole milk butters. It has to be freshly made or to have been kept so perfectly that it is the same as fresh when purchased.

* * *

After it comes into the homemaker's possession, it must be kept close to the ice. Buy it in small quantity which will be consumed quickly, and get a new supply when needed. Sweet cream butter is very delicate in flavor and aroma and is usually as light colored as cream itself.

* * *

Technicalities of grading denoting special qualities of milk and cream, processes of making and marketing butter, enter into the various kinds classified.

* * *

It may be added that flavor is not always a criterion of fine quality. 'Renovated' butter is sometimes excellent in taste, but variable, not sure as in high grades.

* * *

Cooking butter is not of course a high grade, but it may not be a really low grade. Homemakers are not vitally concerned with all grades of butter, but with those best suited to table, sauces, and other cooking purposes.

* * *

A matter that has come to my attention through the purchasing of patterns by neighbors, is the problem of sending money by mail.

* * *

Everyone, at one time or another, has to send money by mail. When the sums are small, it is sometimes puzzling to know the easiest way to send it, one that will be convenient to sender and recipient alike.

* * *

When a sum is not of trifling amount, a check, if one has a checking account at some bank, is the natural way to forward money. If one has not such an account the other perfectly safe way is to send a post office money order.

* * *

There are times, however, when checks and money orders are out of proportion to the significance of sums to be sent, as for instance, when the amount is under fifty cents.

* * *

It is well to remember that stamps are recognized as 'legal tender' and can be used instead of money, checks, or money orders.

* * *

When sending stamps, they are sometimes slipped under a strip of paper pasted at both ends of the letter paper. There is no better way than this to send them.

* * *

Sometimes the stamps are sent in one of the cases in which they can be bought from the post office. These cases are wee books of stamps with leaves of waxed paper separating sheets. All but the correct amount to be sent can be torn from the book and kept.

* * *

Another way is to wrap the stamps in some bit of paper so that they will not slip unnoticed from the letter when opened. The usual way, however, is to inclose stamps loose. It is a mistake to stick the end of a stamp to a letter, and this method of securing safety is seldom used now, though it once was customary.

* * *

Never send bills, that is paper money, in letters, It is absolutely unsafe. The money is a total loss if the letter miscarries or if mail thieves so much as handle the sealed envelope. If they do, so trained have they become in detecting the 'feel' of money, that they can immediately pick out the letters in which bills are inclosed and it is but the matter of an instant to tear open the envelope and steal the money.

* * *

Coins of small value, such as dimes and nickles, can be sent with safety if a round hole the size of the coin is cut in a piece of cardboard the thickness of the coin. It is wise to paste a strip of paper over the money, putting it on each side of the cardboard. This keeps the coin in place securely.

* * *

A rather clever way and one extremely easy is to push the coin down into a small piece of corrugated paper. Even a quarter or half dollar can be sent thus, without the 'feel' of the money being detected. The weight of the half dollar, however, would make the letter conspicuously heavy, while the weight of the other coins would not

DISTRICT CHURCHES

A RSENEAH.

ROSENEATH, June 27.—(Examiner Correspondence.) —Even though the day was excessively hot, it did not prevent the large turnout at church on Sunday to listen to the delightful and educational sermon delivered by Rev. M. B. Brown, who continued in his series of sermons from the Lord's Prayer. His text, "Lead Us Not Into Temptation, But Deliver Us From Evil," brought a message clear and easy for every one to carry home and remember throughout the weekk, and said, Does God lead us into temptation? Are we to suppose that God tempts us? And if He does must it not be for our good, and ought we to ask Him not to do so. So long as He leads us ought we not defy temptation. It is in the Christ, not in the cross, that we see God's will revealed.

God was leading Christ into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil, and the spirit that drives out evil is the spirit of love. The spirit of love made their sin is sin, and their shame His shame, because it made Him one with them.

It was not for nothing that great commandment was given to us, there is a tragical temptation for a devout soul who loves God immensely, those who love the good, the beautiful and the true, to hate sinners and not bear their sin. The nearer we live to Gid the more we shall hate and detest the very shadow of evil, the more we shall pray "Lead us not into temptation." God help us to be strong and deleiver us from evil.

Unfortunately in this world we do not need to seek dirt to find it, we get it chucked at us as we walk right straight along the path of righteousness. But let us be clear about this "temptation is not sin." Being attacked is not being defeated," and God who leads us into temptation can and wil ldeliver us from evil.

In conclusion Rev. Brown spoke briefly to the young people, and impressed upon them to bear their cross bravely; it will help to win the victory and by overcoming temptations they will become a strong son of God.

FAMOUS WINDOWS PLACED ON VIEW

Memorial Windows Exhibited in Imperial Institute of France.

LONDON, June 27 (C.P.).—The set of stained glass windows presented by the Imperial War Graves Commission for the Memorial Chapel in the French Cemetery at Notre Dame de Lorette, France, are on view in the Aviation Court of the Imperial Institute.

These windows were presented by the Imperial War Graves Commission on behalf of all the governments and peoples of the British Empire. The chapel has been built on a spur facing Vimy Ridge. This spur was captured by the French in May, 1915, before the British armies took over the sector, and from it they continued the attacks on Vimy in which they suffered extremely heavy losses. The chapel stands in a war cemetery, containing the graves of 30,000 of those who fell in these attacks.

Designed and made by Henry A. Payne, the windows commemorate the dead from all parts of the British Empire who fought over the same ground as their French comrades and fell on French soil. They are intended as a tribute of gratitude to the French people for the assistance they have given to the Imperial War Graves Commission in their work of caring for the British graves in France, and generous grants of land for British cemeteries and memorials.

The windows consist of six lights. In one set the central figure is that of St. George, with allegorical figures on either side, representing Victory. Below is seen part of the field of battle with wooden crosses marking the graves of the dead. In the other set St. Joan forms the central figure with ,on either side, Memory and Praise.

The arms of St. Joan are at the base of the window in which her figure appears, while the Royal Arms and those of the Dominions of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Newfoundland, and India are grouped under the figures in the other windows.

STUDENTS OBJECT TO DRUTEN'S PLAY

Presentation is Cut Short by Uproar From Oxford Undergraduates.

LONDON, England — (Canadian Press.) — The Oxford undergraduates gave a far from flattering reception to John van Druten, author of the play "Young Woodley" when he went there to address the Oxford University Poetry Club.

"Young Woodley," which had a long run at the Savoy Theatre, is concerned with the story of a school boy who falls in love with the young wife of his schoolmaster, and who finds his love is reciprocated. The play was generally regarded as thoroughly healthy in tone, and entirely innocent in whatever "moral" it was intended to point. However a section of the students at Oxford disliked the picture of school boy life as presented in this play. Members of the Poetry Society of the University were gathered eager to give Mr. van Druten their respectful attention. Suddenly there arose an uproarious clamour in the quadrangle. The noise made it impossible for the speaker to go on with his address. Then the electric light suddenly failed. The members of the Poetry Club descended into the Quadrangle and Mr. van Druten received such a reception that it was deemed desirable for him to leave as inconspicuously as possible. The secretary of the Poetry Society in order to escape from the crowd climbed a drainpipe, and was allowed to come down only when he promised that the Poetry Society would hold no further meetings in Lincoln College.

Here is Real Food Value

THERE is there another food so supremely good to eat, and at the same time as "good for you," as VELVEETA?

This Kraft creation is the result of a brand-new idea in cheese-making... the discovery of a way to include greater quantities of Vitamins, Lactose (milk sugar), Calcium and other valuable milk minerals than it was ever possible to put into a cheese product before.

These elements, added to the choicest Canadian Cheddar cheese, give this velvet-smooth, exquisitely flavoured delicacy the food-values of a super-cheese

Made with painstaking care, safeguarded by pasteurization, and as digestible as milk itself, VELVEETA is especially good for children—and they love it!

It spreads like butter . . . melts, dissolves and blends with other foods for every cooking purpose . . . or it may be sliced.

VELVEETA is sold only in ½-lb. carton

GRAY WOOL MAKES THIS SIMPLE COAT.

I have used a grey wool to make this simple coat, and have used fur of the same tone to make the collar. A yoke in the back gives a tailored air, and the full flaring skirt is youthful and smart. The close fitting sleeves are finished with three buttons, which still further carry out the tailored suggestion.

ISSUES WRIT AGAINST STORE

TORONTO, Ont., June 27.—Rudyard Kipling, noted English poet, issued a writ here yesterday through a representative against a Toronto departmental store for alleged infringement of copyright, claiming that certain selections from "Barrack Room Ballads" are used on certain phonograph records advertised and sold by the store. He seeks an injuction to prevent further sale of the records on which are included "Danny Deever," "Boots" and "On the Road to Mandalay."

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

STUDYING HUMAN BEHAVIOR

When you were a youngster and mis behaved there was only one thought in your mind and that was that you'd have to "pay up" for it in some way.

If it was a thrashing, you took it, and that temporarily ended the matter.

If you decided to try and get out of the punishment you perhaps thought up ways and means, even excuses, to avoid the punishment entirely, or to get a "lighter" licking.

If you didn't get the whipping you likely received a "scolding" which likewise ended the matter for the time being.

Such a thing as having your teacher or your parent investigate matters to try and find out why you misbehaved, was not even thought of.

However, you and I are not just animals but human beings, and sometimes we are like the little girl that was very very good, or like the little boy who was very very bad.

We do not always measure up to what folks expect us to be, or to what we ourselves know we should be.

Now there is no question but that some of the things we say and do and of which we are ashamed are due to overwork, worry, fatigue, some hereditary trait, and most frequently to illness.

You can see how a man's behavior can affect different departments of life.

It seems only natural therefore to see the announcement of the establishment of an "Institute of Human Relations", and that $7,460,000 in gifts and subsidies is available for its use.

This institute will be affiliated with the Medical School, and also the Law School, of Yale University, and perhaps other departments, so that students may be trained to think of their professions as concerning human beings rather than test tubes, statute books, codes and creeds.

This means that ministers, physicians, lawyers, social workers and others will use all the available knowledge of their respective calling for the benefit of mankind as a whole.

It is certainly a wonderful step forward as we think of our hospitals, reformatories, prisons, and other institutions, and realize that some measures wil ne put forth, that will help to a considerable extent to lessen the number of prospective inmates of these institutions.

CABIN CRUISER FROM NEW YORK TOURING TRENT

High Official in Eastman Kodak Company Well Pleased With Trip.

PARTY OF SIX.

Attracted To Local Water By Trent Waterway Exhibit Last Winter.

A long, white, glistening craft, one of the forerunners of the palatial cabin cruisers that yearly pass through Peterborough waters, lay at anchor at George street wharf yesterday. It was the "Ivirna" of New York, owned by W. B. Cooke, a high official in the Eastman Kodak Company in that city. The luxurious yacht attracted much attention as it hove to at George street wharf and the smartly clad sailors busied themselves securing the craft. Its graceful lines, suggestive of speed, luxury and comfort, gave the large boat an impressive appearance.

Mr. Cooke is the master of the ship as well as the owner. With a party of six, he is on a cruise from New York up into Canadian waters and back. From New York, the craft came up the barge canal to Oswego, on Lake Ontario, thence across the lake to Trenton and up the Trent Waterways to Peterborough. Mr. Cooke intends to traverse the Trent system to Georgian Bay and return by way of the Great Lakes. The party has been five days on the trip up from New York.

Most Modern Conveniences.

The craft is 60 feet in length, with a 13 foot beam, drawing 4 feet of water. It has all the conveniences and comforts of a modern hotel with state-rooms to accommodate twelve persons, a dining compartment, a bathroom with hot and cold water and other conveniences, such as electricity for cooking, heating and water pressure. It affords a comfortable lounge space on deck and a common-room below.

Mr. Cooke told The Examiner that he decided to tour the Trent Waterways as a result of visiting the Trent Waterways exhibit at the National Motor Boat Show in New York City. He said that, after conversing with the management of the exhibit, he formed such an alluring picture of this district that he decided to make the trip.

Mr. Cooke spends about four months of each year on the water and journeys to many sections of the continent. In winter it is his custom to cruise to Florida, but this is the first time he has taken his craft into these waters. He states that he is more than pleased with the trip

May Have Trouble At Railway.

The party have some doubts regarding the possibility of transporting the large boat on the marine railway over the unfinished parts of the Trent Canal. The yacht is about the maximum size that can be carried and some trouble may be experienced. This feature of the Trent Canal turns away hundreds of such boats yearly that would make the trip through these waters, says F. H. Stinson, the managing secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. Thus the two short stretches of unfinished canal cause a great many of the most desirable type of tourists to go elsewhere.

The fact that Mr. Cooke was induced to journey to Ontario by the Trent Waterways exhibit at the New York Show is an indication of the value of the exhibit to this district. Regarding the exhibit, Mr. Stinson reports that hundreds of inquiries are made each year concerning vacation possibilities in this section of Ontario. The attendance at the Motor Boat Show has doubled in the last year and at the last show was 235,000. As a result, the Trent Waterways exhibit is increasing greatly as an asset to Ontario.

Above shows: (1) Even the sheerest of chiffon voile dinner frocks does not escape the vogue for plaids Shades of green and palest yellow cross and criss-cross in the trailing coolness of this model. (2) Nothing is more delightful on a summer's evning than a hemline trailing wilmy, fishtail draperies. Nor is there any substitute for sleeves more modish than a ruffled fichu, which goes on and on until it is almost a cape Black chiffon figured in gorgeous yellow roses is the material chosen for this dinner and dance frock. (3) Bubble print in navy blue and white makes a daytime version of that delightful model which makes sure of the swathed hipline by attaching a rippling skirt to a wide girdle.

ADMISSION IS LIMITED TO 600 COUPLE AT BALL

Large Percentage of Tickets Available Have Already Been Sold.

PLANS ARE COMPLETED.

Armouries Will Be Decorated in Gold and Soft Yellow.

Those who want tickets for the big feature dance of Old Home Week in the Armouries on Wednesday night, are advised by the Old Home Week dance commitee to procure them immediately According to reports made at a meeting of the dance committee last night, a good percentage of the tickets available have already been sold. In view of the demand it was decided to limit the admission to six hundred couples.

Arrangements are being rapidly completed by Art. Costello and his workers. Decorations for the gala affair are in the hands of Edward Erb, an expert from the Interlake Tissue Company of Toronto. As outlined at the meeting by Mr. Erb, the entire inside of the Armouries will be done in gold and soft yellow. The rafters and roof will be concealed by a beautiful light decoration while the walls will be completely covered by a complex arrangement of the beautiful decorative materials. The efect will be enhanced by the use of hidden lights that will augment with a variety of soft colours the richness of the decorations.

Erect Special Platforms

Arrangements were concluded for the erection of special spotlight platforms. It was reported that a means for treating the floor had been evolved that would make it as suitable for dancing as a regular ball room floor.

The committee intends that the big dance shall be of a very high-class type. It is felt that with such an orchestra as that of Jerry Shea's and with preparations as extensive as those now being carried out, the dance can be little other than high-class. At the same time it is hoped that the carnival spirit will prevail so that the event will be in spirit like all the other activities of the week and be one to be remembered for many years.

The committee wishes to call attention to the fact once more, that tickets are on sale at Bond's Drug Store, Riley and Hickey's, J. A. McNabb's, Jack Primeau's Al. Sharpe's, Empress Hotel and White House. The members unanimously agree that no complimentary tickets of any description should be given out and readily assented to a suggestion that the committee members themselves should lead off by buying tickets. The admission is three dollars a couple although rumours name many fanciful prices for the affair.

The sub-committee in charge of the community dancing, which will be held every night on Aylmer beside the C. N. R. freight shed, has been very busy and all is in readiness. It is planned that the dancing will be opened by Mayor Denne. Even the eventuality of rain has been considered and a large area in the freight shed has been prepared The success of these free dances is assured.

On Peterborough night, Friday the 5th, prizes are being awarded for the best "hard-time" costumes at the party This is certain to attract a lot of interest.

The chairman of the committee reports that the streets will be flushed by the firemen every evening between six and seven and will be ready for dancing when needed.

Hawks Takes-Off On Round Trip Flight; Hopes To Establish Three Air Records

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N.Y., June 27.—(Canadian Press).—Captain Frank M. Hawks took off at 5.15 a.m. (E.D.T.) on a round trip flight to Los Angeles where he expects to stop only long enough to refuel.

He hoped to establish three records, that for the round trip, from east to west and west to east. The non-stop record to the Pacific coast is 24 hours, 51 minutes established by the late C. B. D. Collyer and Harry Tucker The west to east record is 18 hours 21 minutes established by himself.

Colonel E. M. Roberts, representing the National Aeronautic Association, gave 5:12:51 as the official take-off time.

The plane carried 550 gallons of gasoline, an earlier plan of carrying 615 gallons being abandoned due to the additional weight making the plane tail heavy. Captain Hawks said it would take him three hours to refuel and then would immediately take off again for the return trip. The plane's engine is capable of 185 miles an hour.

Making the flight along means that he will have to let the plane fly itself fifteen minutes of every hour while he pumps fuel from the main tank in the fuselage up to the wing tanks from which it will feed the motor by gravity.

The take-off of the plane was perfect and before his departure Captain Hawks was assured of excellent flying weather along the entire route except over Missouri, where thunder showers were reported. This, however, he said would not bother him.

ESKIMO YOUTHS ARE RETURNING TO HOME LAND

he replied, meaning the birds are not chickens.

On leaving, Sam shouted to The Examiner, "Come back and I beat you at checkers again." He is recovering nicely from his illness, and all the nurses at the hospital make a big fuss over him.

Dr. Buchanan, eye, ear and nose specialist, who attended the lads, believes that they are better for having gone through this illness and to have it out of their system before they go home.

The experiment of bringing two Eskimo boys to Canada and expecting them to be healthy has failed, but from one point of view has been favorable in that it has shown that the race is not inferior to that of the white man, according to Ven. A. L. Flemming, who bore the responsibility of the enterprise.

So now Sam, who has been placed on a farm near Pickering and Ben who is in the hospital, are waiting until the big boat comes and takes them to Baffin Land.

Frank May, secretary of Robert Simpson Co., will become assistant to president under the reorganization, it is announced.

STREET RAILWAY MEN DECIDE TO STRIKE

Vote of London Transportation Employees Is Unanimous.

LONDON, Ont., June 27 (Canadian Press).— A strike ballot taken by men of the Street Railway Men's Union was counted at 2.30 this morning and showed unanimity in the decision to walk out unless the company pays a wage increase awarded last year by the Ontario Railway Board.

John Colbert, president of the Union, said to-day there will be no further negotiations between the men and the company on the wage question. He intimated that he would ask Mayor Kilpatrick to call upon the Railway Board to enforce its wage award, failing which the men would walk out. The wage increase at stake averages two cents an hour.

SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR HOLIDAYS

Close To Four Thousand City Children Are Free For Two Full Months.

BEST DAY OF YEAR.

"Hey! Skinny; school's out. Let's go swimmin'."

Close to four thousand healthy, happy public and separate school children of this city were released from the boredom of study and discipline of school life at noon to-day. Out of the ten schools they surged in a joyous stampede, laughing, shouting, all enthusiastic over the long weeks of holidays that stretch far before them.

The opening of these holidays for young Peterborough is especially joyous. Great days lie just ahead. Old Home Week, the returning Old Boys will have a big time, but it is safe to say that the children will have the greatest thrill of all.

Memories of examinations were all forgotten this morning in the joyous leave-taking from the confines of school. But a few weeks hence, echoes of the success or failure of their efforts will come to haunt them. Many a youngster will stop to wonder with a shudder, perhaps just as he is ready to flip into the waters of the Otonabee: "Did I pass or didn't I? Gee! what's the use."

It is estimated that 98 per cent of Peterborough's school children are successful at examinations, so the number who may be caused to mourn when the results are out will be comparatively small. The youngsters can take it with a philosophical trend of mind. It's the dads and mothers who cause the sorrow.

Meanwhile young Peterborough is on holiday, and the best days of the year are here.

The Truth About Pirates

II

"The Little Shoes of Ravenau"

by

Robert D. Andrews

Another true romance in the new series of pirate adventure tales, adapted into modern style from forgotten records of two centuries ago.

This was Ravenau de Lussan—little, a Beau Nash of pirates, a darling of the French court, dainty, perfumed, proud of his tiny boots, but deadly when he fought, a good man to head a crew of land raiders anywhere along the Spanish Main. (From a print more than two centuries old.)

A PROBLEM of shoes saved Ravenau.

Without that problem, he might have married the widow, turned Spaniard, forgotten the graces of the golden court. Without that problem, he might have gone on giving lectures to quivering prisoners, and assuring terrified young lady captives, "Other pirates are cannibals. But me—I am a gentleman."

But the problem was there, and the shoes were not. And so, rather soon, De Lussan also was not there.

Yet while the Number Four shoes held out, De Lussan was a great success. A little man, a quiet man, a dandy and a fop, with lace cuffs and a mincing walk and a sweet voice, he was a wasp that stung with a bright deadly rapier. A little man, he was instinct with the calm self possession, the rare courage, of such little men. A little man, he might have been the Napoleon of the landgoing pirates—if there had not been that problem of the shoes.

So let us talk of shoes, and De Lussan, and the widow of the West Coast, and how France won back the gaudiest little pirate ever known upon the Spanish Main.

His full name was Le Sieur Raveneau de Lussan. If you would follow all his adventures, from childhood to the court, from court to Tortuga, from Tortuga to the Spanish Mainland, from near marriage back to France, you may read them as he chronicled them in "Jouraal du Voyage fait a la Mer de sud avec les Flibustiers de l'Amerique en 1684." If you would know the essence of the tale, it goes like this:

He was a dandy at the gaudy, grand French court. Picquet and baccarat, or even whether it would rain or shine—he gambled always. And he lost more than he won.

A very little man, compact and hard, he fought his duels, and won. A very little man, he ruffled it with soldiers and with dukes, and never lost his arrogance. He was a pleasant figure feted, loved. Yet he would gamble. Therein lay his fall. He gambled, and kept on, until one day the money lenders said "No more!" and took his castle and his lands in Provence, and his house in Paris, all at once.

He did not know quite what to do. He turned to his court friends, and found them cold. A king of dandies, fallen, is a king no more. There was no place for him, unless he could find gold. He thought, consulted, found a way.

He pawned his jewels, pawned his pictures and his books. All that he raised was little, if he lived at court. But it was a good stake for the business which lay ahead.

He dropped from knowledge of the court. With nine rapiers, full twenty changes of silk suits, and thirty pairs of shoes, he set out for the pirate coast. These shoes were his chief treasure. De Lussan, quite vain, was vainest of his tiny feet. His shoes were made to order. He picked out the leather, and it must be soft and fine. The boots must fit without a wrinkle, glowingly. They were his chief extravagance, save gambling, and his greatest pride.

Picture him landing on Tortuga, then—the haunt of pirates and the den of buccaneers. A low, black island, with a towering peak of rock thrust up to glower in the middle. Thieves, murderers and hard adventurers everywhere. Black, yellow, white, they mixed and fought, and drank and gambled, till their loot was gone. No morning dawned, without a killing in the night. A little man was doomed before he landed. Yet De Lussan stepped on the beach, garbed all in brilliant red, fine lace at throat and wrists, embroidery upon his flaring coat, bright buckles on his shiny shoes, and vanity and arrogance in his walk. He was a bird of paradise, dropped in a nest of vultures, hooted, followed, made a show. He saw it, flared, and leaped at one tall man. A single line of light moved from his arm straight at the pirate's heart. The man fell heavily, and lay quite still. Three others leaped together, leaped back quickly from the long rapier, rushed in with great swords swinging, found a master in this little man. He played with them. He taunted these tall pirates, bitingly. He lashed out with his thin rapier, and one man's eyes were gone. He pinked another through the arm, and laughed. That laugh was cold and mirthless, filled with death. The third man dropped his sword, and ran.

De Lussan took out a silken kerchief, patted it across his face, sighed slightly, wiped his sword upon the dead man's shirt, and looked around.

"I am a stranger, and I am alone," he told the circling pirates. "Yet I know you all are dogs. Dogs! Move a step, and I shall kill you all."

They laughed. They roared. They cheered. They loved this little man.

These pirates loved a bit of melodrama, if it were well done. They loved a hero out of books, and here he was. So tiny that he seemed a child, so deadly that no man might face his sword. A man! Their brother! One reached out to take him by the arm. De Lussan jerked away, wiped at the arm, and cried out "Keep your filthy hands away. You must not touch a gentleman!" They roared again. They loved this little man.

He was a nine day's wonder, on the pirate island. There had been pirate poets, pirate fops. All these had died, not pleasantly, because they dared to be so different. But De Lussan was different, which was why they loved him. And he loved the part. He strutted on a new and barbarous stage, through that first week. He told them glaring lies about the great French court, and found them all believed. He cursed the pirates, scorned them, mocked their crudities. They liked it all. They swore he was a marvel, and they found him great.

So when a week had passed, he found it simple to do business with these buccaneers. He chose them cleverly. This man he took, this man he turned away, this man he tested, laughed at, set aside, until he had a crew of sixty, black, hard bitten, murderous—a pirate crew to follow him to gold. He donned his finest suit, his bravest pair of boots. He put on a new sword, its handle gay with rubies, and went to buy a ship.

Within this pirate harbor there were many ships, some captive, empty, some not fitted out, some ready for new raids across the sea. He chose one, found its owner, struck a bargain, gasping at his luck. He got the ship for less than half what he had planned to pay. He found it stored with food some Englishman had owned. He found good guns from some French ship. He got his men aboard, and named a sailing master, and put out to sea.

Behind him, pirates sorrowed that their favored child was gone. But De Lussan thought nothing of the pirate island. He was too busy, too successful. His pirates learned how busy he could be. Each day at dawn, he had them out for prayers. Each Sunday, he would read a psalm, and lead their prayers. There was no swearing and no drinking, save at his behest. It was a moral ship, a model pirate ship. And lucky from the start.

He did not risk his precious life at sea. He had no taste for ugly, smelly battles. He was too clever for such childish play. He sailed along the Spanish Mainland, hunting towns. The first was white walled, and small, with a tall church within the walls. This town he took in an attack by night, and when the startled Spaniards woke, they found a small and dainty pirate in command. He brought the priests from the cathedral, had them read the mass, and sent them back unharmed. He ordered every citizen into the square, and made the first of many speeches. While his captives listened terrified, the little pirate said:

"I am no pirate. No, I am a gentleman—a gentleman, straight from the royal court of France. You poor barbarians may well fail to understand. Yet I am a gentleman. I am no pirate, rough and cruel like the others. I ask only for your gold, which I shall take no matter what you say. You have no need for gold in such a jungle land as this. Your gold will make me happy, at the court. So let us have it, freely, pleasantly. Then I shall be your friend."

They did not know quite what to think. This prancing coxcomb, making rounded speeches, was too much for them. Some captives laughed. That was a grave mistake. Some captives laughed, and died. No others made the same mistake.

He left that town with gold locked in the strong room, jewels in the chest. His pirates gathered round, admiring, aped the polish of his courtly insolence, told each other "Lucky. Here is a captain born to luck. We shall do well, with little De Lussan."

And they were right. Through one long year, he led them up and down the coast. The Spaniards raged and sent out ships. The scornful little man laughed sharply, got away.

Always, in every captured town, he made the same set speech.

Once, when he found a girl, and ordered his men to take her to the square to hear his speech, he stepped back startled when the girl burst out, "But will you eat me? Will you eat me?"

He told her what a great and noble man he was. He sent the courtier, he got the story. Word was out, through all the Spanish towns, that all pirates were but cannibals; that, actually, they ate their captives, without benefit of cooking, pepper or salt. He was stunned. He was shocked. He was stricken.

"Dear lady," said the pirate De Lussen. "That is a fable, never true of me. I am a gentleman. Because you fear me so, and are so pretty, I shall let you go. Know that no other pirate was like me, that not in all America is another buccaneer like De Lussan. And know . . . ."

He told her what a great and noble man he was. He sent her home with an escort of honor, chosen from his tallest, best clothed pirates. But first he told the pirates:

"Now, I am a gentleman. And yet the lady wears fine rings. See that you bring the rings, and any gold you find about the house. We must not overlook our business."

Hard rules and strict, he wrote and kept enforced. The pirates were as gentle as De Lussan himself, to every woman captive. Never any word that was not honorable and kind. Never any forgetting that this pirate cruise was a business venture, that money was all that mattered. So they got the money.

Until at last he went into his cabin one day, and called the three scarred, hideous filibusters who were his personal valets, and had one curl his hair, another brush his clothes—and found in horror that he had but two pairs of sound boots left in his stock. The mud, the brambles, the hard rocks of America had ruined all the others. The cobblestones of tiny towns, the accidents of scaling walls and storming forts—these had cut down the store of beautiful, small boots—to four. And De Lussan, successful pirate, groaned. It was a ghastly thing, to him. What would he do, he asked? They told him, "No such boots are made in the Americas." They proved it, bringing in the finest product of the largest towns he took—great, ugly, clumping, worthless shoes. He groaned again, and did not know quite what to do.

So then the widow helped him solve the problem of the boots.

He stormed a large and sturdy town, on the west coast of South America. Brave dons came out, in armor, fighting hard. They gave death, while they took. They died, but never fled. They fought long, desperately, and well. And in the forefront of the pirates, leaping in and not to be denied, ran De Lussan, the little man, his sword a potent messenger of death, his busy mind already counting up the spoils.

They took the town after one hour of battle. Thirty pirates were dead or dying, and he had no surgeon. De Lussan did what he could to ease the dying men, then set about the business of collecting money once again.

They brought the people to the square, and De Lussan stood up and made his speech. Long practise had given him fluency and marvelous expression. Long, loud and flowingly, he told the people what a man he was. And one large woman, ugly, richly gowned, stood up and cheered.

That made the pirate stagger. That was something new. The other Spaniards glowered, scowled and hissed. Yet still the woman cheered. And finally came forward, insisting, "I must talk with you." Weak, uncertain, De Lussan said, "Bring her to my headquarters." So they did.

Her beauty did not grow upon close sight. She was not young, she was not small, she was not graceful. She was rather fat.

He let her speak.

"You slew my husband, but an hour ago," she said. "He was this city's treasurer—a wealthy man, a fine man, a true husband, very good. But yet you slew him, just an hour ago."

"Well?"

De Lussan was puzzled, and a trifle disconcerted.

"Well, he is dead. He was a noble man, and he is dead. Now I have no husband. So I have decided. . . ."

Here she paused.

"Well," once again. "Well?"

"So I have decided you shall be my husband in his place. Look you—" she watched a startled terror spread across the small man's handsome face—"look you, I am left quite alone. Yet my husband was a wealthy man. Now I am wealthy. And I am in love with you . . . "

He cleared his throat, looked helplessly about, and caught his pirates grinning, laughing, hiding roars of mirth. He cursed them, shouted "Take that woman to her home!" went raging back into the looted house which was his office, sat alone. And thought.

Well, after all?

De Lussan was moved. Wealth, peace, power, in a town where he would always be the star, in a lifelong brilliant drama. It was quite a thing. He was so weary of his piracies, so very weary of his black browed crew. He could have a fine home, he could have plenty of gold, he could gamble all he wished. It was quite a thing. . . .

He went back to the streets, still thinking, greatly moved. He found a shadow following, turned, and saw it was the woman, back again. One more, she made her speech. Now she had whispered with the town trustees, she said. All welcomed such a gentleman as he. They felt their city needed brains like his. They felt her offer was a fine one, justified. They longed to have him be town treasurer, taking her dead husband's place.

Once more, he told his pirates "Take her far away!" Once more, he sat and thought.

What should he do? He did not know. He thought about it, while he ate. He thought about it, while his pirate valets brought a suit of crimson damask, brilliant in the candle light. Then he looked closer, at the suit. He saw the damask frayed, the breeches patched above the knee, a golden button gone. The penalty of piracy, that was. He thought again. He donned the suit, still speaking of its defects and its wear. He called for shoes.

The tallest, most scarred of his pirates came, bringing two shoes upon a tray. These De Lussan held up to look at in the light. And suddenly he leaped up, cursing, forgetting stocking feet, kicking a table leg and dancing back in pain.

"Boots!" he said, over and over. "Boots!"

Suddenly, he quieted. A messenger had entered.

"Outside is a lady, lord," he said. "The lady. She would marry you."

"What? Her?" the pirate screamed. "Well, lock her in the city dungeon, and put chains on her and a sturdy gag. Take her at once. And take the word . . . . we sail at dawn."

Amazed, incredulous, the pirate turned away. The valets all came hurrying, to bring the pirate's wardrobe, and he looked at it.

"One pair of shoes," he said. "But one pair left. And those already worn!"

It was enough.

No more than a month after that, he landed in Hispaniola, told his pirate crew "Farewell!" made disposition of the fortune he had gained, took passage for France, and disappeared from American history.

He went back to the court of France. Once more, he gambled. Once more, he won and lost. Soon much of his great loot was gone. Yet De Lussan was happy. He had forty pairs of boots, and more pairs being made. He asked for nothing finer. He was quite content.

PETES AGAIN DROP DECISION TO SMELTORS

GREAT PITCHING BY HECKMAN WASTED WHEN DELORO WIN 3 TO 2 AIDED BY OFF COLOR UMPIRING

Petes Veteran Allows Deloro Only Five Scattered Hits YYet Loses.

DECISIONS HURT.

Wood Goes Route For Deloro After Getting Off To Bad Start.

(By F. D. C.)

Al Heckman, veteran of the Peterborough pitching staff, delivered a superb performance on the mound at Deloro yesterday, but delivered it all in vain when three unearned runs proved enough to turn the Petes back for their fourth loss in succession.

Deloro won the game 3 to 2, despite the fact that Heckman, pitching with cunning and considerable stuff, held them to five hits, no two of which came in the same inning. Off colored umpiring—and the description is used advisedly—and a couple of defensive slips offset the great effort of the dean of the Petes' pitching brigade.

The umpiring hurt worse than the errors; in fact the Petes claim and apparently with justification, that it took mistakes on the part of both arbitrators to get Deloro's first run over the counting station and certainly there were two decisions, one on the part of each official in the first half of the third frame, that putting it most charitably gave Deloro none the worst of the breaks and stopped the Petes short when a big inning looked certain.

The losers did more crabbing over these plays than they have done in many a moon, and under the circumstances their ire was excusable, seeing that the ball game was won and lost on a series of what looked to be bad guesses in close succession by the officiating pair.

It is seldom—not a half dozen times in the long history of the Central loop—that the work of umpires has been criticized in these columns, but the Petes were undoubtedly the victims yesterday of umpiring that was below standard.

Outside of this phase the game was one of the best of the season. The fielding was smart and Heckman and Carl Wood had an interesting pitching duel all the way through, after a shaky start by the latter who was in difficulties in the early stages and needed the breaks on the decisions referred to, to pull him out of the hole. He levelled away after the third, however, and was only in trouble in one inning from then on.

The Petes started the scoring by getting a run in the second after Quinn had tied the score in Deloro's half, the Swanston crew went out in front again in the next inning with a one run lead only to have Deloro tie it up again in the fifth. The teams battled on even terms until the eighth when an error followed by a timely triple by Buck gave the Smelters gang the win.

The contest was featured by the hitting and throwing of Max Swanston. The Petes' pilot, who had four hits out of five trips to the plate in Saturday's game, came back with three more in three official appearances yesterday, while in addition he threw out three would-be base stealers. Legon contributed some classy outfielding in centre for the Petes while for Deloro George Scott at short handled eight chances smartly and Jimmy Hughes, the first baseman, turned in a fast play on a ground ball to fore a runner at second.

The Play In Detail.

The first frame was soon over. Legon rolled to G. Scott. Rose drew a pass and was sacrificed to second by Swanston, but Wood tossed out Heckman.

For Deloro Ralph grounded to Rose and Buck fanned. Elliott walked, but died stealing, Swanston to H. Hollingsworth.

The Petes started the scoring in the second. Jimmy Hall slammed a single through short and went to second on Red Hollingsworth's sacrifice. Harrison walked and Jake Hall dropped a short single into left field, filling the bases. Jimmy Hall scored on Sweetman's sacrifice bunt, Legon walked, again crowding the sacks, but Rose rolled to Elliott.

The umpiring arguments started in Deloro's half. First, the Petes claimed Umpire Kay missed two strikes on Art Quinn. Anyway the Deloro catcher eventually walked. Then after W. Scott had struck out Swanston made a quick throw to Harrison and Quinn was caught off first, only to have Umpire Meagher call him safe. Eventually after all this Quinn scored Deloro's first run, stealing second and going on to third when Swanston threw low. Heckman tossed out G. Scott, holding Quinn on third, but Hughes singled over third to send the run in. Brown popped to Rose.

More strenuous kicking in the third. Swanston led off for the Petes with a single past third and Heckman followed with another to left, Swanston going to third when Brown made a bad throw in. Heckman stole second. Jimmy Hall's liner was right at G. Scott. Red Hollingsworth singled over second scoring Swanston. Heckman also came in on the drive but Umpire Kay called him out at the plate, to the disgust of the Petes, who didn't like the decision and swarmed round the plate to tell His Umps about it and then came Base Umpire Meagher's turn for another one. Harrison hit to G. Scott and though Hughes' foot was plainly off the bag, Meagher called the runner out. Those two decisions called what looked like a big inning for the Petes.

In Deloro's half Wood grounded to Harrison. Hollingsworh tossed out Ralph and after Buck had walked, Swanston cut down the Kingston flyer with a perfect throw to Rose as Buck tried to steal second.

Jake Hall opened the fourth with a foul to Quinn. Sweetman drew a pass but Legon popped to Wood and Rose flied to Buck.

Elliott started Deloro's half by drawing his second walk, but was left on first when Quinn and W. Scott were retired on fine catches by Legon and G. Scott gave Rose and easy one.

Swanston got his second hit of the game, a single past G. Scott, to begin the fifth, but Heckman was called out on strikes, and Jimmy Hughes made a fast play to force Swanston at second Jimmy Hall's roller. Red Hollingsworth also grounded to Hughes.

An error by Hollingsworth paved the way for the tieing run in Deloro's end of the frame. He fumbled a roller from Hughes' bat and the Deloro first baseman scored on Brown's double to left centre. The batter tired to stretch the hit into a triple but a fast Legon to Hollingsworth to Sweetman relay caught him sliding into third. Hollingsworth tossed out Wood and Sweetman made a nice catch of Ralph's foul near the Peterborough bench.

The Petes died in order in the sixth. Harrison rolled to Elliott. Wood tossed out Jake Hall and Sweetman flied to Brown.

Buck flied to Legon, Elliott singled to right. Quinn struck out. Elliott died stealing, Swanston to Rose.

The Petes had a good chance in the seventh. After Legon had grounded out to G. Scott Rose singled to centre and Swanston followed with his third hit in succession a single to left. Heckman drove Brown back to the edge of the field for his long fly and Jimmy Hall hit one back to Wood, who threw him out.

W. Scott started Deloro off well with a single to left and G. Scott sacrificed but Hughes flied to Legon and Hollingsworth's throw beat Brown to first.

In the eighth Hollingsworth lined to G. Scott, Harirson rolled to Elliott and the latter also grabbed Jake Hall's good bid for a hit. Deloro won out in their half. Hollingsworth fumbled Wood's roller long enough to give the Smelter's pitcher a life. Buck cracked a triple to right, which Jake Hall might have reached had not a post been in the way. Wood, of course, scored on the play. Deloro tried the squeeze play twice but Elliott fouled the ball both times and eventually struck out and Heckman also fanned Quinn.

The Petes got nowhere in the ninth. Len Hollingsworth batted for Sweetman and rolled to Wood. Legon flied to G. Scott and Rose struck out.

SOFTBALL.

Tied with two wins and a loss each Western Clock and Bridgenorth will battle it out at Central School grounds on Friday night. Both these teams possess snappy aggregations and a good game is looked for.

After dropping their first start Western Clock have taken two in a row and are sailing along in great style. Bridgenorth is also coming along in good style. Western Clock will start either Delahaye or Curry on the mound while Bridgenorth will have Dormer and Forsythe ready.

The game is called for 6.30 Friday night and should be a good drawing card.

Harrisons and Teco are the opposing nines to-night.

PHILLIES IN SIXTH PLACE

Defeat Braves in Double-header 6-0 and 5-2—Reds Beat Pittsburgh

GIANTS VICTORS 3-2.

BOSTON, Mass., June 27 (Canadian Press).—The Phillies went back into sixth place yesterday by taking a double-header from the Braves, 6-0 and 5-2. Claude Willoughby held the Boston team to three scattered hits in the second game after Ray Benge had held them to seven in the first.

REDS BEAT PIRATES.

PITTSBURGH, June 27. — (Canadian Press).—Pounding out five of their eight hits in the sixth inning, the Reds yesterday defeated Pittsburgh, 6 to 4, in the first game of the series here. The attack on Kremer netted Cincinnati five runs.

OVERCAME ROBIN JINX.

NEW YORK, June 27.—(Canadian Press).—The Giants overcame their Brooklyn jinx here yesterday when they shaded Dazzy Vance by 3 to 2 in 11 innings for their only victory in the series of four games.

Carl Mays and Jack Scott divided the pitching, holding Brooklyn to five hits, and Scott drove home the winning run when he followed O'Farrell's double with a single after two men had been retired.

Raybestos Score Early Lead of Five Runs in First Frame.

MAUDSLEY WILD.

Given Sterling Support By His Team Mates—Game Ends in Verbal Battle.

Raybestos stopped Port Hope, Lakeshore league leaders, with a 7 to 3 score at Exhibition Park last evening, the contest waxing warm on two occasions including an exhibition of the talkies at the finish over a decision by base-umpire Alex Hills of Port Hope, and an argument on the length of the game. Port Hope with a flock of officials ,insisted that the game should go nine innings, while Raybestos held out for the abbreviated form, which Manager Primeau claimed had ruled in former twilight contests. The visitors left the field with threats of a protest.

The incident which brought Alex Hills into the limelight must have brought a smile from the oldtimers in the grandstand. Alex, when playing for Port Hope, lost all his teeth grinding out oratory against umpires. Last night he refused to take any sass from players following his decisions. In the sixth, Harry Corrin lost a decision at first, and uttering only a mild protest, was promptly ejected from the game by Mr. Hills. The frame ended with the Rays preparing a substitute in right field, but Alex. relented and permitted Corrin to continue. Then the visitors raised a howl, but to no avail.

MAUDSLEY UNSTEADY

Scotty Maudsley was wild as the waves from a sea flea, but plenty good enough to give the visitors their first loss in five starts. He had a bad turn in the fourth, when the Hopers got two of their three runs, but recovered to strike out the top of the batting order. Opposed to him was Wakely, also a southpaw, who turned back the Rays at Port Hope. Wakely shaped up well in spite of the weird first innings.

Hudson, leading off for the visitors, hit the first pitched ball at Maudsley and went out at first. Walton was passed, remaining at the bag to watch Moise and Boyd strike out.

Moise placed the youthful Wakely in a hole by playing Batten's roller poorly, the runner making the bag. H. Nicholls was passed and Rogers fanned. Collins drew a pass to fill the bases. Corrin shot a single through the right infield to score Batten and Nicholls, and when Rightfielder Smeyd, who fielded the ball, lost his range and threw to the east grandstand, Collins and Corrin also scored. Mein was thrown out by the shortstop but Moore doubled, and going down to third, scored on Walton's error off Maudsley's drive down third. Hickey drove a hot one at the third baseman and he handled it, to retire the side.

In the second, Devine was passed and Smeyd flied to Hickey. McMahon singled into short middle and when Rowcliffe tapped to Maudsley, the play to third got Devine. With Wakely up, Rowcliffe went down to second. Collins' throw to Batten was high, but the runner went out as he slipped off the bag.

For Raybestos, Batten slashed a hit off the third baseman and he stole. Nicholls and Rogers struck out, but Collins dumped a single into middle to score Batten. Corrin struck out.

Port Hope went out quickly in the third. Wakely fanned, Hudson popped to Batten, Walton walked and Moise was tossed out by Maudsley.

SEVENTH RUN

Raybestos took their seventh and last run. Mein flied out to McMahon, Moore was safe when Boyd dropped Walton's throw. He stole second and Maudsley fanned. Hickey lined across the middle bag to score Moore.

The Hopers got going in the fourth. Boyd singled through the right infield only to be forced by Devine, the Rays missing a double killing. Smeyd singled into right and McMahon loaded the bags by accepting a pass. Rowcliffe's single scored Boyd. With the bases still intoxicated, a pass to Wakely forced in a counter. Then Maudsley came to life and struck out Hudson and Walton.

Port Hope tried to break out again in the fifth, helping the visitors with a wild peg off Moise's grounder, the runner getting to second, and scoring on Boyd's double to left. It was a fly ball and Rogers misjudged it. Devine popped to Mein, who also threw out Smeyd. McMahon went out at first, on his tap to Maudsley.

Wakely opened poorly by passing Maudsley and Hickey. Batten flied out to Devine. H. Nicholls planted a real single into left, Maudsley holding up at third. Wakely made his exit and Russel, in a relief act fanned Rogers. Collins crocked out a long fly to McMahon.

In the sixth, Rowcliffe fanned, Wakely popped to Maudsley, Hudson hit, and Walton struck out.

Corrin was thrown out by the shortstop. Mein, after getting the bag on the first baseman's error, went out stealing and Moore fouled out to Boyd.

Port Hope went out in order in the seventh. Moise lined out to Hickey and Boyd and Devine struck out.

ATTEMPTS TO SHOOT PRIEST

CHICAGO, Ill., June 27.—(C.P.)—A man armed with a pistol invaded Our Lady of Sorrow Catholic Church early today and fired two shots at the priest, the Rev. Father J. Keenan. The bullets missed their mark but one wounded Richard Murphy, who was kneeling at the altar. The assailant, identified as Charles Foster, then turned the weapon upon himself, inflicting a slight scalp wound.

No motive for the shooting was established.

HOARDS TEAM IN THE CELLAR

Defeated By Petherick's Corners 22-17 After Hard Fought Struggle.

HEAVY SLUGGING.

PETHERICKS CORNERS, June 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—Petherick's softball team emerged from the cellar position on Monday evening, when in a hard-fought game on Hoard's grounds they defeated the southern team by a score of 22 to 17, thereby shoving that team to the bottom of the ladder at least temporarily.

Hoards fought desperately both on and off the field to stave off almost certain defeat and following a fourth inning rally which offset a good third inning by Pethericks, looked good to win. Five down in the sixth, the locals went in and pounded Pierce to put themselves one in the lead. Then Kerr went into the box, handicapped by a badly-strained arm and retired the side, two of them via the strike-out route. Still not satisfied though the gathering dusk rendered playing more or less of guesswork, Hoards took thme field again and Pethericks drove in six more counters.. Kerr again faced the gigantic task of holding down the score and he did it to the King's taste, striking out two while a third was out at first. The two runs scored were due to the inability of fielders to see the ball.

Heagle, with five hits and as many runs, and Hume with five hits and four runs, were the heavy hitters for Hoards. Jones, one of the usually sure batters of the team, failed to reach first.

Addie and Thompson looked good in the field in the early part of the game, but contributed a series of muffs at the last. Pierce, while not as steady in the box as in some games, fielded his position perfectly. Jeffs, behind the bat was, as usual, a tower of strength.

Every Pethericks player figured in the hit and run colums, with Gerald Petherick collecting a triple and a double in addition to two singles. Don Watson, playing his first game of the season, pulled off two sparkling catches as well as coming through with a timely double to clear the paths in the sixth. Grant Meiklejohn was the outstanding fielder for the local squad.

Much depends on the outcome of this week's games. Should Hoards be victorious in their journey to Springbrook on Thursday evening, there would be a three-cornered tie for third place. On the other hand Springbrook looks likely to win and this would mean a royal chance for the village team to pull up with the leaders.

Bethel tie into Menie on either Wednesday or Friday, and on this game depends the immediate league leadership.

With the surprises to date there is no certainty as to which team will cop the silverware, but Menie looks to have at least a better than even chance.

SPORTS DAY NEXT MONDAY

Third Annual Dominion Day Celebration Is Being Held At Deloro.

ROAD RACES.

MARMORA, June 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The third annual Dominion Day celebration is being held at Deloro next Monday and the committee of ex-Presidents of the Deloro Amateur Athletic Association which has this event under its care, is hoping for good weather and a big crowd. The two road races are being started at 11 a.m. The senior race for the Kent trophy will be run over a course extending approximately five miles with the Goat Hill turn on the Marmora road being the returning point.

Five entries have been received for this event. Up to the present entries do not include that of C. Fairweather, winner for 1927 and 1928. Twelve entries with the strongest possibility of additional ones, have been received in connection with the junior road race.

Three miles will be covered on the paved road between Deloro store and Devine's Corners. Entries for both races close on Saturday night.

During the day, a series of juvenile sports will also be held while at 4 p.m. Deloro's C.O.B.L. team will clash with Belleville and this will probably be the most attractive home fixture of the season since Deloro has again acquired a winning streak and they have several defeats in a string at the hands of Belleville to take revenge for.

EXTRA BASE HITS ACCOUNT FOR NEWARK'S 6-5 VICTORY

Two E. P. L. Games To-Morrow Night

Two East Peterborough League games will be played to-morrow evening, Crescents travelling to Bethany, and Hastings coming here to meet the Cogs at Exhibition Park at 6.30 o'clock. The Crescents have a hard game ahead of them at Bethany, and the unexpected may happen in the Hastings-Cogs tussle.

OSHAWA HERE SATURDAY TO MEET THE PETES

Motorists Expected To Toss Matthews In Against Homesters.

PETES HOPEFUL.

Expect To Snap Out of Their Slump at Expense of Oshawa.

Oshawa come here on Saturday for a Central Ontario League fixture with the Petes, the last game at James Stevenson Park for two weeks. Manager Swanston's crew despite the fact that they have dropped their last four starts, played good ball at Deloro yesterday and were outlucked rather than outplayed in a game in which Al. Heckman turned in one of his old time pitching performances.

This Oshawa crew has given the Petes plenty of trouble, both this season and last, but the Petes are determined to shake the jinx by giving the oMtorists a real lacing here Saturday and thus demonstrating that despite their losing streak they are still very much in the race, which has only started its second leg.

Manager Sutton of the Oshawa team will likely start Matthews against the Petes as the big right-hander has already beaten the homesters twice this season.

The game, coming on the first day of the Old Home Week doings and with no other attraction billed for that afternoon should draw a big crowd of visitors as well as the home fans. There are many baseball enthusiasts among the Toronto Scottish, who will likely be found on the side lines for the week-end battle.

YANKS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

Ruth Gets Thirteenth Homer of Season in First Game With Senators.

FIFTH STRAIGHT FOR A'S.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(Canadian Press).—Washington stood off a late rally by New York in the second game of a double-header to win, 4 to 3, after the Yankees had won the first contest, 7 to 0.

Herb Pennock pitched his best game of the season to shut the Senators out in the first game while Babe Ruth was hitting his thirteenth home run of the season.

CLOSE BEHIND YANKS.

ST. LOUIS, June 27. — (Canadian Press).—The Browns were but a half game behind the runner-up New York Yankees as a result of their 6 to 2 victory over Cleveland here yesterday, evening up the series count at two games each.

Manush, Schulte and Melillo were the big guns of the 11-hit St. Louis attack on Pitcher Hudlin, each with two safeties. The Indians collected seven off Collins.

WIN FIFTH STRAIGHT.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27 (Canadian Press).—The Philadelphia Athletics won their fifth straight game and swept the series with the Boston Red Sox yesterday by taking the final from the tailenders 6 to 5.

Bing Miller, Mack right-fielder, ran his hitting streak to 27 consecutive games by hitting Milt Gaston for a single and a two-bagger.

BREAK TIE IN NINTH.

DETROIT, June 27. — (Canadian Press).—A bit of concentrated hitting in the ninth inning broke a tie and enabled the Chicago White Sox to defeat the Tigers 5 to 3, in the final game of their series here yesterday. Detroit won the other two.

The Tigers took a three-run lead in the fourth inning, only to see it nullified a few minutes later by three Chicago runners who crossed the plate in the fifth.

EXTRA BASE HITS ACCOUNT FOR NEWARK'S 6-5 VICTORY

Toronto Has Record of One Victory and Four Defeats in Series.

DOUBLE FOR WINGS.

Fisher's Nineteenth Homer Allows Bisons 3-2 Decision Over Keys.

NEWARK, June 27.—(Canadian Press)—When extra base hits began begin to rattle off the opponents' bats and especially when they come at critical times, it is nothing but the curtains for your favorite team.

That explans the situation that existed here yesterday afternoon when the Toronto Maple Leafs shot down the wrong chute in the fifth and final game of the series.

The score was 6 to 5 and the Leafs left this fair city with a record of one victory and four defeats.

TAKES DOUBLE BILL

READING, June 27.—(Canadian Press).—Reading ended its home stand by taking a double licking from Buffalo here yesterday.

George Fisher's nineteenth home run of the season, hit in the tenth inning, gave the Bisons a 3 to 2 decision in the curtain-raiser.

Then the Herd walloped Eddie Holley and Nick Harrison for a 6 to 1 decision in the final.

DOUBLE FOR RED WINGS

BALTIMORE, June 27. — The Rochester Red Wings by hard and timely hitting took both ends of yesterday's doubleheader from the Birds 9 to 4 and 9 to 5 to end the series.

Home runs by Felix and Pepper gave the visitors a lead in the opening inning of the first game that was never overcome.

MONTREAL DIVIDES BILL

JERSEY CITY, June 27.—(Canadian Press).—Montreal divided a twin bill here yesterday with the Black Cats by taking the first game, 4 to 3, and dropping the second by a score of 1 to 0. The nightcap went to nine innings when Lee Head doubled, scoring Wera with the winning tally.

NATIONALS REGAIN LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

Defeat Oshawa 7-4 Before Large Crowd in Bay of Quinte Town.

BELLEVILLE, June 27 (C.P.). — Belleville Nationals regained the leadership of the Central Ontario League yesterday, when they defeated Oshawa by a score of 7—4. The largest crowd to have ever witnessed a ball game in this city was present, the game being played in conjunction with the celebration to Hon. R. B. Bennett.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

A NEW NERVE TONIC.

I see in the daily dispatches
That a German professor observes—
If I get him aright, that to toil at a height
On a skyscraper steadies the nerves.
Growing used to the danger of falling
(Which makes timid people feel queer)
Which the workman may do in a fortnight or two Removes the sensation of fear.

But if skyscrapers, why not volcanoes?
Why could not neurotics be cured
If to Etna's rude way of emitting hot spray
They got themselves fully innured?
Why could not a timorous person
For firm-fibered nerve tissue hope
If he set out to-day in a casual way
To stroll up Vesuvius' slope?

And then there is always a nose dive
Which a pers could take in a plane
A man, bit by bit, he lived when he lit,
Might look upon fear with disdain.
There are dozens of ways to brave danger
Each one of which probably serves,
If continued a while in a nonchalant style,
To steady the wobbliest nerves.

But there seems to be just one objection
To this plan the professor puts out
Only strong men, he'll find will be ever inclined
To prove it beyond any doubt.
And strong men don't need to climb buildings
To a lofty and dangerous height,
For men of that sort do not care to resort
To cures, for their nerves are all right.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

All talking musical comedy. "Close Harmony" with Charles (Buddy) Rogers and Nancy Carrol now at the Capitol.

"Close Harmony" proves to be aptly named at the Capitol today when Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll, popular screen lovers, appeared in a peppy, zestful Paramount production in which the "red hot" music of the jazz age formed the medium for a fine presentation of their musical and dramatic talents.

The play, an adaptation from the original story of the same name by Elsie Janis and Gene Markey, is a portrayal of the lives and loves of those who gain their livelihood behind the footlights on the vodvil stage of the big cinema palaces.

Buddy is the ambitious leader of a jazz orchestra, and Nancy is the headlined song and dance girl of the theatre where Buddy and his musicians get their chance. Menace and comedy alike are furnished by Jack Oakie and Richard "Skeets" Gallagher as a song and dance team, and by Harry Green as the high-pressure manager of the theater.

The general tone of the picture is that of sparkling, tuneful music and peppy dancing blended with throbbing romance. Its sound reproduction is "lispless" and comes nearer to absolute perfection than anything yet heard from the silver screen.

"Close Harmony" then, is worth seeing if you enjoy your eye and ear entertainment sliced thick and richly spread with zestful, peppy relish.

FAMOUS CRICKETER WILL COME HERE.

Arthur C. Mailey, the famous Australian test match player, will play with the Toronto Cricket Club team when they come here on Saturday to play the Peterborough Cricket Club at the Oval. Mr. Mailey is one of the outstanding cricketers the world over and he has been acting as honorary coach of the Toronto Club during the summer. This will be a golden opportunity for local cricket enthusiasts to see this noted player perform.

The game itself promises to be well worth seeing since the local club has been practising for many weeks and are in top form, while the strength of the visiting club is assured.

CANNOT PLAY WITHOUT PERMISSION.

It has come to the ears of the City League officials that several players on teams in the league are planning to play out of town on July 1. They want it distinctly understood that City League players are not allowed to play on other teams without permission. This is in accordance with the rules of the O.B.A.A., and must be enforced to protect the league and the players.

MANY ENTRIES FOR SAILING RACE.

Here's hoping there is a smacking breeze at Clear Lake this Saturday afternoon for the open sailing race at South Beach. This race is for the Lorne Ardiel Trophy, is open to all boats domiciled in Ontario. From the number of entries reaching the hands of the secretary, W. E. Brooks, Young's Point, it is anticipated that boats from Toronto, Belleville, and the various Kawartha Lakes, will take part. This Challenge Cup is donated by Mr. Ardiel of Oshawa, for competition to stimulate interest in this sport. It is a splendid trophy consisting of a column carrying a model of a sailing vessel.

JUNIORS' GAME ON MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Kiwanis and Lockworks will play another of their smart engagement in the Junior series of the City League at three o'clock Monday afternoon at James Stevenson Park. It is to be hoped that the League has drawn up a strong schedule of games for next week to give the returning Old Boys a chance to see just what brand of ball the youngsters are playing in the city now. A game between two of the bantam teams should certainly be on the boards for next week.

* * * * * *

OLD ARGUMENT AGAINST LENGTH OF GAME.

The Rays are still strongly in the hunt for the championship of the Lakeshore League as a result of their decisive win over the league-leading Port Hope team last evening here. The Hopers did not play the brand of ball that has been winning them games this season and Alex. Hills did not help matters with his umpiral procedure on the bases.

The argument over the seven and nine innings game was expected to pop up at any time in this league, and it is now up to the officials to follow precedent, if Port Hope protests, and then lay down a hard and fast rule.

* * * * * *

NEW RULE FOR CHAMPS THAT GET TOO HEAVY.

Tearing a leaf from the boxing statutes of Great Britain, the State Athletic Commission adopted a new plan for dealing with champions who fail to make weight.

Should a champion fail to make weight for a title match in the future, his title will be confiscated, and his opponent, if the winner, will be named the "foremost contender." Provided, of course, that the challenger makes the required weight.

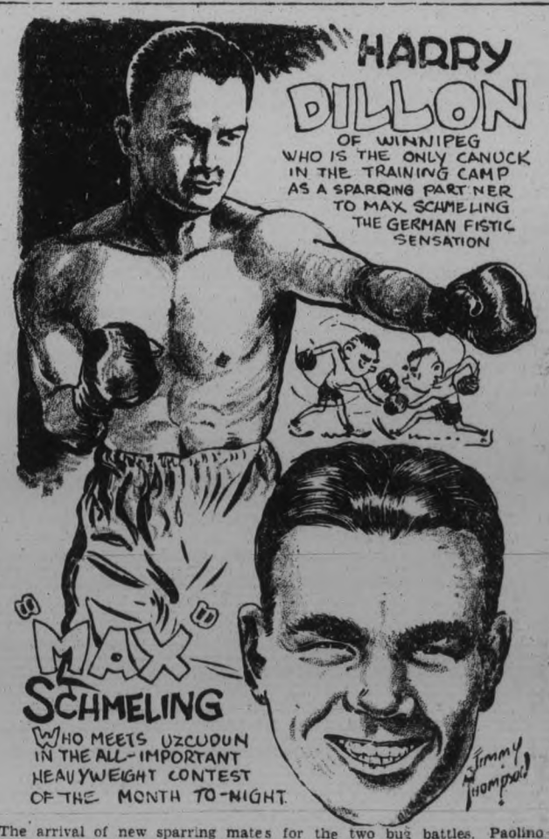
The foremost contender will be recognized as champion if he meets and defeats another leading contender. The Commission reserves the right to select the opponent.

* * * * * *

FOLLOW BRITAIN'S LINE.

The ruling was adopted at the suggestion of the British Board of Boxing Control, which advised the local board that a similar rule has been enacted in England.

No provision is made for the selection of a champion in the event the challenger is defeated, as happened when Charles Phil Rosenbergs, bantamweight title was confiscated two years ago. Rosenberg failed to make 118 pounds, but he defeated his opponent, Bushy Graham. The title has been vacant until two weeks ago, when Al Brown was hailed as the title holder.



The arrival of new sparring mates for the two big battles, Paolino Uzcudun and Max Schmeling, principals in the all-important heavyweight contest to be staged on the 27th of the month at New York, means that things will begin to perk up in the sparring sessions. Harry Dillon of Winnipeg, former Canadian light heavyweight champion, in tow of his manager, Bill Lack, has been making the rounds of eastern cities and the Canadian boy is tired of it all and wants to settle down at his favorite pastime, throwing gloves in the direction of an opposing foe. Dillon has been added to Schmeling's list of mates and Harry will have his wish soon fulfilled, as the German Jack Dempsey is itching for a rough playmate, and Harry Dillion will fill the bill.

TEAMS PLAY SMART BALL

Both Twirlers Given Sterling Support By Team Mates.

EIGHT STRIKE-OUTS.

The Kiwanis Juniors cleaned up on the Lockworks team last night at Riverside Park 12-7 in a heavy hitting duel that taxed both twirlers to their utmost. Both teams hammered the ball with a vengeance, but the winners showed to advantage by placing their hits between the infield and the outfield and were usually able to stretch singles into two base hits.

Both infields played snappy and effective ball, but were handicapped a little by a slight shower of rain which fell during the second innings. Cripps twirled for the winners and turned back eight by the strike-out route. He was hit hard but received splendid support from his outfielders, who staged some spectacular plays. 'Stew" Cotton in centre field for the winners made a long drive into centre look easy when he picked it off with his bare hand, while Huggins in left handled McDonough's long hit nicely by taking it in on the run.

The Lockmakers played nice ball but were a little shaky in their throws to Mike O'Brien, the first sacker, who was forced to dig several slow returns out of the dirt. Dick Murray pitched the whole game for the Lockworks, and although hit freely, showed plenty of control and speed. He fanned five and walked two. Morocco, the talkative backstop, was a decided asset to the Lockmakers, and his two base hit with a player on second and third in the sixth innings was a feature of the game.

TENNIS VETERANS WIN OPENING GAMES

Defeat Von Kehring and Miss J. Jamison in Mixed Doubles.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27.—(A. P.)—Bill Tilden and Mrs. Molla Mallory, veterans of the American contenders for the British tennis championships at Wimbledon, won their opening match in the mixed doubles to-day against Von Kehring of Hungary and Miss J. Jamison. The score was 6-2, 6-2.

Betty Nuthall, of Great Britain, was defeated to-day by Mrs. Leo Michell, formerly Peggy Saunders, also of Great Britain, 6-3, 6-3.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Miss Marjorie Morrill of the United States, defeated Mrs. Uber and Miss Lewis of England, 6-4, 6-3.

Senorita D'Alvarez, Spanish star, was forced to play her best to defeat Miss Elizabeth Ryan of the United States, 6-4, 8-6.

Miss Helen Wills and Francis T. Hunter eliminated Miss Tyrell and A. Brown 6-1, 6-0.

PACKERS SEVEN QUAKERS THREE

Winners Meet Canadian General in Semi-Final of Injured Players Cup.

MANY NEW PLAYERS.

The Canadian Packing team went into semi-final of the Injured Players' Cup last night when they defeated the Quakers by seven goals to three. McCracken of the Quaker Oats was the outstanding player on the field.

First Half.

There was no advantage to gain on the spin of the coin and Galloway kicked off for the Quakers. Opening exchanges were on an even basis with the halves holding the forwards outside the danger zone.

Begg Opened Scoring.

Aftermaking repeated saves, the Quaker custodian had to admit defeat when he conceded a flag-kick to Wilson, who placed Begg in possession in front of goal to finish with a rocket drive. Two minutes later, Newt Downer went down the wing with the ball and from fifteen yards range he landed it into the far corner of the net.

Quakers Redress Lead

From the centre kick, the Quakers' forward line went down into the Packers' territory to reduce the lead from a scrimmage. To offset that tally, Downer caught the Packers' defence unawares when he lanned the ball into the net. Just before half-time the same player increased his scoring average with a shot that bounced over the goalkeeper's head into the net.

Half-time: Canadian Packing 4 Quakers 1.

Half-time.

On resuming the Packers pressed to add another goal to their count when Preston banged the ball across Budworth to find the net. With the next few minutes Morrison travelled along the wing and passed across to Galloway, who made no mistake with his parting shot. The same performance was enacted on the next visit to the Packers' goal. The winners predominated the play until the finish when the score stood seven against three. Canadian Packing 7, Quakers 3.

Goal scorers: Galloway (3) for Quakers, N. Downer (3), Preston (2), and Beggs (2) for C.P.C.

Quakers — Newman, goal; Budworth and Ward, full backs; Ingram, Curtis and Fowler, halves; Watkins, McCracken, Galloway, McPhate, and Morrison, forwards.

Canadian Packing — Griffin, goal; Westwood and Downer, full backs; Carmichael, Buchan, and Bromley, halves; N. Downer, Beggs, Preston, Craig and Wilson forwards.

Referee—Jack Clark.

Starting with only one microbe, and giving it sufficient food, at the end of 12 hours there will be about 18,000,000 microbes. At the end of six more hours there will be nearly 80,000 million.

EQUALS OLD RECORD

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 27.—(C. P.)— Running in the 100 yard open dash at the Vancouver police sports, Percy Williams, Olympic sprinter champion, stepped the distance in 9 4-5 seconds to win the event. The time for the distance equals a record that has been on the British Columbia books for fifteen years, made in 1914 here by Forrest Smithson, of Portland, Ore.

FOREMAN-McGRAW BATTLE TO DRAW

Decision Unpopular With Fight Fans, Regard McGraw As Soundly Beaten.

MONTREAL, Que., June 27.—(C. P.)— Al. Foreman, Canadian lightweight champion, and Phil McGraw, of Detroit, boxed 10 rounds to a draw here last night in the feature bout of a card sponsored by the Canadien Hockey Club. The decision was unpopular with most of the crowd and the newspaper writers who regarded McGraw as having been soundly beaten. Foreman weighed 123½ and McGraw 133½.

Foreman overshadowed his opponent, landing blow after blow that made McGraw rock and stagger around the ring. In the tenth round, however, McGraw caught Foreman with a wild swing, sending him down for the count of nine.

Other results were: Johnny Vacca, Boston, 120¼, outpointed Midget Lavigne, Burlington, 119 1-2.

Frankie Lebrun, Sherbrooke, 120¾, outpointed Tommy Paish, Montreal, 121.

Salient Points of Bidding.

Auction: South holding a good two suiter, the Club suit an original b'd and the Diamond suit a secondary one, correctly opens the bidding with one Club, and shows the Diamond suit on the second round, following North's take-out with two Hearts. Upon South's showing his two-suited holding, North supports Clubs, abandoning his own denied Heart suit and showing South his preference for Clubs over Diamonds.

Contract: North's forcing overcall of three Hearts demands a further bid by partner. South responds by showing his second suit, Diamonds, whereupon North with powerful support for a Club-Diamond two-suiter, including the Ace-Queen of Spades over West's holding, bids for a Small Slam, six Clubs.

The Play.

At Contract, West's best opening against a Slam contract is the Ace of Hearts, and it is doubtful if he holds any better opening at Auction. Whether he continues with Hearts or shifts is immaterial, as East-West cannot possibly win another trick.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your bridge problems. Write to him, care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.

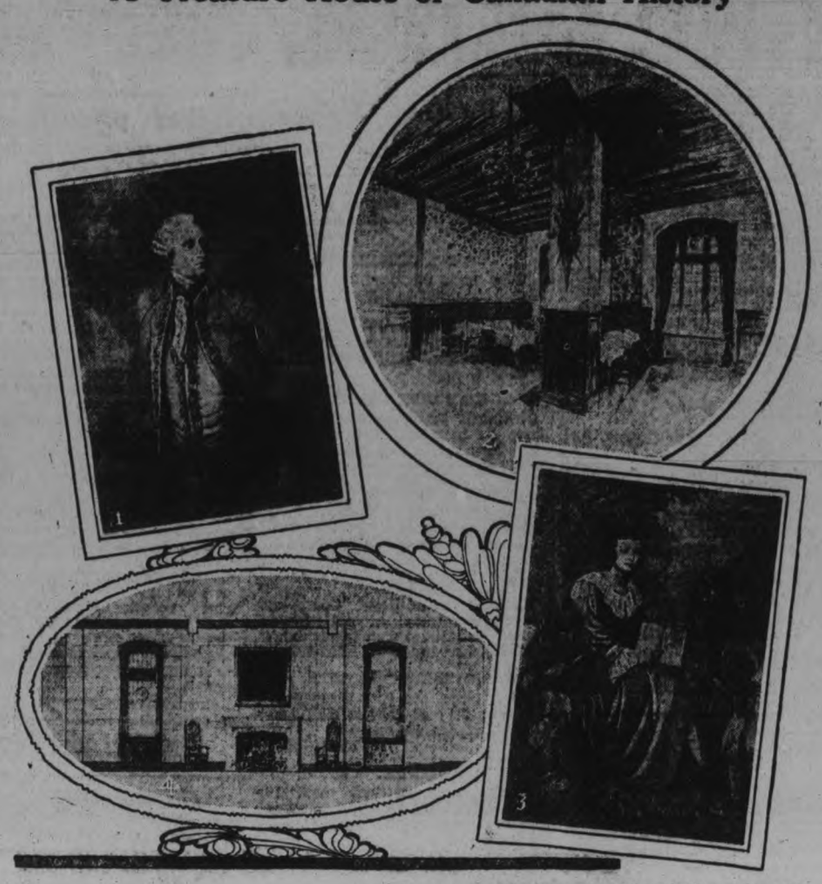
A Treasure House of Canadian History



Photos courtesy of Canada Steamship Lines

1.—Portrait of General Murray, first Governor of Canada following the Capitulation of the French in 1759. This portrait will be hung in the Murray Room at the new Manoir.

2.—A glimpse of the interior of the new Manoir Richelieu.

3.—Portrait of Madame de Champlain teaching the Indian children, which will be hung in the Ladies Lounge at the new Manoir.

4.—Glimpses of the beautiful fireplace and French door effects in the new Manoir.

Holiday plans will centre actively this summer about the new Manoir Richelieu at Murray Bay which is situated eighty miles below Quebec and is easily accessible by water, rail and road. The opening date is scheduled for June 15th, and it promises to be one of the brightest occasions of the early summer season. Murray Bay has for generations been regarded as the smartest summer colony in Quebec, and among its habitués are many personalities of international interest.

The new Manoir is a completely fireproof building of modern construction and is built in the French manoir type of architecture peculiar to the 18th century and has accommodation for 600 guests. The interior decorations and furnishings are designed to present a complete picture of the late French period in Canadian history, just prior to the Capitulation in 1759 and the beginning of British rule. Neither effort nor expense has been spared in achieving this.

Entirely surrounded by a terrace, the Manoir is entered through French doors opening off a loggia. In the Main Lobby the walls are lined with softly colored Jean d'Arc stone brought from France. The Main Lounges include the Murray Room which is centered by a very fine portrait of the first British Governor, General Murray, and houses the trophies and a very fine collection of Canadiana. In the Ladies Lounge is a charming study of Madame de Champlain teaching the Indian children who are examining with interest the tiny mirror worn at her girdle. Great open fireplaces add to the charm of all these rooms which are furnished with many valuable antiques. The Tower Lounge is centered by a magnificient stone fireplace over which is hung an effective portrait of Cardinal Richelieu, the patron of navigation in New France. This is a cozy room softly lighted with leaded glass windows thick rugs and soft hangings. It is a room designed with an eye to long winter evenings where merry winter sportees will gather before the crackling fire and recount the adventures of the day, in all the heady exhilaration of ski-ing, snow-shoeing and such activities.

The ball-room is a separate building modelled after the Chateau de Ramezay, one of Montreal's historic buildings. It faces an open air heated salt water swimming pool, which is overlooked by a staging, where-on seating arrangements are provided for watching aquatic sports. The whole Manoir is surrounded by lawns and gardens in which natural beauty rather than formal arrangement has received primary consideration.

A sporty golf course, tennis, miles of bridle paths, good roads—are only a few of the outdoor activities that promise to make the new Manoir more popular than ever.

RESIDENTS DRESS UP

The merchants of the city are not the only ones who are decorating for the big week. A resident on Charlotte street, near the entrance to the city, has dressed his property in a very fitting manner. Stones of three colors, red white and blue have been laid on the lawn in the form of two Union Jacks and the word "Old Home Week". The effect is very attractive.

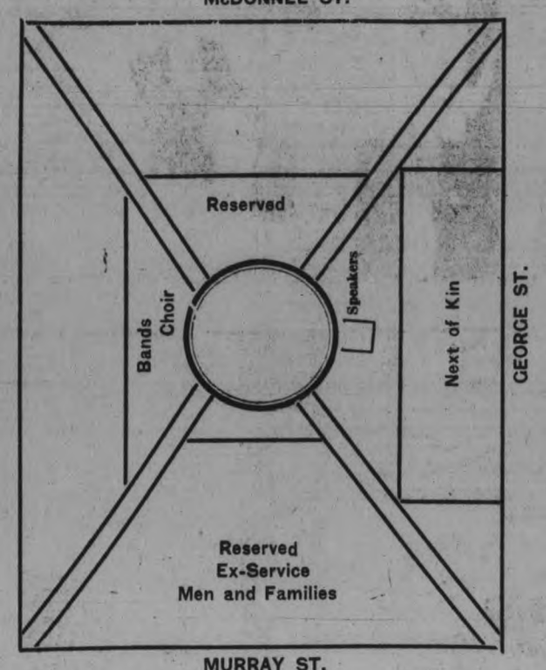
Plan of Confederation Square for Unveiling Ceremony, Sunday, June 30th



The above is a rough plan of the arrangements that have been made for those who are to be taken care of in Confederation Square for the unveiling of the memorial on Sunday next. After the next-of-kin, the ex-service men and families and the military units have been taken care of, there is a very great deal of room for the general public, and with the installation of the loud speakers, every one present on this occasion should hear the ceremony. The committee in charge of these arrangements, through Col. C. H. Ackerman, chairman, has submitted the following which will be carried out: Ex-service men will parade at 1.45 p.m. from Aylmer Street, between Charlotte and King Streets, to be inspected by Colonel the Rev. Canon Scott. Dress, mufti with medals. Headed by the band of the Toronto Scottish, the parade will proceed to Confederation Park and will occupy a section, specially reserved. The next-of-kin will occupy a reserved section immediately in front of the Memorial, and admission to this enclosure will be by ticket only, and it is requested that written or personal application for these cards be made to the Chamber of Commerce at once. See page 14 for definition of next-of-kin.

MEE-NAW-KEE.
The Beautiful Country.

The Indian name for Minaki is, as is usual with such cognomens, most appropriately applied to the scenic gem just above the Lake of the Woods and on the border between Ontario and Manitoba.

Minaki Lodge is the centre of activities for this district, and furnishes the best of accommodation with just that touch of luxury so much appreciated even in the wilds. Of course there is golf, tennis, bowling, boating, dancing, and all the enjoyments that make it worth while stopping over in either direction on your trans-Canada trip. Just step from a fully equipped Canadian National transcontinental train into wild beauty with all the thrill and adventure of canoe and rod right at hand, and then turn to enjoy all the comforts of Minaki Lodge, your home during your sojourn in this district.

Apply for an attractive booklet giving further details to any Canadian National Railways agent.

OLD MAN ONTARIO
THE DADDY OF THEM ALL.

Did you ever realize that only a few hours from your home lies a district rich in beautiful scenery—where everything that makes life worth while may be found. No other holiday lakeland offers the varied attractions, the rest from exhausting demands of city life, as does the Province of Ontario, with its varied resorts, with accommodation ranging from the moderate boarding houses to the largest and finest of hotels, and all readily accessible by Canadian National Railways, 41,000 square miles of water service with all the opportunities for the fisherman, canoeist, camper and camera hunter.

Endless well-kept and scenically beautiful golf courses, tennis courts, bowling greens and so forth.

The Canadian National Railways have published a master booklet on the various resorts of Ontario and will appreciate your applying for a copy, and also in assisting you in planning your vacation in such a manner as will result in all possible Health and Recreation during your outing this Summer.

Wedding Bells

MacFARLANE-CONDON

A quiet but pretty June wedding was solemnized at nine o'clock this morning at St Joseph's Church in Douro, when Rita Catharine, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Condon of Douro, became the bride of William James MacFarlane, son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacFarlane of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. J. McGuire.

The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gerald Condon, was charmingly attired in a gown of white georgette with touches to silver lace, and matching hat, shoes and hose. She carried a bouquet of lily of the valley and maidenhair fern.

The bridesmaid, Miss Carrie Condon, a sister of the bride, was in maize gorgette with hat, shoes and hose to match, and carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations and maidenhair fern.

Mr. Carl Doris of Otonabee acted as best man.

After a reception held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. MacFarlane and his bride left by motor on a short honeymoon trip. On their return they will live in Peterborough.

OBITUARY

HERBERT MULLEN.

The funeral of Herbert Mullen, whose death occurred Wednesday morning, will be held Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ward, 261 Romaine street. It will be under the auspices of the Orange Order, Rev. William McDonald, of Knox United Church, officiating. Interment will take place in the Presbyterian cemetery at Millbrook.

The deceased was 57 years of age. He had lived here for ten years, coming from the State of Michigan, where he resided for twenty years previously.

His death came as a shock to his many friends in Peterborough. For the past five years he was employed in the De Laval. He was actively associated with the Orange Order and at the time of his death was past master of L.O.L. No. 1175 and held other important offices in the Association.

Surviving him is one sister, Mrs. Matthew Fallis of Millbrook.

DETROIT OLD BOYS ARE COMING STRONG

Headquarters Will Be in White House During Old Home Week

DETROIT, June 27.—Through the kindness of E. Huff, several meetings have been held of the former Peterborough residents now living in Detroit and everyone is very enthusiastic about going home for Old Home Week. At our first meeting, J. E. Dormer was elected president; James McNern, vice-president; Mrs. A. J. Sullivan, treasurer; and Isabel Brealey, secretary.

Headquarters for the Detroit unit will be at the White House, Peterborough, and information regarding hats, badges, parade, etc., will be furnished by the following committee: James McNern, chairman; Charles Perry, James McLeod, George Woods, Jr.; Vivian Rosborough, Henry Kinshells, Percy Menzies.

CONSERVATIVES PICNIC AT WALLACE'S POINT

Jack Marshall's Five-Piece Orchestra Supplies Music for Dancing

The Peterborough Conservative Association held a picnic to Wallace's Point yesterday afternoon. At two o'clock the good ship Stoney Lake sailed from the George Street wharf, carrying the picnickers on a pleasant trip through the changing vistas of the Otonabee.

Nature seemed on its best behaviour for the excursion until near five o'clock, when a drizzle of rain began to fall. Later it cleared off and the picnic continued with enjoyment.

Jack Marshall's five-piece orchestra played sprightly music for the party during the sail, and they played for the dance that was held in the pavilion at Wallace's Point in the evening.

HAMILTON OFFICER SLAIN BY BANK ROBBER

HIGHLANDERS WILL DEPICT BATTLE SCENES

Major General McBrien and Col. Harbottle Coming With Regiment.

DEFENCE OF SHANGHAI.

Big Crowd Is Expected at Exhibition Park On Saturday Night.

Cannonading; the flash and angry boom of 18-pounders in pulsating action; the frenzied rat-tat-tat of machine guns; three great waves of kilted Highlanders in a mad charge urged on by the shrill skirling of pibrochs; these sights and many more will be unfolded before the eyes of the spectators at Exhibition Park, Saturday evening, by the famous Toronto Scottish Regiment.

Vivid scenes in the heroic defence of Shanghai will be depicted by the Toronto Scottish. Stark realism such as will startle the unitiated, and bring memories of midnight storming forays to the men that served Over There will feature the great military spectacle.

The awakening call of the bugle in the dead of night; the rush to arms; and the swift charge of the kilties against great odds, while the guns roll and thunder, lighting the sky with tongues of fire; all this and more will be seen. Such sights as a Peterborough audience has not seen for many, many years. A clash of arms in the ruddy glow of darkness that will live long in the memory of all present.

Story of the Battle.

The British are defending the International Settlement of Shanghai. Around them press the maddened, blood-thirsty Chinese in countless thousands. The British are outnumbered ten to one. Night has fallen and an attack on the cover of darkness is feared.

A force of two hundred officers, men and N.C.O's of the Toronto Scottish Regiment, strengthened by one section machine guns and one section Royal Artillery 18-pounders, has been ordered to take up position on the border of the International Settlement where an attack hitherto has been thought impossible, and consequently, where no artificial defence works have been thrown up. A large force of crazed coolies have pitched tents about three hundred yards from the border line and are known to be working themselves up to a frenzied state prior to rushing the International Settlement.

The Toronto Scottish detachment is led out of camp and advance to a position about seventy yards east of the centre of the field; here, they bivouac, piling arms and posting sentries. The machine gun section also takes up a position; scouts are sent out and the men lie down to try to sleep. Shortly afterwards, shots are heard from the direction of the enemy and a scout runs in bringing a report that the coolies are massing for a rush. The Officer Commanding the detachment decides that the best defence is a strong offensive. A bugler blows the alarm; men spring to their arms and take up position along the general line. Here the attack goes forward with the usual dash of the Scottish in three waves, the men being played by a piper. As the attack progresses the tents occupied by the coolies are set on fire. The ammunition bombs, detonators, etc., are fired.

After the attack the force falls in on the captured ground in column of route. They will be met then by the defence force and the pipe band will play them once around the track and back to the camp, passing the grandstand.

The troops and officers taking part in this spectacle will be: Artillery, half section R.A., Colonel S. D. Lawrie; Infantry defence, twenty men (including three bombers) Capt S. Keene, D.F.C.; Attack, A Platoon (including two signalers, one bugler, five bombers, one section of stretcher bearers), Captain E. Douglas; B Platoon, sixty men (including five bombers, two signallers, one piper, and five bombers), Lieutenant E. [illegible] C Platoon, sixty men including five bombers, Lieutenant D.

Miss Minneapolis Enters Sixth Day Of Big Flight

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 28.—The endurance record seeking plane, Miss Minneapolis, started its sixth day in the air to-day as friends began plans to honor the pilots, Owen Haughland of Minneapolis and Buffalo, Minn., and Thorwald "Thunder" Johnson of St. Paul.

Residents of Buffalo announced completion of arrangements to hold a celebration as soon as the flyers land.

If the plane stays up until 10.35 a.m. Sunday it will better by one hour the present record of 172 1-2 hours for re-fueling flights recently set at Fort Worth, Texas.

MAN INJURED ON ELEVATOR

J. Burns is Carried Down Entire Length of Shaft in Gallagher Plant.

HELPER ESCAPES.

An accident occurred this morning at the new building of The Gallagher Remedies on King Street, when an elevator fell from the top story of the building, carrying J. Burns with it to the ground floor.

Mr. Burns was in charge of the installation of a freight elevator. He was at the top of the shaft at the time of the accident straightening a wire cable on a drum. He jumped from the top of the shaft onto a plank that was across the elevator, causing it to fall, as the clamps that were holding the elevator on the shaft were not sufficiently tight to hold the extra weight or stand the jar of the jump.

Burns was carried down the entire length of the shaft, and when the elevator hit the bottom the plank that he was standing on broke and hit the unfortunate man in the ribs, who fell about six feet more to the floor of the elevator, striking his head on a steel sill at the side of the shaft.

In a few minutes he sat up and claimed that he felt no ill effects from his fall, except a little soreness about the chest. However, Dr. Murray Fraser was summoned and the man was taken to Nicholls Hospital. Re-

FINAL PLANS ARE MADE BY COMMITTEES

All Is In Readiness For Grand Opening To-morrow Morning.

BIG SEA FLEA RACE.

Parade Will Be Intact Through Its Whole Course On Monday.

The red glow of Success is already glistening on Peterborough's Old Home Week. Nothing but words of cheery optimism, born from assured success for the city's big venture were heard in the City Hall Committee Rooms last evening.

There chairmen of committees, having labored long and given their best thought to every great event and small detail for the joyous homecoming of the city's sons and daughters, were holding their last official conference previous to the launching of the grand program. Like generals of war holding conference on the eve of a great battle, they sat around the table discussing the last details. All were thoughtful, but the note of optimism was sounded in every voice.

"Everything is ready. We've done all we can in my department, and I'm sure there won't be a hitch," was the general statement, perhaps not in such few words, of every chairman as he made the final report of his committee's plans and activities.

Zero Hour at 8 a.m.

The zero hour for the opening of Peterborough's greatest week was set. At eight o'clock to-morow morning, when the chairmen and committees gather at the Old Home Week headquarters, Mayor Denne will officially declare the festivities open. Then the wheels of the great entertainment so well greased by thought and effort, will begin to turn.

Compliments were voiced for the citizens in general and the business men in particular, for the splendid manner in which their homes and stores had been skilfully decorated. But still greater efforts in this direction was thought advisable, and the hope was given expression that some who had not yet aided in garbing the city in gala attire, might make a special effort to do their part during the last remaining hours.

Non-Stop Flight Record Broken By Frank Hawks

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, Los Angeles, Calif., June 28. (C. P.) — Seven hours and fifteen minutes after he had landed here, establishing a new non-stop trans-continental flight record from New York to Los Angeles, Captain Frank Hawks took off again this morning in an effort to break his own mark for a west-east cross-continent aerial dash.

Hawks flew from Roosevelt field to the Metropolitan airport, in 19 hours, 10 minutes, and 32 seconds yesterday, shattering the mark of 24 hours 51 minutes set last year by Captain C. B. D. Collyer and Harry Tucker.

JACK ASHCRAFT KILLED IN CRASH

Endurance Flight Fails When Airplane Runs Out of Gasoline.

MISS GENTRY INJURED.

WESTBURY, N.Y., June 28 (C.P.) —Jack Ashcraft, a professional pilot, was killed, and Miss Viola Gentry, known as "The Flying Cashier," critically injured to-day as the biplane, in which they were attempting to create an endurance record, crashed into a hickory tree.

Ashcraft's neck was broken. Miss Gentry, suffering from internal injuries, a broken arm and lacerations, was taken to the Nassau county hospital in Mineola. She was conscious when pulled from the wreckage and asked, "What happened?"

Their plane took off from Roosevelt Field at 8.49 p.m. yesterday, with 116 gallons of gasoline. It is believed their gasoline ran short, and the plane crashed into the tree.

Gasoline Tanks Dry

Henry Hicks, proprietor of the nursery, heard the accident. He said there was no noise from the motor. The gasoline tanks and carburetor were later found to be dry.

The plane landed on its nose, the motor buried far in the ground. Ashcraft's body was wedged between the motor and the ground. Miss Gentry was found on top of the gas tank, with one foot tangled up in the wreckage. She was bleeding profusely and hysterical. Telling her name over and over again and inquiring what happened she lapsed into unconsciousness on her way to the hospital in an ambulance.

At the hospital it was discovered that both her arms were broken. One was broken in several places. She regained consciousness soon after arriving at the hospital. Miss Gentry asked about Ashcraft, but she was not told of his death.

A heavy fog blanketed the flying field and surrounding country for several hours this morning. This was believed to be a contributing factor as to the cause of the accident.

Injured in 1924

Ashcraft was 33 years and was born in Protectin, Kansas. He had been a flyer for a number of years and his associates considered him an expert pilot. He figured in a serious accident in Baton Rouge, La., in 1924, while with a flying circus. His passenger at that time was killed and Ashcraft was in a hospital for a long period recovering from injuries.

Miss Gentry was formerly a cashier in a restaurant. She attracted attention early in 1926 by piloting a plane under the Brooklyn and Manhattan bridges over the East River in New York.

In 1928 she set an endurance solo record for women flyers in staying in the air over Roosevelt Field for 6 hours and 37 seconds.

TARIFF CHANGES MAY BE MADE SAYS MALCOLM

If New U. S. Act Is Detrimental To Canadian Interests Amends Will Be Made.

ANSWERS R. B. BENNETT.

Government Is Prepared To Meet Situation States Ottawa Minister.

TARA, Ont., June 28 (Canadian Press). — If changes are made in the United States tariff which are found to be detrimental to the interests of Canada, alterations in the Canadian tariff structure to correct the situation will unquestionably be made. This was the declaration of Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in the course of an address which he made here to-day. Canada, he said, had made and would make, her own tariff structure to suit her own economic needs.

Answered Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Mr. Malcolm's speech was designed to meet and answer certain statements and criticisms directed against the Government's tariff policy by R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, in the course of his western tour. At the outset he stated that Mr. Bennett was endeavoring "to create fear in the minds of the people of Ontario, that the Government which has so successfully administered the affairs of Canada for the last eight years will not be able to meet a new situation which he fears has arisen."

"No situation has arisen during the past eight years that has not been satisfactorily met," proceeded Mr Malcolm, "nor do I believe the people of Canada fear that should a change be made in the American fiscal policy detrimental to Canadian interests, the Government is not prepared to meet it."

"The Government of Canada is much more alive to the situation than is the leader of the Opposition and is fully prepared, in the interests of Canada, to readjust its fiscal policy from time to time to meet any changes that may take place in the tariff structure of the United States or of any country."

Referring to the demand of Mr. Bennett for an inter-Empire trade conference, Mr. Malcolm stated that ever since Mr. Fielding introduced the British preference it had been the Liberal policy to increase trade within the Empire. How this had worked out was indicated by figures covering the past eight years.

Imports Have Increased.

"Our imports from British countries have increased from approximately $150,000,000 to $257,000,000, and our exports from $347,000,000 to $539,000,000, giving us an increase of trade within the Empire during that period of almost $300,000,000," the speaker said.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce gave a brief summary indicating the volume and nature of Canada's trade with the United States. During the year 1928, he said the Dominion had imported raw materials from the republic to the value of $222,000,000 and exported to the United States raw materials valued at $153,000,000. Consequently, if it was a sacrifice to sell unfinished products, Canada's sacrifice was less than that of the United States by $69,000,000. Canada's trade in manufactured products with the United States was large and the Minister admitted that the balance stood against the Dominion, but he asserted that this figure was less marked than formerly. He quoted figures in support of this statement.

"We sell $500,000,000 worth of goods

King George Plans To Do Some Shooting

LONDON, June 28.— (C.P.)— King George has recovered so far that he expects to do some shooting at his summer palace at Sandringham. Several new guns have been purchased for his use.

He will leave Windsor for London Monday, remaining at Buckingham palace for a week before he goes to Sandringham, from where he will return to Buckingham Palace in the fall. He will drive in semi-state with Queen Mary through the London streets when he arrives here Monday.

PARKS ENHANCE CITY'S BEAUTY

Ald. Stocker Has Given Almost Daily Attention To Their Care.

CHANGES IN BEDS.

Peterborough's down town parks were never better groomed than now and not only the Old Home week visitors but the citizens as a whole will appreciate their trim attractiveness. The new grass in Central Park is already well sodded, the shrubs are flourishing and the contours of the walks present graceful lines.

In Victoria Park the floral arrangements in some of the beds have been radically changed this summer. The central bed is planted with Canna lilies with a border of Dusty Miller and silver leaf geranuims, and the long beds from the fountain toward Water Street include tuberous begonias of five colors relieved by Druisinas and sword ferns. The effect of this blending must wait upon the flowering of the Begonias. These beds are also trimmed with Dusty Miller and silver leaf geraniums. Dan Hayward is in charge of the parks and with the additional assistance he has been given this year has even improved on the beauty of other years, especially in Central Park which is a special credit to the City Council.

In Ald. Stocker as chairman of the Parks Committee the city has the benefit of the experience of a gardener of virtually professional ability, and he has given the parks almost daily attention.

TORY CHIEFTAIN CLOSES HIS TOUR IN OLD ONTARIO

Hon. R. B. Bennett Addressed Meeting in Cornwall and Alexandria Yesterday.

EIGHTEEN ADDRESSES.

Next Week He Will Deliver Several Speeches in Northern Ontario.

(By Thomas Green—Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).

OTTAWA, Ont., June 28.—Hon. R. B. Bennett is enjoying a respite from his Ontario speaking tour. Concluding the eastern part of his itinerary through the province in Cornwall last night, the Conservative leader returned to the capital this morning. To-day, he is engaged in keeping a number of appointments at his office in the Parliament Buildings and attending to a voluminous amount of correspondence. On Monday evening, Mr. Bennett will leave for Northern Ontario.

Speaks at Parry Sound.

The first speaking engagement of the Conservative chieftain next week is scheduled for Tuesday night at Parry Sound. From there he will proceed to Sault Ste. Marie, where he speaks on Wednesday evening. Mr. Bennett will then continue to the Head of the Lakes, where he will attend a picnic at Port Arthur on Friday afternoon, and speak at Fort William in the evening. The tour of the province opened in Western Ontario on June 15, when the Opposition leader addressed afternoon and evening meetings in Essex County. In all, he has delivered eighteen speeches in Ontario since Parliament prorogued.

Following the conclusion of his present itinerary of Ontario at Fort William, the Opposition leader will go to Calgary; and will probably attend the stampede there early next month. His British Columbia tour will begin on July 25 at Windermere, and will occupy about a month.

Yesterday, Mr. Bennett spoke at Alexandria and Cornwall in the adjoining ridings of Glengarry and Stormont respectively. Speaking at both places along the border, he laid particular emphasis on the tariff. The Conservative leader issued a warning

Bandit Hid In Vacant House

Detective Clark is Shot When Leading the Police Posse.

TEAR GAS USED.

Robber Working Alone Pulls Off Daring Bank Hold-up.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 28 (C.P.) —Detective Clark and Charles B. Long are dead as a result of the gun fight which followed the robbery of the East end branch of the Provincial Savings Bank here yesterday.

Long who robbed the bank was followed and cornered by police in a vacant house on Rosslyn Avenue. He was known to be heavily armed and tear gas bombs were brought and exploded in the cellar. When the police believed the bandit overcome by the gas a squad headed by Detective Clark entered the house through the basement.

Blast Ends Officer's Life

A blast from a sawed-off shot gun ended Clark's life. Detective Bleakely, another member of the police squad, who entered behind Clark, pumped five shots into the gunman's body. He was killed instantly.

The bandit, working alone, entered the branch of the bank located at Ottawa and Barton street late yesterday afternoon. He held up the staff and escaped with a quantity of money.

The manager of the bank gave the alarm and a traffic officer and a youth who had witnessed the robbery took up the chase. The bandit led them through side streets and lanes and finally took refuge in the cellar of the vacant house. The constable and the youth followed him, but were forced to retreat from the cellar after a struggle with the robber during which several shots were fired. Re-inforcements were soon on the scene and from the cellar the man defied the police to arrest him.

Events Happen Rapidly

Events followed one another with startling rapidity. The bandit, about 45 years of age, dark and stocky, walked up and down in front of the bank several times before attempting the robbery. He was wearing a long raincoat.

Finally he entered the bank, stepped up to the teller's cage, whipped a shotgun from beneath the coat and ordered the teller to pass him the piles of bills that were lying on the counter.

Manager Gave Alarm.

The bills were handed over and he ordered the teller and the manager of the bank to line up against the wall as he retreated toward the bank entrance. The manager disobeyed the command and ran through the rear door of the bank to the street corner where he gave the alarm to the traffic constable on duty there. Constable Nesbit, who was on duty, went to the bank, but found that the bandit had left. He gave chase in company with Thomas Halcrow, a youth who was standing nearby.

They pursued the thief to Rosslyn Avenue where the bandit entered the vacant house through the cellar door. Constable Nesbit and Halcrow forced their way into the cellar by another door. Nesbit grappled with the bandit, who raised the shotgun to fire as his pursuers entered. As he pulled the trigger, the constable forced the barrel downward and the charge went into the floor. At the same time Halcrow snatched the revolver from the constable's holster, and fired three times at the bandit. The bandit, however, freed himself from the constable's grip and the constable and Halcrow were forced to retreat from the cellar as the bandit again threatened them with the shotgun.

General Alarm Turned In.

A general alarm had been turned in, and soon dozens of policemen and a large crowd of citizens surrounded the house. The tear bombs were secured and exploded in the cellar. The police, however, were not quipped with masks, and during the wait for these the cellar cleared of gas, enabling the robber to regain control of his actions.

The police were not aware of this, and equipped with masks Detective Clark and Detective Bleakly entered

BIG OUTBOARD MOTOR RACE TO BE HELD TUESDAY

Regatta Will Be Finest Ever Put On in City of Peterborough

On Tuesday July 2nd, one of the finest regattas every put on in this district will be held on the river below the Locks opposite Rye's pavilion.

There are forty cups and $400.00 in cash prize awards offered.

The event will consist of swimming races, canoe races, skiff races, tilting competition, log rolling, greasy pole walking etc. This Regatta will also include a number of outboard motor boat races for classes A, B, C, and free for all, and is going to be one of the outstanding outboard motor events of the year. The B and C class races are run over a ten mile course of two laps, which will give the spectators an opportunity of seeing these boats in action for a considerable period.

The Free For All is a forty-eight mile event from Peterborough down the river and across Rice Lake to Gore's Landing and return.

Some of the fastest outfits in America will be competing in this event.

Several Local Officials Will Accompany Planes To Peterborough.

ARRIVE AT 3 P.M.

Five Aircraft Will Be in Command of Captain Earl Hand.

The ears of Peterborough people and their host of visitors will ring with the roar of a squad of airplanes on Saturday afternoon when greetings from Mayor McBride of Toronto will be carried to Mayor Denne of Peterborough on the inauguration day of Old Home Week, along with a message from the Board of Trade of Toronto to the city.

The messages will be conveyed by James Dutton, the president of the local Chamber of Commerce and vice-chairman of Peterborough Old Home Week celebration, accompanied by Alderman Stanley Lowe, chairman of the Old Home Week Race Committee, and Art. Costello, chairman of the Dance Committee. At 2.30 they will take off in five planes at the Leaside airport in Toronto and a half hour later will enter the city over the western boundary and give an aviation salute. The squad will land immediately at the Old Home Week Airport on the Chemong road, two miles from the city, and the messages will be delivered.

The five aircraft will be in command of Captain Earl Hand, President of the Toronto Flying Club and the National Air Transport Company. The personnel of the flight will include some of Canada's pioneers of aviation. Two of the machines will be Buhl cabin-planes, powered with Wright Whirlwind motors, and the remaining three will be Moths.

In Peterborough All Week

It is planned that the planes will stay in Peterborough during Old Home Week to conduct a sight-seeing service for all those who wish to see the city from the air, a nominal fee being

OPEN INVITATION TO WAR VETERANS

To All War Veterans in Peterborough and Locality:

It is the very earnest desire of the War Memorial Committee that you and everyone of you should attend the unveiling ceremony on Sunday afternoon next. There will be a place reserved for each. This beautiful memorial has been erected by our citizens in memory of your comrades who lost their lives in the greatest struggle known in history.

This is not only a tribute to them, but an honor to you, their equals in valor and comrades in danger and suffering. The unveiling ceremony will be not only spectacular, but I am sure most impressive and interesting an event worthy of those who have gone, and long to be remembered by those who knew them so well and to whom their memory is sacred.

I desire especially and personally to emphasize the request that you one and all, attend and join with us in doing honor to those we loved in life and revere in death. You did not fail them in the past—do not do so now!

EDWARD HUYCKE,
Chairman Memorial Committee.

HAMILTON OFFICER WAS ENGAGED IN PETERBOROUGH DURING WAR

Detective William R. Clark Was Night Superintendent of Munition Plant.

COTTAGE AT CHEMONG.

All Round Athlete and Champion Police Pole Vaulter.

Detective W. R. Clarke, who was shot to death while bravely advancing on a desperate thug in an empty house in Hamilton last night, was well-known in Peterborough. Detective Clark was "Bill" to a host of friends here. During the war, in 1915 and 1917, he was night superintendent of the Munition and Metal Products plant located in the old Cordage Works, now the Nashua Paper Plant. It was while he was here that he endeared himself to many. He lived with Mrs. Legendre, Lock Street, and had a cottage at Chemong. He returned here from Montreal in 1918, and worked in the Renfrew plant for about a year.

Bill Clarke was the "buddy" of J. S. Pickering, 263 Rubidge Street, these two being fast friends, even though separated. Mr. Pickering heard with great sorrow of Bill's brave death. "He was one of the finest men in the world," Mr. Pickering told The Examiner. "He stood six feet four inches in height, a strapping fellow, who required a specially made bed. He was a great all-around athlete, and held the championship for pole vaulting for the All-Canada police games. He had a marvellous voice, and was known in Hamilton as the "Singing Cop."

Popular in City.

"He was just a young chap," Mr Pickering continued, "only about thirty-two or three; only a kid when he was here. He had two children both boys, Kitchener and Burnham by name. He was one of the most popular men in Hamilton, winning the friendship of all with his mar-

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS ARE ASKED TO CO-OPERATE

Local Citizens where Possible are asked to Walk Old Home Week.

Unless car owners co-operate and obey the rules and regulations as laid down by the police and Old Home Week committee, a big traffic problem resulting in congestion, confusion and accidents, may mar the big week. The police do not desire to make arrests, but safety first principles must be enforced—and will be.

The mayor has requested that all those who can possibly get down street without their cars should leave them in the garage and walk. "There will be enough out-of-town cars to pack the streets without the unnecessary local vehicles," said Mr. Denne.

Parking places to keep the cars off the main thoroughfares have been selected by the committee in charge, and every parking place will have an attendant in charge who will guard the cars and manage the parking.

Motorists should pay special attention to the following parking places —the Market Square; in the rear of general Headquarters (the Duffus building), and near C.P.R. freight sheds; corner of George and Sherbrooke streets; Central School grounds.

Same Men Apply Twice For Vacant Position After Council Had Increased The Salary

MANCHESTER, Eng., June 28. —(Canadian Press Cable).—The keen competition between municipal bodies and great commercial enterprises for good men of administrative ability is well indicated by the dilemna of the Manchester corporation over appointment of a city gas engineer.

The city advertised the position along with a salary of $7,500 but none of the few applicants were deemed suitable. The salary offered was increased to $11,250 and this brought only the same applicants, except for an additional one who soon withdrew.

The city is now wondering if it must appoint a man at $11,250 who would have been willing to take the job at $7,500.

Commercial mergers are able to offer salaries which municipal corporations, with one eye on the ratepayers, hesitate even to suggest. The present instance is particularly striking because Manchester has a reputation of paying its servants generously.

Thirty Passengers On Radial Car Have Narrow Escape From Death

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., June 28.—A Port Dalhousie-St. Catharines radial car carrying [illegible] passengers was stopped from dropping 30 feet into the waters of the harbor when it became stuck in mud after rushing down a steep grade yesterday. The only casualty was the motorman, James Jackson, who was severely cut in his efforts to stop the car.

The car, bearing a crowd of picnickers, had just reached the top of a steep incline which drops down to the harbor docks, when it stalled and seemed down the grade. [illegible] proved useless and the [illegible] only a few feet away [illegible] wheels skidded and [illegible] 10 feet stretch [illegible] saved the situation [illegible] front wheels [illegible] muddy ground [illegible] car.

IMPROMPTU STANDARD BEARER IS COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER

American Legion Parade in Windsor Without Union Union Jack.

SERVICE AT CENOTAPH.

Alderman Mitchell Secures One and Puts Man at Head of Parade.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 28.—(C.P.)—A Toronto commercial traveller yesterday afternoon led the parade of disabled American war veterans to the cenotaph. He was an impromptu standard-bearer, bearing the Union Jack.

Here is what happened. Several hundred of the American war veterans paused yesterday in their convention observations over in Detroit and came to the Border Cities to pay respects to Canadians who "went west" during the last conflict. As they paraded out Ouellette avenue from the ferry dock, led by the Essex Scottish Pipe Band, Alderman Frank J. Mitchell, a spectator, noticed that the Stars and Stripes were fluttering ahead without the company of the British banner.

Alderman Mitchell seems to be a man of action. He secured a Union Jack from a sidewalk standard and, grabbing the nearest onlooker, hustled him into the line of march, with the instructions, "Keep in front with this flag."

The bewildered stranger obeyed and struck out in the procession with a good martial stride. At the Cenotaph he sought out Alderman Mitchell, with the inquiry, "What will I do now?"

"You're a Windsor man, take it back where I got it," responded Mitchell.

"But I'm not a Windsor veteran. I'm Melville Potash, a Toronto commercial traveller. And so Ald. Mitchell bore the flag back triumphantly.

BARCLAY ENTERS APPEAL

TORONTO, Ont., June 28.—William Barclay, sentenced to hang August 1 for the murder of Agnes Hudson at Toronto, entered an appeal yesterday against his conviction and sentence. He claims that Justice Logie misdirected the jury and improperly rejected evidence on his behalf. The first divisional Court will probably hold a special sitting during vacation to hear the appeal.

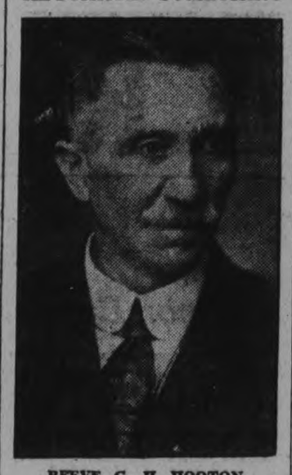
"HE STARTED SOMETHING"



REEVE G. H. HOOTON

Cavan representative in the Northumberland and Durham counties council. He has demanded a revaluation of the counties property for equalization of assessment. Failing mutual agreement by the townships and towns at a special meeting on July 4th, Mr. Hooton's appeal will be referred to the county Judge.

"George certainly threw the monkey-wrench into the machinery" was the allusion of Reeve Herb. Nelson of Percy, and Mr. Hooton himself intended to "start something."

SMALL FIRE BREAKS OUT IN CLEVELAND HOSPITAL

Blaze Is Located In Building Adjacent To One Destroyed By Explosion.

CLEVELAND, O., June 28 (Canadian Press).—Fire broke out early today in the research building of the Cleveland Clinic Hospital adjoining the Cleveland Clinic building, where 123 persons lost their lives in an explosion and fire May 15. So far as is known, no one was in the building at the time.

The fire was located in the electric paraffine bath of the physio therapy department of the research building which is separated by roadways both from the hospital and the clinic building, where the previous fire occurred.

The flames were extinguished without patients in the hospital learning that a fire had broken out. There was no excitement, and no one was endangered.

HUNDREDS OF DEAD FISH ARE FOUND FLOATING ON GRAND

Kitchener Residents Are Warned No To Eat Fish Caught in River.

SEWAGE PLANT BLAMED.

Bathing Is Also Advised Against By the Medical Officer.

KITCHENER, Ont., June 28. — (Canadian Press).— Dr. J. W. Fraser, Medical Health Officer, yesterday issued a warning to Kitchener citizens not to eat fish caught in the Grand River owing to the possibility of illness.

A plague has struck the fish between Bridgeport and Breslau and hundreds of dead fish are floating on the water, an examination revealed yesterday.

It is believed in some quarters that possibly an overflow of the Waterloo sewage plant is responsible for the condition and the provincial authorities are examining samples of water to determine this point.

The Kitchener medical officer has advised against bathing in the Grand until it is cleared up. Waterloo claims stagnant water is causing the plague.

DRINKS PURIFIED SEWAGE WATER

TORONTO, Ont, June 28.—John R. Baylis, Chicago chemist stood the test of his scientific convictions when he drank what he claims to have been a glass of purified sewage water before the delegates to the merican Water Works Association in session here.

He declared that there was no excuse for distasteful water and his demonstration was part of a lecture on methods of water purification.

Government To Close One of Kawartha Lakes

TORONTO, June 28.—(Canadian Press).—Seven thousand adult speckled trout are being placed in Lake Temagami and its tributaries as part of an extensive re-stocking program of the Department of Game and Fisheries. Two lakes will be closed later in the season for restocking, one north of Peterborough and the other in Frontenac county.

In each of these lakes 2,000 adult brown trout will be placed and sportsmen will be barred. Another batch of 400 adult brown trout will be put in Trout lake near Sudbury which is now closed.) The Brown trout are about two years old, 13 inches long and weighing about a pound. They will spawn this fall. This fish are taken from the Normandale Hatchery on Lake Erie, Norfolk County.

FIRE FIGHTERS ELECT OFFICERS

Canadians Take Little Advantage of Their Fine Schools, President Says.

TARIFF UPSIDE DOWN

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., June 28 (Canadian Press). — Addressing the Provincial Firefighters' Association convention here yesterday, Fred W. Baer, president of the International Firefighters of America, declared: "You have in Canada the best schools in the world, and yet you take little advantage of them. In Washington where I live we have 10,000 of your college graduates." He claimed that the tariff here was upside down and that Canada did not hold the opportunity for her young people.

Firemen, he said, were essentially labor men and owed a debt to organized labor. He stated that the Canadian Trade Congress was on a par with any such organization in the world.

The convention went on record as favoring legislation compelling municipalities to provide pension schemes for their firemen and in favor of placing firemen in amusement houses with cities of 10,000 or more. Delegates voted to hold next year's convention in London, Ont., and elected the following officers: President, Richard Lyons, Toronto, Ont.; vice-

MINISTER WILL TOUR THE NORTH

Hon. Charles McCrae Will Leave Toronto July 7 For Northern Ontario.

PREVIOUSLY PLANNED.

TORONTO, June 28. (C.P.) — A tour of inspection through New Ontario will be made next month by Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, in the Provincial Government, who will leave Toronto on July 7 for the north, accompanied by Hon. Findlay McDiarmid, M. L. A., West Elgin, and Rev. W. G. Martin, M.L.A., of Brantford.

Commenting on Mr. McCrea's announcement of his trip, Premier Ferguson said it had been planned before W. E. N. Sinclair announced his northern tour. "We called it off in view of the Sinclair party's tour," said the Premier. "We did not want to have it look like a rival excursion."

Mr. McCrea plans to visit Sudbury, Blind River, Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur, Fort William, Kenora, Fort Frances, Sioux Lookout, Hearts, Kapuskasing, Cochrane, Timmins, Haileybury and North Bay.

LUMBER VESSEL RUNS AGROUND

Coast Guardsmen Are Attempting To Rescue Twelve of Crew.

16 ARE TAKEN OFF.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif, June 28 (C.P.).—Coast guardsmen presumably were working to-day to rescue 12 members of the crew remaining aboard the lumber schooner Hartwood which went on the fog-hidden rocks of Point Reyes, north of here last night.

Radio advices received here just after midnight reported that 16 of the crew had been taken off and that a dozen men remained on the vessel. Radio stations up and down the coast which had been silenced for several hours so the Hartwood's signals might be heard, went about their routine work as soon as the first rescue was reported and nothing further had been heard from Point Reyes early this morning.

The Hartwood, a 200 foot craft of 946 gross tons, left here yesterday for South Bend, Ore. A dense fog, a rising northwest wind and heavy seas were given as the cause of her running aground.

PRESENTATIONS MADE TO R. M. McNAUGHTON

Man Well-known in City takes Position on Staff of Malvern Collegiate, Toronto

R. M. McNaughton M. A., who has recently resigned as a teacher of English and History in Newmarket high school to accept a position in Malvern Collegiate, Toronto, on leaving was presented with a handsome club bag and camera as a token of appreciation from the Literary Society of New Market High School.

Mr. McNaughton who is well known in Peterborough and who has many friends in this city, was a few days later the recipent of a further token which expressed the regret of his fellow workers as he accepted a position that called him away from Newmarket. The Collegiate staff in that town presented him with a handsome Scotch plaid auto rug.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, June 28. — The late trading Wednesday practically cleaned up the offering of cattle at prices a dollar lower for the week at the Union Stock Yards. There was little more than a car load in the fresh supplies yesterday with no sign of activities at the opening of the light offering which consisted chiefly of cows and bulls and had not moved up to 11 o'clock. Prospects are no stronger.

The live stock market will be closed on Monday in observance of the Dominion Day holiday.

Cattle receipts this week total some 500 head less than the week previous. The trade has been very slow especially on common to medium grass cattle lacking finish which has been plentiful.

Yesterday's supply of calves included no choice veal and grasser calves, and plain veal sold barely steady at 7 3-4 to 9c a lb.

The sheep and lamb offering was made up almost entirely of a load of yearling lambs, which had not been sold up to 11 o'clock. A few sheep sold steady at 6 to 7 cents a pound for good light ewes.

The hog market was unsettled with bids a quarter lower than yesterday at 11 3-4c f.o.b. and 13c W.O.C. for select.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, June 28.—Trading on the local wholesale butter market was quieter yesterday and supplies were not moved with the usual amount of ease. Although the recent dry weather has curtailed production to a certain extent the demand in evidence appeared to fall off in approximately the same ratio, and as a result no changes were registered in prices. Local dealers state that production is not all that it should be at this period, but believe that the advent of rain will materially increase arrivals on the market; despite the slackening of production, however, there has been a slightly easier feeling in trade in the past day or so and a little more difficulty was encountered in obtaining current prices for all supplies. Number 1 creamery maintained a steady price of from 38c to 38½c per lb., with the No. 2 grade 1c lower at from 37c to 37½c per lb.

Demand on the local wholesale egg market continued to be weak yesterday and very little activity was displayed throughout the session. Hot weather continues to hold egg consumption at a low point and that combined with the lack of storage demand has slowed things down considerably. Under such an apparent absence of interest prices barely maintained their current levels. Dealers were quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, and cases returned, as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c to 26c per dozen; fresh seconds, 22c to 23c per dozen.

Trading on the local wholesale cheese market yesterday was still comparatively dull, with quotations unchanged at from 19¼c to 19½c per lb. for the No. 1 large colored paraffined and Government-graded class.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, June 28. — Spring-wheat flour was reduced 10c per barrel here yesterday. There were no other changes.

Wholesale butter prices generally dropped ¼c per lb. here yesterday. Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized selling from 37 1-8c to 37¼c per lb. Prices to the retail trade were unchanged. Receipts were 1,218 boxes.

There was also a slightly easier feeling in the cheese market. No. 1 Western, white and colored, were quoted at 19c to 19 1-8c per lb. in a wholesale way, while Easterns were 18¼c to 18½c per lb. Receipts were 7,335 boxes.

Eggs continued unchanged, with receipts amounting to 3,358 cases.

Potatoes were steady.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, June 28.—Trading was light on yesterday's wheat market and prices had a moderate range. A break of 2¼c. at the opening was wiped out and the market displayed gains until near the close, when values slumped again, finishing the day 1 5-8c to 2c below Wednesday's quotations.

General rains throughout the West resulted in liberal offerings, which forced the market downward. A good volume of export business was reported but it failed to have any effect on the trading.

Offerings were light on the cash wheat market and spreads were generally unchanged to 1-2c higher than the previous close.

Numbers 1 and 2 oats were in good demand at steady prices. Rye and flax prices dropped fractionally in a quiet market, but barley was fairly active, with values about 1-2c. higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 28. — Pressure to sell increased and buying dwindled in the wheat market yesterday, causing values to drop rather quickly toward the last. Rains tending to relieve drought in the spring wheat region in north west together with rains tending to relieve drought in the winter wheat harvest south west, were largely responsible.

Wheat closed heavy, 1 7-8 to 2 3-4c a bushel below Wednesday's finish. Corn, 7-8c to 2c down. Oats 3-8 to 7-8c off and provisions showing 2 to 20c decline.

Lowest prices of the day were current in the wheat pit at the close. Rallies at no time developed impetus enough to lift the market more than 1-4c above yesterday's final figures, and the fact was evident that aggressive support had given out, temporarily at least. Best upturns in price yesterday were associated with comprehensive reports indicating that despite varying degrees of rain which have intervened the bumper spring wheat crop prospcts of two weeks ago have disappeared and that the present outlook is for only an average yield or below.

A special factor influencing yesterday's wheat trading was notice taken that many of the heavier crop damage reports from the Southwest are based on reductions from much higher estimates than used in official comparisons. Nevertheless the majority of the leading commission houses continued to advocate the buying side of the wheat market on downward swings in prices, the general idea being that rainfall in the spring areas this season has been relatively so light that a few days hot dry weather will result in widespread complaint from both north and south of the Canadian line.

Corn, as well as wheat, lurched heavily down grade in the late dealings. Holders of corn future delivery contracts indulged in considerable selling, largely to collect profits and because of favorable weather prevalent throughout the corn belt. Oats were draggy as a result of excellent conditions to mature new oats crop.

Provisions sagged, responsive to the action of hog values and of grain.

Activities of League Will Be At Minimum During Months of July and August.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 28 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—There was only a small attendance at the Wednesday night meeting of the Catholic Women's League held in their club rooms in the Herald block. This will be the last regular meeting till September. During the months of July and August, the activities of the league will be at a minimum, at least till after the Old Home Week Fair is over.

Miss Callahan, treasurer, reported that only a small number of the women had contributed their talent money, and she requested that the others do so as soon as possible in order to assist in meeting the general running expenses of the club. The report of the sewing circle was also given.

The entertainment part of the program consisted of three numbers: a recitation, "Home, Sweet Home," by Mrs. James Black; vocal solo, "Mother o' Mine," and a violin solo by Paul O'Sullivan. The accompaniment were played by Frank O'Sullivan.

MYSTERY OF CAMPBELLFORD FISHING TRIP IS SOLVED

Local Business Men Have Trying Experience While on Angling Expedition.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 28 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The reason why two local business men appeared at their homes one evening recently, one minus his boots and the other minus his sox, has finally been explained. The two men went for a few hours' fishing at a popular spot south of the town. One man wore a new pair of sport shoes and rather than chance wetting them, he removed them and deposited them safely on a rock near the water's edge. Then both men set to work to fish with a vengeance. They were a few yards below a dam. Somehow or other the water began to rise and had become quite high and swift before either of them noticed. Then began the scramble for the rocky shore with the advantage being first to one then to the other. Each of the fishermen seemed greatly concerned for the other's welfare. Just when everything seemed rosy the barefooted man slipped and got a genuine ducking. But he could swim and both got out.

Troubles never come singly. When they got back on dry land, they found that the four fish they had caught and carefully landed had been washed down stream. The next staggering discovery as that the new shoes and sox had suffered the same fate, and the car was half a mile away over rocky ground. It was rough going for a man who had not gone barefoot for more than twenty years, and his companion in misery generously volunteered the use of his boots. Thus they continued their painful journey to their car. The final episode was when they landed at their homes and made their meek entry, one with sox and no shoes, the other with shoes and no sox, and neither with any fish, but both with a wonderfully entertaining story with plenty of laughs.

VICE-CHAMBERLAIN IS WELL RECEIVED

Real English Domestic Atmosphere to be Found in Royal Household.

LONDON, June 28.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Hon. J. H. Hayes, Labor member for Liverpool-Everton who has been appointed vice-chamberlain of the royal household and is thus brought into close touch with the royal family, writes of his first visit to St. James' Palace in the "Police Review." He was formerly a sergeant of the Metropolitan police and later an official of the National Police Officers' Association.

"In the royal household itself nothing but the most friendly, helpful and homely consideration is shown" he says, "and there is a real English domestic atmosphere that breathes as freely as anyone could wish."

Mr. Hayes says Lord Remnant, former Conservative member of parliament who was elevated to the peerage last year, "assured me he would keep a sharp lookout for me at their majesties' levee, to see I was doing my job properly. I reciprocated by threatening him with a special report if he was absent from or even late on parade."

"I AM perfectly certain," says Attilio, of Rome, "that there are countless complexions which are less lovely than they ought to be, merely because one of the simplest and most natural of all beauty treatments is neglected. I refer to the cleansing of the skin.

"I always ask my clients to use Palmolive Soap, which embodies the finest cleansing agents for the skin."

In his beauty shop, at 68 Piazza di Spagna, Attilio receives visits from no less a personage than Her Majesty, the Queen of Italy. Roman patricians naturally seek his advice on care of the complexion.

Attilio's distinguished colleagues, in every great capital of Europe, in every smart resort . . . repeat this same advice. They tell their discriminating clients this simple twice-a-day treatment: massage a smooth lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water into the skin. Allow it to penetrate the pores. Rinse, after two minutes, first with warm water, now with cold. Only then are you ready for make-up! Begin to use Palmolive today!

TICKETS FOR NEXT-OF-KIN.

The Examiner once more calls the attention of the next-of-kin of Peterborough's war dead to the necessity of making application at once for tickets admitting them to the area reserved for them at the unveiling of the war memorial on Sunday.

The parents and the sons and daughters of the men who made the supreme sacrifice should be honored guests on this occasion, and in order to make this possible without confusion or congestion, it is necessary that a suitable section should be set aside to which the relatives will be admitted by ticket.

The committee has made the necessary arrangements, and all that is necessary to ensure the smooth working out of the plan is for those entitled to special consideration to provide themselves with the required tickets.

These, as has been explained several times before, may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters, over the Dominion Bank.

Relatives who have not yet secured their tickets should do so as early as possible to-morrow in order that there may be no confusion at the last moment.

LET THE FLAGS TELL THE STORY.

It may be that citizens generally have deferred their decorating until the last minute, but at all events up to the present the residential streets suffer most unfavorably when contrasted with the gala appearance of the business area.

The downtown merchants have risen nobly to the occasion, and the lavish display of flags and bunting made by them is responsible for a riot of color that is bound to favorably impress the army of visitors pouring into Peterborough.

The decorating of private homes has not kept pace with the business section lavishness, and it is to be hoped that this defect will be remedied before the celebration gets well under way.

Every house should have its flag for this great homecoming of Peterborough's sons and daughters, and the red, white and blue should everywhere tell its story of a warm-hearted welcome from the warm-hearted citizens of a warm-hearted city.

Let the flags fly on every street in Peterboough in honor of the city's guests, who from far and near come thronging home in answer to the pull on their heartstrings exercised by this re-union of Peterborough's graduates.

Let us honor them by making every street a blaze of color.

FUN—BUT NO ROWDYISM.

In its relation to the public during Old Home Week the police department is anxious that the celebration shall be a joyous success and good-natured fun will be encouraged.

So long as no attempt is made to substitute rowdyism for merriment and to turn liberty into license, Peterborough's citizens and their guests can count upon no interference from the police.

The Examiner has confidence enough in the common sense of Peterboroughians present, as well as former, to predict that next week's celebration will be worthy of the spirit in which it has been organized and worthy of the reputation this city has always enjoyed for good behaviour on all occasions.

There will be fun for everybody, but the entertainment will not get beyond bounds, and the chief occupation of the police force during the re-union will be to superintend traffic and eliminate congestion and accident hazards so far as is possible.

In one particular, and rightly so, the police department will be quick to act.

Anybody foolish enough to attempt to drive an automobile while under the influence of liquor will find himself in trouble in a hurry; there will be no relaxation in the case of drunken drivers, who are menace enough at any time and who will be doubly dangerous under the conditions that will prevail next week.

WHERE DRIVERS CAN HELP.

The importance of effective co-operation on the part of motorists with the police department during the Old Home Week celebration is great enough to warrant a reference to the matter in these columns.

The police will have their work cut out for them in handling traffic with a minimum of congestion and in a manner that will prevent accidents.

There will be an abnormal volume of motor traffic on city streets all through the celebration, and unless the motorists co-operate by obeying promptly and willingly the recommendations made by the police department, there is certain to be inconvenience and possibly accidents.

Particularly Peterborough people can help by doing only what driving is necessary during the next few days.

There will be so many automobiles from out-of-town that any relief that can be afforded by local drivers will be appreciated.

Those who have but short distances to travel would do well to leave their cars in the garage as much as possible during the celebration; both the machines themselves and their owners will be safer as a result and the traffic congestion will be materially reduced.

This is, of course, only a suggestion from the police, but it is one that it would be wise to follow out.

At all events all drivers should familiarize themselves with the regulations laid down for the re-union and give the officials every assistance.

SAVE YOUR HEALTH.

A few days ago there was completed a remarkable survey of health conditions in the city of New York. The health facts discovered there may, with more or less accuracy, be recorded as typical of the continent and are, therefore, of general public value. Here are some of the facts regarding health conditions in our neighbor's largest city: From 125,000 to 200,000 persons are continually sick in bed and from 250,000 to 800,000 more are constantly ill; of the 70,000 deaths per year, a very large percentage are from sickness that might have been prevented or postponed; the total annual outlay or the care of disease is $150,000,000; the annual loss in wages due to illness is $75,000,000; amount spent annually in the prevention of ill-health, $8,500,000.

We hear much about losses incurred by the public through fraudulent or unsound investments. Needless and preventable losses of time and money through ill-health constitute an even heavier economic drain on the country. Health thrift is more important than money thrift because without money we still can work and win, but without health we are helpless and advancement is practically impossible. Fortunately more thought constantly is being given to thrift of health. Vacations are taken for the purpose of conserving one's health. When they are so planned and carried out as to be helpful along these lines, they are by no means a waste of time—they are, quite to the contrary, a good example of thrift. It has only been within recent years that the public generally has begun to understand that thrift means much more than money. But if it is thrifty to save money, is it not more thrifty to conserve a possession that is beyond price and value, namely, good health?—St. Catharines Standard.

WHY BOYS LEAVE HOME.

A short time ago there appeared an article in Science Service, to the effect that the centralization of industry in the large centres, and the depopulation of the smaller places and farms was increasing to such an extent that the entire economic aspect of the country was undergoing a serious change, to the great detriment of our whole country and to the farming industry in particular.

From surveys made and from records completed, this has proven to apply as well to Canada as to the United States, and the answer to it seems largely to be the drab and uninviting aspect of the average farming community, and smaller town, where the leaders appear to take no interest in the brightening of the lives of the young people, where no thought is given to proper diversion and recreation by those who, if they gave the slightest thought to the subject that their community requires the same opportunity for entertainment and amusement as the larger places, but have been content to see the young people, and older ones as well, who are so inclined, go off to the large places for their recreation and friendships, that without doubt they are eventually weaned away from the home town or community where this friendship does not exist.

Without going into definite statistics, that prove there is less crime in localities that have plenty of recreation than in those not so forward, it might be well to mention that there would be less mischief among the more vital boys and girls of any district, if there was a wholesome clubhouse with amusements, harmless mischief that could easily in later life develop a tendency towards crimes not so harmless.

Of late years, many factory and mill owners have realized this, and realize that to keep their employees and their families contented and to reduce the appalling and expensive labor turnover, have built nice clubhouses with an assembly hall, gymnasium, billiard tables and bowling alleys to satisfy their employees' desire for companionship and diversions. Any small town or farming community can be, with no stretch of imagination, likened to a group of factory employees and their families, and the mayor or reeve of these communities should look on himself as the general manager of that community, and give the same thought to this important problem as the factory manager wishing to reduce the number of people leaving his employ. If the community is not intending to build a clubhouse with lots of recreational opportunities, such as dancing, gymnastics, English billiards and bowling, they should select some enterprising man of good character and induce him to open a public billiard academy or bowling alleys, such as has been done by Mr. W. W. Hiltz, ex-mayor of Toronto, and J. J. Duffus, ex-mayor of Peterborough, Dr. Curry, of St. Catharines, and many other prominent men throughout Canada.

Police Magistrate Jones, of Toronto, who is an active boys' leader, writes: "I believe the answer to one of the most pressing social problems to-day lies in the parents and social leaders, not only appreciating the need of recreation, but in getting out and actually participating in these games with the young people."

He further says: "There is no question of the value of such recreation as billiards and bowling in the church and community club, and the value to the community of public recreation establishments is in direct ratio to the character of the many that the town entrusts with the franchise to operate such places. The exodus from the farm and small community will quickly stop the minute friendship is shown in a true light and plenty of wholesome amusement and recreation is supplied, not only to the young people, but to the older people, who do not grow old before their time.—Municipal Review of Canada.

The influences for this day are favorable for matters dealing with property. A change of great importance overshadows your present life, and it is likely to be for your betterment. It will be a good time for travel.

Children born on June 28th will be volatile and light-hearted. They will show signs of considerable selfishness, and will not have sacrificing natures—their hands will be extended to receive and not to give. Their anger will be violent when they give way to it.

Your good nature, apparent at all times, is infectious. As a natural result, your friends are many, and your admirers are legion. Your life does not show much earnestness of purpose, nor any will to succeed. You take things as they come, and never worry, either about the past or the future. Your philosophy of life is fatalistic.

As Nature has richly endowed you with intelligence, ability and a keen mind, it is to be regretted that your intentions are not more serious and your efforts more sustained. It cannot be gainsaid that, if you would only stick-it-out, instead of just "carrying on" you could reach pinnacles of success. So long, however, as you are not inconvenienced, and can get along with an ordinary degree of comfort, you are not only content, but satisfied.

Your disposition is a very affectionate one and your married life, especially if blessed with children promises to abound in happiness. In fact, no matter what happens, you can never be really unhappy. You possess a wonderful sense of humor, and its grace has often been of the saving variety. You are upright and straightforward; wholesome and truthful.

Your life promises to run smoothly, with few cares and fewer worries. Your temperament, without being "happy-go-lucky" is placid and even.

COMING HOME

DR. A. F. ANDERSON

One of the most agreeable things about this Old Home Week is greeting people who are arriving. An exceedingly cheerful sample is Dr. A. F. Anderson, of Edmonton, Alberta, who attended the Murray street school in the old days, absorbed further instruction under Mr. Fessenden, went off to college and eventually took up practice in Winnipeg, for twelve years, and has been in Edmonton eighteen years, where he is now doing yeoman service as superintendent of the Royal Alexandria Hospital.

He humorously tells of the duties he has to look after. Has acquired a diversity of occupations, such as vigilant inspector of plumbing, assayer of the quality of coal and keeps two eyes on the milk supply.

If any of our enterprising medicos feel "the call" to go West, they may ponder the varied duties to undertake, because all others will skirt away from responsibility in such particulars.

FROM DELORAINE, MANITOBA

All the way from Deloraine, Manitoba, four more have come to join the Old Home Week party. H. G. Reynolds and his wife, daughter and W. R. Hamblin now join the gathering after an 1800 mile trip from western Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds and their daughter are visiting Mrs. Reynold's sister, Mrs. M. J. Hallihan 267 Lake street and Mr. Hamblin is stopping with his brother, Harold Hamblin, on Westcott street.

Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Hamblin are both old old Peterborough boys, the former having been born in the vicinity of Warsaw in 1876. It is many years since any of the party have returned to the old home district.

The long motor trip was made by way of the United States. The party crossed Lake Michigan by boat from Milwaukee. No trouble was experienced during the entire trip They will return next week.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It is burned beyond recognition, but from a small patch of scalp Dr. Cavanaugh identifies it as the body of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears him tell this to Peter. Peter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh search the boudoir of the murdered woman. The breach of promise papers have been taken, but they find a threatening letter signed "David Orme," Peter goes on the trail of Orme. He runs him down at an automobile tourists' camp.

CHAPTER 31

Peter slowed his rapid steps to an indifferent stroll, and paused behind the group to which the man had pointed. Several persons were gathered about a table formed of unpainted planks laid trestle wise across supporting end-boards. A fat middle-aged woman in a torn bungalow apron was making a futile pass at two children who were squabbling noisily over a slice of bread and butter. The man, whose back was turned towards Peter, finished buttering a second slice and reaching across the table, thrust it into the grimy hand of one of the contestants.

Peter's lips pursed in an inaudible whistle. He had met too many criminals to be surprised that a man might commit murder and yet take a sympathetic interest in the feeding of two strange and by no means attractive children.

There flashed across his mind the memory of a holdup man who had lost his job in a meat market because he could not bring himself to kill a chicken—and who, six months later, had shot down in the street a newsboy whom he suspected of recognizing him as a fugitive from justice. The man who reached the bread and butter across the table had the ends of two fingers missing from his hand.

"I'd like a word with you, Orme," Peter said quietly.

The man's shoulders quivered, but he did not turn. Peter rather wished that he would lay down the bread knife. He pondered the advantage of getting the table between them against the disadvantage of giving Orme that much of a start in case he turned and ran. Then, with a lift of the eyebrow as his sole tribute to what he designated as "the bread knife angle," he stepped forward and touched the man on the arm.

"Your name is David Orme, I believe," he remarked conversationally. "Mine's Piper."

His voice was carefully unemphatic, but his eyes were warily fixed on the long, keen blade of the knife. There was butter on it, and crumbs. His surface attention was all for the man at the table, but with an irrelevant, darting side-thought he wondered whether anyone had ever been stabbed with a knife that had crumbs and butter on it.

Slowly the man turned and faced Peter. The hand holding the knife trembled, but his voice was quite steady.

"Glad to know you," he said, "but you're mistaken. My name's Osgood—Daniel Osgood."

Forgetting caution, Peter's gaze shifted, startled, from the man's hand to his face. It was a surprising voice to come from a ragged fugitive, hiding under an alias, with murder in the background. It was low, vibrant, modulated, giving to the simplest words a hint of music.

Peter knew with instant absolute assurance that a man with a voice like that might commit murder, but he would never stab an unarmed man with a dirty knife. He slid into a seat on the bench beside Orme and leaned his elbow on the table.

"It would be," he smiled companionably. "It's a funny thing about people who change their names always keeping the same initials. In fact, the tendency is so familiar that I should think by this time everyone would take pains to avoid it. By the way, why didn't you clear out?"

"I didn't have the money," the man simply.

"Oh, Lord!" Peter groaned. There surged over him an irrational impulse to protect this man from the trap which he himself had laid, and into which the victim had stepped with such blind, unhesitating promptness. It was too easy!

"You ought to have a guardian!" he exclaimed almost angrily; and then, more gently, "It's a good thing I found you."

Suppose this babe had been pounced upon by men from the homicide squad, with their "sweating" methods and "strong-arm" tactics—it would be like seeing a rabbit torn piecemeal by dogs. Peter quite forgot that the man beside him was sought as a dangerous character—a slayer.

"But you haven't told me yet why you wanted to find me." There was not a trace of fear in the low voice, nor any combativeness.

Peter leaned forward and peered at the face before him with his bright, near-sighted gray eyes before answering. It was a worn and sensitive face, young and yet ravaged; a face with delicate, clearly modelled features and dark sunken eyes. The perfectly shaped head had the smiting beauty of a profile on a Greek coin.

And this was the man whom Ethel had dismissed as a "sickly looking fellow!" If sickness was there, it was a sickness of the soul. The curved lips, drooping slightly at the corners, the dark, steady eyes with their depths of pain, did not suggest weakness so much as the helplessness of one who is an alien in the world where he must live. There was a permanent bewilderement in those eyes—the eyes of a baffled poet thrust into a world of ugly prose in which he could never be at home, bruised and broken and still wondering. A man like that, wounded beyond endurance, might strike to kill—and still not understand what it was all about.

"Surely you know," Peter said at last, speaking patiently as if to a child, "that you are under suspicion of the murder of Mrs. Ellsworth."

The curved lips tightened into a hard, straight line. The face before him became as still, as expresionless as if it were chiselled in stone.

"I don't know any Mrs. Ellsworth." The voice took on a remote metallic ring, as if each word were the dropping of a coin.

Peter stared a moment. Then he remembered something — something that had puzzled him.

"But you knew Sheila O'Shay?" he asked breathlessly.

"Yes, oh, yes—Sheila O'Shay." The words were hardly more than an audible sigh. "A great many people knew Sheila O'Shay."

His hands were suddenly flung outward on the table in a singularly defenseless gesture. The knife, unnoticed, slid across the boards and fell noiselessly to the ground. The fat woman and her tumultuous offspring had wandered away out of sight.

"Yes," Peter said sternly, "but you wrote Sheila O'Shay a threatening letter. I don't know why you didn't take any pains to disguise it, but you didn't. Then you hung around outside the house, lying in wait for her. Sheila O'Shay was found murdered—and you are out here, hiding under an assumed name. You're absolutely no good as a fugitive. I'll admit— I could have done a lot better myself—but that's no sign you didn't do it. You trembled all over when I spoke to you."

"Oh, but that was before I knew you!" Orme's face broke into a radiant, confiding smile of sheer delight. "You're so very likeable, you know!" By the way, I don't think you're a policeman, are you?"

"No. I'm not," Peter said harshly. "But I'm just as bad. I'm going to take you to jail."

He wanted to take this unaccountable young man by the shoulders and shake him—shake him into a realization of the seriousness of the situation. It was like seeing a child watch the house burn down and clap his hands at the pretty fire.

"Well, that can't be helped, I suppose," Orme acquiesced.

"You'd have done better to face the music in the first place, if you couldn't get away any better than this," Peter said crossly. "You've made an awful mess of things."

"Yes," the young man nodded his head gravely, "I know — I do that often. I'm always making a mess of things."

"But hardly with your life in the balance!"

"Does it matter? Not a great deal, I think." Orme's tone was not in the least bitter. He might have been commenting on the prospect of rain.

"I'm afraid you'll wake up too late and find that it does!" Peter raged.

"Well, don't let it bother you. It's my—er, potential funeral, after all!" Again that winning, sunny smile, like a child watching the mounting flames. Against his will, Peter found himself smiling back.

"I won't say that whatever you say will be used against you, because you'll be just putty in the hands of the police, anyway. But would you mind telling me—did you really kill her?"

"Maybe so," the young man said. "But that will be for the police to find out."

And this, through all the long drive back to town, was the last word that Peter had from him.

GARRISON NOTES

The names of seven Peterborough men appear on the District Orders for Military District No. 3 as having certificates granted for promotions. This marks another step in the military history of the city and the recipients of the honor have only attained the honors which they have received through concientious and hard work.

H. G. Mason of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, formerly holding the rank of Lieutenant is now Captain Mason. Captain Hartstone, M.C., of the 4th Field Battery has been promoted to the rank of Major. Provisional Lieutenants H. S. Rogers and A. R. Stevenson of the 4th Field Battery have received their official commission as Lieutenant and Provinsional Lieutenant B. E. Park of the Peterborough Rangers has also received his Lieutenancy.

As the result of examinations held at Kingston on May 16th former Majors C. H. Stuart VD., of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons and M. H. Park, VD., have been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

BY-ELECTIONS JULY 29.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 28.—Election writs were yesterday issued for the constituencies of Frontenac-Addington, Vaudreuil-Soulanges and Fiaprairie-Napierville, it was announced by Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer for the Dominion. Nominations will be held on July 22 and elections on July 29.

TICKETS FOR NEXT-OF-KIN.

The Examiner once more calls the attention of the next-of-kin of Peterborough's war dead to the necessity of making application at once for tickets admitting them to the area reserved for them at the unveiling of the war memorial on Sunday.

The parents and the sons and daughters of the men who made the supreme sacrifice should be honored guests on this occasion, and in order to make this possible without confusion or congestion, it is necessary that a suitable section should be set aside to which the relatives will be admitted by ticket.

The committee has made the necessary arrangements, and all that is necessary to ensure the smooth working out of the plan is for those entitled to special consideration to provide themselves with the required tickets.

These, as has been explained several times before, may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters, over the Dominion Bank.

Relatives who have not yet secured their tickets should do so as early as possible to-morrow in order that there may be no confusion at the last moment.

LET THE FLAGS TELL THE STORY.

It may be that citizens generally have deferred their decorating until the last minute, but at all events up to the present the residential streets suffer most unfavorably when contrasted with the gala appearance of the business area.

The downtown merchants have risen nobly to the occasion, and the lavish display of flags and bunting made by them is responsible for a riot of color that is bound to favorably impress the army of visitors pouring into Peterborough.

The decorating of private homes has not kept pace with the business section lavishness, and it is to be hoped that this defect will be remedied before the celebration gets well under way.

Every house should have its flag for this great homecoming of Peterborough's sons and daughters, and the red, white and blue should everywhere tell its story of a warm-hearted welcome from the warm-hearted citizens of a warm-hearted city.

Let the flags fly on every street in Peterboough in honor of the city's guests, who from far and near come thronging home in answer to the pull on their heartstrings exercised by this re-union of Peterborough's graduates.

Let us honor them by making every street a blaze of color.

FUN—BUT NO ROWDYISM.

In its relation to the public during Old Home Week the police department is anxious that the celebration shall be a joyous success and good-natured fun will be encouraged.

So long as no attempt is made to substitute rowdyism for merriment and to turn liberty into license, Peterborough's citizens and their guests can count upon no interference from the police.

The Examiner has confidence enough in the common sense of Peterboroughians present, as well as former, to predict that next week's celebration will be worthy of the spirit in which it has been organized and worthy of the reputation this city has always enjoyed for good behaviour on all occasions.

There will be fun for everybody, but the entertainment will not get beyond bounds, and the chief occupation of the police force during the re-union will be to superintend traffic and eliminate congestion and accident hazards so far as is possible.

In one particular, and rightly so, the police department will be quick to act.

Anybody foolish enough to attempt to drive an automobile while under the influence of liquor will find himself in trouble in a hurry; there will be no relaxation in the case of drunken drivers, who are menace enough at any time and who will be doubly dangerous under the conditions that will prevail next week.

WHERE DRIVERS CAN HELP.

The importance of effective co-operation on the part of motorists with the police department during the Old Home Week celebration is great enough to warrant a reference to the matter in these columns.

The police will have their work cut out for them in handling traffic with a minimum of congestion and in a manner that will prevent accidents.

There will be an abnormal volume of motor traffic on city streets all through the celebration, and unless the motorists co-operate by obeying promptly and willingly the recommendations made by the police department, there is certain to be inconvenience and possibly accidents.

Particularly Peterborough people can help by doing only what driving is necessary during the next few days.

There will be so many automobiles from out-of-town that any relief that can be afforded by local drivers will be appreciated.

Those who have but short distances to travel would do well to leave their cars in the garage as much as possible during the celebration; both the machines themselves and their owners will be safer as a result and the traffic congestion will be materially reduced.

This is, of course, only a suggestion from the police, but it is one that it would be wise to follow out.

At all events all drivers should familiarize themselves with the regulations laid down for the re-union and give the officials every assistance.

SAVE YOUR HEALTH.

A few days ago there was completed a remarkable survey of health conditions in the city of New York. The health facts discovered there may, with more or less accuracy, be recorded as typical of the continent and are, therefore, of general public value. Here are some of the facts regarding health conditions in our neighbor's largest city: From 125,000 to 200,000 persons are continually sick in bed and from 250,000 to 800,000 more are constantly ill; of the 70,000 deaths per year, a very large percentage are from sickness that might have been prevented or postponed; the total annual outlay or the care of disease is $150,000,000; the annual loss in wages due to illness is $75,000,000; amount spent annually in the prevention of ill-health, $8,500,000.

We hear much about losses incurred by the public through fraudulent or unsound investments. Needless and preventable losses of time and money through ill-health constitute an even heavier economic drain on the country. Health thrift is more important than money thrift because without money we still can work and win, but without health we are helpless and advancement is practically impossible. Fortunately more thought constantly is being given to thrift of health. Vacations are taken for the purpose of conserving one's health. When they are so planned and carried out as to be helpful along these lines, they are by no means a waste of time—they are, quite to the contrary, a good example of thrift. It has only been within recent years that the public generally has begun to understand that thrift means much more than money. But if it is thrifty to save money, is it not more thrifty to conserve a possession that is beyond price and value, namely, good health?—St. Catharines Standard.

WHY BOYS LEAVE HOME.

A short time ago there appeared an article in Science Service, to the effect that the centralization of industry in the large centres, and the depopulation of the smaller places and farms was increasing to such an extent that the entire economic aspect of the country was undergoing a serious change, to the great detriment of our whole country and to the farming industry in particular.

From surveys made and from records completed, this has proven to apply as well to Canada as to the United States, and the answer to it seems largely to be the drab and uninviting aspect of the average farming community, and smaller town, where the leaders appear to take no interest in the brightening of the lives of the young people, where no thought is given to proper diversion and recreation by those who, if they gave the slightest thought to the subject that their community requires the same opportunity for entertainment and amusement as the larger places, but have been content to see the young people, and older ones as well, who are so inclined, go off to the large places for their recreation and friendships, that without doubt they are eventually weaned away from the home town or community where this friendship does not exist.

Without going into definite statistics, that prove there is less crime in localities that have plenty of recreation than in those not so forward, it might be well to mention that there would be less mischief among the more vital boys and girls of any district, if there was a wholesome clubhouse with amusements, harmless mischief that could easily in later life develop a tendency towards crimes not so harmless.

Of late years, many factory and mill owners have realized this, and realize that to keep their employees and their families contented and to reduce the appalling and expensive labor turnover, have built nice clubhouses with an assembly hall, gymnasium, billiard tables and bowling alleys to satisfy their employees' desire for companionship and diversions. Any small town or farming community can be, with no stretch of imagination, likened to a group of factory employees and their families, and the mayor or reeve of these communities should look on himself as the general manager of that community, and give the same thought to this important problem as the factory manager wishing to reduce the number of people leaving his employ. If the community is not intending to build a clubhouse with lots of recreational opportunities, such as dancing, gymnastics, English billiards and bowling, they should select some enterprising man of good character and induce him to open a public billiard academy or bowling alleys, such as has been done by Mr. W. W. Hiltz, ex-mayor of Toronto, and J. J. Duffus, ex-mayor of Peterborough, Dr. Curry, of St. Catharines, and many other prominent men throughout Canada.

Police Magistrate Jones, of Toronto, who is an active boys' leader, writes: "I believe the answer to one of the most pressing social problems to-day lies in the parents and social leaders, not only appreciating the need of recreation, but in getting out and actually participating in these games with the young people."

He further says: "There is no question of the value of such recreation as billiards and bowling in the church and community club, and the value to the community of public recreation establishments is in direct ratio to the character of the many that the town entrusts with the franchise to operate such places. Your philosophy of life is fatalistic.

As Nature has richly endowed you with intelligence, ability and a keen mind, it is to be regretted that your intentions are not more serious and your efforts more sustained. It cannot be gainsaid that, if you would only stick-it-out, instead of just "carrying on" you could reach pinnacles of success. So long, however, as you are not inconvenienced, and can get along with an ordinary degree of comfort, you are not only content, but satisfied.

Your disposition is a very affectionate one and your married life, especially if blessed with children promises to abound in happiness. In fact, no matter what happens, you can never be really unhappy. You possess a wonderful sense of humor, and its grace has often been of the saving variety. You are upright and straightforward; wholesome and truthful.

Your life promises to run smoothly, with few cares and fewer worries. Your temperament, without being "happy-go-lucky" is placid and even.

COMING HOME

DR. A. F. ANDERSON

One of the most agreeable things about this Old Home Week is greeting people who are arriving. An exceedingly cheerful sample is Dr. A. F. Anderson, of Edmonton, Alberta, who attended the Murray street school in the old days, absorbed further instruction under Mr. Fessenden, went off to college and eventually took up practice in Winnipeg, for twelve years, and has been in Edmonton eighteen years, where he is now doing yeoman service as superintendent of the Royal Alexandria Hospital.

He humorously tells of the duties he has to look after. Has acquired a diversity of occupations, such as vigilant inspector of plumbing, assayer of the quality of coal and keeps two eyes on the milk supply.

If any of our enterprising medicos feel "the call" to go West, they may ponder the varied duties to undertake, because all others will skirt away from responsibility in such particulars.

FROM DELORAINE, MANITOBA

All the way from Deloraine, Manitoba, four more have come to join the Old Home Week party. H. G. Reynolds and his wife, daughter and W. R. Hamblin now join the gathering after an 1800 mile trip from western Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds and their daughter are visiting Mrs. Reynold's sister, Mrs. M. J. Hallihan 267 Lake street and Mr. Hamblin is stopping with his brother, Harold Hamblin, on Westcott street.

Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Hamblin are both old old Peterborough boys, the former having been born in the vicinity of Warsaw in 1876. It is many years since any of the party have returned to the old home district.

The long motor trip was made by way of the United States. The party crossed Lake Michigan by boat from Milwaukee. No trouble was experienced during the entire trip They will return next week.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It is burned beyond recognition, but from a small patch of scalp Dr. Cavanaugh identifies it as the body of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears him tell this to Peter. Peter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh search the boudoir of the murdered woman. The breach of promise papers have been taken, but they find a threatening letter signed "David Orme," Peter goes on the trail of Orme. He runs him down at an automobile tourists' camp.

CHAPTER 31

Peter slowed his rapid steps to an indifferent stroll, and paused behind the group to which the man had pointed. Several persons were gathered about a table formed of unpainted planks laid trestle wise across supporting end-boards. A fat middle-aged woman in a torn bungalow apron was making a futile pass at two children who were squabbling noisily over a slice of bread and butter. The man, whose back was turned towards Peter, finished buttering a second slice and reaching across the table, thrust it into the grimy hand of one of the contestants.

Peter's lips pursed in an inaudible whistle. He had met too many criminals to be surprised that a man might commit murder and yet take a sympathetic interest in the feeding of two strange and by no means attractive children.

There flashed across his mind the memory of a holdup man who had lost his job in a meat market because he could not bring himself to kill a chicken—and who, six months later, had shot down in the street a newsboy whom he suspected of recognizing him as a fugitive from justice. The man who reached the bread and butter across the table had the ends of two fingers missing from his hand.

"I'd like a word with you, Orme," Peter said quietly.

The man's shoulders quivered, but he did not turn. Peter rather wished that he would lay down the bread knife. He pondered the advantage of getting the table between them against the disadvantage of giving Orme that much of a start in case he turned and ran. Then, with a lift of the eyebrow as his sole tribute to what he designated as "the bread knife angle," he stepped forward and touched the man on the arm.

"Your name is David Orme, I believe," he remarked conversationally. "Mine's Piper."

His voice was carefully unemphatic, but his eyes were warily fixed on the long, keen blade of the knife. There was butter on it, and crumbs. His surface attention was all for the man at the table, but with an irrelevant, darting side-thought he wondered whether anyone had ever been stabbed with a knife that had crumbs and butter on it.

Slowly the man turned and faced Peter. The hand holding the knife trembled, but his voice was quite steady.

"Glad to know you," he said, "but you're mistaken. My name's Osgood—Daniel Osgood."

Forgetting caution, Peter's gaze shifted, startled, from the man's hand to his face. It was a surprising voice to come from a ragged fugitive, hiding under an alias, with murder in the background. It was low, vibrant, modulated, giving to the simplest words a hint of music.

Peter knew with instant absolute assurance that a man with a voice like that might commit murder, but he would never stab an unarmed man with a dirty knife. He slid into a seat on the bench beside Orme and leaned his elbow on the table.

"It would be," he smiled companionably. "It's a funny thing about people who change their names always keeping the same initials. In fact, the tendency is so familiar that I should think by this time everyone would take pains to avoid it. By the way, why didn't you clear out?"

"I didn't have the money," the man simply.

"Oh, Lord!" Peter groaned. There surged over him an irrational impulse to protect this man from the trap which he himself had laid, and into which the victim had stepped with such blind, unhesitating promptness. It was too easy!

"You ought to have a guardian!" he exclaimed almost angrily; and then, more gently, "It's a good thing I found you."

Suppose this babe had been pounced upon by men from the homicide squad, with their "sweating" methods and "strong-arm" tactics—it would be like seeing a rabbit torn piecemeal by dogs. Peter quite forgot that the man beside him was sought as a dangerous character—a slayer.

"But you haven't told me yet why you wanted to find me." There was not a trace of fear in the low voice, nor any combativeness.

Peter leaned forward and peered at the face before him with his bright, near-sighted gray eyes before answering. It was a worn and sensitive face, young and yet ravaged; a face with delicate, clearly modelled features and dark sunken eyes. The perfectly shaped head had the smiting beauty of a profile on a Greek coin.

And this was the man whom Ethel had dismissed as a "sickly looking fellow!" If sickness was there, it was a sickness of the soul. The curved lips, drooping slightly at the corners, the dark, steady eyes with their depths of pain, did not suggest weakness so much as the helplessness of one who is an alien in the world where he must live. There was a permanent bewildererment in those eyes—the eyes of a baffled poet thrust into a world of ugly prose in which he could never be at home, bruised and broken and still wondering. A man like that, wounded beyond endurance, might strike to kill—and still not understand what it was all about.

"Surely you know," Peter said at last, speaking patiently as if to a child, "that you are under suspicion of the murder of Mrs. Ellsworth."

The curved lips tightened into a hard, straight line. The face before him became as still, as expresionless as if it were chiselled in stone.

"I don't know any Mrs. Ellsworth." The voice took on a remote metallic ring, as if each word were the dropping of a coin.

Peter stared a moment. Then he remembered something — something that had puzzled him.

"But you knew Sheila O'Shay?" he asked breathlessly.

"Yes, oh, yes—Sheila O'Shay." The words were hardly more than an audible sigh. "A great many people knew Sheila O'Shay."

His hands were suddenly flung outward on the table in a singularly defenseless gesture. The knife, unnoticed, slid across the boards and fell noiselessly to the ground. The fat woman and her tumultuous offspring had wandered away out of sight.

"Yes," Peter said sternly, "but you wrote Sheila O'Shay a threatening letter. I don't know why you didn't take any pains to disguise it, but you didn't. Then you hung around outside the house, lying in wait for her. Sheila O'Shay was found murdered—and you are out here, hiding under an assumed name. You're absolutely no good as a fugitive. I'll admit— I could have done a lot better myself—but that's no sign you didn't do it. You trembled all over when I spoke to you."

"Oh, but that was before I knew you!" Orme's face broke into a radiant, confiding smile of sheer delight. "You're so very likeable, you know!" By the way, I don't think you're a policeman, are you?"

"No. I'm not," Peter said harshly. "But I'm just as bad. I'm going to take you to jail."

He wanted to take this unaccountable young man by the shoulders and shake him—shake him into a realization of the seriousness of the situation. It was like seeing a child watch the house burn down and clap his hands at the pretty fire.

"Well, that can't be helped, I suppose," Orme acquiesced.

"You'd have done better to face the music in the first place, if you couldn't get away any better than this," Peter said crossly. "You've made an awful mess of things."

"Yes," the young man nodded his head gravely, "I know — I do that often. I'm always making a mess of things."

"But hardly with your life in the balance!"

"Does it matter? Not a great deal, I think." Orme's tone was not in the least bitter. He might have been commenting on the prospect of rain.

"I'm afraid you'll wake up too late and find that it does!" Peter raged.

"Well, don't let it bother you. It's my—er, potential funeral, after all!" Again that winning, sunny smile, like a child watching the mounting flames. Against his will, Peter found himself smiling back.

"I won't say that whatever you say will be used against you, because you'll be just putty in the hands of the police, anyway. But would you mind telling me—did you really kill her?"

"Maybe so," the young man said. "But that will be for the police to find out."

And this, through all the long drive back to town, was the last word that Peter had from him.

HIRAM WALKERS HOLDS STEADY

General List Narrow and Price Movements Devoid of Interest on Toronto Curb.

OIL STOCKS ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 28 (Canadian Press).—Pre-holiday dullness marked trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day; in consequence the list was narrow and price movements devoid of interest.

International Nickel was the active leader with more than 4,000 shares being dealt in at from 53 to 52½. The latter qquotation was the noon price and unchanged. Hiram Walkers was the next most active stock. This issue held firm at 19 1-8.

Brazilian was slightly more active than usual, and at midday it was selling ¾ higher at 57¾. Dominion Stores improved one to 52, while Bell Telephone was ½ better at 163½. Standard Steel climbed one to 87, as did Winnipeg Railway preferred at 106.

HAMILTON OFFICER

vellous personality and absolute squareness. His death was a shock to us all here."

Mr. Pickering sent flowers to his dead friend's home at the Strathcona Apartments in Hamilton.

William Barnecott, manager of the bank entered by the desperate bandit, who shot Bill Clarke, is also well-known here. His home is in Aylmer, Ont., and he has many friends in Peterborough, being a brother of Mrs. Frank Sandy, Cambridge Street, Lindsay whose husband, now retired, was for several years C.N.R. agent in this city, and latterly in Lindsay.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 28.—Police to-day identified the bandit who yesterday killed Detective Clarke and was himself shot to death. He is Charles B. Long, a farmer residing in the vicinity of Burlington. His abandoned truck, left on a street near the bank which he robbed, gave the authorities the clue which led to identification.

Peaceable Farmer.

Long was far from a bandit type. Authorities are at a loss to account for the action of a peaceable farmer who suddenly turned gunman and performed a deed, which for sheer desperation outdid anything that has occurred in the history of such armed robberies in Hamilton. Yesterday morning Long was a quiet farmer, working his 20 acre garden outside Burlington living in good repute with his neighbors.

By evening, he lay in the morgue, riddled with bullets, with the death of a young police officer upon his soul. One terrible attempt to rectify his financial difficulties by armed robbery had wrought his tragic downfall. Police believe that it was the pressure of monetary needs that induced him to plan the spectacular deed.

The fact that Long was an amateur is revealed in the methods followed in the robbery. No confederates in a speedy car waited to help him in his getaway. When he fled from the bank he was evidently at a loss what to do next. His flight to the cellar of the house at 242 Rosslyn avenue north was made without forethought, and his desperate resistance to the police showed that he was too ignorant of the straits he was in to realize that the game was up the moment he was cornered.

Little remained for the police to do to-day with the bandit dead and the money from the Provincial Savings Bank all recovered.

Aged to See Parade.

The police department will make a special effort to insure that old and lame persons will be able to see the parades and ceremonies at the War Memorial. Anyone desiring a place reserved for old people should get in touch with the police and a place will be reserved for them that will be both comfortable and present a clear view. "We want everyone to see everything," said Inspector Reid.

COMING HOME

HOWARD SACKVILLE.

Howard Sackville, of Dilley, Texas, arrived yesterday to renew old school boy acquaintances. Mr. Sackville attended Public school, Collegiate and Business College here twenty-five years ago. Since returning to Texas he has had the honor of being elected Mayor of his town, serving on the school board, and on the Board of Trade. At the last election his father, who is over eighty years of age, ran for Congress, and was defeated by less than thirty votes, it is understood.

Mr. Sackville will be pleased to have any former friends who see this look him up. He may be located through telephone 1687J.

HEAVY SELLING ON MINE MART

Proximity of Long Week-end Holiday Results In Much Liquidation.

NORANDA POPULAR.

TORONTO, June 28.—(C.P.)—Bullishness apparent in yesterday's market was abruptly halted on the Standard Mining Exchange today, due undoubtedly to the proximinity of the long holiday of June 29 to July 2, which resulted in much liquidation.

Noranda continued in good demand and at mid-day was selling 25 higher at 58.00. At one time it reached 58.75. McIntyre jumped 75 to 16.00 while Tech-Hughes advanced 5 to 8.55. Sherritt-Gordon and Sudbury-Basin at 7.20 and 9.20 were strong. Amulet improved 2 to 1.32.

Ajax Oil dropped 5 to 1.85. Newbec firmed to 56. Dome Mines dropped 10 to 9.90. Abana was down 10 to 1.76, Calgary and Edmonton 225 to 8.75 and Dalhousie 5 to 3.90.

International Nickel was quiet but strong and at 52.60 was 45 better.

OBITUARY

MRS. GEORGS NICHOLS

Mrs. George Nichols, an old resident of this county, died in Lakefield yesterday after an illness of short duration

Mrs. Nichols was formerly Selena Millage, daughter of the late Alexander Millage. She was 61, the last eighteen years of her life having been spent in Lakefield. Her husband, Mr. George Nichols, predeceased her by some time. She was a member of the Lakefield Baptist Church.

Surviving her are Vina Nichon, a daughter at home; a sister, Mrs. Henry McNaughton of Douro and two brothers, Alexander Millage of Douro and John Millage of Lakefield.

MISS ELLEN SHEEHAN.

After an illness of some time, the death occurred late last night, at her home at 363 McDonnel street, of Miss Ellen Sheehan, one of the long-time residents of the city.

The deceased possessed a wide circle of friends who will mourn her passing. She was a consistent Christian of charitable and kindly manner of life and her constant good nature and cheerful demeanor endeared her to a host of friends. She is survived by one sister, Miss Bridget Sheehan.

The funeral will be held from her late residence at 2.15 p.m. on Sunday next, thence to St. Peter's Cathedral and St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

TARIFF CHANGES

to United States a year and judging by past experience, the value will not shrink materially, no matter what the tariff fixers at Washington may do,'" continued Mr. Malcolm. And he added: "In my opinion there are many articles of British manufacture which, if known to the Canadian public, could be purchased by Canadian consumers to better advantage than the commodities which are now brought from the United States."

Mr. Malcolm challenged Mr. Bennett to come out and tell the country just exactly what he proposed with respect to the tariff. A Conservative government, he charged, had destroyed the tractor industry in Canada by placing these articles on the free list. "Does Mr. Bennett propose to alter the decision of a former government and put a duty on tractors?" asked Mr. Malcolm "does he propose to tell the agricultural industry, the mining industry and the fishing industry that if he is elected, in order to stop these importations from the United States he will raise the duty on these implements of production? Let him be bold enough to be honest and frankly tell the producers of this county what his intention is. Does he propose to place a duty on any or all of our imports of raw materials, so necessary to enable our factories to compete in the markets of the world? No indeed—Mr. Bennett does not propose to tell the people of this country anything definite as to what he would do on any of these points. He simply rambles along in his speeches, uttering platitudes of what an ideal state he could create, and condemns policies that have proven themselves sound and worthy."

A brick for brick tariff policy with the United States would not necessarily suit the Dominion, Mr. Malcolm said.

There were commodities which Canada must buy in the cheapest market in order to compete with the world. Some of these must, of necessity come from the United States.

ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT OF GRAND TO BE USED

Special Lighting Will Be Placed in Armouries For Big Ball.

The Examiner is informed that all the electrical equipment out of the Grand Opera House is being moved to the Armouries for the feature dance and frolic on Wednesday, July 3rd.

This equipment will be under the capable charge of Thos. Stenton and staff from the Opera House.

In addition to the electrical equipment from the Opera House a spot light has been brought in from Montreal; a rain lens from Toronto; and a radiolite lens from Chicago. This will give one of the greatest combinations of electrical effect for theatrical work ever gathered together in this city.

The purpose of so much electrical equipment is for the blending of the decorating scheme and the changing of the color effect at various times throughout the evening. This is but another evidence of the magnitude of this feature dance and frolic.

SOCCER NOTES.

The Canadian Packing team against C. G. E. will be as follows:—Griffin, goal; Westwood and Downer, backs, Carmichael, Buchan and Bromley, halves; A. Wilson, Beggs, Preston, Craig and T. Wilson, forwards.

Owing to the holiday there will be no meeting of the local association next Monday evening.

NOTICE

All those who wish to take part in the Comic Department of the Monster Parade, Monday morning, July 1st, will please report to Mr. Purman at the CITY SHEDS, on Rink Street, opposite the Canadian Packing Company. All are requested to report at 8.00 a.m., when costumes and instructions will be given. and those needing makeup will be made up by experts.

against the 'peaceful invasion' of this country by glutting our markets with American goods to the detriment of Canadian products. He charged Premier King with taking the attitude that Canada must not "provoke" the United States on the tariff, based on a speech made by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons. Reading the statement of Premier King in this connection, Mr. Bennett put three questions to his audience: "Who owns this country anyway? To whom does it belong? Why should we be concerned about what other people think so long as we develop the Dominion in peace, happiness and prosperity in fair competition with the nations of the world?"

FINAL PLANS

To the already most complete list of water sports to be held Tuesday afternoon was added an open marathon race of forty miles for sea fleas. This raises the water sports program to one of the greatest and most comprehensive of its kind ever held in the province.

That every returning Old Boy and Girl will receive the hearty handclasp of welcome, even before greeting close friends, was assured by the Welcoming Committee. Every need and every convenience to make their stay in their home town a memorable one has been foreseen and provided for.

One important decision reached by the Parade Committee will be greeted with pleasure by all. It was at first thought that the military portion of the parade would break off from the main parade on Monday at Confederation Square, but it was announced last night that the military will march the whole route. The parade will be intact through its whole course beginning at Exhibition Park, up George street to McDonnel, west on McDonnel to Park, south on Park to Charlotte, and east on Charlotte to the C. N. R. freight sheds.

Even the danger of fire to any of the floats has been foreseen and will be safeguarded against. Many, perhaps every float will carry at least one foamite fire fighting apparatus ready for instant service.

The returning Toronto contingent will be fittingly paraded into the city. Officials of the Old Home Week Committee and members of the Peterborough Automobile Club will motor out the highway, greet these home-coming sons, and then accompany them into the city. Along Charlotte street the floats will be stationed and these, including a band, will join in the parade of welcome. The Automobile Club will muster on the north side of Charlotte street, ready to move off at 11 o'clock, and the floats will form up on the south side facing east before 11.30.

Detroit and Windsor are sending thirty-five carloads to take part in the celebration. The Ottawa contingent has arranged for three special railway coaches to bring them here. Peterborough people in Montreal are not chancing sleeping accommodation, and will bring their own railway sleepers. Rochester, Buffalo, Chicago, these and many other cities, have formed Peterborough Clubs, and will return in a body. These were some of the reliable reports that added to the optimism of the last general Old Home Week committee meeting.

NEW DURANT CAR HAS FOUR SPEEDS

Third Gear is Principally Used for Pick-Up in Traffic or Long Hills.

A new, medium-priced, six cylinder automobile having four forward speeds, is the latest addition to the Durant series. The introduction of this model has caused a great deal of comment in automobile circles, because it embodies all the advantages of four speed driving in combination with the Red Seal "L"-head Continental Motor, while remaining within the price class of the average motorist.

Known as the Durant Sixty-Six, and having all the quality features characteristic of all Durant products, it promises to become exceedingly popular. Its large, roomy interior is well upholstered in mohair and the appointments are of the highest grade.

The four forward speed transmission is the product of the Durant engineering department and has been subjected to the most rigid tests over a long period. It has been developed to the point that third speed is silent and with fourth, constitutes a "double high" speed.

Third Speed Silent.

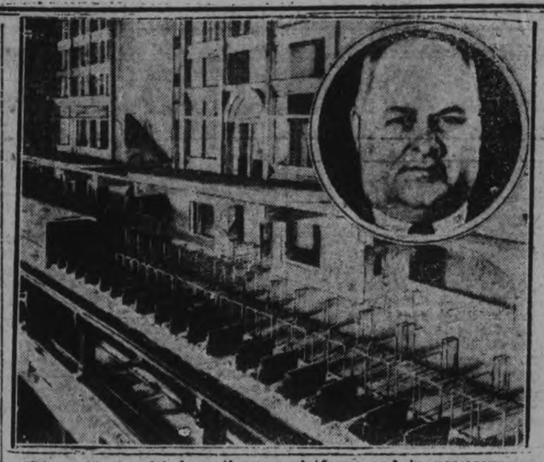
This third speed is chiefly used for quick pick-up in traffic, or for long hills. The shift from fourth to third or third to fourth is made easily, quickly and noiselessly at any speed, and a still further advantage is the additional compression which it provides when descending hills. This allows for an element of safety and control, that is most assuring both to driver and passengers.

Fourth speed meets all ordinary driving conditions from five miles an hour up. The Red Seal Continental motor, on direct drive both in third and fourth speeds, has ample power to pick up road speed without effort, and this feature, together with the many others which are only apparent when the Sixty-Six is in actual use, accounts for the exceedingly smooth operation of the car.

Motor Revolutions Reduced

The greatest thrill of the Durant Sixty-Six, however comes with the maintenance of adequate running speed with the motor making far fewer revolutions each mile and consequently running quietly and without apparent effort. This greatly relieves nervous strain, especially during a long trip.

The actual saving in motor revolutions is stated by Durant engineers to be 398.2 in every mile or nearly 4,000 in every ten miles negotiated in fourth speed. Every experienced motorist will immediately see the tremendous advantages which this feature provides.



This working model shows the new Taylor rapid transit system of endless passenger belts and how they would be installed in a subway with regulating turnstiles and wickets. Space would be provided on station platforms and in passageways for shops. Inset is a picture of the inventor, Herman Taylor, supervisor of traffic for the Detroit department of street railways.

Paramount Buys Another Theatre Chain

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—The Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation has purchased 70 per cent of the capital stock of Great States Theatres Corporation from Joseph Rubens and his brothers, it was announced by Adolph Zukor, President of Paramount. The acquired company operates houses in Aurora, Springfield, Joliet, Bloomington, Streator, Galesburgh and twelve other cities in Illinois.

The deal was made, Mr. Zukor said, by an exchange of Paramount-Famous-Lasky stock. The remaining 30 per cent of The Great States Theatres stock, he added, had been acquired by Balaban and Katz, a subsidiary of Paramount.

This was the second purchase by Mr. Zukor since the opening of the annual meeting of Paramount's sales executives at the Ambassador Hotel. On Saturday he announced that 70 per cent of the capital stock of the Kunsky Theatre interests of Detroit had been acquired in the same way, the remaining 30 per cent being taken by Balaban and Katz. There will be no change in local management.

Shell Union Oil Corporation New Stock Issue

Formal offering was made yesterday of the new issue of $40,000,000 Shell Union Oil Corporation 5 1-2 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock of $100 par value, priced at $98 a share to yield 5.61 per cent. The banking group handling the issue is headed by Lee Higginson and Co., and includes the Guaranty Company of New York, The National City Company, Hayden Stone and Co., Dominick and Dominick, and Clarke Dodge and Co. The stock will be callable, after June 30, 1935 on thirty day's notice at $105 a share, as a whole or in part. The issue will be convertive at par into common stock at $30 a share to July 1, 1932, and thereafter to July 1, 1935, at $35 a share, with provision for protection of the conversion right in the event of the issuance of additional common stock either as a stock dividend or at a price less than the then prevailing conversion rate. The common stock, according to the bankers, at current market prices, represents an equity of more than $345,000,000. Proceeds of the sale of this issue will be used to reimburse the treasury for expenditures in connection with the acquisition of the New Orleans Refining Company, Inc., and of certain assets of Shell Eastern Petroleum Products, Inc., and to provide for additions to properties, chiefly marketing facilities and for general corporate purposes.

Simpson's Preferred Now Offered With Bonus

Wood, Gundy and Co., are offering to the public an issue of $10,000,000 6 1-2 per cent cumulative preference shares of Simpsons, Limited, at $100 per share with a bonus of one class "B" share with each five preferred shares. This follows the offering of $10,000,000 of bonds of the same company.

Baed on the table to be published with the prospectus, earnings available for preferred shares have shown a steady increase and have more than doubled within the last six years. For the year ended Jan. 30, 1929, the amount available for preferred was $1,642,569, which, after deducting $650,000 of preferred dividends, leaves a balance of $992,000 available for the 240,000 common shares, or more than $4 per share. In view of these high earnings available for the common, the capitalization of the new company does not appear too large, with a relatively small number of common shares as compared with the magnitude of the undertaking.

The $10,000,000 preference shares, as well as the 120,000 class "A" and 120,000 class "B" shares will in due course be listed on the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges.

New Certificates Ready for Foundation Company Shareholders

MONTREAL — Arrangements for converting the stock of the Foundation Company of Canada, Limited are now completed, as approved by shareholders, and certificates of the new common stock are available at the office of the Montreal Trust Company, according to an announcement made by the company. At the shareholders' meeting held on May 22nd approval was given to convert all the capital stock of the company into common stock without par on the following basis:

Each share $100 par value first preferred stock to receive six shares new common stock.

Each share $25 par value common stock to receive four shares new common stock.

As the directors of the company have indicated their intention to publish and shows earnings after depreciation available for dividends and taxes of $227,760. This is equivalent to $13.67 per share on the old common stock, after providing for preferred stock dividends and taxes, and compares with an estimate of $11.50 per share made in February, 1929, when first preferred shareholders were offered units of one-half share of second preferred and one-half share of common at $125 per unit.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Reclamation of gold and platinum values from the Tulameen black sands by a new chemical process is to be undertaken at once on an intensive scale by the B. C. Platinum Company, which has purchased several of the best-known placer grounds in the area, notably Eagle Creek, the entire holdings of the Tulameen Placers, Limited, smaller properties on Kelly Creek, and in addition, an option on the Moses lease. C. G. Bagley, field manager, was in Princeton last week making arrangements for the immediate commencement of operations. The new process, which has been proven on a small scale, would enable them to treat the sands in quantity, extracting values up to $400 a ton at a cost of $5 per ton, and would mean the handling of earth at the rate of 300 tons per day. Early operations will soon prove or disprove the new process.

The annual meeting of McIntyre Porcupine Mines, and of other companies controlled by same interests, Castle, etc., are scheduled for to-day. McKinley Mines Securities Company will also hold their annual today as will the North Star Mines.

Wealthy Men Own Life Insurance

THE richer a man is, the less likely he is to have a large amount of ready money available.

Within the last few years, several large estates have had to be broken up in order to raise money to pay succession duties.

Insurance to meet succession duties has become a very active part of our business—and we have trained men to advise those to whom succession duties are a serious consideration. Policies may be made payable to the Provincial Treasurer for the purpose of paying succession duties.

Campbellford

Miss Kathleen O'Shaughnessy leaves Saturday for Port Arthur, where she will be a member of the Summer School staff teaching Upper School French.

Miss Kathleen Ferris will mark papers in Toronto again this year. This is the fifth consecutive year for Miss Ferris to do this work.

Eighty-four candidates tried the entrance examinations in Campbellford this year. Of these fifty-two were from the local schools. Six medical certificates will be sent in, or have already been submitted. This makes a total of ninety candidates at Campbellford this year.

After thirty-five years in the jewelery business here, and during that time, conducting his business at the same place, John Maynard has retired from the local list of business men. Mr. Maynard came here from Bowmanville and for many years has been known as a keen business man. His successor is Percy A. Tweedie. He will continue the business at the same address.

This year the Campbellford Cadets will go into camp at Barriefield from July 20 to 27. Mr. Greig is anxious to get the names of all the boys who will be going. It is understood that the number from the local corps is to be limited.

CAR PLUNGES INTO CREEK.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., June 28.—(Canadian Press).—A motor car containing George F. Davies and Miss Olga Day, employees of the Bell Telephone Company here, plunged off the street last night into Davieux Creek. The car was almost completely submerged but as it was going into the stream Davies managed to open the door and leap out. With the aid of several men who happened to be near, the driver smashed the windows of the machine and effected Miss Day's escape. Neither Miss Day nor Davies were hurt in any way.

SCHOOL CAD PARADE MONDAY

Public School Boys Will Assemble at George Street Wharf.

COMPETITION FOR CUP

Arrangements have been completed to have the Public School Cadet Battalion take part in the parade on July 1st.

The six companies will assemble at the George street wharf and will join the parade as it marches north, taking their place in rear of the militia units. On reaching Murray street, they will assemble in line on the east side of George street between Murray and McDonnel so that they may have the opportunity to see the rest of the parade. Major F. Hills has donated a cup to the best company on parade and the presentation of the cup will take place immediately after the parade has passed.

In the afternoon the cadets are again in the program. Assembling at King Edward School Grounds at 1.15 they will march to the Exhibition Grounds and put on a demonstration of physical training in front of the grandstand at 2.15.

The work of the local cadets has won considerable commendation from inspecting officers for several years and their work on July 1st should be an interesting addition to the program.

DIES AT WHEEL OF CAR.

TORONTO, Ont., June 28.—(Canadian Press).—Charles W. Wilson, 59, died at the wheel of his motor car yesterday as he was driving on main street. He was vice-president of a soda-water firm bearing his name and was driving to work at the time. He was accompanied by three women who also were going to work and was chatting with them when he suddenly slumped at the wheel. The machine swerved and ran over the curb striking a woman on the sidewalk. She was not seriously injured. Death was attributed to heart failure.

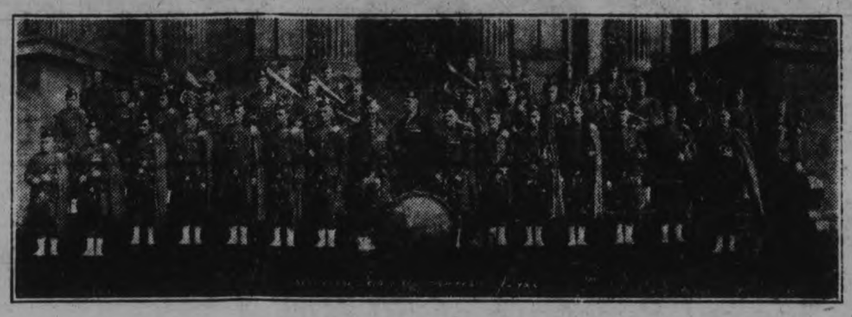
Band of the Toronto Scottish Regiment in Peterborough With Its Regiment Friday Night Until Monday Night.



The Band of the Toronto Scottish Regiment was first organized as the Band of the 75th Battalion, C.E.F., at Toronto, and with the battalion proceeded overseas to England, later to France and Belgium, accepting all the vicissitudes of active service. Many of the original members were casualties, so much so that at the end of the war its members were representative of all Canada. The 75th band was noted for fine performances throughout its four years of war service and many well-known performers were among its members. On reorganization of the militia following the war, the battalion took the title of 75th Battalion Mississagua Regiment, and the Band of the 109th Regiment, then disbanded, became the active band of the new battalion In 1922 the Battalion became the Toronto Scottish Regiment, affiliating with the London Scottish of the Imperial service. For several years the band was engaged for the Grand Stand performances at the Exhibition, was very prominent during the visit of Earl Haig, also during the visit of the London Scottish. During the past year its membership has increased to forty-six, its performances consequently being of a very high standard, resulting in a steady increase in the number of engagements. Mention must also be made of the fine Pipe band of the regiment under Pipe-Major Alex Macpherson, possible the finest pipe band in Canada.

Lieut. W. J. Holden, the present director, has had a long, eventful career as a professional and military musician, for a number of years identified as business manager and later bandmaster of the Licoln Regiment Band at St. Catharines. Early in the war he organized the Band of the 5th Battalion, C.E.F., in the short space of three weeks and had an efficient playing unit all passed and ready to accompany the battalion overseas. Shortly after arrival in England the battalion was established as a training depot, and during a two - year period Mr. Holden's organizing ability was taxed to the limit with the many bands coming in to be absorbed, his work in this connection was recognized by special mention from the War Office for services rendered. In charge of the West Sanding Brigade, he accompanied the Shorncliffe Divisional Band to Paris in 1916. Mr. Holden served in France with the Band of the 102nd Battalion, and with his unit was attached for several months to Canadian General Headquarters at Camblin le Abbe; was also very prominent in the many ceremonial affairs in Brussels during the spring of 1919. Since taking over the Band of the Toronto Scottish, in March, 1926, he has brought it to a high state of efficiency, not only musically, but the appearance and discipline of the band is comparable only to the regular service.

Mr. Holden was Sergt.-Drummer of the Lincoln Regiment on its visit at the opening of the Peterborough Armouries.

ports from the hospital state that as yet no serious injury has been discovered, but an X-ray will be taken to make sure.

Jack Ainsworth, a helper on the installation of the elevator, had a narrow escape from death at the same time. He was at the bottom of the shaft holding the cable tight that Mr. Burns was working on, and just as the elevator was falling he happened to step out of the shaft into the warehouse for something, and the falling lift just brushed past him, striking his hand. However, he was uninjured.

EASES THE BUMPS.

LONDON, June 28.—A recent bumper designed here takes all the bumps and much of the hazard out of driving an automobile. It is an all-rubber bumper fitted into two movable iron jaws. On striking an object the jaws open, absorbing the shock and preventing injury. A car tested ran into a tree head-on without injury.

CADET COMPETITION FOR WHITCROFT TROPHY

Instructor Will Issue Uniforms This Evening and To-morrow.

The handsome cup presented by Fred. Whitcroft, former Peterborough hockey player and athlete, will be competed for on Monday, July 1st, by the Cadet Corps of the Collegiate Institute.

A staff officer will make the award to one of the companies during the course of the parade. Among the points to be noted will be the number on parade, neatness of uniform, and steadiness in passing the reviewing point.

The instructor will be on hand at the Cadet Armoury in the basement of the Collegiate to issue uniforms tonight from 7 to 8, and on Saturday, June 29, from 5 to 6 and from 7 to 8. Enter by the main door on McDonnel Street.

charged to cover expenses and the services of the aviators in the project.

A demonstration of air manoeuvres and a flight of the prominent people of Peterborough has been arranged for Saturday afternoon shortly after the arrival of the flight. On Monday night the group will provide a show of air fireworks over the city. This will be the first of such exhibitions to be staged in Peterborough.

Arrangements for the affair are under the direction of H. B. Wiman of this city. Mr. Wiman states that a special feature will be carried out every morning at dawn, when a twenty minute flight, called the "Dawn Patrol," will be carried out. Passengers will be taken on this daily patrol if reservations are made at the headquarters of the flight which will be in the office of F. G. McNeely, Willison Neely Bond Corporation on Water street. This feature, reminiscent of war days, is expected to prove of great interest to local people.

Some difficulty was experienced in finding a field in the vicinity of this city large enough to make a landing field for the big Buhl cabin-planes A field was finally found on the Chemong road of a size to permit the big machines to land and take off with facility during the week.

Signs are being placed on the Chemong road to direct visitors to the field, which has been named the "Old Home Week Airport." Temporary rest rooms and refreshment booth have been provided for the convenience of the airport's guests. Many of Peterborough's Old Home Week population are expected to take advantage of the rare opportunity of flying in cabined planes that is being afforded them by the visit of this flight to the city.

HENRY SPEAKS AT CONVENTION

Heated Discussion Follows the Nomination of Candidates For North Victoria Riding

PROVINCIAL ELECTION.

LINDSAY, June 28.—(Special to The Examiner).—The largest provincial convention in the history of the riding of North Victoria was held in the village of Fenelon Falls Wednesday to nominate a candidate in the Liberal Conservative interests to contest the constituency at the next provincial election. The nomination was held in Twomey's Hall, which proved far too small to accommodate the crowd. Hundreds jammed into the hall and scores stood outside unable to gain admittance.

The convention had a very unsatisfactory ending, however, it appears that some 263 tickets had been issued to those delegates entitled to cat a vote for their choice of candidate, those nominated being Reeve Curry of Haliburton, and Daniel McQuarrie, a well known farmer of Eldon township. When the ballots were counted it was found that some four hundred votes had been cast a vote for their choice of candi- a majority of 47. The situation evoked a spirited discussion among the supporters of the two men. Some insisted that another convention should be called, but T. H. Stinson, K.C., M.P., of Lindsay, who was one of the speakers of the afternoon threw out the suggestion that Reeve Curry and Mr. McQuarrie get together with a view to solving the problem. Up to six o'clock a satisfactory agreement had not been reached.

The rivalry which the situation has evoked was of the good natured type, as every person was anxious to see the situation straightened out without calling another convention.

The chief speaker of the afternoon was Hon. George Henry, Minister of Highways, who delivered a stirring address on the record of the Ferguson Administration.

APPETITES NO SMALLER.

TROY, N.Y., June 28. — William F. Eddy, oldest chef in point of service at Rensselaer Polytechnic institute, says: "Boys of to-day are no different from those of years ago—and they eat just as much." And Bill should know, for he's been cooking for the "boys" for 15 years. He is cook at a fraternity, and prepares for 30 students.

SCHOOL PICNIC.

Parents and Pupils Take Part in Enjoyable Affair On Confederation School Grounds.

The annual picnic of the Confederation School held yesterday afternoon was a great success in every way. A large number of parents and friends were in attendance and with the bright warm day every one seemed in good spirits. The spacious grounds of this school lend themselves admirably to a fete of this kind and everything went off well. Mrs. J. Seger, president of the Home and School Association, acted as general convener. A booth where iec cream, candies and soft drinks were sold was in charge of Mesdames Monk, Parkes, McBride, Church, King and Clare. As the children lined up they each received a ticket which entitled them to a free ice cream cone.

When the "tea" hour arrived, sandwiches and cake in abundance with lemonade were served by the ladies assisted by the teachers, everyone apparently having a very good appetite judging by the quantity of food consume .

The afternoon sports consisted chiefly of races which were in charge of Rev. J. L. Hughes, Messrs Bert Arnold, F. M. Bride and Wood. Mrs. Hughes afterwards presented the prizes to the following prize winners:—

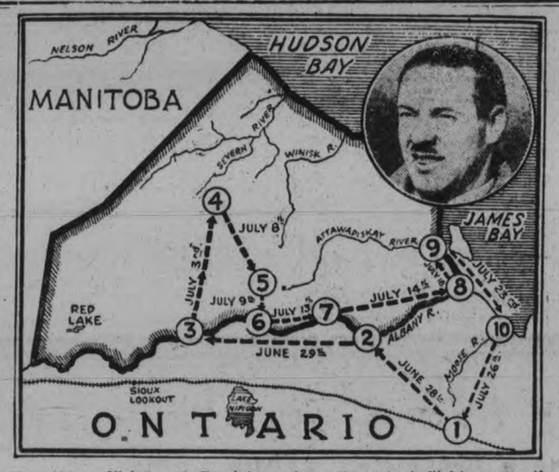
Much pleasure was derived from two new swings which have recently been placed in the school grounds.



Yesterday, officials of Dominion and Ontario governments will make a 2,200 mile flight to that portion of Indian lands lying north of the Albany river in Ontario for the purpose of acquiring lands for the crown, the last to be ceded by the Indians. The layout shows a map indicating the route the government party will take: (1) Remi, from where the actual flight over the barren lands will start. (2) the Rapids. (3) Osnaburgh House. (4) Trout Lake. (6) Fort Hope. (7) Ogoki Post. (8) Albany Post. (9) Atawapiskat, and (10) Moose Factory. The inset is Capt. W. Roy Maxwell, director of provincial air force, who will personally lead the flight.

Wedding Bells

ROBBINS—SLOAN.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of Knox United Church on Saturday morning when Lila Pearl, only daughter of Mrs. H. Sloan and the late H. Sloan of Peterborough, was united in marriage to Richard Basil Robbins, youngest son of Mrs. J. Robbins, also of Peterborough, and the late J. Robbins. The Rev. W. McDonald performed the ceremony .

The bride wore a lovely gown of blue flat crepe with hat, shoes and hose to match.

The bridesmaid, Miss Beatrice Bowen, was in green flat crepe, trimmed with lace.

Mr. Herman Sloan, brother of the bride ,acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Robbins left on the noon train for a honeymoon trip to eastern points. They will reside in Peterboough.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a green gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a silver bar pin, set with diamonds, and to the best man a set of gold cuff links.

GARDEN PARTY.

Successful Affair Held Under Auspices of Springville United Church.

SPRINGVILLE, June 28.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The garden party held on Monday evening at Springville church was a success.

Ice cream and cold drinks were in great demand causing business to flourish at the refreshment booth. Glasses of fresh buttermilk and strawberries with cream added attraction to that section of the grounds.

The novelty booth excelled many a bazaar in its display of pretty and useful articles. Fancy work, bouquets of beautiful peonies, bags of delicious candy, hand lotion, dusting wings and dozens of other novelty articles were sold during the evening. The booth was almost entirely cleared of its goods.

A delightful and much appreciated program was provided by the following well known artists: Miss H Staples, Miss A. Blanchard, Mrs. Mars Westington, and Robert Rose, J. Vallance and S. Willis.

BATTLE SCENES

Town; Machine Guns, half section. Lieutenant Dan McManus.

Major General McBrien, late Chief of Staff, will be with the regiment here, as will also Colonel C. C. Harbottle, C.M.G., D.S.O., who now commands the 14th Infantry Brigade.

It is expected that Major T. Hesbert, of the American Air Force will fly to here from Cleveland on July 1, bringing with him John Garfield. These are both very good friends of the regiment. There is also the chance that Walter C. White, president of the White Company, will come up from Cleveland.

SOCIAL EVENING.

Garden Party Held Under Auspices of Ebenezer Ladies' Aid is Successful Affair.

EBENEZER, June 28.—The garden party, held under the auspices of Ebenezer Ladies' Aid on Friday, at the home of Bruce Sharpe, was a decided success. A bounteous supper was served on the lawn followed by a good program which consisted of a play given by Ebenezer Dramatic Society entitled "Be An Optimist." This is a three-act comedy which proved to be very amusing. Cardwell's Orchestra provided music between acts. Rev. F. L. Carpenter was the efficient chairman.

PRESENTATION MADE SPRINGVILLE FAMILY

Rev. A. H. McConnachie and Family Honored By Members of Literary Society.

SPRINGVILLE, June 28.—(Examiner Correspondence). — On Friday evening about seventy-five of the members and friends of the Springville Literary Society met for a social hour and presentation in honor of Rev A. H. McConnachie, Miss Connie McConnachie and Arthur McConnachie.

The address was read by Miss Jean Fairbairn and the presentations were made by Miss Helen Staples, Walter Brown and John Whitfield. To Rev. Mr. McConnachie was presented a beautiful cane; to Miss McConnachie, an amber clock, and to Arthur, a set of white gold cuff links.

The Board of Management of Springville and Fairmount United Churches also took this opportunity of showing Rev. Mr. McConnachie the high esteem in which he was held in the church and community by presenting him with an illuminated address. The address was read and presented by R. Armstrong.

"Rev. A. H. McConnachie.

"Dear Sir,—We, the officers, members and adherents of the Springville United Church meet here tonight to extend to you our heartfelt and sincere thanks for the good work you have so well and faithfully accomplished with such untiring zeal since you came amongst us.

"We know and feel you have given of your best, willingly and cheerfully. We heartily appreciate the unselfish spirit you have shown at all times, especially where the work of the Master was concerned. The interest of the church and all its associations has been your interest.

"Our sincere prayer is that success may crown your every effort in the future and may God's blessing ever be upon you and your life's work until we meet in a happy re-union hereafter.

"Signed on behalf of the officers, members and adherents of the church —S. S. Staples, chairman of Board of Stewards; R. Armstrong, treasurer; A. E. Sanderson, elder; D. W. Tully, elder; S. Fairbairn, elder; S. L. Connell, elder; M. H. Johnston, elder."

For each of the gifts the recipients responded in a beautiful and suitable manner.

A dainty lunch, consisting of ice cream, lemonade, cake and sandwiches, was served.

BANDIT HID

the cellar at the head of a party of officers. The crowd outside waited in silence.

Suddenly a fusilade of shot rang out. In a moment it was silent again. The bandit had fired point-blank at Clark, killing him and then fired several other shots. Bleakely had replied, riddling the man's body with bullets.

The crowd about the house was badly affected by the tear gas and waited the outcome of the drama with streaming eyes.

All Money Recovered

The bandit was found to have carried off a huge armful of bills from the bank, all of which were recovered The police are now attempting to identify him.

Detective Clark was a popular and efficient member of the police force. He was a married man.

Last night the authorities announced the bandit had secured $1,500 from the bank and that the money had been recovered. The bodies of Detective Clark and the unidentified man lay in the morgue last night Efforts at identification of the latter proved fruitless.

An adding machine was built in 1915 and exhibited at the Panama Exposition that had a capacity of 40 columns, or within one unit of ten duodecillions.

MINISTERIAL PICNIC HELD AT PRESQU'IL

Ministers From Three Parishes With Wives and Families Participate at Gathering.

NORHAM, June 28. — (Examiner Correspondence).—A ministerial picnic, composed of the ministers from three ministerials, with their wives and families, was held at the cottage of Rev. Montagne Leigh, of Hilton, at Presqu'il Point on Tuesday afternoon, where a delicious fish dinner was served by the hostess, Mrs. Leigh.

After dinner an hour was spent in a thought-producing contest, after which the ministers held a short ministerial meeting.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Leigh for their kind hospitality in their large, comfortable cottage.

Those present were: Rev. M. E. and Mrs. Wilson, of Havelock; Rev. P. and Mrs. Brown and son, of Roseneath; Rev. J. G. and Mrs. McKee and daughter, of Baltimore; Rev. A. and Mrs. McLauchlin and children, of Grafton; Rev. F. and Mrs. Howard and daughters; Rev. D. R. and Mrs. Clare and daughter, of Norham; Rev. Mr. Faulkner, of Colborne; Mr. and Mrs. Badden, of Colborne; Rev. J. S. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. McLeod, of Brighton; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Glover, of Smithfield, and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, of Trenton.

Norham Wins.

On Tuesday evening a softball game was played between Castleton and Norham at Norham. It resulted in a score of 5-2 in favor of Norham.

SCHOOL FOR GIRLS OPENED IN COBOURG

Hatfield Hall Will Accommodate Thirty-five Boarders.

Local citizens who are acquainted with the well-known Bishop Bethune College in Oshawa, a famous Canadian residential school for girls, will be interested in the announcement that the two head mistresses from Bishop Bethune College have inaugurated a new school for girls at Cobourg, Ontario, which they will conduct together, assisted by a well-qualified staff of resident and visiting mistresses.

The two ladies in charge will be Miss W. M. Wilson, B.A., and Miss W. M. Ellis, B.Sc., both formerly of London, England.

The new school is Hatfield Hall at Cobourg ,which was formerly one of the beautiful private residences for which the lakeshore town is famous, and it lends itself in a remarkable manner to adaptation for school purposes.

The grounds provide ample space for outdoor exercise and the school is close to the lake. Cobourg offers every facility for sports, and for delightful country rambles. The Hall offers accommodation for thirty-five boarders and already a large number of young ladies have registered for the opening term in September.

The curriculum embraces all studies from public school age to senior matriculation, and there are courses in music, art, languages, and science. There is a resident mistress for physical training and gymnastics while riding and sports of all types will be encouraged.

Its Purity Counts Most With Mothers

Drink Coca-Cola Delicious and Refreshing

Little thirsts must be satisfied with something pure, yet delicious. Coca-Cola is made of pure, wholesome ingredients and blended flavors, even the color is natural. Moreover, it is made by automatic machines and is untouched by hand from start to finish, thus its purity is assured.

Over 42 years of public preference have increased Coca-Cola sales to the amazing total of over 8 million drinks a day.

The price is 5¢

It's pure and wholesome

CONSERVATORY WILL CELEBRATE TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

For 25 Years Mr. and Mrs. Gliddon Have Labored to Promote Music.

ON TUESDAY, JULY 2

Many Former Members of the Faculty of the Conservatory Are Expected.

Coincident with the celebration here next week of Old Home Week will be the commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the foundation in the city of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music. A number of the friends of the directors, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Gliddon, are arranging a reception which will be held in their honor on Tuesday next, July 2nd, in the Conservatory hall, from half past three to six o'clock, when a program of music will be given by the Symphony orchestra and the Madrigal Singers and the guests will have an opportunity of meeting present and former members of the faculty of the Conservatory.

For twenty-five years, Mr. and Mrs. Gliddon have labored unceasingly to promote and encourage the love of music in this community. During all that time, the Conservatory has stood for the best in music of every type and teachers of the highest standards have been brought to the staff from outside points or added to the lists from local sources. Young men and women who showed aptitude along musical lines have been helped and assisted in every possible way and the big hall has seen the evolution of many promising young musicians, in instrumental and vocal lines, as well as the encouragement of talent in theatrical presentations. During their quarter century of service to the city, Mr. and Mrs. Gliddon have gathered a host of friends about them and the celebration of this anniversary promises to be a pleasant event to their acquaintances as well as to themselves.

Committee in Charge.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Miss Mabel Clarry (chairman), Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Mrs. W. Blackwell, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, Mrs. D. Carmichael, Mrs. G. N. Gordon, Mrs. T. H. Gillespie, Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Mrs. W. A. Logan, Mrs. G. A. Macdonald, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, Mrs. H. W. Morphet, Mrs H. A. Morrow, Mrs. M. H. Park, Mrs. L. A. Potvin, Mrs. G. E. Porter, Mrs. W. D. Scott, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Mrs. J. H. Vernor, Mrs. Duncan Walker, Mrs. W. R. Widdess, Miss F. Hatton, Miss E. Morrow and Miss L. Hurley.

Members of the original Faculty at the Conservatory of Music included Harry Field, piano pedagogue, now of London, England; Mrs. Alice Rogers Collins, now of Elora, (Piano Theory); Mable Harrison, piano; Estelle Foy, kindergarten; W. E. Fairclough, F.R.C.O., Organ Theory, who died later in Toronto; August Wilhelmj, vocal, formerly of London, England, and Vienna; W. Maurice van der Water, vocal; Heinrich Klingenfeld, violin; Gilbert Markle, violin; Henry A. Saunders, 'cello; Eugene Gibbs, clarionet and saxaphone, now of Bethlehem, Pa.; Miss Amy K. Bennett, art; the late Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., German; J. V. Cusin, French and Italian; Miss Helen Davies, vocal, (now Mrs. Sherry of Saskatoon).

Other former teachers at the Conservatory whose names were outstanding in the world of music in their day, included; the late Ferdinand Filion, violinist, afterwards principal of a school of music in Pittsburgh; the late Herr Lautz, vocal; Barnaby Nelson of Toronto, vocal; Miss Lina Adamson, violinist, of Toronto; Miss Adelaide M. Heath, expression; Jeanette Killmaster, piano; Lora Newman, piano; Mrs. Julia Choate Graham, of Rosetown, Saskatchewan, violinist; Mrs. Giles Stones (formerly Miss Lulu McGill) piano, now directress of a school of music in Renfrew; Miss Ida Sanderson, (now Mrs. Lloyd Wood of Lindsay) piano; the late Russell McLean, vocal; Miss Jessie Anderson, piano; Earl Newton, piano (now principal of a school of music in Western Canada); Carlos Buhler, piano, now assistant director of the Mittais School of Music in London, England; Miss Laura Brodigan, piano; Miss Edwina Palmer, R.A.M., violinist, and Charles Peaker, Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O., now of Toronto.

Headed 57th Band.

When Mr. and Mrs. Gliddon first came to the city, the former was bandmaster of the 57th Regimental Band. He had studied music in Leipsig, Germany, for three years, prior to that time.

The Conservatory of Music building was originally the old Lech homestead, and later changed hands. It was bought by Mr. Gliddon from George Matthews and two or three years later, the present concert hall was built. The Rev. Charles Mulvany, in his entertaining history of Peterborough, has the following allusion to this building:

In 1834, Thomas Harper cut the first trees on the lot where this building now stands. As if regretting that he had thrown away the time spent in clearing land which would never be of any value, he remarked, as he laid his snuff-box on the first stump: 'No man now living will ever see the village extend as far as this'."

Warsaw

WARSAW, June 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The rain on Monday night and Tuesday morning was most welcome, for it was needed everywhere. The gentle rain of Tuesday forenoon kept vegetation from wilting.

Much of the hay is in clumps and meadows that looked promising a few weeks ago, showed the effect of the intense heat and lack of moisture. Recently-sown seeds seemed to lie dormant and much heavy land was hard to work. This rain put new life into everything.

Hold Special Services.

The anniversary services at Cottesloe on Sunday were well attended. Rev. Mr. Stillman of Norwood United Church conducted the morning service and Rev. Mr. Moyer, minister of Cottesloe Church, had the evening service. The choir had special music prepared, and the church was pretty with flowers.

Hold Tea Meeting.

A large crowd attended the annual tea meeting and enjoyed the bountiful supper of excellent viands provided by the Cottesloe ladies. Supper was served in the sheds and the tables were prettily decorated with flowers. Clarina orchestra provided the music for the evening and addresses were given by Dr. Munro and Rev. Mr. McClennan, Baptist minister of Norwood.

Wins First Prize.

Word has come from Mr. Nelson that the first prize in household science in the recent contest in Lakefield, was awarded Miss Anna McMurray, Douro. The three girls who won the highest total points and thus are eligible to be sent to Toronto are Pearl Mullen, Anna McMurray and Mabel Mullen.

THE DAILY DOINGS

Outline of the Days' Pleasures, Planned for and Perfected by the several Committees in charge, to make a memorable occasion of

PETERBOROUGH'S OLD HOME WEEK

SATURDAY, June 29th, to Sunday, July 7th, both days inclusive. Every day and night, crowded with a fitting programme. Summer carnival going all the time, Excursions, Sports, Music and general whoopee.

Opening on Saturday, June 29

The first program of the week will be given at the Exhibition Grounds at 8.30 o'clock. The Toronto Scottish, 500 strong, with Brass and Pipe Bands, the Lindsay Regiment with Bands, the 57th Regiment with Bands, Third Prince of Wales Dragoons, Fourth Artillery Brigade and Fourth Machine Gun Company will parade at 8 o'clock to Exhibition Grounds, where a magnificent military program will be given, including Band Concert and Trooping of the Colors. This is an outstanding event.

Sunday, June 30th

It has been thought fitting to unveil and consecrate Peterborough's handsome War Memorial on this date, at which Sir Arthur Currie, Commander of the Canadian Overseas Forces, will officiate, assisted by Archdeacon Scott, the beloved Canadian overseas Padre; Colonel Henry C. Osborne, Secretary of the Imperial War Graves Commission, and Right Rev. James F. Sweeny, Lord Bishop of Toronto. At this ceremony all the visiting and local militia will participate together, with veterans of the Great War from the city and district. This will be a most impressive ceremony and will be witnessed by thousands.

Former pastors will occupy pulpits in the city churches.

In the evening at 8.30 a Sacred Concert by massed bands will be given in Victoria Park.

Monday, July 1st

At 9.30 in the morning there will be a Feature Parade from the Exhibition Grounds of all the visiting and local militia, floats, decorated cars, comics, etc. This will be a mammoth affair, unsurpassed in brilliance and originality and unlike anything ever seen in the city or district before. On the holiday afternoon there will be a complete Vaudeville Program and spectacular Military Display.

In the evening, commencing at 8 with a Band Concert, at the Exhibition Grounds, full Vaudeville Program, Military Display and Fireworks. Street Dancing free, 10.30 to 1 o'clock.

This will be a big day.

Correcting Back Deformities

As you have watched children with back deformities, sharp curves to either side or an actual lump or hump on the spinal column, you have perhaps wondered if anything could be done to prevent or reduce the deformity. For years various exercises, and putting the child in steel frames and plaster casts, have been used with varying degrees of success.

Unfortunately there are cases where all these methods are of no avail, and the individual seems doomed to carry this deformity with its injurious effect upon health and happiness.

However our orthopedic surgeons are working courageously and fearlessly with these severe spinal curvatures and some excellent results are being obtained.

Where there is a projection of the ribs backward, large sections of the ribs are actually removed. These rib fragments that have been removed are used to take the place of part of the spine bones that are deformed or shortened.

Dr. S. K. Kleinbeig, New York, reviews fifty-four cases of all varieties of spinal curvature on which operation has been performed.

The operation has no ill effect upon the health of the patient and does not interfere with normal growth.

There were 9 per cent failures, 13 per cent good results, and 78 per cent excellent results.

Thus in 91 per cent of the patients operated on, the deformity has been arrested, the appearance of the back satisfactory, the patient has gained weight and strength, and there is no backache.

Now this treatment means a certain length of time on a steel frame before operation, and after that the wearing of a support for some time. However I think you'll admit that it is worth all this to the health and happiness of the child, and in the years to come the feeling of satisfaction to parents that they have done everything possible for their youngster is something that cannot be measured.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion—

As this is my first letter to your circle I will not make it a lengthy one, but just to say I do enjoy your page. The Whatnot is surely great, I miss it when it isn't in. I guess everyone being so busy and the weather so warm that is why there isn't more letters. I would like to meet some of the writers, perhaps I may some day.

I am sending for sime helps which I have marked and hope I have not asked for too many. I have tried a number of recipes and found them good. I will try and send some sometime soon. Wishing your page success, I will say au revoir.

Mrs. S. L."

Welcome, 'Mrs. S. L.' to our circle, I do hope you will continue to enjoy the page as you say you have in the past. The pen name which you choose has already been registered, so I will leave it for you to choose another one for yourself.

• • •

"Dear Marion:

Enclosed find twenty-five cents and stamps to cover postage. Please order pattern, also a fashion book. I hope I am not too greedy in asking for so many helps. I see so many letters from the neighbors that are really helpful. I am sure Marion you must have great patience to be bothered with so many people asking for all the different things. I am half asleep with the heat and not very bright to-night, but will send a hint for this weather when everyone is washing so much. Here goes:

When washing a knitted slip it sometimes sags if hung on the line to dry. Put a round stick through the skirt, and tie each end to the clothesline. As it drys turn it around and it will be perfectly even, requiring no ironing.

Much luck to you and your page and thanking you for the helps.

Mrs. E de L."

I am sure your hint will be appreciated, for I do know that knitted silk slips are one bother when it comes to washing them. Even when you are wearing them, they seem to stretch miles!

• • •

"Dear Marion:

Well as it has been a long time since I wrote to you, I thought I would write you a few lines this evening. I am enclosing a couple of old songs.

Could some neighbor who has some flowers give me a few slips as we only have a couple of plants? Also could anyone tell me how to take tea stains out of a crepe de chine dress it was black tea that was spilled? Can you wash crepe de chine? Would Lux and water or gasoline be better?

Well I must close or the Neighbors will not read any more of my letters. I still enjoy Whatnots and all of the Neighbors' letters.

Sincerly Yours,

'Youngs Point.'"

Crepe de chine can be washed very successfully in Lux, and although I have heard of a number of ways of taking out tea stains I would not care to recommend any because I have never tried it personally. Possibly some of the neighbors will be able to answer more satisfactorily. I am sorry but the songs which you sent are too popular to have one on our page, it would be impossible to start printing all the songs of today. You can obtain the music of the one you request at any music counter in Peterborough.

"Dear Marion:

Many a time I have been going to write, to tell you how I have enjoyed your page. And the Neighbors' letters have been so interesting. I have also tried lots of recipes and found them good. Thanks for helps received last week. Please send me helps I have marked, have enclosed a two-cent stamp.

Kitty."

I am very glad to know you like our page so much. The neighbors' letters go a long way in helping to make the page more interesting. Your helps have been forwarded—don't hesitate to ask for all you want for I am only too glad to be of use to all the neighbors.

"Dear Marion:

I am enclosing the old favorite song, "It's Only a Beautiful Picture in a Beautiful Golden Frame," asked for some time ago by one of our readers. I am glad to be able to submit it for publication and hope it may give the person who requested it some pleasure in the reading of it. As I believe the old songs suggested a deeper and more sincere feeling in the hearts of a past generation, than the modern frivolous, and fickle jazz songs of today.

'Lone Star.'"

Thank you "Lone Star" for contributing the song for our readers, the old ones certainly have a deeper meaning than the one of today. Aren't you going to give us your name so that your pen name may be registered? We would be delighted to have it!

NAUTICAL TOUCH

A white flat crepe blouse, of the tuck-in variety, has navy blue touches in much the manner of the sailor blouse. Its collar is cut square in the back and is banded with blue, and stripes of blue adorn the sleeves.

JAUNTY JACKET SUIT

THE STYLE No. 2815 has gained widespread popularity for sports and all-day wear. The dress with youthful pleated skirt is white shantung, while the hip-length jacket chooses vivid red shantung. The white shantung appears in notched reder collar of jacket to accent its tailored simplicity. A touch of red trims bodice. Red leather belt indicates higher waistline. The dress and jacket can be worn separately. For instance a printed cotton pique jacket in orange and white would be quite a change worn with the white dress. The red jacket can be worn with a printed pique, printed crepe silk, printed voile, georgette or rajah silk dress, thus adding variety to wardrobe without involving much additional expense.

THE PATTERN is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew. It's surprisingly easy to make. It's interesting too. A Picture Chart does the thinking for you. It shows the entire construction of garment in Pictures. Follow the pictures, step by step, and before you have time to realize you are actually making this attractive outfit, it's finished.

NEW SUMMER FASHION BOOK is just filled with Paris and New York styles attractively presented and cleverly adapted for the use of home sewers. A book far superior to all previous issues. Price 10 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion (Copyright)

AMONG the newer closet accessories of interest to the homemaker is the fur scarf container. This is something like the garment containers, used for protection of dresses from dust and from the wear and tear which comes with friction directly against them when other clothes are hung up or taken down.

• • •

Summer furs, being particularly delicate, and the danger from the intrusion of moths more than at other seasons; such a container becomes almost a necessity to the woman who is punctitious in the care of her wearing apparell. The advantages of the scarf bag more than make up for the trouble involved in making it.

• • •

A glazed chintz, plain or figured is recommended for the purpose, as it is dust proof and offers good protection. The ready made scarf bags open up the side. The homemade ones can also if the fastenings of like kind are bought. These come in stripes. If these mechanical contrivance for completely closing are not available when the bags are being made, snaps can be used instead, or the bag can open at the top only.

• • •

The scarf bags are tube:like in shape, with the lower end closed. To make the top, proceed in one of two ways. Take a coat hanger, of which the ends have been cut down to the proportions of the bag opening and insert the hook end through the centre of the circular piece of goods which closes the bag at the top. Screw a small curtain hook to the under side of hanger, and suspend the scarf from it by a loop sewed to scarf lining.

• • •

Another way of making the top, is to cover the circular piece of cardboard or even a small metal or paper pie plate, merely sew a loop of tape to the top portion of the material to hang it up by and sew a clamp, or a large safety pin suspended by tape from under side. The completed top is secured by sewing it to bag tubing at a given point, and the sides held to it the rest of the way around by snaps or hooks and eyes.

• • •

Fur scarf bags which cost the most to buy are lined with some kind of moth proof paper, tar paper can be used, or some which is redolent of cedar.

• • •

How to receive a guest who is a late arrival, and how to be most gracious as a guest under the circumstances of tardiness, are matters to concern almost everyone at some time. As in all other phases of entertaining or being entertained, there is an art to it.

• • •

The very term of hospitality suggests generosity, and this must be of things spiritual as well as material. To take the tardy guest to task, unless the circumstances are those of history repeating itself beyond the bounds of patience, is to fall from role of perfect hostess.

• • •

Probably the guest feels very chagrinned at the lateness of his or her arrival, and the attitude of the hostess will make or mar the occasion which is to follow. To offer someone pleasure and then hinder the enjoyment of it, is a very backhand way of doing things, from which no good to anyone can result.

• • •

The hostess of course, owes it to herself and to her other guests, to let the form of entertainment chosen to be adhered. Events should take their course with as little deviation as possible from schedule. Anything which has transpired before the late arrival is present must be regarded as his or her loss.

• • •

To be a guest arriving behind time, one must show just how right degree of concern—enough to have the hostess feel that disconcerting her plans is not held to be a negligible quantity—and not so much that she is embarrassed by having to reiterate her assurances that it is quite all right. To be too apologetic does not help the occasion to go on smoothly. As little commotion as possible should be aroused.

• • •

This is a thing which the late arrival does well to remember. The hostess has already started the ball of entertainment rolling, and to suddenly burst upon the scene with flurry and profuse apologies may be to interfere with her plans more than it necessary.

• • •

It is inexcusable for a guest to act as if such breach of etiquette were a matter of no concern to herself. A guest who assumes such a manner towards a long suffering hostess deserves to have her name struck from the list of those invited. Such an attitude on the part of the hostess is quite another matter.

A HANDY SUPPER DISH

(Contributed by Ruralite")

To mashed potatoes, add a couple of well-beaten eggs, and a little cream, salt, pepper and sage to taste with a couple of finely chopped onions. Then drop from spoon on a hot buttered frying pan to brown. This can be prepared when dinner is over, and only takes a few minutes to fry for supper.

BUTTONED BACK

A flamingo colored crepe Roma afternoon frock has a soft batiste and lace collar and cuffs and buttons itself up the back from waistline to neck with bullet buttons of self material.

BOW TIE

A white faille taffeta frock with a natural waistline and flaring circular skirt has a sweet bias banding of white organdy around the neck like a Chinese collar and a pert bow tie.

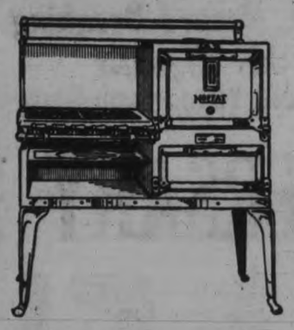
SPRING MAGIC IN YOUR KITCHEN



IT IS A SORT OF MAGIC, surely, that transforms the stark severity of winter into the fresh loveliness of spring.

It is also a sort of magic that brings forth such wonderful cakes, roasts, puddings, and rolls—the flower of perfect cookery—from the self-regulating oven of an automatically controlled GAS RANGE without the burden of oven-watching.

It roasts, bakes, or cooks WHOLE MEALS to wholesome appetizing perfection. It enables you to enjoy leisure while the Self-Regulating Oven maintains correct oven temperatures for hours at a time. Now is a good time to investigate.

CHILDREN INHALE GAS FOR WHOOPING COUGH

With Eyes Streaming Youngsters Take Painful Cure at Gas Plant

WINNIPEG, Man., June 26 (C.P.)—The last relic of the days when faith ruled the world, the healing shrine where pilgrims brought their ills, has shifted from the country and the cloister to the factory.

Recently a throng of little children some only a year old, flocked to the gas plant of the Winnipeg Electric Company on Gladstone street. Coughing and gasping with whooping cough they came, and they left with tear-streaked faces, their bright eyes blinking with the gas fumes.

Science has accepted exposure to gas fumes as a temporary cure for whooping cough and many parents take advantage of the opening of the plant every 10 days to get this treatmen.

Children from as far as Selkirk came to spend an hour in the reeking chamber. Some protested vigorously but stern parents sent them in knowing that the temporary discomfort would bring relief from the sickening cough.

HUBBY WASHES DISHES THEN DOMESTIC BLISS

Headmistress States Husband Should Help With Home Duties

MANCHESTER, England, June 28 (Canadian Press).—Addressing the Southport Chamber of Trade on "Girls and Their Future," Mrs. Dymond, headmistress of the Southport High School for Girls, said the solution of the domestic problem would only come when boys as well as girls were trained to home duties.

She had visited boys in camp, and had never seen such cheerful washing of dishes and such liking of work that was usually called domestic drudgery. When they were at home it was a different tale. Why, she asked, should girls be expected to stop at home and do housework while the boys went out to cricket and football? If boys and men took part in domestic duties those tasks would have a higher place, and the word "drudgery" would be wiped out.

FASHION SERVICE

Nicole Groult has used two tones of blue in this smart frock, outlining the design with white embroidery.

SMART FROCK IN TWO TONES OF BLUE

By Nicole Groult

Very new in line and feeling is this smart frock in which I have used two tones of blue, outlined with white embroidery. Corsage, upper part of sleeves and skirt are in the lighter tone. The lower portions of the sleeves and skirt, the scarf and the diagonal band on the bodice are all in the darker shade. The normal waistline is marked by a belt.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

JUST AS THE SUN WENT DOWN

After the din of the battle's roar,
Just at the close of day,
Wounded and bleeding upon the field
Two dying soldiers lay.

One held a ringlet of thin grey hair.
One held a lock of brown.
Bidding each other a last farewell,
Just as the sun went down.

Chorus:

One tho't of mother, at home alone,
Feeble and old and grey,
One of the sweetheart he left in town,
Happy and young and gay.
One kissed a ringlet of thin grey hair,
One kissed a lock of brown.
Bidding farewell to the Stars and Stripes,
Just as the sun went down.

One knew of the joys of a mother's love,
One of a sweetheart fair;
Thinking of home they lay side by side,
Breathing a farewell prayer,
One for his mother, so old and grey,
One for his love in town.
They closed their eyes to the earth and skies
Just as the sun went down.

ANOTHER ONTARIO MAN FINDS HUSKY ENDS INDIGESTION

"I Am Entirely Relieved of Heartburn, Stomach Gas and That Painful, Sick Feeling After Eating," He Says.

ROBERT COWELL

"Husky made me feel better right away, and in 12 days every sign of my indigestion had disappeared," said Robert Cowell, employe of the Ford Hotel, Toronto, who lives at 247 Mutual St., that city, as he told how a long standing case of indigestion has yielded to this wonderful medicine.

"The finest meal you ever saw made me sick at my stomach," he said, "and even the lightest food would give me indigestion. I would have severe attacks of heartburn and my stomach would be so full of gas it would feel like it was going to burst. I spit up parts of my food and I never felt like eating when I sat down to the table. I was constipated all the time.

"One of my fellow workers told me about Husky and the good it did him and I began using it. Husky has entirely relieved me. I have a good appetite, eat plenty and never have a sign of heartburn, gas or trouble of any kind after eating. My bowels are normal. I"m sleeping good and feeling like a healthy man. I"ve gained several pounds and am glad to tell others that I think Husky to be the best medicine on the markets."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon you get relief, how food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a short time. Husky can always be obtained at Bond's Drug Store and at other good drug stores everywhere.

Onward! to a greater Canada! That was the spirit of the sturdy pioneers — the bed-rock faith of the Fathers of Confederation.

It is the challenge of 1929 — the rallying cry of a united and determined people to keep on building for agricultural and industrial supremacy.

Today, The Bank of Toronto greets Canada on her sixty-second birthday. With a sound optimism that foresees the greatest era of progress ahead, this Bank aims to contribute an ever-increasing share to the growth and development of our country.

"He passed me on the hill, going about forty. The collision came a second later."

An innocent participant in a shocking highway accident was giving his evidence before a coroner's jury.

Two sentences of explanation, and the cause was clear to every juryman.

A driver in a hurry took a chance in passing another car near the brow of a hill. He couldn't see the car coming up the hill on the other side. He couldn't stop in time He couldn't get back to the right side of the road. The two cars locked in a cruel grinding of steel.

Grief-stricken families. A front page newspaper story. Three funerals. An official investigation.

"Cutting in" on a level piece of highway when the road ahead is not clear is reckless driving.

Passing another car near the crest of a hill or at any other place where the view is even partially obscured, is one of the gravest errors a motorist can make.

A fundamental of safe driving is never to pass another car unless you can see a clear road ahead and unless you are sure there is a new place for you in the traffic line. If you violate this rule you will be the cause of an accident sooner or later. Traffic Officers are especially vigilant for this class of offender.

The Highway Safety Committee appeals to you and every other user of the highways, particularly during this week-end when traffic will be heavier. It asks your utmost co-operation in keeping the highways safe.

7 Rules for SAFETY

You must observe each one scrupulously all the time

1 Have your car in perfect mechanical shape — Particularly Brakes, Steering Gear and Headlights.
2 Give your undivided attention to your driving. In passing traffic, be sure there is a place for you in the traffic line ahead.
3 When other motor vehicles try to pass you—let them pass.
4 In entering main streets or highways, or in approaching a railway crossing where a full view of the track is obscured—stop and look.
5 Don't "Loaf" where traffic is heavy.
6 Always signal before you slow down, stop or change your course.
7 Never back up before ascertaining that the road behind is clear.

ttery Misplays Costly For Toronto Club

LOSE OUT IN 13TH INNING ER OUTHITTING ROYALS 12-8

son Outpitches Three Rivals But Quebec Opponents Emerge Winners 5-4.

WINGS MASSACRE BISONS.

Rochester Batsmen Clout Six Circuit Blows For 16-3 Victory.

TORONTO, Ont., June 28.—(Canadian Press)—The Leafs returned to their home lot yesterday and drank deeply of perhaps the bitterest cup of defeat they have tasted this season They lost in the thirteenth, 5 to 4, after leading the Montreal Royals at one stage of the pastiming 4 to 0. And after they had outhit their Quebec opponents 12 to 8 and Hoot Gibson had outpitched three rivals.

A bobble by Pete Cote set in motion the charge that carried two Montreal runs over in the ninth to tie the score at four-all, and battery misplays eased home the deciding tally in the thirteenth.

MASSACRE BISONS

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 28—(Canadian Press)—With their bats belching a blinding fire of six home runs, the league-leading Rochester Red Wings massacred the Buffalo Bisons in the opening game of the series here yesterday by a score of 16 to 3. Gus Mancuso, Rochester catcher, blasted three of the homers accounting for six runs. Collins smacked his seventh circuit blow of the year with the bases choked in the sixth inning, while Sand and Worthington also parked four-basers outside the wall.

ERRORS COSTLY FOR BRUINS

NEWARK, June 28.—(Canadan Press).—Reading took the opening game of the series from the Newark Bears here yesterday afternoon by 6 to 4. Hub Pruett allowed only six hits, but his mates made costly errors that provided the Keys with two unearned runs.

Newark hammered Greene and Lautenbacher for ten safeties, but couldn't make their blows count.

FIRST GAME FROM CATS

JERSEY CITY, June 27.—(Canadian Press).—Baltimore took the first game of the five-game series here yesterday with the Black Cats by a score of 5 to 3. The Orioles got to Miller in the seventh to score five runs right there. Miller weakened in this frame, a single, a double, pair of free tickets, coupled with two errors, were responsible for the Birds romping off with the game.

MAX SWANSTON LEADS PETES WITH .424 MARK

Petes' Pilot Has Banged Out Nine Hits in Last Three Games.

ROSE IS SECOND

Harrison Still Leads in Driving Runs Across the Plate.

Manager Swanston has been showing his Petes the way to get hits in recent games and as a result the local pilot is well ahead of the crew with the corpulent average of .424. In his last three games Swanston has banged out nine safe blows and his record in the past few has been seven hits out of eight times up.

Ray Rose, leader a week ago, has the healthy average of .361.

"Red" Hollingsworth hit safely in both games since the list was last published, thus keeping his record of at least one blow in every game played intact.

Jimmy Hall, who kept pace with the shortstop for the first seven games, went without a hit last Saturday for the first time.

Hap Harrison still leads the runs-batted-in brigade, supplying the punch for seven counters.

The figures follow:

	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	P.C
Swanston	9	33	4	14	.424

Alderville Will Play At Roseneath Saturday

ROSENEATH, June 28 (Examiner Correspondence). — Alderville team will play at Roseneath on Saturday afternoon. Roseneath has been somewhat unfortunate this season so far, but the boys are getting in better condition to keep their team together, and expect to win out in the future.

Annual Lachine Regatta Takes Place Saturday

MONTREAL, Que., June 28.—(Canadian Press).—The ninth annual regatta of Eastern Rowing Association and the sixty-sixth annual regatta of the Lachine Rowing Club takes place Saturday over the latter's course in the Lachine Canal, in all, something like 125 oarsmen will compete in the championship regatta representing the Home Club, Lachine, Brockville, McGill and University of Toronto., Twelve eight-oared shells alone are competing in the regatta which promises to be the biggest in the history of the Eastern Rowing Association.

PETES ARE NOW FIGHTING WITH BACKS TO WALL

Must Beat Oshawa Here Tomorrow to Get Back in Race.

NEED A VICTORY

Motorists Will Use Matthews Against Swanston Entry.

The Petes will be fighting with their backs to the wall when they tackle Oshawa at James Stevenson Park to-morrow.

The Swanston entry has dropped four games in succession and they have to snap out of their slump to get back up the ladder. They were at the top of the heap when they started to skid two weeks ago and now are down in the cellar.

However in most of the games lost the Petes made a fight of it most of the journey and a couple of breaks at the right time would have made a difference.

The Oshawa team, under the guidance of Mat Sutton, whose fielding has been a feature, have been playing bang up ball and the Petes will have to show real form to earn a win over them to-morrow. Matthews has been saved for the Petes' benefit and the big right-hander has been tough all season.

Manager Swanston has made no announcement as to his pitching selection.

The game is called for 3 o'clock, and with many Old Home visitors anxious to see the brand of ball played here now there should be a real crowd.

FOUR PLAYERS IN FINAL SETS

Meet at Montreal in Men's Singles For Quebec Title.

SEASONED VETERANS.

MONTREAL, Que., June 28—(Canadian Press).—Three Toronto players and one Montrealer will play here to-day in the semi-finals of the men's singles for the Quebec tennis title. Gilbert Nunns, former member of Canada's Davis Cup team will meet Walter Martin, intercollegiate champion in one semi-final; W. L. Rennie, former Canadian champion will play C. W. Leslie, McGill, only Montreal player left in the competition, in the other.

The Toronto men all defeated strong Montreal players in the quarter finals yesterday. Rennie provided an upset when he defeated Marcel Rainville, first seeded star, 6-0, 7-5. Rainville made the mistake of trying to ousteady Rennie. The Toronto man was in good form and Rainville's rally in the last fell short.

Walter Martin won from A. Burrows, Montreal, by 6-4, 6-1. The first set was a good battle but Martin captured the second with little difficulty.

Gilbert Nunns downed C. W. Aikin, a local trickshot artist, 6-3, 7-5. Aikman staged an exciting rally in the second set when he was down 1-5. He was unable to last out, however, against Nunns' heavy driving.

Leslie reached the semi-finals by disposing of L. Cloutier, Montreal, a left-hander, 6-1, 6-2.

After the races the booth was much patronized. Lemonade, cake and sandwiches were served by the teachers and mothers. In spite of the threatening weather the picnic was a splendid success.

ZBYSCKO IS WINNER.

TORONTO, Ont., June 28 (Canadian Press). — Stanislaus Zbyscko, veteran wrestler, defeated Ivan Poduboff in two straight falls here last night. Ned McCarr defeated Fred Grobmeyer in a preliminary that lasted 42½ minutes.

MACKS WIN FIRST GAME

6-3 Victory Increases A's Lead Over Champions To Eleven and One-half Games.

BROWNS IN SECOND.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28 (Canadian Press). — The Athletics clubbed Waite Hoyt hard in the pinches here yesterday to take the first game of the series from the Yankees by a score of 6 to 3. The victory increased the lead of the Mackmen over the champions to eleven and one-half games and dropped the Yankees into third place.

The Browns, victorious over Chicago, moved into second place, and remained ten and one-half games behind the leaders.

IN SECOND PLACE.

CHICAGO, Ills., June 28 (Canadian Press). — After allowing only four hits during the first eight innings yesterday, Tommy Thomas blew up and the St. Louis Browns took the series opener, 4 to 1. Home runs by Manush and Melillo and a triple by Schulte aided the Browns in scoring all their runs.

TIGERS BEAT INDIANS.

DETROIT. June 28 (Canadian Press). — A home run by Roy Johnson with the bases loaded in the second inning enabled the Tigers to defeat the Cleveland Indians yesterday 6 to 2, in the opening contest of a four-game series.

HOLD SENATORS TO FIVE HITS.

BOSTON, June 28 (Canadian Press). — Ed Morris held the Senators to five hits yesterday, and the Red Sox defeated Washington, 4 to 1. Scaritt and Ken Williams were responsible for the home team's runs. Scaritt drove in three runs, and Williams one.

SOCCER CUP-TIE GAME ON SATURDAY

Canadian Packing Play Canadian General in Injured Players' Cup.

On Saturday afternoon the Canadian General meets the Canadian Packing team in the semi-final of the Injured Players' Cup on King Edward Park. Kick-off at three o'clock prompt. A. Aitkenhead is the official referee.

This will be the first occasion that these two teams have met in an important cup tie. The winners will play the Deloro eleven in the final, and this game will be played in the city. All players asociated with the two clubs are requested to be at the pavilion no later than 2.45, so that the officials will get the players lined up at the specified kick-off.

The soccer executive desire to thank the fans for the generous response to this worthy object in regard to finance. All the collections go to the Injured Players 'Fund, and a detailed account is given at the close of the season when the players' claims are made to the board. The spectators will be sure to witness a real cup tie tussle.

PAYS TO ENTER HOME.

LONDON, June 28. — The vicar of St. Bride's Church on Fleet Street has to pay a toll to enter his own front door. Bridewell Place, at the back of the church where the vicarage is situated, was built on land belonging to the Bridewell Foundation. An old dividing wall runs along the lines of the present vicarage, preventing free right of way into the house and causing the toll fee.

Wife of St. Louis Browns Baseball Player Killed in Automobile Crash Near Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ont., June 27.—(C.P.)—When the car in which she was riding crashed head-on into a truck, Mrs. Clyde Manion, of Tillsonburg, wife of the catcher for the St. Louis Browns, was instantly killed at Bronte about four o'clock this morning. Other passengers in the car, A. Lansing Rogers and Mrs. Rogers were seriously hurt.

According to the story told by the driver of the truck, Frank Deer of Windsor, he was driving through Bronte towards Toronto, when he saw the car approaching at a high rate of speed. He pulled over to the side of the road to avoid a collision, but the oncoming automobile swerved and met the heavy truck with full force. Mrs. Manion suffered terrible head injuries and her death was almost instantaneous.

ERRORS COSTLY FOR STOREMEN

Lose 11-4 Decision To Harrison North Enders in Softball Fixture.

TAKE EARLY LEAD.

One of the largest crowds of the season saw the Teco team, who are rated as a strong aggregation, go down to a decisive defeat before the Harrison North-Enders by an 11 to 4 score in the softball fixture at the Central School grounds last evening.

The Teco aggregation did not threaten the lead of the North-Enders in any frame of the game, while the errors of the Storemen spelt defeat for their softball team. The first two runs that the Harrison men scored were started by Carruthers giving two compliments in succession in the second frame, Ross and Vinette both walked and travelled the entire round after two overthrows by the moundsmen and on the catcher's error.

In the third innings while Ward and Calladine singled safely to first, errors on the part of Miller in centrfield and of Crary at second netted another brace of runs for the Harrison team. The fourth was a scoreless frame.

In the fifth White for T. Eaton & Company drove a long fly near the school for a homer, chalking up the first mark in the Teco score, while Harrisons came back strong in the sixth with another brace of counters when Montgomery knocked a long triple, scoring Vinette who was given a complimentary and then scoring Himself on White's error.

In the Teco half of the sixth Westbrook reached first on a single and romped the rest of the way around at the expense of the Harrisons on errors while in the seventh Dobson for the North-Enders pulled the same trick, making the score seven for Harrison and two for Teco.

During the eighth Percy Harrison's aggregation ran the Tecos ragged and scored four runs more, making the score eleven for the leaders and held the Eaton men at two. Harrisons did not score in the ninth, retiring in order while the Teco nine entered two more to their credit when the Harrison men slackened the pace somewhat to make the final count 11 to 4 in favor of the Northerners.

Bobby Ross, playing second for the Harrison men, was the outstanding player on the field with three put-outs and five assists to his credit and only one error chalked up against him.

Freddie Jones, Hall, and Frick were the outstanding stars for the Teco aggregation. Carruthers, the pitcher, had four strike-outs against two by Dundas, who relied more on the tight support of his teammates during the game.

The line-ups:

Teco — White, c; Hall, 3b; Jones, lf; Frick, 1b; Crary, 2b; Westbrooke, ss; Miller, cf; Board, rf; Carruthers, p.

Score by innings:

Harrisons	022002140—11
Teco	00001002— 4

Umpires—Haskell, Green.

MARMORA WINS 9-6.

Defeats Deloro Crew in Smart Game of Junior Baseball.

MARMORA, Jupe 28.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Jules Ethier's Deloro Juniors played a seven innings game of baseball at Marmora Fair grounds on Tuesday evening, the honors going to the homesters on a 9-6 score.

The batteries were Melville and J. McInroy for Mermora and Callery and Phillips for Deloro.

Deloro obtained a sole run in the first innings to which Marmora replied with heavy hitting which yielded seven runs. In the second innings the visitors failed to reduce the lead and Marmora piled on two more counters. After a scoreless third, Deloro got going and five runs were secured in the following frame.

Score by innings:

Deloro	1005000—6
Marmora	7200000—9

Deloro—Phillips, c; Callery, p; Paquet, 1b; Corrigan, 2b; G. O'Neill, ss; J. McInroy, 3b; Emmorey, cf; J. O'Neill, lf; Gray, rf.

Marmora—Melville, p; G. McInroy, c; Campion, 3b; J. Auger, lf; McGrath, rf; Hewitt, 1b; Thompson, ss; Burns, cf; D. Auger, 2b.

CARDS IN TIE WITH GIANTS FOR THIRD PLACE IN LEAGUE

Three Circuits On Part of Chicago Batsmen Enables Cubs to Win 5-4.

PIRATES WIN OUT 5-3.

ST. LOUIS, June 28—(Canadian Press).—The Cubs defeated St. Louis, 5 to 4, here yesterday, sending the Cardinals into a tie with the Giants for third place.

Douhit and Frisch each hit homers with none on base, and Hornsby likewise hit for the circuit when the paths were empty. Hornsby hit safely three times in four trips to the plate, scored two runs, and batted in two.

PIRATES WIN OUT 5-3

PITTSBURG, June 27—(Canadian Press).—The pitching of Meinie was too much for the Cincinnati Reds to-day; and the Pirates won the second game of the series, 5 to 3. Jakie May, who started for the Reds' kept the Pirates' hits scattered until the seventh, when Traynor's triple with two on drove him out. Lloyd Waner was out of the Pirate line-up with a damaged hand.

GIANTS LEAD PHILLIES

NEW YORK, June 28.—(Canadian Press).—The Giants defeated the Phillies by 9 to 3 here yesterday in the opening game of a series of five engagements. This ran the New York string against the Phils to eleven out of twelve on the season.

The home team scored three unearned runs in the first, after the side should have been retired, but thereafter hit Roy hard for its markers. Southern and Leach featured with home runs. Terry made his 100th hit, a mark yet reached by no other big leaguer.

ROBINS WIN OPENER

BROOKLYN, N.Y., June 28. — (Canadian Press)—The Robins hit Harry Seibold hard in the late innings here yesterday to pull up from behind and beat the Braves by 8 to 5 in the opener of a four-game series Relief pitching of win Ballou, contributed largely to the Brooklyn victory.

Schmeling Earns Bout With Sharkey

For fifteen rounds, before a crowd of 45,000, that half-filled the big American League ball park, the thrashing young Teuton cut and slashed at Paulino's head and body bullied and chased him about the ring, and left him at the end a gory, shattered figure, with nothing left but courage. There were no knockdowns but the liftin gof Schmeling's hand in signal of victory at the close was just a gesture.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS IN THE SPORTS WORLD

BOOSTS AND KNOCKS for EVERYONE

(By "TED" OUTRAM)

ATTRACTIVE WATER SPORTS PROGRAM.

The water sports program, as drawn up for Old Home Week, is one of the best and most complete ever held in this part of the province. Last night a forty-mile open marathon for sea-fleas was added, and it is expected that a large fleet of these fast stepping outboard hydroplanes will be down from Toronto. This race will start near the old street car wharf, and will go the full course of the river to Rice Lake and return. No sea flea can carry enough fuel to do forty miles and it is expected that the necessity to re-fuel will add interest to the race.

Log rolling, something that hasn't been seen here for years, is another feature. In this contest two men stand on a long, sizable log and they flip that log round and round, first this way, and then the other, in an effort to cause his opponent to fall into the water. This is a game the hardy river drivers, who formerly plied their pike poles on these waters, used to delight in, and the Champion Log Roller was a title of affluence.

Besides these there will be swimming, paddling and rowing races, and also water polo and fancy diving.

MUCH DEPENDS ON E.P.L. GAMES TO-NIGHT.

The standings in the E.P.L. will likely be altered as a result of the two games billed for this evening. Crescents, now on top, go to Bethany to play Doc Hamilton's boys. That they have a tidy battle on their hands they will be the first to admit. The manner in which Bethany has been winning in this league makes them a real threat for the championship. If Bethany wins the league will be tied up properly.

Cogs on the other hand should have little difficulty in disposing of Hastings at the Exhibition Park.

* * * * * *

IMPOSSIBLE TO PLAY NINE INNINGS GAMES.

Apparently nine inning games are impossible in the E.P.L.. The two county teams work and play by standard time, and it would be impossible to ask them to come here an hour earlier so that two extra innings of ball might be got in. These young farmers have difficulties in getting away to play as it is, and to play nine innings would mean that they would have to drop out. The executive has tossed the idea overboard.

* * * * * *

ATHLETICS CONTINUE AROUND FIRST.

Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy's Athletics continue their onward march of winning ball games ,and are now eleven and one-half games ahead of St. Louis in the American League race. It looks very much as if they were going to hold that lead throughout the the season. Their 6-3 win over New York Yankees yesterday toppled the champions into third place.

Cornelius has a bombarding crew that is doing much greater damage to opposing pitchers than the famous Yankee sluggers are doing, the two leading league sluggers being on the Philadelphia payroll. In fact Mack puts down all the success to their ability to knock base hits. "Give me a batter who is eager, and grips that old bat with the full confidence that he can hit the pitcher out of the lot," said Connie recently. He has instilled this logic into his whole team.

It has long been claimed that the team which is out in front on July 4 will still be there at the close of the race, and while there have been exceptions to the belief, it generally works out that way. It is a long time since Connie won a pennant, and a victory for him would be popular indeed.

* * * * * *

HARD LUCK FOLLOWS LEAFS.

The Leafs keep on losing but every game is a battle. They are down to sixth place, behind Newark now. Having returned Thursday to their home lot a change in results was expected. Montreal put a fly in the ointment yesterday afternoon by overcoming a four-run lead to win 5 to 4 in the thirteenth. That's the kind of luck that's been tagging the Leafs all season; they're in fighting grimly but results are always against them.

IS THERE A GIRLS' SOFTBALL TEAM IN CITY?

What has happened to all the girls' softball teams in this city, that used to play so smartly at Central Park? A challenge was sent in recently by a Toronto ladies' team and there was no team here that could be named to accept the challenge

The struggles and vim of those softball games were good from a spectator's point of view, and they also resulted in better health for those playing. Can't the girls' softball league be re-organized and the competition brought back?

CRICKET

The Peterborough C. C. and the Toronto C. C. will play at the Oval to-morrow afternoon, game to commence at 2.30.

Great interest is being shown, due to the fact that Mailey, the Australian test match player, will be playing for the visitors; nevertheless the local club is determined to put up a big fight for the honors. The following players are asked to be on hand at 2.15 sharp: Dunkerley (Capt.), Elliott, Stuart, Thorpe, Gore, Dyer F., Monkman, Wade, Dr. Hewitt, Hamilton, Mitchell and Combe. Reserves: Sutcliffe, Willett.

Umpires: R. Dyer and M. Hamilton.

JONES PLAYS FINE GOLF LEADS FIELD IN U.S. OPEN

WINGED FOOT CLUB, Mamaroneck, N.Y., June 28.—The one and only Bobby Jones yesterday gave a masterful golfing lesson to the greatest field that ever started in quest of the open championship of the United States

With his famous putter "Calamity Jane" supplying the finishing touches, Jones stroked over the last nine holes in an amazing 31, five under par, to finish with 69, three under perfect figures, and assume an undisputed lead at the end of the first 18 holes of the 72-hole championship battle over Winged Foot's bunkered battlements.

It was a great day for the great Georgian, who shot the best round he has ever carded in the national championship, but it was otherwise rough on most of the other favorites and tragic for the slim young defending champion, Johnny Farrell who virtually eliminated himself from the running by taking a wild and wooly 84, twelve strokes over par.

THEATRES

"CLOSE HARMONY."

Two blithe young persons, Nancy Carroll and Charles ("Buddy") Rogers, have the stage in this feature, which marches along to a musical tempo, provided by the jazz band of the hero, Al West. It is this jazz band that attracts the attention of the heroine, Marjorie Merwin, a musical comedy star, to Al after he has been kicked out of his boarding house by a wrathful landlady and stands forlornly on the pavement, surrounded by saxaphones and trombones and drums. Marjorie pays his rent and delivers his from escrow, as one might say, to the demanding landlady. Then she vamps her manager, the irascible Max Mindil, a Hebrew gentleman with a very taking fashion in his action, into engaging Al with his band, to play in Mindil's Theatre.

Al and Marjorie want $1,000 a week, to get married, and they hold out of the harassed Max for the required amount. Then two comical cut-ups, Ben Barney and Johnny Bay, blow into town and get an engagement at the Theatre and Al, with his band, gets the sack. These two fun-makers are played in enthusiastic, laughable style by Richard Gallegher and Jack Oakie, the latter, by the way, being the freckle-countenanced lad who made such a hit in "The Fleet's In," with Clara Bow. They sing and dance in a manner all their own and get the applause of the crowd at the theatre, much to the detriment of Al and his musicians.

Then Marjorie gets busy and vamps the two youths, so hard that they come to blows over her and crab their act effectually with their manager and with themselves. But, when things are breaking nicely for Al and Mindil is about to re-engage him, to fill the gap in the program, he turns nasty and makes Marjorie confess the frame-up to her two victims.

Eventually, matters straighten themselves out satisfactorily. It is an entertaining, light picture, with plenty of music in its production and lots of comedy.

Just as a bit of contrast, the program opens with a very heavy bit of dramatic acting and speaking, in "The Man Higher Up," with Hobart Bosworth as the "heavy." A metronome, mistaken for a time bomb, plays a large part in the working out of the vengeance of one man against another, which forms the motif of this short picture.

The comedy is an extremely painful affair, with a dentist's chair and victim as the main actors.

—Jeanette.

LAWN BOWLING.

This evening at the Brock street greens the usual tournament will be staged. The prizes for to-night will be china cups and saucers for first and second, with other suitable prizes for third and fourth (according to the number of rinks present). Draw will be at the usual time.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

GAME CALLED OFF.

The Hastings-Cogs game scheduled for Exhibition Park this evening has been called off. The Hastings club has had to draw players from Keene, and it was found impossible to muster a full team for the game here this evening.

CITY LEAGUE MEETING.

An important meeting of the City League Executive has been called for to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Holy Name Society rooms. Matters of grave importance to the League and the program for Old Home Week will be up for discussion and decision. Every member of the Executive is urgently urged to be present and aid in solving some of the problems confronting the League.

Jack Deannard's bantam team will have a practice at King Edward school grounds at 1.30 Saturday.

Salient Points of Bidding.

Auction: South's four-card Diamond holding, supported by a side Ace, fully warrants an informative bid of one Diamond in his position as Dealer. West passing, North makes the improving take-out of one Heart, a bid that he should make even though well able to support his partner's Minor suit call, as for example, if South had bid a Club instead of a Diamond. East's defensive overcall of one Spade has no value in offense with a passing partner, but might be of defensive value as a lead-directing bid in case South becomes the Declarer. South, with good support for Hearts, has no occasion to jump his assist and therefore bids but two Hearts, concluding the bidding.

Contract: The Contract bidding is the same as the above except that South, following East's Spade overcall of North's Heart bid, has every reason, holding the necessary values, to jump his assist to the game contract.

The Play.

East opens the King of Spades and Dummy's hand is exposed. North (Declarer) before playing from Dummy, takes stock of the situation presented. Should he win with Dummy's Ace, and take the Heart finesse at once, he would obviously lose, should the finesse be unsuccessful, a Heart trick, two Spade tricks and the Ace of Clubs and thus would fail to go game. Therefore, to reduce these possible losers, North, after winning with Dummy's Ace of Spades, plays his Ace of Diamonds followed by the Queen, discarding on the Queen a losing Spade.

Thereafter, his only losers are a Heart trick, a Club trick and a Spade trick, and therefore he scores game.

An alternative play, which the singleton King of Diamonds might suggest to the Declarer, would be to lead a trump at once from Dummy and, declining the finesse, play the Ace of Hearts, in the hope of finding the King alone, just as the King of Diamonds was alone, experience showing that when there is a singleton in one of the four hands there is apt to be a singleton in another. Should the King not fall, then the Declarer could take his Spade discard, and game would result as in the actual play of the hand.

DO YOU WANT A REAL HOME IN PETERBORO?

My client has for sale a very beautiful Old Colonial style house in Peterborough, the reason being that his business has taken him away from the city. It is a comparatively new house, situated in one of the leading residential districts. This is not merely a dwelling, but a real home.

The lot is 50 feet wide and 120 feet deep to a lane with a right-of-way. The grounds are in first-class condition, some hundreds of dollars having been spent on lawns, shrubs and perennials. The house itself is nearly forty feet wide. There is an entrance hall with a tiled floor and marble trim. The living-room, which is about 25 feet long, is trimmed in oak and has a very handsome open fireplace. The dining-room is of ample proportions, and decorated in a dignified manner. The kitchen is thoroughly modern and with lots of windows and cupboard spaces. It is fitted with an electric range. All fixtures are of the most modern type.

On the second floor, there are three bedrooms and a sewing-room, all with more than ample clothes closets; also marble trimmed bathroom with built-in bath and pedestal basin. On the next floor there is a large library (or den) with an electric magicoal grate, and a store-room.

The floors are hardwood throughout. There is a good basement, with stationary laundry tubs and an electric water heater. The entire house is equipped with handsome electric fixtures, blinds and curtains. The house is also furnished, and if desired a satisfactory deal would be made for the furnishings or such part of them as a buyer might wish to have.

The property could be sold for cash, free and clear of all encumbrances. It is beautiful, and the situation is ideal. It cost a lot of money to build. On the other hand, my client knows that when you have to sell a house you cannot get as good a price for it as you can if someone comes along and wants to buy it. He is therefore prepared to make a considerable sacrifice in the sale of this home, and if a prospective buyer will pay all cash the price will be that much better.

If there is anyone in Peterborough who wants to secure what literally is a wonderful bargain, this is it.

If you are interested, write to me and I will send your letter on to my client. I am not a real estate agent, and there is no commission either way. You will deal directly with my client, not with me. Address in confidence:

KILLED AT C.P.R. ROUNDHOUSE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 28. — An hour after the body of an unidentified 10 year old boy had been found crushed to death in the pit of the locomotive turntable at the Canadian Pacific roundhouse here last night, police found that the boy's name was Moran, and that he lived at 107 Raglan Road.

Workmen stated that they had not seen the boy around the turn-table, but it is believed that he was playing on the turntable and was caught when it was placed in operation.

Wedding Bells

MOWAT—BLAKE

St. John's Church was the scene of a quiet but very pretty wedding yesterday when the Rev. Dr. Blagrave performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Margaret Edna, daughter of Mr. Thomas Blake of 23 James' street, and the late Mrs. Blake, and Mr. John R. Mowat, B.A., of Toronto, son of Mr and Mrs. Alex Mowat of Warkworth.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in an imported frock of white taffeta, made in period style with long sleeves Her lace veil was held by a bandeau of orange blossoms. She wore white moire slippers and white silk hose and carried a sheaf of calla lilies. Her only ornament was the gift of the bridegroom, a platinum pendant set with aqua marine and diamonds.

The bride's attendants were her two sisters, Miss Clarice Blake of Toronto, in pale pink, and Miss Thelma Blake of Peterborough, in pale green. Both of the frocks were made in period style with ankle-length overskirts of tulle. They wore large picture hats in matching tones and carried tiny muffs of taffeta and tulle, suspended from long satin cords.

Mr. Fitzalan Philips of Toronto acted as best man and ushers were Mr. M. J. W. Mowat, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr Rex Dawe, nephew of the bride

During the signing of the register, Mrs Thomas Crawford of Toronto sang very sweetly "To You."

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Austin's Dining Rooms. The bride's table was done with pink roses and forget-me-nots.

Mr and Mrs Mowat left on the afternoon train for the coast and will go later to Alaska. On their return, they will live in Toronto.

DANCE FLOOR TO GET SPECIAL TREATMENT

Will Be Smooth As Glass and Spotlessly Clean.

The Dance committee has definitely arranged to have the floor of the armouries in the best of condition. It will be spotlessly clean and treated in such a way that the floor will be as smooth as any ball room floor in the city. The prepaation on the floor will NOT harm shoes or clothing, and after a few minutes' dancing by the crowd the floor will be in wonderful shape.

To Take Moving Pictures Of the Big Parade

Associated Screen News Camera Man To Be Here On Holiday.

J. A. Stewart, manager of the Capitol Theatre, has aranged that Mr. Frank O'Briene, camera man for the Associated Service News, will be in Peterborough on Monday and take complete moving pictures of the big parade. This is more good advertising for Peterborough, as this news reel is shown all over the continent.

H.M.S. EAGLE RESCUES SPANISH AIRMEN

Flyers Are Picked Up At Sea

British Airplane Carrier Rescues Three Spanish Airmen.

LEFT JUNE 22.

Plane Is Slightly Damaged, But Is Salvaged By Ship.

MADRID, June 29. (C.P.) — After being missed for more than a week the Spanish Transatlantic aviators, Major Ramon Franco and three companions, have been picked up at sea by the British Airplane Carrier Eagle, and to-day were being brought to Gibraltar.

An airplane from the Eagle spotted them floating in their plane, a huge Dornier seacraft, near the Azores. They were pcked up all alive and well. Besides Major Franco there were Major Gonzales Gallarza, Captain Ruiz de Alda and the Mechanic Sergeant Pedro Maariaga.

The aviators' plane was salvaged also, although in slightly damaged condition. It was hoisted on board the carrier. A radio message from the Eagle gave their position when they were found at latitude 36.28 north longitude 24.14 west. This position is a hundred miles or so north west of San Miguel Island, the nearest Europe of the Azores archipelago.

The Spanish ministry of state made the announcement first, stating that it had received a message from the Spanish Consul at Gibraltar that the Eagle had picked up the missing aviators and was bringing them to Gibraltar.

MORE

The consul's message merely said: "Franco and companions picked up alive by Eagle near Azores coming to Gibraltar."

Later messages from London said the British admiralty had announced the Eagle had found the missing men, all alive and well. The reports occasioned the greatest jubilation here where the government and even the men's best friends had all but given up hope for them.

On Flight to New York

The aviators had been missing no more than 24 hours before it was generally acknowledged they had failed to reach the Azores, first stop in their projected flight to New York. This was the result of an announcement early Saturday by General Primo De Rivera, Spanish dictator, that they had reached San Miguel Island, Azores, safely and were continuing to Horta.

The Spanish premier afterward announced his advices were erroneous and search for the missing men began.

Friday of this week the Spanish government announced it had very little hope left they were alive and was discontinuing its search. The Eagle had been loaned for the hunt by the British admiralty at the request of the Spanish government.

The Spanish government communicated the news to relatives of the four men.

All City Rejoicing

News of the safe discovery of the four men spread quickly here and the streets of the capital were filled immediately with excited crowds, jubilant over the tidings. There were scenes of utmost rejoicing and released from tension on every side.

The message from the Eagle to the admiralty and to authorities at Gibraltar did not state when the men were picked up but it was assumed to have been to-day, just one week after they were forced down into the sea on their flight from Cartage to the Azores.

Their position when they were found was not far from that at which the British steamship Grelidon reported it had heard a plane's motors early Saturday morning of last week.

FIFTY FLOATS ARE ENTERED IN BIG PARADE

Captain James Abraham Will Act As Marshal of Event.

HEADED BY MILITIA.

Historic, Industrial and Mercantile Sections Are Allocated.

The greatest parade in Peterborough's history will leave the Exhibition Grounds at 9.30 Monday morning, July 1. For months past the Parade Committee has been working out their plans and now they are complete to the last detail.

The parade will include the Toronto Scottish Regiment, the Peterborough Garrison, Cadets and Boy Scouts. At least seven bands will supply music. Fifty floats will form a part, including industrial and historical. The caluthumptian section will be a revelation to the spectators, revealing the Madri Gras of Venice.

No traffic will be permitted on the thoroughfares to be traversed by the parade, and no cars can be parked on these streets. Motorists will assist the police greatly by remembering this.

Captain James Abraham has been appointed marshal of Monday morning's parade, with Major Fred Hills as assistant, and Sergt.-Major Playford also assisting. They have received special permission to wear their military uniforms for this occasion.

The details in the parade procedure are:

Floats and Allocation.

Historic—Lansdowne Street West.
Industrial—Prince Street West.
Mercantile—Princess Street West.

Order of Parade.

Militia Units.
High School Cadets.
Public School Cadets.

Germany Would Permit Former Kaiser To Return

BERLIN, June 29.—Official circles authoritatively stated last night the German Government would raise no objections to the return of the former Kaiser from his exile at Doorn, but it was at once added this attitude was of no importance. It was believed that there was not the remotest possibility that Wilhelm Hohenzollern would apply for permission to visit the land he once ruled.

RUM RUNNERS ARE EVADING CANADIAN LAW

Masters of Boats Have Delayed in Reporting Sailings.

BOATS SEIZED.

General Tightening Up in This Respect Has Taken Place.

OTTAWA Ont., June 29—(By the Canadian Press)—The failure of the rum runners to "report inward" which resulted in a number of seizures of boats in the Windsor, Ont. district by customs inspectors was due to carelessness on the part of those engaged in the rum running business, it was stated at the department of national revenue to-day.

The tendency has been for the masters of these boats to delay reporting their arrival until they are ready to leave again, making out the "inward" and "outward" and obtaining a "clearance" for their boat all at the one time. This has been particularly the case when the boats are making three or four trips a day. This is contrary to the law however which provides that the boat coming from a foreign port must report her arrival immediately.

Detroit River Only Place

A general tightening up in this respect is being carried out along the border but officials of the department here are convinced that the Detroit River front is the only place where such laxity has crept in. The law requiring immediate reporting on arrival at a Canadian port of course is designed to prevent smuggling into this country. Officials here are convinced that the rum runners are carefully avoiding smuggling into Canada. The trouble the men engaged in the liquor traffic have with the preventative officers on the United States side of the line is sufficient without their wishing to run foul of the Canadian force as well.

TORONTO UNIT ARRIVES IN CITY FOR BIG EVENT

Toronto Scottish Are Encamped in the Exhibition Park.

TWO BANDS ALONG.

'Trooping the Colors' Most Impressive Ceremony Will Be Demonstrated To-night.

The arrival of the Toronto Scottish Regiment last night for its participation in Peterborough's Old Home Week celebration was like the ringing of the bell that used to precede the raising of the curtain in the old theatres, a reminder that the play was about to commence.

At 11.15, eleven railway coaches carrying over 500 officers and men of the Toronto Scottish detrained at the C.P.R. Station. They were immediately drawn up in companies on the platform; the pipe band struck up a lively Highland air and they marched through the streets to their camp at Exhibition Grounds. The gay music of the brass and pipe bands announced the coming of the first large company of guests to many citizens along the route. Smart in their kilts and tams and their rythmic swing, under the command of Colonel W. H. Watson, with Major A. M. Thomas as second in command, they made an impressive showing.

The regiment was welcomed at the depot by Mayor Denne, the officers of the Peterborough Garrison, and several officers who were friends of the Scottish from war days in France. The officers included: Lt.-Col. M. H. Park, officer commanding Peterborough Rangers and all his officers; the Third Prince of Wales' Dragoons, represented by Colonel H. W. Powell and other officers; Major Dodds and the other officers of the Machine Gun Company; and the reserve officers: Lieut.-Col. T. D. Johnston, Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman, Lieut.-Col. A. Stevenson, and Major Clifton. Major Hicks-Lyne, formerly officer commanding D Company of the Toronto Scottish, was present to welcome his old regiment.

Advance Guard Arrived Thursday.

The advance guard of the Scottish arrived Thursday morning, with Captain James Douglas in charge of a party of thirty men. Captain Douglast is none other than the famous Jimmy Douglas, of rugby fame, Varsity coach, and likewise mentor of the U. of T. "Orphans" of 1928. With him was Captain W. J. Hambly and his brother, Lieutenant Allan Hambly. The men have ninety-five tents, which are set up on the Lock Street side of the Park, and their mess is in one of the barns. The officers' mess is housed in the manufacturers' building, with Captain Curtis, mess president. Their tents are just east of the building. The regiment will leave for Toronto about 10 o'clock on Monday night.

Several of the new barns along Lock Street have been allotted to the Victoria and Northumberland Regiment, which arrived this morning. Its advance party came yesterday at noon.

The Scottish soon were at home in camp at the Park. Five men were allotted to each tent. Then they were fed, the sentries posted, and sleep rested over the encampment.

Another detachment of 100 men arrived in the city at noon to-day. These men were detained in Toronto longer than the main body.

"Trooping the Colors," one of the most impressive ceremonials in all military procedure, will be the Toronto Scottish Regiment's part in the big program at Exhibition Park this evening. On Monday evening the regiment will stage a most realistic sham battle, giving vivid scenes from the historic defence of Shanghai.

Altogether, Exhibition Park to-day bustled with a variety of activities. The whole grounds were occupied with Harry Lotteridge's carnival show; all set south and west of the George Street entrance. They had also strung a fence to mark the bounds of the military camp. The Park affords a beautiful background for the festivities, the grass, green and fresh and short-cropped, and an air of well-being and care surrounding the thirty-acre premises and its plant.

Sunnyside Beach Clown In City All This Week

"Happy Jack," the Sunnyside Beach Clown of Toronto, arrived in the city this morning with all his load of comic tricks to amuse the children and the Old Boys. He will work on the streets and at the Exhibition grounds, and will be here all week. "Happy Jack" recently blocked traffic on the main streets of Toronto. This is his first visit to Peterborough, and he intends to give the town the "whole works."

21 ARE INJURED IN BUS ACCIDENT

Seven Seriously Hurt When Auto Strikes Culvert.

DRIVER ARRESTED.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 29 (Canadian Press).—Twenty-one persons were injured, seven seriously, when a Nevin Line bus bound from Pittsburgh to Detroit struck a culvert and turned over in a seven-foot ditch several miles south of here early to-day.

The driver is being held for investigation at a hospital by Sheriff Adam Stone of Mahoning County.

Jack Irvine of Youngstown was driving the bus. Eugene Pasquala, another driver on the bus, said a passing automobile failed to get out of the way as the bus came down a hill at a high speed. When Irvine put on the brakes the bus swerved, struck a culvert, and tumbled into a ditch seven feet deep. Some of those hurt may not live, hospital authorities said.

MARRIAGES INCREASE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 29 (Canadian Press).—Cupid's dart was aimed with deadly precision during the months of June, according to statistics issued to-day at the City Hall. These figures show that a new record for the number of marriages in one month was established, there being 881 licenses issued compared with 809 in the same month last year. Births totalled 1,129, compared with 1,020 in 1928, while deaths decreased to 576, compared with 677 last year.

Omnibus and tram tickets issued in London each day total up to 7,000,000.

MAYOR R. DENNE DECLARES OPEN OLD HOME WEEK

Headquarters Are the Scene of the Opening Ceremony This Morning.

CITIZENS THANKED.

Whole-hearted Support Has Been Given By People, Declares Chief Magistrate.

Mayor Denne officially opened Peterborough's biggest week this morning in Old Home Week headquarters at 8 o'clock. In a few words the Mayor expressed his extreme pleasure in being able to participate in such a great celebration that was bringing the city's sons and daughters back home. "The efforts put forth and co-operation of the citizens has been marvelous. I knew they could do it; and I thank them one and all. Peterborough is the finest city in the province; yes, in the Dominion, and it is just such co-operation by her citizens as has been evidenced in the preparation for Old Home Week that has caused our city to progress."

James Dutton, president of the Chamber of Commerce and vice-chairman of the Old Home Week committee, replied to the Mayor. He also thanked the citizens for their whole-hearted support of the city's big celebration. "Let us hope that such efforts will continue and this city will feel an added impetus that will push it along to bigger and better things."

Both speakers remarked on the ideal conditions of the Old Home Week headquarters, and thanks were expressed to J. J. Duffus for placing his spacious building at the disposal of the committee.

QUEEN MARIE OF JUGOSLAVIA GIVES BIRTH TO A SON

National Rejoicing in Country When Announcement Is Made.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, June 29. —(C.P.— Queen Marie of Jugoslavia gave birth to a third son Friday at 11.40 p.m. at the summer palace at Bled. Her mother, Queen Marie of Rumania, was at her bedside. Mother and son are doing well.

Announcement of the birth caused great rejoicing in the capital where residents were particularly elated that it occurred on St. Vitus" Day, the country's national holiday.

City Is Gay For Big Event

Spirit of Gladness Pervades Everywhere in Peterborough To-day.

HUNDREDS REGISTERING.

War Memorial Will Be Unveiled To-morrow Afternoon.

If "home-staying hearts are happiest" home-coming hearts find an exceeding happiness in their return to the old home community, the "old nest," and the old familiar faces. For as men, and probably women, too, grow older, old friends become dearer, because of a past and of common experiences they have shared together.

This spirit of gladness and of the warming sentiment of re-union pervaded Peterborough this morning in the opening hours of the Centennial celebration and Old Home Week. Everywhere on the streets friends were meeting for the first time in years, ten, twenty and even longer years of separation since school days, or of periods of working together and in other cherished associations.

This re-union has often been proposed, and when Peterborough committed itself to the celebration, and the invitation of its sons and daughters back to the old scenes, it undertook the responsibility in a conviction of yearnings in near and far off places for just such heartfelt greetings as were witnessed this morning, especially at the registration bureau in the Duffus building.

Peterborough never looked better nor throbbed with such a quickened pulse of friendliness and expectation, and that family spirit which stirs when the long absent ones return. The headquarters were clustered with hundreds of home-comers, and among the members of the reception committee were F. H. Dobbin, Col. Miller, Geo. Giroux and others.

Street decorations heightened the carnival atmosphere, and the animated colorful street scene in constant flux was punctuated with the recurring uniforms of the Toronto Scottish, especially the kilts of the bandsmen. The co-operation of the committees all under the general supervision of Mayor Denne saw with deep satisfaction the fruition of their preparations.

Peterborough has opened its heart to its own people, and the next week will be a series of community gatherings, joyous affairs, which will be preceded by the solemn remembrance of the soldiers who paid the supreme sacrifice in the war. This dedication of the Peterborough war memorial brings to the city two distinguished Canadians, Sir Arthur Currie, Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, and Archdeacon Scott of Quebec, their beloved padre.

This morning's preliminaries to the Old Home Week were a glowing promise of the complete success of this community enterprise, and it is hoped that the broad scale of the program for the entertainment of the visitors will be fully realized.

NO IMMEDIATE ACTION.

LONDON, June 29. — (C.P.)—A damper has been thrown on expectations of an imminent conference of the naval powers on disarmament and naval reduction.

Some quarters had been led to believe that prompt actions of Ambassador Dawes, Premier Ramsay MacDonald, and Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson in initiating conversations on the subject implied an early call for a meeting of the nations.

WILL HONOR CLARKE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 29 (Canadian Press).—The Queen City's police force will pay homage to the late Detective William Clarke, Hamilton, who was killed in attempting to capture Charles Long, bank robber, at Hamilton Thursday. In full dress uniforms, 25 of the bluecoats will attend Clarke's funeral July 1, and it is probable that the silver band of the local force will attend.

BUS PLUNGES INTO DITCH.

OSHAWA, June 29.—Some 20 people, passengers in a Gray Coach Line bus, narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday when the bus went out of control and plunged off the road and through ditches and lawns before finally coming to a stop. The accident occurred when the steering gear on the bus went out of order.

FINANCIAL TOUBLES BLAMED FOR ACTIOF ALDERSHOT MAN

Police Finish Gathering Details of Fatal Shooting of Detective Clark.

FUNERAL MONDAY.

Wife Found Part of Barrel of Shot Gun in Summer Kitchen.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 29 (Canadian Press).—Police to-day finished gathering up the details of the crime committed by Charles Long of Aldershot on Thursday afternoon when he killed Detective Clark after robbing the Province of Ontario Savings Bank.

Mrs. Long stated that she had talked to her husband before he left for Hamilton in his truck on Thursday. She left the house for a short time before he departed, and on her return he was gone, but in the meantime, he had cut fifteen inches off the barrel of his shot gun away with a hacksaw, and left both saw and barrel fragments in the kitchen. She had not been alarmed by this incident at the time.

Police have adopted the theory of Long's action being caused by financial troubles which rendered him unbalanced in mind and desperate.

The funeral of Detective William Clark will be held on Monday at 3 o'clock to Woodland Cemetery. Representatives from police departments throughout Ontario will be present, including a squadron of 25 Toronto police, who will march behind the casket. From all over Canada telegrams of sympathy have arrived.

The body of the ill-fated farmer, Long, will be laid to rest in Greenwood Cemetery, Burlington, this afternoon.

The total annual receipts of building societies in Great Britain are more than $500,000,000.

First Orange Hall Destroyed By Fire

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 29.—(C.P.)—The old building in the third concession of Elizabethtown, about two miles from Brockville, where the first known orange lodge in Upper Canada was established in 1826, was completely destroyed by fire last night. Dennis Burns, the owner, was able to save most of the contents.

The building was originally a tavern, operated by a certain John Crafts and the lodge was formed by Arthur McLean, four years before the Grand Orange Lodge of British America was organized in Brockville in 1830.

The Weather

The generous showers of yesterday came when needed. The grass in many places on lawns and in parks had become browned, while strawberries and other garden products needed moisture. The total was .35 of an inch. Temperature this morning 55 degrees, cool and crisp, with the prospect of an ideal day.—W.P.

DAMPER IS THROWN ON IDEA OF FUTURE NAVAL CONFERENCE

Great Deal of Work Is Necessary Before Meeting Can Be Summoned.

WORKING FOR PEACE.

Negotiations Will Be Undertaken in Near Future By Naval Experts.

LONDON, June 29 (C.P.).—The Associated Press to-day says: "A damper has been thrown on expectations of an imminent conferenec of the naval powers on disarmament and naval reduction."

Some quarters had been led to believe that an early call for a meeting of the nations was indicated by the prompt actions of Premier Ramsay MacDonald; Charles G. Dawes United States Ambassador to Great Britain, and Hugh S. Gibson, United States Ambassador to Belgium, in initiating conversations on the subject.

Great Preparations Necessary

But news despatches from Washington last night coupled with a speech here by Premier MacDonald, implied this was not the case and that extensive preparation would be undertaken before a call is finally issued for a conference.

Experts in any event had realized that long and arduous negotiations would be necessary before the attainment of what the United States administration terms a "naval yardstick," by which to measure future disarmament. It has been understood that these negotiations would be undertaken by naval experts of the great maritime powers, following which the statesmen would endeavor to reach final agreement on the terms governing fleet measurements and on which further disarmament conferences would be based.

Henry L. Stimson in Washington yesterday emphatically denied, according to despatches, that Ambassador Dawes had been instructed to

NEW YORK, June 29.— Miss Fulton, lioness at the Central Park zoo, stared with regal disain at the crowd assembled yesterday at the annual auction sale of surplus animals, but she blinked hard and a tear coursed down her furry cheek when the bidders passed her by and turned with more interest to Connolly, the one-eyed hyena.

As for Conolly, he was surly and merely snorted when Henry Brady, the auctioneer, accepted $15 offered by Frank West of the Frank West Shows. Pope Pius XI. To Create New Cardinals Pontiff Will Hold Secret Consistory

VATICAN CITY, June 29. — Pius XI. will conduct a secret consistory for the creation of new on July 15 and a public consistory on July 18.

The one elevation known definitely in advance is that of Mgr. Schuster, of German-Swiss parentage, to be Cardinal Archbishop of Milan, succeeding the late Cardinal Tosi. The Pope himself was formerly Cardinal of Milan. Mgr. Schuster is at present Archpriest of St. Paul's outside the walls of Rome.

Mgr. Schuster was notified by a brief from the office of the Secretary of State that he would be elevated to the cardinalate on July 15. Since he is the only Benedictine abbot not yet a bishop he will be raised to the episcopacy after receiving the red hat by the Pope himself in the Sistine Chapel.

LONG FAMILY ARE ASTOUNDED AT RASH DEED

Slayer of Hamilton Officer is the Descendant of U. E. Loyalist Stock.

Owner of Prosperous Farm.

Father Says Son Was in Debt, To What Extent Is Unknown.

ALDERSHOT, Ont., June 29. —(Canadian Press).—The family and relatives of Charles Long, slain in the attempt to rob a Hamilton bank were astounded yesterday when they heard that identification had been made. Long, the descendant of United Empire Loyalists who received land at Clappison's Corners about 1786, was the owner of a prosperous farm in the district in which his father and brothers own several garden tracts.

Although his parents and wife were informed of the affair, his wife stated that she could not realize that her husband had committed the crime. "He could not have been himself, I am sure," said Mrs. Long, "for he had a happy-go-lucky disposition and was always inclined to take things easy rather than to wish harm to anyone. Something must have happened to him to change him so suddenly.

No Pressing Payments.

Her husband had no pressing payments to meet on his farm, as far as she knew. He did not drink strong liquor, did not read crime novels and had not visited race tracks since their marriage, she said.

George B. Long, 70 and the father of 11 children, was a pathetic figure as he protested that he could find no reason for his son's rash deed. "He never showed any inclination all his life to do a thing like that" he said. "He was 38 years old and had never been in trouble before. He had a most genial and jovial disposition and as far as I could see he was not worried over anything."

His father stated that Long was in debt but he did not know to what extent as the dead man kept his financial matters to himself. He could not think of his son ever having any domestic trouble. Asked if there had been any traces of insanity in the family he recalled that an aunt of Charles Long had gone out of her mind.

Some of Long's acquaintances said that he had attended the Hamilton races and that he may have attempted the bank robbery in an effort to recoup himself for gambling losses.

Charles B. Long, Aldershot farmer, identified as the robber who shot Detective William Clark and was then slain himself after holding up a bank here, left insurance to his wife of $15,000. The bulk of it was applied for five years ago and all policies were paid up at the time of death.

Long, who was favorably known in the district as a successful market gardener, was known to be in financial straits and was forced recently to offer his 20-acre fruit farm for sale. Bank debts added to his worries and it is thought that mental weakness brought on by worry led to his rash attempt to hold-up.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Mannfacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

Eminent American Surgeon Nurses Aid Through Appendicitis Attack.

ON FISHING TRIP.

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., June 29 (Canadian Press). —All alone in the Algoma wilderness, Dr. J. R. Brinkley, eminent American surgeon of Milford, Kansas, saved the life of his guide, Cal Oswin.

On a fishing trip miles from the railway, the guide developed acute appendicitis. The surgeon had only his fishing equipment along.

Dr. Brinkley prepared to operate with a hunting knife. But before restoring to the desperate expedient he tried the effect of constant application of heat. He had no cloths to make hot compresses. Instead, he heated rocks in a roaring camp fire. In the meantime he gathered equipment for an operation, preparing to use birch bark to drain the wound, silk fishing line for sutures, and an ordinary needle for surgical stitching.

All night he kept applying the hot rocks and the patient showed slight improvement. He continued the treatment throughout the day and decided an operation would not be necessary at once.

Ignorant of the bush the doctor was faced with the problem of getting his guide back to civilization. The guide was able to give directions as the doctor paddles the canoe back toward the railway. On the portages the surgeon had to carry the man and canoe.

The surgeon had left his private car at Mile 54 on the Algoma Central. Once back to the railway the sick man was rushed to the Sault where he was successfully operated on yesterday by the Kansas surgeon in the General Hospital.

45TH REGIMENT ARRIVES TO-DAY

Lindsay Boys 122 Strong Take Up Camp at Exhibition Grounds.

WELCOMED AT STATION.

The 45th Regiment of Lindsay, approximately 122 strong, has arrived in Peterborough to join in the festivities of the Old Home Week celebration. Eighty men, in a special Canadian National train, left Lindsay at 8.20 this morning and arrived in Peterborough at 9.05.

An advance party of forty men in command of Captain A. T. Porter, Quartermaster, arrived by motor in the city last night, and were billetted at the Exhibition grounds.

Two busses from the Peterborough Bus Lines, hired by the Lindsay Regiment, were at the station this morning to convey the men directly to the rifle ranges, where they will spend the day in their annual field training in musketry.

As the khaki-clad figures stepped off the train and were put through their manoeuvres by Regimental Sergeant-Major F. J. Pullen, a number of spectators remarked that it reminded them of August, 1914, when so many Peterborough boys lined up at the same station in a similar manner to uphold the honor of freedom in France. Some of whom never returned.

After the manoeuvres Sergeant-Major Instructor Thomas of Peterborough, conveyed the compliments of Captain Edwards to Lieut.-Colonel R. I. Moore, officer in command of the Lindsay regiment.

The soldiers then boarded the busses and left for the rifle ranges, where they will meet the advance party that arrived yesterday and will spend the day in musketry practice.

The officers in command of the Lindsay 45th Regiment are: Lieut.-Col. R. I. Moore, officer in command; Lieut.-Col. C. A. Weeks, second in command; Captains T. G. Tilley, M.C.; W. A. Mark; H. R. M. Hall; M. Brown; J. Murphy; A. T. Porter; M. E. Gorman, M.C.; and H. R. Scott. Lieutenants B. Brown, B. C. Tolton, W. C. Steward, H. B. Black, M. Sutcliffe, A. W. Carew, D. C. Roper, and L. B. Shurey.

Small Child Killed When Run Over By Car

TORONTO, Ont., June 29 (Canadian Press).—The heavy wheels of a motor car crushed out the life of a child playing hide-and-seek on the main street of Richmond Hill last night. Six hours after he had been struck down in the middle of Yonge Street, after dodging out from behind a parked car where he had been hiding, little Jack Shields, aged 8, son of Kenneth Shields of this town, died in the Hospital for Sick Children without regaining consciousness. The child suffered a fractured right leg, concussion of the brain, fracture of the skull, and internal injuries.

POLICE REGULATIONS

SUNDAY AFTERNOON

At 1 p.m. on Sunday George and Brock streets, George and McDonnel streets, Murray and Aylmer strets and McDonnel and Aylmer will be blocked off from all vehicle traffic. That means that no cars or vehicles of any kind will be permitted within this blocked area until after the Memorial Ceremony to be held in Confederation Park that afternoon.

SUNDAY EVENING

At 7 p.m. on Sunday evening the following streets will be blocked off until after the massed band concert in Victoria Park: Brock and Water Murray and Water, Sheridan and Murray, Sheridan and Brock. So that those attending the band concert will not be annoyed by people blowing their horns after the band has played a selection.

MONDAY MORNING

From 9 a.m. on Monday morning until after the parade no cars will be permitted to be parked on George street on either side from Lansdowne to McDonnel. McDonnel street from George to Aylmer street. This route must be kept clear of all vehicles and all citizens are asked to kindly co-operate with the Police Department in assisting them to keep this route clear. The parade that covers this route will be a large one and everybody is asked to help. This parade will start from Lansdowne and George, up George to McDonnel street, west on McDonnel street to Park street, south on Park street to Charlotte street, east on Charlotte to Aylmer, south on Aylmer street to the freight sheds where it will break off. It starts at 10 a.m. There will be lots of fun for everyone.

TUESDAY MORNING

At 10 a.m. on Tuesday morning no cars will be permitted to park on either side of George street from Charlotte and George to McDonnell and George, and on Murray street from Murray and George and Murray and Aylmer so that the parade will proceed without any delay. This is Toronto Day and the parade starts from Toronto, all coming in cars on the Provincial Highway escorted by Provincial Motor Cycle Officers. Five miles out the highway the parade will be met by the city police and along with the Provincial Cycle Oficers will be escorted into the city where they will line their cars up on Murray street, the place kept clear for them. They will then assemble on Confederation Square where another address will be given at the monument.

Wednesday arrangements not completed yet.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON

From 12.30 p.m. all cars must be kept off George street both sides from Smith street to Charlotte as there is a big parade going to form up on George Street to Smith and George lining up from Confederation Park and the room is needed to do this and when all cars are off George street down as far as Charlotte and George the public will get a chance to see the parade which leaves the Park at 1.15 p.m. sharp and proceeds down George to the Exhibition grounds. All motorists are asked to co-operate with the Police Department and help them all you can.

There will be ample parking space for cars at King Edward Park, King Edward school grounds, at the C.P.R. freight sheds behind J. J. Duffus Motor Sales, the Central School Grounds, on a vacant lot at Sherbrook and George and on some of the side streets. Lock you cars and those who cannot do so, don't leave any valuables lying around in them. You will find a special constable at the King Edward park and the C.P.R. freight sheds and the Central School grounds, drive your cars up to him and he will show you how to park it. Should any old or cripple person want to see the parade see Inspector Reid personally and he will try his best to help him or her get a good place. You can put this Old Home week over great by doing your best to cooperate with your Own Police Department.

NOMINATION ASPIRANTS CAUSE RUCTION IN NORTH

(Special to Examiner

LINDSAY, June 27.—The unsatisfactory termination of the Liberal-Conservative nomination held at Fenelon Falls on Wednesday is the talk of the north country. While D. McQuarrie of Elgin township, received the nomination, his opponent for the honor, Reeve Curry, of Haliburton, refuses to accept the verdict and is insistent in his request for another nomination.

Leaders of the party in the riding endeavored to get the two aspirants together in order to have the situation cleaned up, but without success. It was finally decided to leave the question of another convention in the hands of the executive and Messrs. McQuarrie and Curry.

A very pleasing incident occurred during the afternoon. James Mark, ex M. P. P. of Kinmount, who represented North Victoria for a number of years, was presented with a gold headed cane by T. H. Stinson, K. C. M. P., on behalf of the people of the north country.

Widow Will Receive $4,000 From Fund

HAMILTON, Ont., June 29.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Clarke, widow of Detective William Clarke who was slain here Thursday in a battle with a bank bandit, will receive $4,000 from the Police Benefit Fund. She will be the first to benefit by the recent revision by which the commissioners increased the amount payable by $1,800. According to local information, government authorities will consider the payment of $5,000 for the capture of a bank robber, "dead or alive." This is the standing offer of institutions connected with the Canadian Bankers Association and it is believed that it will apply also to the government bank.

JURY UNABLE TO DECIDE CAUSE OF WOMAN'S DEATH

Men Are Not Impressed With Evidence of Oshawa Italian.

WHITBY, June 29.—(C.P.) —Was Mrs. Frank Kobernick, wife of an Oshawa citizen now serving a jail term for bootlegging, pushed into Whitby Bay from the boat in which she was being rowed by Frank Buono, on the night of June 16, or did she fall out? That question remained unanswered last night after the coroner's jury enquiring into the death brought in a verdict to the effect: "That Mrs. Frank Kobernick came to her death through falling out of, or being pushed from a punt, into Whitby Bay."

The jury, however, added in their verdict that they were not satisfied with the evidence offered by Frank Buono, the Oshawa Italian, who has been held by the Whitby police since the night of Mrs. Kokernick's death. It was gleaned from the evidence that Buono had on several occasions threatened to take the life of Mrs. Kobernick. The coroner's post-mortem examination showed that there were several wounds of recent occurrence on the woman's body, marks which were accepted as indications of violence.

AIRPLANE IS BURNED.

SIOUX LOOKOUT, June 29. — When a passing canoeist flung a match onto the oil-filmed surface of the water, a Provincial service plane at Goose Lake base at Lacseul was destroyed by fire yesterday. Robert Smith, the pilot, and Keith Murray, the mechanic, narrowly escaped with their lives by plunging into the lake, but not before the former was badly scorched. He was flown to the hospital here, where he is progressing.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

An example of perfect sang froid in the treatment of a difficult situation was afforded this morning on George street, when a beautifully-gowned lady, after running over the bicycle belonging to a small lad who had placed it against the curb, sped away without even looking back. Another motorist, however, took the number of the lady's car, which was an out-of-town automobile, and the small boy, whose bike was ruined, was instructed to place the matter in the hands of the police.

HOPE CHEST ON DISPLAY

In the arcade window of the upper Teco Store (formerly the Canadian Departmental Store) is on display the contents of the Hope Chest which is being offered by St. Vincent's Orphanage. The chest itself is of the favorite cedar variety and the contents are dainty and very worth while. They include a rose blanket of plaid design, a pretty blue silk cushion, a pair of hemstitched sheets, a pair of embroidered pillow cases and towels and an embroidered dresser set. There is also a lovely hand-worked bridge table cover.

OL' SWIMMING 'OLE.

The old swimming hole has felt the Old Home Week urge.

Two of the favorite sports for the boys of yesterday to indulge in the most popular sport of the dog days, were Goose Island and the Jacks, the latter at the foot of Dublin street.

Goose Island is gone, submerged when the building at the Quaker Oats dam raised the water in the river to a new level but the Jacks remains, still the choice of many north end swimmers.

This week the young people who frequent the spot have been busy.

A new super structure has been built on the pier and active young hands have dug and built steps up the steep bank to the street level.

And that isn't all.

Fred Tuggey, Dr. Sutton, J. W. McDougall and other public-spirited citizens in the neighborhood supplied the material and as as a result of their assistance and the willing work of the youngsters, the Jacks is waiting in holiday attire for old boys and girls who once used to swim there.

NEW USE FOR OLD TIRES

A new use for old tires has been discovered by an ingenious person who lives on Aylmer street. Several discarded tires have been painted in vivid colors and stacked one on top of the other on the lawn to form a hollow column. The receptacle thus formed holds a display of flowers that equals in splendour those to be found in the regular stands around the city.

STOP LIGHTS HERE

The stop-light equipment for the two intersections on Hunter street have arrived and at present remains at the fire station. It will be erected shortly.

RECORD PICKEREL CATCH

William J. Shaughnessy, made a nice catch at Lock's Bridge at the south side of the slaughter house when he hauled in a pickerel weighing seven and three quarter pounds, twenty nine inches long and thirteen inches in girth.

OUR YOUNGER GENERATION

The middle of George street—is that a place to repair a car? It seems so—last night about eight o'clock a vehicle of ancient vintage gave a final wheeze and became stranded while the owner like all automobile drivers knows that the thing to do, as laid down in the book of motor etiquette for such a case is either to look at the engine and look wise or crawl under the car. if it is possible under such conditions. In contrast to this poor unfortunate there appeared on the scene a second motorist, who stepped out of a modern sports coupe, attired in cream flannels and a dark coat with a sporty tie showing looked curiously and rather disdainfully at the man under the car in the middle of the street before proceeding on his way.

SEWER COMPLETED

Residents of Walton street were able to store their autos in the garages at their homes for the first time in many days last night. The work of laying the sewer along that street has been completed and the cut filled in.

"AT THE DENTISTS'

Comments on the comedy at the Capitol Theatre last night were interesting "At the Dentists" was the title and the tooth pulling scenes were depicted in the manner one feels when entering the chair. "I believe I have a tooth ache?"—" There is a large hole in my back tooth"—"I'm glad that I do not have to go to the dentists"—"A dentist always scares me"—"I hate them" — were a few of the remarks overheard last evening. The audience seemed to live the picture.

HEADQUARTERS MOVED

The office of the Old Home Week headquarters moved to the Duffus Building this morning, where the best of accommodations and arrangements have been laid out.

CALLIOPE BACK AGAIN

The motor-driven calliope of the Lottridge Shows made its appearance on the city streets this morning, playing all the popular music and lending a carnival spirit to the downtown section.

ON THE AIR TUESDAY

A composition by a local musician will be heard over the air on Tuesday evening next at 11.30 o'clock, when over Station WLW, Cincinnati, the Feldmore Concert Band will play the march, "Peterborough Rangers," the work of Lieut. W. H. Peryer, conductor of the Rangers' Band.

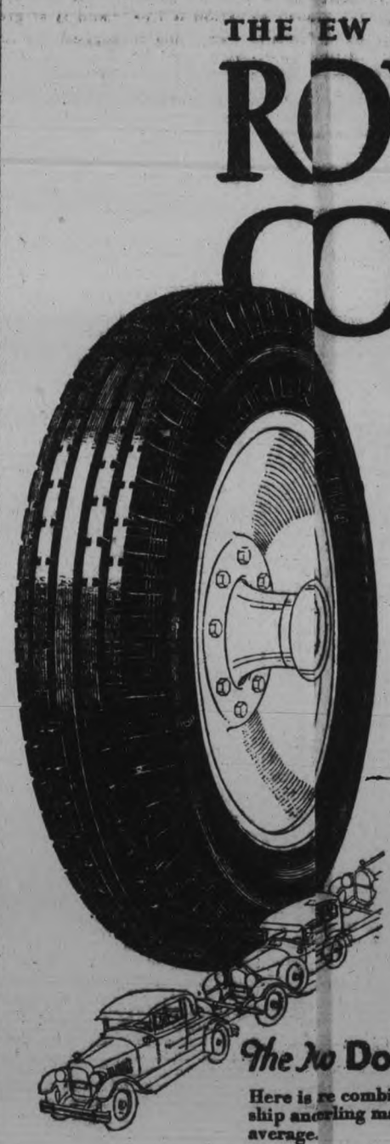
THE NEW DOMINION

ROYAL CORD



DOMINION Tire builders realized that responsive motors, 4-wheel brakes, sensitive steering control, modern spring suspension and skilfully engineered balance demanded a specially designed tire to give all the comfort and flexibility of which the modern car is capable.

In the New Royal Cord they have perfected the tire of to-day for the car of to-day. It is new in shape, new in construction. It has strength where 1929 motoring conditions demand it.

Its massive carcass is scientifically built up of web cord with thick cushions of rubber in between.

Its tread is thick and deep-cut to give extra non-skid mileage. Buttressed sidewalls guard against curb and rut wear.

For safety and long mileage, for the job your 1929 car has to do, the new Royal Cord is the one tire for you.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

WHEN a train of thought once gets started you never can be quite sure where it will take you or when it will stop. As I sat at the manse window, something happened to start such a train which took me on a very interesting trip. Coming unsought, I assemble it here in the hope that others may be induced to take a trip also. My hope is that it will come freighted with something of value, pertinent to those who peruse this page of the paper. It is a great gift to be able to see things with the mind as well as with the eyes. With these co-ordinating you have a wonderful combination of faculties, the possession of which makes you richer than any millionaire whose only riches are his millions.

"When you force yourself to write things,
It's just a waste of ink!
You can drive your brain to labor,
But you cannot make it think."

Do You Ever Sleep In The Church?

It was a slip of the tongue, but it caused a titter to pass over an assembly of church people. The atmosphere of the place had been somewhat heavy and some of those present had great difficulty in keeping awake. Although it was not a Sunday service, it seemed to possess some of the sleep-producing qualities of some such services! It created a drowsy feeling around the heart; and it was with difficulty that some of the people were able to keep their eyes open and look interested. It made me think of a remark I once heard passed by one man about another. He said, "Yes, I know him; we both sleep in the same church."

A delegation from a country congregation once waited on Henry Ward Beecher to ask his advice regarding a matter which was giving much concern. It seemed that in this church a number of the pew-holders were acting as though they were occupying beds instead of pews! The sleeping propensities of a part of the congregation, while the minister was delivering his discourse, were so pronounced that it was fast becoming a scandal! The delegation wanted to know what Mr. Beecher would suggest as a remedy so as to cause the least trouble in the congregation! With a twinkle in his eye, the great preacher said: "In our church we have had for some years an able-bodied committee whose duty it is, whenever any one is discovered asleep in the congregation, to go at once into the pulpit and wake up the pastor."

Speaking for myself, I have more trouble with sleepy consciences than with sleepy eyes. For the sleepy eyes I can try several things with some assurance of success: an eloquent pause can be very disturbing to almost any one afflicted with ecclesiastical sleeping-sickness. If that fails, a good lusty shout might do the trick! But I have tried a great many methods to waken up a sleeping conscience without apparently making the slightest impression.

We Speak For Ourselves.

Reports from the churches were being read, with the result that the usual tired look was manifested by most of those present. If I had the power to do it I should make it a ruling that all such effusions be received "as read," then printed; and let who will read them at their leisure. Among other things called for in the statistical tables was a report of the property owned by each church—whether it had a house of worship, chapel or parsonage. One of these reports was being read rapidly and a bit perfunctorily, and this is what everybody heard: "We have one house of worship and one passenger," instead of "one parsonage" as he should have said. A smile swept over the assembly, which grew into loud laughter when the moderator remarked with the utmost gravity: "This church is certainly to be congratulated! Most churches have far more than one passenger!" And there was even more pertinence than pleasantry in the moderator's observation.

The Church Passenger.

Every wide-awake Christian worker knows that the passenger list of the average church is out of all proportion to its service list, and is something to make the angels weep and almost discourage the bravest of the brave. It used to be that the church was divided into the "workers" and the "shirkers." To these should be added the "passengers." Not only do they refuse to contribute their share to the propulsion of the church machinery and the carrying on of the church work, but they insist on riding on the church conveyance, thus adding to the load that the others must drag. The church should give good sense the reins and let its undesirable and unprofitable load of church passengers be dumped at some point of the road where they are likely to get a good hard jolt. It might do them a world of good and be their salvation in this world as well as in the world to come! The church would then, I believe, make much better progress even if statistically it might shrink a little. The reason for its present slow rate of progress is that it is carrying too much dead weight.

Let Us Dump Our Church Passengers.

Take a good look at the church passenger and you will discover that he has peculiarities all his own. Ally wants to ride on the front seat. If the coach has a band-seat, he must get there if there is to be harmony among the bandsmen. Very often he insists on handling the reins and cracking the whip, with this reason, however: If the coach does not reach its destination on time, or if anything goes wrong, he is lost or an upset experienced, it is distinctly to be understood that he is not the driver, therefore is not to be held responsible! His stamp card is in sitting up straight and looks as if he were doing it all, when the coach goes down the broad avenue between ranks of admiring spectators. He should be given a cramped down in the middle of some desert, where he could make all the noise he wants to make, because his presence in well organized society has at last become unbearable!

Riding Among Musicians

They Will Not Pay The.

I agree with the editor of a denominational weekly when he says that "the church passenger is usually a deadhead." Those who have the responsibility of looking after finances know that the church passenger does not pay — in more senses than one. Within the church he is as stingy with his money as is with his service. He glories in the fact that "salvation is free," and is at great pains to allow anything to suggest the idea of cost in connection with it. You would imagine that it might, once in a while, occur to him that if unwilling to do any work within the church he is thus increasing the burden of somebody else, he ought to even up things in a measure by contributing a little more liberally; but it seldom works that way. I have noticed that it seems to be a rule that those who neither work nor pray do not pay.

The Man Who Is The Kg.

As often the case with deadheads, the churchpassenger is apt to be the most critical and fanding of church members. Perhaps you have noticed that the less some men do or give, the more they are likely to kick. It is easy for them to do it since they have not expended any energy in doing anything else, and so have all their strength to kick. If you ever want to know how badly things are going in a certain church, how poor the minister's sermons are, how thinly attended the prayer meetings, how low the spiritual state, how cold and unsocial the people, ask the church passenger, the man who is riding on the load. He is sure to know better than anybody else. The rest are so busy trying to keep things going and to make things better that they have no time or strength left for criticism even if they had the disposition.

Quit Your Bing And Some Pulling.

It is the case of the dog and his barking. I have heard of a boy who had trained his dog to draw a lawn mower, which was not at all to the dog's liking. An interested onlooker one day noticed that very often the dog would stop and bark loudly, and asked the boy what was the matter. "Aw, nothing's the matter," was his disgusted reply. "He has to stop when he barks, for he can't bark and pull the lawn mower at the same time, and he'd rather bark than pull; that's all."

So many church members are like that dog. Barking is with them easier than working, which accounts for a great deal of the captious and ill-natured criticism that we hear about churches and ministers and church members. Such criticism should always be discounted, but even more the cr

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

ON the morning previous to the Battle of Bannockburn, the whole Scottish army heard Mass, which was performed on the field by the aged and blind Maurice, Abbot of Inchaffray; and perhaps no grander sight can be imagined than the appearance of those thirty thousand men, all ready to die for their country, on their knees before God in prayer. Then Bruce caused proclamation to be made that, if any man was unprepared to fight and fall with honor, he might depart; but a wild shout responded, and no man quitted the ranks. Once again the Scots, when they saw the mighty host of one hundred thousand English rolling towards them like a human sea, joined in a universal appeal to Heaven for aid against the strength of their enemies. When he observed the Scots on their knees, Edward exclaimed joyously, "They crave mercy!" "It is of Heaven, and not of your highness," replied one of his knights; "for on that field they will be victorious or die."

Give Me Health and a Day.

WHAT we are sometimes pleased to speak of as uneventful years, may be in preparation for some special service which will be like an investment that will pay dividends for all eternity. Emerson said: "Give me health and a day and I will make the pomp of emperors ridiculous." I seem to catch an echo as it travels across the centuries! It is the voice of Him who spake as never man spake. I can almost imagine that He is saying: "Give Me the quiet hillsides of Nazareth, sunlit skies and the blossoming of flowers, the Law and the Prophets, and I shall be well prepared for the work that awaits Me."

The Man Who Wins

I THINK that in literature the man who wins in the future can not afford to be diffuse or profound. He will be suggestive, and the reader must have the privilege of being learned and profound. —E. H.

To a Young Man

YOUNG man, don't get groggy over girls, religion, words, art or politics. They are all good in moderation, but bad if you get an overdose.

A Woman's Danger

YOUNG women with ambitions should be very crafty and cautious, lest mayhap they be caught in the soft, silken mesh of a happy marriage, and go down to oblivion, dead to the world. —E. H.

MOTORISTS, ATTENTION!

As a last reminder to motorists, The Examiner suggests that they study the regulations laid down for their guidance during Old Home Week in order that they may co-operate to the fullest extent with the police department.

The traffic problem during the next few days will, under the best of conditions, be a serious one, and the police force should have the assistance of the public in their efforts to prevent accidents and congestion.

It should be obvious that all unnecessary driving on the part of local citizens should be eliminated in the common interest, and the principle of don't drive when you can walk if generally followed would be a very valuable contribution to the success of the celebration.

With hundreds of outside cars to be taken care of, local driving should be confined to what is really necessary.

In this particular and in the matter of strict observance of the rules in regard to parking, Peterborough car owners can do much to ensure safe and comfortable traffic conditions during the week.

THE OLD-TIMERS ARE BACK.

Former Peterborough newspaper men who helped in years gone by to give local citizens their daily diet of local news through the medium of The Examiner or The Review or The Times, are back on their old-time jobs to-day as a contribution to the spirit of Old Home Week, and the result of their industry is to be found in to-day's edition, which should be of great interest to The Examiner's huge family of readers.

The Examiner appreciates the willingness of these graduates from Peterborough newspaperdom to sacrifice themselves in a sort of bus man's holiday in order that some Old Home Week color may be added to the reunion, commencing to-day.

Their action is a demonstration of loyalty to Peterborough that should be gratifying to the community generally.

As for The Examiner, it is scarcely necessary to say that we have enjoyed beyond measure this family home-coming of the old guard who used to "cover the beats" in Peterborough—and we hope the "kick" the boys got out of it in once more helping to issue a newspaper in the old home city has compensated them for the time they gave to it that might have been devoted to participating in the general features of Old Home Week celebration.

A DOUBLE CELEBRATION.

It is well to remember—and this phase of the situation has not been as strongly accentuated as it might have been—that Peterborough is not only welcoming home her sons and daughters from far and near but is also celebrating the city's centennial.

True, the one hundredth anniversary of the beginning of Peterborough passed some years ago, but the official observance of the occasion was deferred until it could be combined with the present celebration. The double nature of this carnival week should be borne in mind, and in the midst of the rejoicing over the home-coming of thousands of the city's loyal sons and daughters who have been making their mark elsewhere, Peterborough's citizens should think back with gratitude to the pioneers who a hundred years ago by their sacrifice and courage laid the foundation for the prosperity of to-day.

The Peterborough they knew bore no resemblance to this flourishing community—but because they had the heroism to come into a wilderness and face the hardships of pioneering days our citizens to-day are enjoying life amid conditions their ancestors never even dreamed about.

WELCOME!

It falls to the lot of The Examiner to-day, as the survivor of all Peterborough's daily newspapers, to say a word of welcome to the former residents of this city who are pouring in to renew old acquaintances and with our citizens to celebrate a home-coming on a scale surpassing anything in the history of the community.

It is a pleasant albeit difficult task—pleasant because it is possible to say "welcome" and mean it, and difficult because the words, to properly express the delight of Peterborough's citizens in the return of the city's sons and daughters, are not easily commanded.

To meet old friends is always a pleasure, and when the joy of such a meeting is augmented by the proof that former Peterborough citizens are still loyal to the old town and still sufficiently interested in its activities to come back upon such an occasion as this, there is every reason for a memorable celebration.

To all of you from far and near, to those who went away only yesterday, as well as to those older folks who long ago said farewell to Peterborough, The Examiner says on behalf of the citizens generally, "Welcome."

May you enjoy every minute of your visit, and may the realization of your thoughts in regard to this historic re-union equal the anticipation!

THE PATHS OF PEACE.

The tenth anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Versailles has furnished to those whose business it is to keep in touch with world affairs an opportunity to survey the course of history since the memorable gathering in June, 1919, and, in the light of the perspective thus offered, to report progress in relation to the great movement which had as its starting point the peace proposals accepted a decade ago. The reviews covering the period vary in their interpretation of many of the events that have been assigned historical importance. They also differ materially as to the degree in which the cause of peace has been advanced. But they generally concede that there has been progress, halting at times and not always convincing, yet, on the whole, definite and substantial.

To realize the nature and extent of the change that has taken place in the world's outlook upon war and peace, it is only necessary to contrast the spirit which prevails among the nations to-day with that which lurked behind the scenes of the final act of the great war tragedy ten years ago. In an atmosphere tense with emotion and charged with all the elements of hate, distrust and revenge, victors and vanquished met to register their acceptance of terms dictated less by feelings of conciliation than by the grim fortunes of war. While the influence governing the ceremony was the weariness of all concerned with a conflict productive of so much strain, suffering and sacrifice, there was, on the one side the suppressed exultation of victory; on the other, the sullen bitterness of defeat. The cry of "Hang the Kaiser" had given place to the demand that Germany must pay in full, regardless of the consequences. There were bickerings among the representatives of the Allies, as there were confusion and resentment in the camp of their former adversaries. The fate of Europe trembled in the balance, and what was termed a treaty of peace seemed nothing more than the declaration of a truce, or a prelude to the renewal of hostilities in the not distant future.

True, there was a glimmer of hope in the formulae of President Wilson. That the war had been fought to end war, that the nations of the world would be given the power of self-determination, and that democracy, wherever it existed, was assured of freedom from aggression were shibboleths that served to give to the Treaty of Versailles a semblance of authority as an instrument of lasting peace. More encouraging still was the formulation of the covenant that gave birth to the League of Nations. Here, at anyrate, was an experiment which indicated an honest and sincere intention on the part of the leading powers to put into practice the principles that had found expression at Versailles. But while the League was organizing and beginning to function without the support of the Republic whose President had promoted it, the new nations of Europe, along with some of the old, were thinking less of the preservation of peace than of the possibilities of further war and the need for strengthening their defences. "Safety first" was a slogan more potent in its appeal than the voice of Geneva; the need of armed forces and the demand for guarantees of security counted for more than promises and pledges of international arbitration.

The first step towards a realization of the need for a change of heart, as well as of policy, came with the exposure of Germany's economic plight and the danger that threatened from her inability, or, as some suspected, her reluctance to meet her vast war obligations. The Dawes plan of reparations, conceived and designed as an expedient to relieve a desperate financial situation, had a moral as well as a practical effect, which undoubtedly contributed to the development of a more conciliatory spirit among the nations of Europe. In a very real sense it marked the beginning of a movement that inspired hope where formerly there had been only despair.

Then came the Locarno pact to reveal to the world the growth of a new faith in the potentialities of peace, and an awakening to the value of human relationships as a factor in the settlement of international differences. With the entry of Germany into the League of Nations, the prestige and influence of that body were immeasurably enhanced, the conferences of Stresemann, Briand and Chamberlain adding lustre to its work. From Locarno and Geneva emerged the inspiration that found its way to Washington and reappeared in the form of the Kellogg pact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy, to be followed more recently by the establishment of a World's Court, the reopening of disarmament negotiations and the movement towards an Anglo-American entente so auspiciously inaugurated by the MacDonald-Dawes' conversations.

In all these developments even the most cynical observer must recognize a marked advance along the path of peace. Individually, their efficacy as instruments for the perpetual elimination of war may be open to challenge. They may be scouted as expressions of an idealism that cannot be reconciled with realities. But their cumulative influence upon the policies of governments and still more upon the public mind in all parts of the world cannot be discounted; and, at the very least, they represent a change of spirit within the last ten years which, in itself, is a source of hope for the future.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Well, we're certainly glad to see you back.

The old boys of Peterborough newspaperdom are going to get out The Examiner to-day, ensuring a real treat for readers of this paper.

Old boys and girls, Peterborough is yours. We hope you'll have such a good time you will want to come back every year.

Motorists, co-operate with the police department during the celebration and make it as safe as well as an enjoyable re-union.

Fun without rowdyism has been adopted as the Old Home Week motto. And everybody will be expected to live up to it during the week.

Peterborough citizens are asked to keep their cars in the garage as much as possible until the re-union is over.

News of Our Own Village

So far as your scribe can get at the dope they wasn't nobody hurt in the crush at the Tory picnic down to Wallace's Pt., Wednesday.

A team of horses run away here Thurs. a.m. and Stan Lowe lost no time signing them up for the trot or pace contests at the local track next week. Stan is right on the job, say we.

The Westclox Mills is closed for holidays, Jack Verner figgering out nobody would need no alarm clocks during Old Home Week, anyway.

Bill Grady from Claraday, south of here, was noticed in town for Old Home Week. Another detected by your vigilant scribe was Harold Rye, of North Monaghan.

Walt Stocker, the wide-awake chairman of the village parks com., aint taking no chances on losing no park benches. Walt bought some cement ones so they couldn't be carried away.

Sandy MacTavish was so tickled with the playing of the pipers from Toronto, west of here, Fri. nite, that he invited the whole band to come up town and have....a look at the decorations.

Alex Donnelly of the porridge factory staff has been doing some long distance swimming, training for the Wrigley Marathon, has decided to stick to golf from now on, your scribe learns.

The village streets is a mass of color, so to speak, with flags, bunting and what have you. The interior decorating is being mostly done by Col. Bradburn and his staff.

They was a circus here Mon. and Thurs. a coupla girls wearing sailor trousers was noticed on Main street. Altogether they is plent of excitement in the village.

Some of the fellows what used to work on this paper and the other sheets what once was published here is getting out the Sat. paper. If they is any liable suits, get after them birds, say we.

A life size tin type of Ronnie Denne, our worthy Mayor, was put in the window of Fred Roy's picture-taking shop, the other nite—and traffic has had to be detoured ever since.

Mart Chenhall and Bob Snelgrove has started a vegetable ranch in the south end of the village, but so far the only thing they has raised is blisters.

Old Home Week visitors is asked not to wait too long for street cars. The track on Main St. is just among our souvenirs, so to speak.

SELF-HELP

Here's to more of 'I will' and less of 'I can't'; more of 'I'll help myself' and less of 'Please help me'; more of 'Nothing is good enough which can be better' and less of 'What is good enough for my grandfather is good enough for me.'

And here's to the throwing over our shoulders all pessimism and downheartedness and filling their places with good cheer and enthusiasm.—H. Gordon Selfridge.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It is burned beyond recognition, but from a small patch of scalp Dr. Cavanaugh identified it as the body of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears him tell this to Peter. Peter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh search the boudoir of the murdered woman. The breach of promise papers have been taken, but they find a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter goes on the trail of Orme. He runs him down at an automobile tourists' camp. Orme is an irresponsible, temperamental, artistic and refined man who does not seem capable of committing murder.

CHAPTER 32.

"Did you put up any money on me?" Peter threw his hat into the nearest armchair and leaned forward to examine the top of the desk, but the familiar nickel was not in evidence.

"No," said Dr. Cavanaugh. "The sporting element would be lacking, unless I elaborated a system of odds. I'd hate to have you on my trail, young man—or perhaps this is what you call being on my trail already?"

The doctor's clear brown eyes smiled with warm friendliness into Peter's as he pulled forward a chair.

"Oh, no, I've just got into the habit of consulting you, I hope I'm not making a nuisance of myself."

"I've no doubt you hope it. But even if you were a nuisance, you would regretfully persist."

"I suppose I would," Peter admitted.

"Well, then, if it's any comfort to you, I'm really not particularly busy at the moment, and you may help yourself to the cigars. It's rather lucky for me that I've retired from active practice—you might not leave me much opportunity to collect from my patients."

"I'm glad I'm not bothering too awfully," Peter said cheerfully, ignoring the box of cigars which Dr. Cavanaugh extended and pulling forth his inevitable crushed package of cigarettes. "Because, you see, I do feel sort of responsible for this babe in the woods I turned over to the police."

Dr. Cavanaugh smiled ever so slightly. "Do the police look on him as a babe in the woods? he inquired.

"They do not," Peter said emphatically. "As a matter of fact, I'm surprised at him myself. Honestly, I felt as if I were throwing him to the wolves. It had to be done, of course, but I didn't think they'd need to be half as violent as they probably would be, on general principles, to get everything out of him. And yet there he sits and says absolutely nothing.

"They've questioned him in relays, 24 hours at a stretch. They've planted a man in the same cell with him to gain his confidence. They've done everything but light a bonfire under him, and they're getting annoyed."

"You seem rather pleased about it," the doctor observed noncommittally.

"I can't help being proud of his grit. It's a perfectly useless line to take, and it'll only make it harder for him in the end. The district attorney has got to the point where he's out for blood. Why, they even held before his eyes a copy of the 'Herald' with headlines about Sheila's murder and made him stare at it for hours—"Butcher' Joe crumbled under that stunt two years ago, you remember—and he just sits there, looking as if he were somewhere else.

"It isn't as if he were an old hand, a 12-year-old child could have done better at covering his tracks. He really needs a guardian, and since I found him, I sort of feel that I'm it. At least I want him to have a fair show. He isn't the ordinary criminal type at all."

"Among all the things we don't know about Sheila O'Shay's murderer," Dr. Cavanaugh murmured between puffs of his cigar, "we do know this one thing—that he wasn't an ordinary criminal.",

"Well, it's a funny thing," Peter said, his brow wrinkled in a puzzled frown, "I went romping out after this man on suspicion of his being the O'Shay woman's murderer. If he's guilty, I want him to be convicted. In fact, I shall be extremely relieved and grateful if he turns out to be the guilty party.

"He's the most promising suspect that's turned up so far. And yet—I had to hire a lawyer for him, out of my own pocket. He didn't even have the sense to ask for one. There's a sort of innocence about him—I don't mean innocence of this particular crime, but of the world and all its works.

"I couldn't see him or anybody drift straight down the rapids to the big crash without even grasping what it was all about. ... all crossed, somehow." ...ruefully.

"The ... ...ull of people whose wires are tangled," Dr. Cavanaugh said meditatively. "That, we might say, is the normal state of humanity. Motives are not laid side by side and neatly balanced. They are more like a basketful of loose skeins of silk after the kitten has been playing with them. You pull a motive and instead of the thread's coming out smooth for its entire length, you run into a knotted snarl of other motives, blocking it. The very few who are not like that—who can pull their threads out to the end—are the great single-minded people, artists who starve themselves and their families, financiers who wreck their competitors, scientists who innoculate themselves with deadly bacilli, even arch criminals. It's lucky for them, and also fortunate for normal, tangled humanity, that they are in the minority. But I take it you did not come to listen to my views of the world in general?"

"Well, I hoped you might work up a view on one person in particular," Peter grinned. "You see, I managed to put it up to a lawyer friend of mine—at least he has pretty good reason to feel friendly toward the 'Herald'—that it would be worth his while to take up Orme's case for the publicity there'd be in it. If he puts on a good show, that's fair enough—and I had to get his services at bargain rates, salaries being what they are in the newspaper business. He wants to look into the chances of an insanity defense. And we'd like to engage you as defense alienist to examine Orme."

"I've no doubt you would," Dr. Cavanaugh said blandly, following with his eyes, the floating procession of a series of smoke rings.

"Of course publicity means nothing to you—you could get as much free publicity as a movie star by lifting your finger. And there isn't any money in it. After all." Peter exploded, "I can't be expected to go broke in order to pay for the defense of a man I never saw in my life until I grabbed him for the sheriff! And even if I did go broke," he added more calmly, "I couldn't raise enough to interest you."

"So far as I know," the doctor said placidly. "Nobody expected anything at all from you, except yourself. And you seem to be devoting considerable energy to seeking bargain rates in professional services for the sake of a notion of abstract justice."

"Justice be blowed!" It was in Peter's code to snort with indignation when accused of lofty sentiments. "This chap rather interests me, that's all. And I hoped he'd interest you."

"He does," the doctor agreed with unruffled tranquility. "He interests me very much. He also interests the district attorney, who had the idea that a plea of insanity might be in order. He even suspects that our peculiar Mr. Orme is laying the ground for it by his present attitude. It just so happens that the district attorney's office has already requested my services as alienist for the prosecution."

(To be continued.)

What To-day Means To You.

JUNE 29th

"Cancer."

If June 29th is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 11 p.m. to 12 midnight.

The astrological influences for this day will be slumbering, and there will not be sufficient impetus to get at things. Guard your speech—a slip of the foot may soon recovered, but that of the tongue perhaps never!

The child born June 29th will have a very quiet and silent nature. It will be capable of deep thinking, and will possess sound and sane judgment. It will seldom confide its thoughts to others, and its dreams will remain secrets.

You are not one of life's debtors. You are not one who takes everything and gives nothing. You are always too interested and too busy to ever consider life futile. The hours, the days and the years are all to short for you to accomplish, and to see, all that you desire. Your mind and your fingers are seldom idle, yet you never grudge time, trouble, or goodwill. You create an impression of a happy person riding the wave of life on its crest.

You are not dogged by a timidity complex which prevents so many from trying—you would rather chance everything on a spectacular shot and lose, than to always play safe, and to die in an uninteresting rut.

No one could call you a theorist. You have a practical mind, and much common sense. You dream (who doesn't?) but you make your dreams come true, by applied industry and nimbleness of thought. You are always able to get loyal co-operation from associates and subordinates, as you are not niggarly in either rewards or praise.

No great romance can be anticipated in your life. It is to be expected that you will marry at rather an early age, and find in marriage a friendly companionship. Your undemonstrativeness will negative anything that savors of passionate love.

The Devil Dogs

The battle was raging The brave, gallant soldiers were dropping like flies. It was terrible.

In his dugout the General paced the floor in agitation and swore volubly. "My God, where are the marines? Why don't the reserves arrive?"

For three days he had been waiting for a detachment of marines. A few hours more and it would be too late; his army would be wiped out, and the war would be lost.

At last! A courier dashes into headquarters; in his hand he holds a dispatch. The General tears open the envelope with trembling fingers, and reads aloud the message.

"General Blank: Very sorry we cannot send the detachment of marines, as they are unfortunately tied up with a contract with the Toto-Sound Pictures people for one year. The U. S. Marines have never broken a contract.

BIG DEVELOPMENT EXPECTED IN INTERNATIONAL NIC

From Present Indications Plant May Turn Out Quarter Million Per Day.

16,000 TON CAPACITY.

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

TORONTO, June 29.—Accordingly as the big construction program at International Nickel mines takes form, it becomes increasingly apparent that expansion to come into effect in the future is greater than the earlier estimates.

From present indications the plant may in time be capable of turning out base metal at the rate of over a quarter of a million dollars per day—an achievement heretofore unheard of at any mine in Canada, and a performance challenging the greatest throughout the world.

Estimates of eventual capacity to be attained range from 8,000 to 10,000 tons per day. Estimates of average grade of ore are indicative of over $30 to the ton—possibly an average of $35 per ton, including the precious metal content.

It would appear from these figures that an output of $250,000 per day may be conservative and that upwards of $300,000 per day may actually be attained. For purposes of illustration of what such output would mean, it is interesting to note that the minimum estimate of 8,000 tons daily of $30 ore would give a yield of around $90,000,000—whereas on the higher estimate of 10,000 tons of $35 ore the output would reach $127,750,000 a year.

Work on Harker Gold Mines is settling down to the final stage which is intended to determine whether success may be expected or not.

Encouraging mineralization was encountered in upper horizons. A small part could be classified as ore, and a considerable tonnage could be included as low grade ore in event of the mine being developed successfully at depth. However summed up, these results at upper levels are just a little short of what would be required to establish a profitable mine—hence the desire to find out if an increase in mineralization occurs at greater depth.

Toward this end, the shaft was continued to 1,000 feet in depth, which point was recently reached. The cross-cut is now moving toward the vein and a campaign of drifting along the fracture is intended to render a final verdict some time before the end of September.

While prospects of a general consolidation of gold mines in northern Ontario continue on the wane, it is surprising the extent to which public opinion seems to favor a merger between Hollinger Consolidated and McIntyre.

Hollinger has too much mill. McIntyre has a mill which is barely sufficient, and which if not replaced may have to be overhauled to some extent. The properties adjoin, and a consolidation could be expected to reduce costs and thereby increase the amount of profitable ore.

Almost two years after Tom Bathurst staked what is now the Bathurst Gold Mines at Narrow Lake, Frank Carnegie, engineer and manager of the property, the other day flew into Sioux Lookout with the first gold brick from the mine, incidentally the first gold brick out of the district of Patricia. The brick weighed more than 60 ounces.

Information coming from Red Lake indicates a discovery of considerable importance on the Dean claims. Mining men who have visited the property declare there are two dikes of porphyry, between which is a shear zone in which the gold-bearing material occurs. Visitors have been highly impressed with the discovery.

Mining men of outstanding distinction have frequently made the observation that Howey Gold Mines will not be the only successful gold mining enterprise in the central part of the Red Lake area. It is regarded as but a matter of time when other exploration will reveal important bodies of ore. Intrusive formation and fracture zones are not very frequent, and this has rendered prospecting unsually difficut. However, the theory has existed from from the very outset that where such intrusives do occur, and where fracturing exists, there are excellent prospects of gold deposition in important quantity.

The shaft on Howey itself has reached 1,000 feet in depth, where a big working station will open the way to systematic and extensive development. The fact that average values of $9.85 per ton occur across an average width of 27 feet at the 500-ft. level in an ore-shoot of considerable length, and with the face of the drift still in ore, is the basis on which operators place extremely high hopes for important news at such time as crosscuts and drifts enter downward continuation of the deposit at 626, 750, 875 ft. levels.

Production at Barry Gold Mines, Ltd., in the Creek camp, for the month will be higher than it has a year and a half. Work 1,500-foot level is opening ditions by far the most in the history of the prof ficials are hoping that good luck may hold for a or three hundred feet on tom level. This would give lease of life to public in the property.

In the women's singles, the finalists will be Miss Olive Wade of Toronto and Mrs. H. L. Beer of Ottawa. Miss Wade reached the finals by defeating Miss P. Gadbois of Montreal, 6—0, 8—6, while Mrs. Beer defeated Mrs. F. St. C. Manson, also of Montreal, 6—3, 7—5.

In the men's doubles, C. W. Aikman and R. N. Watt, Montreal, beat Marcel Rainville and Paul Wickman, also of Montreal, 6—3, 6—2, 6—2.

Wheat Prices Soar Under Heavy Buying

CHICAGO, Ills., June 29 (Canadian Press). — In a general rush to buy, Wheat scored a brisk early advance here to-day. Liverpool wheat quotations were much higher than expected. Drought continued northwest and first reports of black rust in the spring wheat belt this season were received, opening one cent to 2¾ cents higher. Chicago wheat showed some additional gain, then underwent a reaction.

Corn, oats, and provisions were also firmer, with corn starting ½c to 1⅝c to 1⅞c up, and subsequently holding near its previous range.

Usual Prices Prevail On Farmers' Market

Produce on the farmer's market was at prevailing prices this morning. The open section offered little in the way of new vegetables, but strawberries from local gardens were priced at 15 cents a quart box. New green peas were 25 cents for two quarts and new beets were 10 cents a bunch.

In the basket section, eggs were quoted at 33 to 35 cents a dozen, butter was 38 cents a pound, broilers were 40 cents a pound and older chickens 25 cents, while turkeys were 36 cents a pound.

ADDITION BUILT SERVICE DEPOT

Many New Improvements In British American Station On Charlotte Street.

DOUBLE GREASE PITS.

Peterborough's original service station, now owned by the British American Company, at the corner of Charlotte and Stewart streets, on the north-east side, has recently made a big improvement in its equipment.

An addition 40 x 22 has just been finished. In this are double greasing pits, equipped with a pressure greasing outfit, and drains to carry off the surplus water and oil. A modern wash rack with a pressure washing machine is installed to give excellent service in this line.

The building is of brick and steel construction of the most modern type, finished in stucco. Overhead doors of the most convenient type have been installed to add to the convenience of this new addition. New air standards have also been installed.

J. Hunt Stanford of Toronto was the designer of the building, and T. E. Ephgrave of Peterborough the contractor.

STRAWBERRY SOCIAL.

Members of Bible Class of St. James' Church Hold Social Evening.

St. James' Sunday school hall presented a pleasing interior last evening when the Treasure Seekers' Bible Class joined with the Cheerful Workers' Class in a social evening and strawberry supper. Small tables were grouped socially about, each done with a pretty lace doylie and a vase of June flowers. Strawberries and cream in abundance, with their accompanying refreshments, were served and enjoyed by about fifty class members.

After the supper, Andrew Kent, president of the Treasure Seekers' Class, took the chair and presided throughout the evening, when the following program was given. It was opened with the usual hymn and the pastor, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, offered prayer.

In a very short address the class president expressed his pleasure that so large a number were present, but he regretted that the social could not have been held at his own home, as planned.

He spoke of the objective of the class and rejoiced that the members were so loyal in their co-operation.

A sacred vocal solo was sweetly sung by Misses Dorothy Dudgeon and Marion Wood, accompanied by Miss Aileen Rose.

Mrs. H. Turner contributed a humorous reading "Striking the Boss," in her usual clever rendering.

With exceptionally fine expression Miss Geneva Sedgwick sang "When They Ring Those Golden Bells for You and Me," with Miss Marjorie Dudgeon accompanying.

The teacher of the Treasure Seekers' Class, W. D. Sargent, was next called upon to address the gathering. He, too, thanked his class for their hearty co-operation in all class undertakings, and for their faithful attendance. In briefly outlining his plan of service as teacher of this class, he said that "to present Christ to the world" was his chief objective.

Mrs. Cecil Fowler sang the beautiful solo, "Wonderful Isle of Dreams."

"The Preacher's Vacation" was the timely theme of a reading by Mrs. F. D. Armstrong, which was much enjoyed.

In a short and pithy address, the Rev. Mr. Dudgeon said that first of all he was glad that St. James' United Church had decided not to close its doors for vacation. "The pulpit would," he said, "be filled every Sunday in the twelve months, and he hoped that the pews would likewise be filled. 'The Pastor's Vacation' just read does not in any way apply to St. James' United Church. He was glad that his session had planned for a combined Sunday School and church service for July and August, and assured his people that any Sunday 'this preacher took a vacation' he would arrange for a supply, and his church would not be closed."

In a short and pithy address Mr. Dudgeon congratulated the Treasure Seekers' Class upon their choice of a teacher. "Mr. Sargent," he said, "has the happy faculty of drawing out the thoughts of his class, which is the best of good teaching. There never was a day when the study of the Word of God was more needed. With the ever-changing religious, political, and educational status of the world, history is rapidly being made, and no place can we find the information and knowledge to cope with present day problems as can be found in the Bible.

Mr. Dudgeon also commended the class for its excellent example to the younger element, by their consistent, steadfast attendance and study from Sabbath to Sabbath the year round.

On behalf of the class, F. D Armstrong extended a hearty vote of thanks to all who had in any way contributed to the success of the evening ,and Mr. Cuffe seconded the motion, which was carried in the W. Rose its capable convenor and usual way.

All joined in singing "God be with you till we meet again," and the benediction by the pastor brought the social to a conclusion.

NEW OFFICERS ARE WELCOMED

Adjutant W. Jones and Captain Feltham in Charge of Local Corps.

OF SALVATION ARMY.

The welcome meeting to the new officers of the local corps of the Salvation Army took place in the Temple on Thursday evening, when Adjutant W. Jones and Captain Feltham were accorded a hearty reception by the local Salvationists.

Representative speeches by leaders of the various sections of the corps were given by R. C. Braund, representing the Sunday Schools and the Young People, Bandmaster S. J. Richardson and Songster Leader B. Smith on behalf of the musical sections, Secretary Leggott on behalf of the soldiers and adherents, and Envoy Brooks for the Census Board of the Corps.

It is eighteen years since the local corps was commanded by lady officers, and in the intervening period there have been in the city some of the biggest corps in this territory—Hamilton, West Toronto, Walkerville, and had completed command of the Dovercourt Corps, Toronto, one of the largest corps in that city.

The Adjutant was accorded a hearty welcome on rising to speak, and thanked all for their welcome, emphasizing the fact that her mission in life was to serve God and in all things endeavor to extend the Kingdom of Christ. She testified to the possession of a definite experience of holiness, to her surrender to the will of God having brought joy and happiness. Referring to the fact that the change of leadership being instituted and that women had come to the city the Adjutant promised that her strength and time were to be devoted to fighting the forces of sin and satan, and that the Salvation Army and its ideals she loved and believed in would at all times "push the old chariot along." She paid tribute to the work of Ensign and Mrs. Green during their stay in the city, and bespoke the prayers of the corps and citizens for their future in the new activity they are appointed to.

Captain Feltham, who is second in command, was also heartily welcomed, and testified of having come in the strength of God and that in coming to the city desired to be a help and blessing. "God has first place in my life, and that opportunity for service in this city, and she was glad to accept, for her life was given to God and the Salvation Army.

The band and songsters rendered musical selections during the service The meetings at the Temple on Sunday will be attended by many former citizens and officers who are visiting to take part in Old Home Week, and Adjutant Jones and Captain Feltham will be present at all these services and take active part.

PROHIBITION LITERATURE IS ORDERED BURNED

President Hoover Orders Department to Destroy Recently Printed Pamphlet

WASHINGTON, D.C, June 28. — (Canadian Press).—President Hoover has halted an ambitionus prohibition unit program to "sell" the school courses and ordered treasury officials to keep close watch on its enforcement unit so that the administration program will not be further "misrepresented."

There will be progaganda with Hoover approval, but it will be refined, statistical, medical, non-sensational, education, scientific, and for adults only.

Mr. Hoover ordered the Treasury Department to burn the complete supply of eight-page pamphlets entitled: "How shall we teach the eighteenth amendment?"

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

Cattle prices this week were adjusted to summer conditions of quality, supply and consumptive demand, the marked decline coming about a week later than a year ago, and being more strongly marked by reason of the high prices paid last week for the last of the choice stable-fed holding.

Monday's offering was unusually heavy, and bids at the opening were down 75 cents per cwt. from the close of last week. Trade was slow and 1,200 cattle were held over for Tuesday. Light fresh supply on Tuesday and Wednesday made the week's total some 500 head less than in the week previous, but trade showed no recovery and prices on Wednesday, when the holdover began to move to the scales, were close to $1 per cwt. down from last week on all killers.

At the new levels choice butcher steers sold mostly at 11 to 11½ cents per pound, with just the odd load and a few small lots at a top of 11¾c as against 12c to 12¼c for choice, and a top of 12¾c per pound a week ago. Common to medium grass steers needing another three weeks at least on grass were very hard to sell. Prices around nine cents took quite a number and some real common steers showed a low of eight cents per pound.

Choice butcher heifers sold from 10¼c to an extreme of 11¾c, with other grades downward to 8½c. Top for kosher cows was 9c per pound and good butcher cows closed at 8c to 8½ per pound.

Bulls ranged from 7c per pound for bolognas to 8½c for good butchers, with a few fancy up to 9c, bulls suffering less than other killers as regards price reduction. Baby beef supply was light at around 150 head or, half last week's number, but the best brought nothing better than 13½c per pound or $1 per cwt. below last week's top, while 10c to 13c per pound took the bulk. The decline in price of killers had a weakening effect on the stocker and feeder market, purchase for direct return to the country being light and the bluk of supply going into speculators' hands at reduced prices.

Light western stockers sold at 8c to 9c per pound, and only the odd small lot of feeders topped 10c. Milker and springer trade was slow, with prices unchanged, best backward springers selling at $120 and best fresh cows at $95 to $100 each.

Calf supply was a few hundred heavier than last week, more appearing in the Monday offering than usual. Trade was steady at the opening, with choice veals selling at 14c to 14½c per pound, but feeling was somewhat easier for the rest of the week. Only a few primes made 14½c after Monday, 13c to 14c taking the bulk of good to choice. Grassers sold mostly at 7c to 7½c per pound. Some 1,400 calves, or 300 more than last week were bought for export to the United States.

There was an increase of about 100 in the sheep and lamb supply as compared with last week. Best lambs sold at 16c per pound or 50c per cwt. lower than last week, on Monday and up to Wednesday the close of the week, and a very considerable share of the offering graded choice. Best lambs off trucks sold at 15½c. Culls lost more than the 50c per cwt. in spots, selling from 11c to 12c for comcon light kind, with medium quality moving at 14c to 14½c. Good to choiec light butcher sheep sold steady with last week at 6c to 7c per pound, and sheep throughout the entire grading held steady with culls downward to 2½c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 29.— Lack of rain in the West caused a sharp rise on yesterday's wheat market, net gains of 3⅞c to 4⅞ recorded at the close. According to a report on crop conditions issued by the Canadian wheat pool crops are much below normal and far behind June last year. This started a forward movement in prices, an advance of 3c occurring in the first hour. Heavy buying by United States interests carried prices to the 4c advance, where the market closed.

A total of 1,000,000 was reported moved for export overnight.

Cash wheat was in good demand today, but light offerings curtailed trading and the market was inactive near the close. Prices were unchanged to ¼c higher.

Trading was fairly active in the coarse grain market, with oats and barley in fair demand at fractionally higher prices. Rye followed wheat, advancing more than 2c. Flax was firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 29.—Widely circulated estimates that 1929 Canadian wheat production will be away below last year's total put wheat values up yesterday. According to one current forecast, the Canadian spring wheat crop of the Prairie Provinces this season will amount to only 315,000,000 bushels, compared with 508,000,000 bushels harvested in 1928. Officials of the Canadian Growers' Pool, however, denied having made this estimate, and, instead, suggested that Western Canada, with ideal conditions from now on would raise 400,000,000 bushels.

Wheat closed unsettled, 2¼c to 3c a bushel higher than Thursday's finish. Corn closed ¾c to 1¼c up, oats ¼c to ½c to ⅝c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 17c.

Wheat made an irregular start, but then scored an almost perpendicular upward turn of more than 3c. In view of reports that, owing to persistent shortage of moisture, Canada would harvest nearly 200,000,000 bushels less than last year, offerings grew scarce, and buying broadened out on a big scale. In the detailed estimates which meanwhile were going around and which came from accredited trade sources, special emphasis was given to mention that the figures made allowance for 10 per cent. increase of acreage, and that the present condition of the Canadian crop is only 85 per cent. compared with 101 per cent. a year ago.

In some quarters, an advance of 3½c to 3¾c on wheat at Buenos Aires yesterday suggested that export competition from Argentine would be less in evidence hereafter. Notice was also taken of late meassages that unless Australia soon receives rains the prospects at best are for but half a crop. On the other hand, weather conditions yesterday in the domestic harvest region southwest were reported as very favorable, with indications pointing to liberal receipts of new wheat next week.

Corn and oats went higher as a result chiefly of wheat strength. There was also talk that monthly unofficial surveys next week will indicate a relatively low condition of corn growth.

Provisions tended upward on buying credited to packers.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, June 29. — Spring wheat flour, which was reduced 10 cents a barrel Thursday, was advanced 10 cents a barrel yesterday afternoon, leaving prices at their former level. On the cash grain market wheat was marked up 2 cents a bushel and barley 1 cent a bushel. There were no other changes.

Cheese prices were unchanged. Receipts were 811 boxes.

The butter market was steady. Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized sold at 37½c to 37½c per pound in a wholesale way. To the retail trade prices were also unchanged at 38c for solids and 39c for prints. Receipts were 2,653 boxes.

No change was reported in the egg situation. Firsts and seconds continue accumulating, while extras are in greatest demand. Receipts were 3,209 cases.

Potato prices were higher yesterday, both new and old. New potatoes from Virginia of No. 1 quality were 50c per barrel up, while No. 2 quality were 25c higher. Culls were 25c lower. Old potatoes were up 5c per bag. The prices were: No. 1 quality, $6; No. 2 quality, $4; culls, $2.75 per barrel of 165 lbs. net. Old potatoes were 50c per 90 lbs. in bulk for New Brunswick Green Mountains, on track here, in car lots.

Dressed poultry prices were steady.

GEESE WADDLED UP STREET TO THEIR NIGHT QUARTERS

Pastoral Scene Recalled By Harry Long, Who Was Gooseherd.

STRANGE STORE SIGNS.

Dried Codfish Was John Cameron's 'Notice That His Store Was Open.

Many a match has been scratched on the walls of Peterborough since the evenings when Harry Long's flock of geese used to waddle up George Street from Spaulding's Bay, turn east at Hunter Street, then round the post office corner to their night quarters on the present site of Peck, Kerr and McElderry's office, where they were securely locked in.

Focus that pastoral scene clearly in your imagination—the single file of solemn geese homing at the end of the day, obstinately undeviating in their accustomed course, ignoring the main street traffic, and you get a picturesque and clarifying glimpse of the community spirit of the old town.

"Isn't that a contrast with the present", Mr. Long suggested. "We had our upper confectionery store on George Street where Hooper's is now, and quite a large vacant ground at the rear fronting on Water street. It was one of my jobs to let the geese out every morning between 7 and 8 o'clock and away they'd go gabbling down Water street for Spaulding's Bay. The bay was spread out over all the low land between Townsend and Rink Streets. We used to call it the pest hole then before it was gradually filled up.

The geese usually came home by George and Hunter Streets. No one paid much attention to them because most people had geese and cows, too. The cows grazed on almost every street, and if you went walking of an afternoon you would pass many of them cropping the grass on either side of the sidewalk."

Strange Business Signs

Mr. Long recalls another indication of the community spirit, which in his day of retailing was almost a palpable bond. It predicated an intimate acquaintanceship and sympathetic understanding between the merchants and the people. This sentiment was reflected in the peculiar personal signs which some dealers hung out in front of their stores as announcements that they had opened their premises for business.

"There was John Cameron, for instance", Mr. Long recalled. "He used to hang out a dried codfish on the pillar of his store front, signifying that his store was open. And just before closing hour in the evening the symbolic cod was brought in. Of course it was a smelly thing, and I don't know how long one of them was used before another replaced it, probably quite a while, but it served its purpose, because everybody passing knew Mr. Cameron's sign. His residence was out beyond St. Andrew's Church.

Wrighton's Red Fox Pelt

Then there was William Wrighton. His broadcasting device was the hide of a red fox, and when you saw it hanging in front of the store, now where Edward's butcher shop it, you knew that William Wrighton was on the job. And at the end of the day the fox skin was taken in about the time shutters were being put up, and another business day was done."

These were community symbols which only the initiated could be expected to understanding; they assumed the fact that everybody in town recognized them. We regard them as evidence of the harmony in local contacts and relationships in those days, but perhaps they were a more accurate index of only the town's size.

The Golden Lion and Fleece

"There were other store signs that were really attractive", Mr. Long continued. "Thomas Bradburn had a beautiful golden lion over his drygoods store, and he used gold leaf to keep it bright and noticeable. When Robert Fair took over the store and business a dispute arose about the Bradburn lion. Mr. Bradburn intended to set it up over the porch of his residence now St. Joseph's Orphanage, but in the end it remained over the Fair store. Next door to the north was William Cluxton's fashionable drygoods store with its golden lamb almost lying down with the golden lion. Mr. Cluxton's trademark was the golden fleece. Next door north, again, was John Bertram's hardware store with its golden anvil above the entrance. Hugh Bertram, who lives west of Jackson Park, was a son of the proprietor."

These old symbols are gone and with them the old generation of merchants of whom Harry Long and his brother James are two of the survivors. Their twin confectionery stores are well remembered even yet, the one where Hooper's upper store is now, and the other was near the Greatrix Drug Store.

Impressions of Canada

Harry Long was born at Brixton-Deverill, Wiltshire, England, in 1852.

When he followed his brother to Canada one of the first impressions was the smell of pine lumber at Quebec, an odour that was unpleasantly pungent after the fragrance of English fields and hedges and roses. It was, also, Mr. Long's first experience with long railway coaches. He was accustomed to the English compartment system.

"Every coach had a brakesman", Mr. Long said. "I remember that quite vividly, the long winding up of the brakes, when we were to make stops, and they were numerous enough; the taking on of wood which was piled at the station or between stations; and the screens over the smoke stacks to prevent sparks from being bown out into the woods and fields. Sometimes the steam would become exhausted, and I remember getting out and running along the big ties. They seemed so strange to me because I had seen only iron ones in England.

Over a Corduroy Road

Well, I arrived in Peterborough by the Grand Trunk and went to the hotel at the southeast corner of George and Brock Streets which was kept by a Mrs. Morgan. It was afterwards the Commercial House. I then drove with my brother Charles to his place in Harvey, over corduroy roads which I can still feel to this day. I recall that many of the farms along the way were partly cleared, possibly half cleared.

My brother James had just finished learning his trade as a baker and confectioner with Albert Hall, who kept next to Stenson's bootstore. So I became apprenticed to Mr. Hall for three years, learning to make cakes and other confectionery and candy. My wages were $5 a month the first year, $6 the second year, and $8 the third year, also my board. I used to put up the shutters at night, protection for the windows, and also plug the key-hole of the back door. In those days locks and keys were rather big affairs, and of course the key-holes were big. So, to keep the cold out during the winter nights we had plugs made of wood or something like that. A few of those old locks and keys are still in use in a few of the older homes in Peterborough.

Speaking of business signs, almost every store had a sign extending out over the sidewalk, and when you were walking up George Street you saw a clutter of these signs. They were eventually done away with because they were dangerous to pedestrians. They used to be blown down by windstorms, occasionally injuring people, so they were declared unsafe.

A Pre-Westclox Custom

It might be interesting to say that George Johnston, the police force of that day, used to ring the market bell at 7 a.m., 12 noon and 6 p.m. Many of the citizens didn't have clocks, and Peterborough never dreamed then that we would be manufacturing them in great numbers every day. The market building was around on Water Street near the present site of the police station. There was a big gap on the east side of George Street just north of Charlotte. There were no stores up to about where the Royal theatre is."

Long Brother's Progress

Long Brothers, James and Harry, went into business for themselves in 1876. Their store was on Simcoe Street, two doors west of T. W. Robinson's grocery shop; about where Hamilton's grocery store is. They bought out William Cane and in 1878 moved up to the Nugent Drug Store (now Greatrix), and in 1906 they absorbed David LeMay's confectionery which was carried on in the premises of Hooper's upper store. Its occupants for many years have been confectioners, LeMay, Long, Hooper.

Long Brothers developed an extensive and profitable business. Orders came from many places in eastern Ontario, in fact from Montreal to Toronto. As caterers and bakers they skimmed off tne cream of the business.

"A letter that pleased me very much" Mr. Long remembered, "came from a Peterborough bride on her honeymoon in Quebec. She wrote me that our wedding cake was perfect, and she wanted us to know how it had contributed to the happiness of her wedding".

Industry and Courtesy

And, in parenthesis, here is a recollection which was not for publication, but it reveals the heart of Harry Long: "There were really wonderful balls and house parties at that time, and wherever I went I had an eye out for the wall-flowers. I quietly took it upon myself to help everyone to have a pleasant time. Many a girl and matron, too, appreciated such friendly interest in them. And that was the basis of our business policy, industry and courtesy, and they are just as necessary and effectual now as they were then. Please people, be considerate of them and their wishes and they will come back to you. And keep working. I have seen us sell 300 quarts of ice cream on a busy Saturday, and at 11 o'clock our stock would be gone. However, instead of turning customers away, we got busy and made another forty quarts.

When Curlers Dined

I would like to tell of some of the balls and dances of that time, but it would take too long. However, just a word about the curlers. The rink was on the site of the Quaker Oats factory, only about half way up to the dam. They had a club room and served banquets. And at the banquets they served whiskies from gallon jars. There was all you wanted of it. Next morning you would find a gallon or more of whiskey remaining untouched. I never saw any excess in drinking at any of these functions, or of any other banquets in my time. I never experienced the least unpleasantness. Some men did not drink any liquor. Senator George A. Cox would not take a Charlotte Russe if there was wine or liquor in it, so if I knew he was to be present at a dinner we always made a special dish for him".

The following little anecdote was not for publication, but there's no reason why it should not be told. Mr. Long had catered for some luncheon or other, and had made a special effort with a dish of trifle or some such dessert. A Methodist minister who was an ardent temperance man, or more correctly a prohibitionist, was present, and after eating one dish of the trifle asked for a second helping.

"You know Mr. Long that is wonderful trifle. I don't know when I tasted anything better done than that".

And Mr. Long went away, smiling and wondering whether he should tell the Minister that the trifle was liberally primed with old Sherry. But, he didn't.

Central Park Was Fair Grounds

And by way of concluding what was an exceptionally interesting interview, these are some random recollections from Mr. Long's reminiscences: "Every house had a fence, to keep the neighbor's cows out.... We always knew when Spring was here by the chorus of frogs in Spaulding's Bay. You could hear them all over town.....The fall fair was held at Central Park. It was all fenced in and the sheds or stalls were along George Street side, and there were many pine trees in the park....Pines were thick around St. John's church ....There was a fence around Court House park, and grass grew five feet high there. No one was supposed to go inside....The backbone of our industrial life was Peter Hamilton Co., Wm. Hamilton Co. and the Auburn Woollen Mills. They were the main stay of Peterborough at that time.... The first plate glass was in a bookstore where Schneider's jewellry store is now. Thanks to the enterprise of George A. Cox Peterborough gradually became known as the plate glass city. No other town in the country had comparatively so many plate glass windows as Peterborough .... Merchants didn't have delivery waggons. The liquor stores had drays, but merchants delivered their goods in handcarts....We sent the bulk of our goods out by bicycle....The circus ground was on the east side of George Street between Antrim and Edinburg Streets. The lot was quite a hollow then. I remember a balloon ascension from there. The parachute and the balloonist dropped near the Nicholls Oval".

Mr. Long said he felt lonesome after the sale of their business to Thos. Hooper, but extended visits to the west broke the old habits and associations.

Wedding Bells

DEWDNEY—BUCKLAND

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 29.—A wedding of local interest took place at 10:30 a. m on Wednesday, June 26, in Saint Thomas' church, Toronto, when Edith Mary, daughter of the late H. G. Buckland, and Mrs. Buckland, was united in marriage to Rev. Douglas R. Dewdney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dewdney.

Rev. C. J. S. Stuart, rector of the church, assisted by Rev. A. J. Reid, rector of Saint Chad's, performed the ceremony, and presiding at the organ was A. E. Clarke. Peonies, delphinium, and sweet peas were used in the beautiful floral decoration scheme.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, G. H. Buckland, was daintily gowned in ivory-mauve georgette, with tight-fitting bodice, long sleeves, and three-tiered skirt uneven hem line. Her bouquet was of Butterfly roses, cornflowers, and baby's breath, and her long court train was edged with silver and looped back at the ends with lovers' knots, and orange blossoms. The tulle veil was embroidered, and caught closely to the head with a broad band of lace, and orange blossoms.

Miss Margaret Cook was the bridesmaid, and wore pink georgette and lace, with coat of lace, and large pink mohair hat, banded with a deeper shade of ribbon, her crepe slippers were tinted to match her frock. Her bouquet was of Columbia roses. The groom was attended by A. C. Jamelson, and the ushers were: Rev. J. B. Bonathan, and Rev. F. H. Snye.

Following the ceremony at the church a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Northcliffe Boulevard, Mrs. Buckland, receiving her guests in a becoming ensemble of grey georgette and radium lace, with mauve hat, and carrying a bouquet of pansies in a matching shade, Mrs. Dewdney wore a handsome gown of grey silk, and mohair hat trimmed with roses, and appliqued with black lace .The bride travelled in a ensemble of powder blue, with small white hat, and white linen shoes.

The groom was formerly curate in the Millbrook and Cavan parish, assistant to the former rector, Rev. Canon Allen, previous to the latter's resignation from the active work of the Anglican ministry.

Lindsay Residents Coming To This City

(Special to Examiner)

LINDSAY, June 29.—"On to Peterborough July 1st" appears to be the popular slogan in Lindsay. Mayor Moore says he is going to lock up the town that day as everybody has booked up for the Electric City for the holiday. There is no local attraction to keep the citizens at home. A great many have planned to go down on Sunday, but the real eodus will be on Monday.

A former Peterborough old boy has been gathering together the names of former residents of the city now living in and near Lindsay. He states that fully two hundred old boys and girls claim Peterborough as their home, and practically all of them are going down for the big doings next week.

Lindsay will also be represented in the program booked for Sunday and Monday.

GIVEN PRISON TERM

KINSTON, Ont., June 29.—(Canadian Press).—Barnet McHugh, George Hadley and Fred Page, arrested in Montreal recently on a charge of stealing a motor car from a Point Ann resident, were sentenced to not less than 12 months and not more than 18 months in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph by Magistrate M. P. Graham at Napanee to-day.

PETERBOD WELCOMES OLD BOYS AND GIRLS

Mayor's Welcon

TO ALL THE FORMER residents of the County and Peterborough who come to join with us in the Old Week, I wish to say, Welcome! If there is a strong that could be used to show how glad we are to have you h consider that word used, for I cannot too strongly exp cordiality and heartiness with which we receive you. The you have returned from far and near in such numbers strates unmistakably that your heart is still with us, and o and our hearts are open to you. This was your city, and its now. We know that you will enjoy visiting scenes tha formerly familiar to you and the reunion with old friends. e hope that you will also enjoy the entertainment that has bvided. Make the most of the week—or longer or shorter week as your stay may be. We want this celebration to- letter days in your lives and ours, and anything and eve that we can do to make you welcome, to make you feel a and to help you to thoroughly enjoy yourselves, we will d to do.

A thousand million welcomes.

ROLAND DENNE, May

Judge E. C. S. Huycke

A welcome, thrice welcome, hearty, loving, and loyal to er residents of Peterborough who are now with us or on their way. ve the old home and the old home people, which affection is indoy your return. We who have remained in the home land, and the he town, have missed you sadly and longed for your return; many ve have said and sung:

"Better loved ye canna be
"Will ye no come back again.

And now that you have come back we are pleased and proud ur worth warrants your welcome. Stay as long as you can, and come as soon as you can, and you will ever find the latch string hanging the door.

"Come in the evening or come in the morning,
"Come when you're looked for, or come without warning.
"Kisses and welcome you'll find here before you.
"And the oftener you come here the more we'll adore you.

Kiwanis Club

This Celebration of Old Home Week was primarily inaugurate commemorate the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the first settlemat is now the City of Peterborough.

The long tedious journey from the Home Land, the more and distressing journey from the sea into the interior, can only be ated by those who made it. It is fitting, however, we remember ours. and celebrate the 100th anniversary, to bring together those of ons and daughters who have found it necessary to reside elsewhere.

Every age presents its fashions and ideas, some of which are mers old, for thoughts and ideas seem to run in cycles, and repeat themver so often. During the past fifteen years, service clubs have sprto being, the thought behind the movement being to bring together ber of men in different trades and professions—to build confidence ach other and to build the man himself, and having strengthened th he in turn might help others.

Our very popular, Prince of Wales established a principle he adopted for his motto—"I Serve", for service for others is a high of achievement, which will benefit ourselves, as well as others.

The Kiwanis Club is a service club for the good of the Comm and assistance to underprivileged children, who may be helped by tical members of the Club with advice, and surgery, if necessary.

The Kiwanis Club motto, "We Build" covers a constructive ame of activities in the Community, and just now we are privileged n in extending a welcome to all our visitors, and express the wish th and friendships of other years may be renewed and strengthened. tend a hearty welcome, hospitality, friendship, and trust this Anniv will long be remembered, and go down in history as having done which gave it birth—The Commemoration of those who came and gone before, leaving to us a heritage of pleasant memories and kindly st.

Yours in Kiwanis,

JOHN J. TURNER Pst

Police Magistrate

In addition to the ordinary pleasures one experiences, at rervals there come occasions of extreme pleasure, and this opportunity iving a welcome to the Old Boys and Girls, former residents of Petergh, is one of the rarest of these rare occasions. This whole communith one voice and with open arms bids them welcome, and the cordiality, armth and the heartiness of the welcome could not be exceeded. M with an old friend is always a gratification, and the meeting with suchamber of old friends—not former friends, for they have continued t our friends while they have been away—is a source of joy that cnot be surpassed. I feel certain that everyone who returns to Peterbordring the Old Home Week will enjoy it to the fullest extent, and is my earnest wish.

Peterborough Utilities Commissio

It is indeed a great pleasure to welcome to Peterborough the Boys and Girls", who in former years were residents of this city.

Peterborough has a right to be proud of the successes ach by its former residents, and appreciates very much the fact that the Oys and Girls are returning to join in this Old Home Week Celebrat thereby making it a success.

These Utilities are open at all times for your inspection.

I hope that you will enjoy the Old Home Week, and that it bring to you precious memories.

G. S. MATTHEWS
Chairman Peterborough tes.

Trent Waterways.

To Peterborough's visitors during Old Home Week I extend behalf of the officers and directors of my Association a most hearty wee. I am sure that they will enjoy the entertainment which has been ied by the Old Home Week Committee under the able chairmanship Mayor Denne, and many, no doubt, will lose little time in familiari themselves with lake and river land-marks of days gone by.

Whilst the city has developed remarkably in the last thirty s or so and whilst in a measure the highways and good roads have e some changes (for the better) in Peterborough County it may be of the rivers and lakes that they are practically unchanged so tha should not be difficult for the Old Boys and Girls of Peterborough to re in the vicinity of our summer play-grounds the pleasure and recreatio grounds of years ago.

A most cordial invitation is extended to all to visit the of of the Trent Waterway Association, 358 George Street, and therein le of the facilities which have been provided to enable visitors to see thwartha Lakes during their stay. We also have descriptive booklets for distribution.

FRANK G. STINSON, Manager
Trent Waterway Asation.

The Y.W.C.A.

To a stranger in a strange city, the Blue Triangle and letters Y. W. C. A. ring out a glad welcome and friendship. To the many former members and friends of the Peterborough "Y" who during Old Home Week are visiting the home city, the present board, staff and girl members extend a most cordial welcome and Open House to all trusting that here each will meet many old friends as well as new friends.

Peterborough Y. W. C. A. has grown and new friends who remember Y. W. C. A. days in the early nineties will note many changes. Peterborough "Y" with its splendid big building, corner Aylmer and Simcoe streets accommodates 70 girls in the residence and serves 450 transients each year. Five hundred members are registered in Association gymnasium classes and an average of two hundred learn to swim each year in its splendid pool. In Y Clubs, Educational and Bible study classes another 250, learn, play and serve together. Through the Y. W. C. A. Immigration Department, Traveller's Aid, Rooms Registry, Employment Bureau and City Service, hundreds of others find the "Y" a friend and thus the Association purpose is carried on from year to year, its members striving to "Cherish health, seek knowledge, know God and serve others."

This year Peterborough Y. W. C. A. celebrates its 25th anniversary in its present building. Eleven years ago the splendid swimming pool was added with a new filtration system is one of the best in Canada. This year a delightful holiday camp at Eagle Mount, Stoney Lake has been purchased and is in readiness for summer guests.

To all who helped lay the foundations of Association work in Peterborough, who planned and worked that the best advantages might be available and whose love and interest has followed each Association development, the members express their sincere appreciation.

To welcome Old Home Week visitors at the Y. W. C. A. will be members of the Board of Directors, Miss Leta Brownscombe, General Secretary, Mrs. E. Morrison, Residence Superintendent, Miss Caroline F. Littlefield, Physical Director and Miss Dorothy Sherin, Assistant Secretary.
